Bloodmobile To Visit Three Times In September

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will visit Garrett County three times during the month of September.

Donors will be welcomed at the American Legion hall in Oakland from noon to 6 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 3.

The second visit will be at Kitzmiller Elementary School on Friday, Sept. 10, where donors may respond between 2 and 7 p.m.

The bloodmobile will be at the Grantsville fire hall on Monday, Sept. 27, from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m.

The need for blood in the Johnstown (Pa.) Region of the American Red Cross, of which Garrett County is a part, continues to be critical. Persons who are at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and are in generally good health are eligible to give a unit of blood every 56 days.

Persons desiring more information about the ARC blood services program may telephone the Western Potomac Chapter of the ARC at 301-334-3810.

What's Happening At The Drane House?

by Becky Aiken and Sherry Georg

If you have visited the Drane House this summer there is a good chance you may recognize these young volunteers, Travis Georg and Noah Aiken, pictured above. As our youngest volunteers they have spent time pulling weeds, playing in the dirt, and on occasion acting as docents and telling visitors about "Their Drane House." We're sure that Travis and Noah are not the first children to enjoy the yard and garden at the Drane House. The Drane family's eight children must have played in the dirt and pulled their share of weeds.

In the 1800s clearing the land to make way for a tobacco plantation was anything but child's play and took more labor than just what the Drane children could provide. The Dranes were slave owners. When people think of slave labor it usually conjures up the image of tobacco fields in the South and grand plantations with gracious mansions. This was not always the case. If you have visited the Drane House you know that it is far from a mansion. But just like the plantation of the South, its 900 acres were cleared by slaves.

The 1800 Census of Prince George's County shows the Dranes as having nine slaves. The Allegany Census of 1810 records the Dranes as having six slaves. The inventory of Lt. James Drane's estate dated 27 October 1829 included negroes: John, age about 48, $200, Abraham, 32, $350; Lucy, 24, $200; Peter, about 15, $250; Jack, 14, $250; Thomas, 12, $200. It was signed by John McHenry and Meshack Browning.

Today we realize that slavery was wrong, so we tend not to explore that part of the past. Slaves made a valuable contribution to the founding of our nation, just as the Drane slaves helped to make Garrett County what it is today. We must never diminish their contributions and should celebrate their lives as part of our past.

If you are like our youngest volunteers and like to pull a few weeds and play in the dirt, we encourage you to join the Flowery Vale Garden Society. The society meets on the fourth Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. Meetings are held at the Drane House during the warm months and at the Accident Municipal Building during the winter. If you would like more information on the Garden Society, contact Sherry Georg at 301-746-8766.

Fire Department. A release from the Garrett County Emergency Management Office indicated that an MSP medevac helicopter was summoned in connection with the incident, but confirmation was not available.

Deputies from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office assisted at the scene.

Donates Kidney

Kijak, 53, was diagnosed with diabetes over 25 years ago. The disease had been controlled with insulin until three years ago, when he developed a foot infection.

"That ended up costing my kidney," Kijak said. He had been on home dialysis, allowing him to hook up to a machine that worked while he slept. He continued to see patients and attend high school functions. He had been on a waiting list for a kidney about three years when he was temporarily removed because of an infection. Then a specialist in foot care at George-town University decided there was no choice but to amputate Kijak's foot and part of his leg. Shortly after, he returned to his practice, using crutches and chairs on wheels to get around until he could be measured for a prosthesis.

"I'm very fortunate that this is something Susie wanted to do," he said. "I could have been on the waiting list another two years."

The surgery, which took place on July 30, was a success. Kijak, who was released two weeks ago week from the hospital, had shown signs of rejection, and was administered anti-rejection drugs. He is recovering at home.

O'Brien stayed in the hospital three days after surgery. She can expect to feel tired for a few weeks, but should fully recover by the time school opens.

O'Brien is the daughter of Joann Shaffer, Oakland, and the late Perry Shaffer. She is the sister of 1st Lt. Joseph Shaffer and Cynthia Sanders, both of Oakland.

Valley Point Gathering Salutes Troops' And Families' Sacrifices

The upcoming monthly Support Our Troops gathering in the Preston County community of Valley Point is slated for Friday, Sept. 3. On the third day of each month, beginning in March of last year, a number of Preston residents and others from across the tri-state region have come together at 7 p.m. to support one another and pray for American troops stationed overseas in the Middle East and Afghanistan.

At each service, a list of the region's overseas service members is read aloud to a silent crowd gathered next to a large oak drew festooned with yellow ribbons inscribed with the names of each soldier, sailor, and airman.

That list, which has approached 100 names at times, has been updated in recent days and now bears the following names of area troops serving in harm's way. They are Jeremiah Adams, Robert Beerbower, Steve Clemens, Michael Davies, Scott Dixon, Ivan Frederick, Kelly Harvey, Lawrence E. Humberson, Martin Hubeaut, Tony Neiman, Mike Ruppenthal, Randy Phillips, and Lester Sisler, who is currently serving his second tour in the Middle East.

To add the name of any area serviceman or servicewoman not listed, persons may contact Darla Ruckman at 304-379-2203 or Tammy Titchenell at 304-379-7803. Forms will also be available at the Sept. 3 service for persons to add names.

The gatherings are slated to continue until all troops are home.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Marine Corps Lance Cpl. William A. Fultz, son of Carol S. and Ralph L. Fultz of Mount Storm, and more than 2,000 Marines and sailors assigned to the 24th Marine Expeditionary Unit (MEU) recently began the process of ensuring security and stability in the central Iraqi province of Northern Babil.

Operating from Forward Operating Base Kalsu, Fultz's unit's first order of business was to establish rapport with their neighbors and let them know the Marines are prepared to help them in any way they can. The Marines drove throughout their area of responsibility, stopping to offer residents water, and to talk with them about their living conditions and how the Marines could help them.

The Forward Operating Base provides security against insurgents and anti-coalition militia for hundreds of Marines in Fultz's unit. Fultz's unit is an expeditionary intervention force with the ability to rapidly organize for combat operations in virtually any environment.

MEUs are built around a reinforced infantry battalion, a combat service support element, a reinforced helicopter squadron and a command element. With its complement of fully integrated air and ground forces, Fultz's unit is ready to conduct real-world operations including boat raids, tactical recovery of aircraft and personnel, noncombatant evacuation operations, and humanitarian assistance operations.

Fultz is a 2000 graduate of Union High School of Mount Storm, and joined the Marine Corps in February 2000.

For more information on the deployment and high resolution photographs, persons may visit the 24th MEU web site at www.usmc.mil/24meu.

TERRA ALTA PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Summer Reading Program, Circus Fun, has been completed. A party was held on Friday, Aug. 13, for all participants. Certificates of participation were handed out, and the students who completed the program, which required them to read only 10 books and report on them, were given a special gift. Games were played, and circus refreshments of popcorn, caramel apples, cotton candy, and peanuts were served. Two clowns were present who helped with the games, certificates, and refreshments.

Attending and completing were Malachia Evans, Trish Martin, Cassie Fultz, Jessica Martin, Mary Noland, Kasey Strahin, Jacob Evans, Allison Strahin, Jeremiah Wolfe, and Skylar Freeman. This year was a first for a boy to win the overall prize. Jeremiah Wolfe read and reported on 40 books. Jeremiah was presented with a gift card for this achievement. Others attending the party were Mercedes White and Brandon Streets.

The obituary files were completed, shelved, and ready to help everyone with their genealogy projects. Each letter of the alphabet has been put in its own notebook with the years in chronological order and then alphabetized. Each book has an index of all the deceased and an index of maiden names.

Patrons and others donating books, periodicals, pamphlets, and audios have been Sharon Roy, Kathryn Burns, Albert Ossman, Linda Testerman, Debra DeWitt, Teri Cramer, Linda Lewis, Ben Dobeck, Barb Cobberly, Mary McLaughlin, Lorrie MacArgle, Allen Niner Jane Hauger, Betty Boyer, Kristy Moats, Crystal Mooreland, Rebecca Harriman, Juanita Gardner, Donna Keener, Zachary Bryan, and Georgette and James Buterbaugh.

AURORA/EGLON

The area community birthday calendars, sponsored by the Aurora Youth League, are being ordered. Those who want to place listings or order may contact Renee Mullenax at 735-6281. Listings are 50¢ each, calendars are $5.

AHS CLASS OF '46 HAS REUNION

A reunion for the Aurora High School Class of 1946 was held at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building on Saturday, Aug. 21, with the Methodist Women serving the dinner. Time was spent in fellowship and reminiscing.

Those attending were: Tom and Lois Adams. Bill and Ruby (Evans) Skinner, Richard Schrock, Peggy (Adams) Houser, Richard and Ellen Moyers, Donald and Elizabeth Stemple, Harold and Betty (Lipscomb) Sereno, Orville and Emma Jean Kight, Roland "Sam" Roth, Glenn Strawser, Mona (Summerfield) Herring and her daughter and grandchildren, Connie Conway, Dahni and Madi Conn, Grover and Nada (Kitzmiller) Evans, and instructor, Martha Bolyard.

ELIMINATION DINNER SEPTEMBER 10

An annual dinner which provides a fund-raising project for the Mountain Lions Club and for Union Ambulance will be served on Sept. 10. Those who have not yet had an opportunity to buy a ticket may contact Keith Douglas at 735-5228 or Jo-Ann Helton at 735-5832 to arrange a purchase.

AURORA CEOS

Thirteen members attended the Aug. 17 meeting of the Aurora Community Education Outreach Service (CEOS). Ressie Conrad called the meeting to order, and opening devotions were provided by Virginia Martin who used "No Excuse Sunday" and "Most Richly Blest" for devotional, and closed with the Irish Blessing prayer.

"Character Counts – Respect" was the theme discussed by Mildred Teets. She emphasized the six pillars of character that are needed to provide the support to family and community.

Family Committee chair, Wilda Harsh, asked that the members continue reading and keep a record of those books read. The "Linus blanket" and "boo-boo bear" project has been completed and they will be turned in by Ressie Conrad.

The Continuing Education Committee is still collecting recyclables and maintaining the butterfly garden. The Tell-A-Friend project has also been completed. Receiving thanks for their participation in this program were Virginia Martin, Ressie Conrad, and Dee Douglas. On Sept. 27 at noon there will be a celebration of Cancer Awareness Day, when a service is planned at the courthouse for any cancer survivors. At the local level, Cancer Awareness Day will be observed by the Aurora CEOS on Oct. 4, when information and ribbons will be available at the Aurora Post Office.

Marketing-Membership Committee chair, Opal Myers, is still looking for an original writing or poem. Interested person may contact Mrs. Myers for further information.

Records of Community Volunteer Hours are due to Delores Slawter this month. Buckwheat festival car tickets are available for pre-sale from any of the Aurora CEOS members.

Cookies were donated to Younger 4-H Camp by the club. Salt Box project money is due by September. A Relay-for-Life picnic is to be held at the Kingwood pool.

The club is co-sponsor of the Friendship Quilt Show and selected this effort as its community project.

The CEOS decided to return to meeting in members' homes, and Wilda Harsh will be hosting the September meeting, Opal Myers will serve as October hostess, and the November meeting, which will be back to the 1 p.m. time, will be at the Douglas home. Fall conference is scheduled for Oct. 12-14 at Jackson's Mill.

Appointed to the nominating committee were Wilda Harsh and Dorothy Spaid. Elections will take place at the September meeting.

As the vice president's feature, Opal Myers shared some high points from her NVON trip to South Carolina, where she toured Charleston, S.C., and learned some new crafts. Mrs. Myers also announced some of the changes in 4-H and other exhibits for the Buckwheat Festival. Time for entering exhibits will be from 3 until 9 p.m. on Sept. 28, and judging will be Sept. 29. The building will then be open to the public on Sept. 3.

Ressie Conrad shared a picture of her first grade class, along with a recent picture of the class, and challenged the ladies to select her picture from the first grade group. The Sept. 21 meeting will be at 7 p.m. at the home of Wilda Harsh. Dee Douglas will be lesson leader and Martha Bolyard devotional leader.

SENIORS NEWS

A covered-dish dinner on Aug. 12 was attended by 27 members of Union District Senior Citizens.

Two representatives from Heartland of Preston County, Alice Maxwell and Kellie Smith, spoke to the group regarding the opportunities and benefits offered at the facility.

The meeting was called to order by president Janice Tackett, with Martha Bolyard reading Mark 4:41 and a Daily Guideposts reading, plus another titled "Bible Tag."

Those who have fresh vegetable/fruit vouchers may use them Tuesday or Friday at the Dayton Bolyards. Persons may contact Mrs. Bolyard at 735-5161 if they have questions. A trip to Arthurdale Heritage and Hovatter's Zoo was attended by 17 members and guests.

Future trips being discussed are the Potomac Eagle trip through "The Trough" on Oct. 6; a trip to College Park, Nov. 5, to see The Gaither Family; "The Perfect Weddingt," a Jennerstown play, on Aug. 28; also the Country Fest and Auction at Garrett County Fairgrounds on Aug. 28. The latter offers crafts, food, and music. The county-wide picnic at Big Bear Lake will be in October.

Rita, the Senior nurse, discussed food, fitness, and a plan for both. She also mentioned dementia and/or Alzheimer's disease and proper foot care for the elderly.

The meeting closed with a reading by Janice Tackett Next month's meeting, Sept. 9, places Shirley Parsons responsible for preparing the meat, and Mary Jane Hanline as devotional leader. The group invites all seniors of the area to join them at their covered dish noon meals, and to stay following the business meeting to play Bingo for prizes.

PERSONAL NOTES

Bill Hauser was again hospitalized for a brief period, but he is again at his Stemple Ridge home.

Jim Bolyard has returned to his home at Amboy after receiving repair for a hip fracture which resulted from a fall at his home. He was hospitalized for surgery at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Recent visitors with Barbara Heckett at Eglon were her cousins, Lucille Patchett, Virginia Ann Vanderpool, and Richard and Ruth Marsh, all of Baltimore.

Carl and Jan Shaffer of Grove City, Ohio, have for years contended with disabilities and resulting problems. Mrs. Shaffer has recently become ill and cards may be sent to them at 4792 Neff Road, Grove City, Ohio 43123. She is at home and under Hospice care.

The Arts

Yough Fest Returns With Songs Of Political Passions, Personal Power

DAR WILLIAMS

After a monthlong hiatus, the Little Yough Summer Music Festival returns to Oakland tomorrow, Friday, Aug. 27, with a songwriters' showcase presented by Austin (Texas) Music Hall of Fame member Eliza Gilkyson and National Public Radio favorite Dar Williams. Gilkyson, who will kick off the evening at 6:30 p.m., and Williams are both known for their songwriting originality, onstage energy, and political and social justice passions.

The summer series wraps up with a bang next Friday, Sept. 3, with a homegrown double bill of The Remedy (aka the Jim Jones Band) and the Smith and Roberts Band.

Back by popular demand, Eliza Gilkyson is making her second Yough series appearance. With numerous recordings and concert appearances far and wide, she has gained a large and loyal following in the United States and in Europe, and her CDs have drawn high praise from music critics. She has toured with such big-name headliners as the Dixie Chicks, Mary Chapin Carpenter, and Patty Griffin, and has been featured on NPR's All Things Considered and the PBS concert program Austin City Limits.

ELIZA GILKYSON

Gilkyson's last three CDs have showcased her edgy lyrics and piercing imagery, beginning with the "dark and lonely sound" of Hard Times in Babylon, a critically acclaimed 2000 release. Another critical success followed two years later with Lost and Found, described as a "thematic breakthrough that documents the hope and satisfaction of making it through darkness to light."

This election year features Gilkyson's newest release, Land of Milk and Honey, a decidedly sociopolitical statement that opens with her Iraq War awareness plea, "Hiway 9" and ends with Woody Guthrie's previously unrecorded peace anthem, "Peace Call." The pair bookend eight other songs that set their sights on some of the major themes of Gilkyson's generation of women — and men — including the peace movement, abusive relationships, mankind's follies, and the hopes of mothers for their children.

"This is music for a generation that won't stand idly by while its vision for improving the quality of life on Earth seems ever clouded by a dust-storm of politics, power, greed, and global unrest," Gilkyson stated.

Dar Williams, the evening's second performer, has become a nationally recognized force on the folk scene, with radio spots on NPR's Weekend Edition, World Cafe and eTown, television appearances on Austin City Limits and the Conan O'Brien Show, and an upcoming concert that will be broadcast next month on the PBS program Soundstage.

"Wisdom flows through [Williams's] songs in delirious, wordy rushes of truth," said a New York Times reviewer, while the Seattle Rocket opined, "There were Deadheads and now there are Darheads. This is NOT your father's folk music." She has also been the subject of a feature in Vanity Fair's music issue. Joan Baez has recorded three of Williams's songs and toured with her in the U.S. and Europe, and Sara McLachlan recruited Williams for two years' worth of the Lilith Fair circuit.

A graduate of Connecticut's Weslyan University with a double major in theatre and religion, Williams has a fanatical following at colleges and schools in the U.S. and Canada. She was one of the top 50 grossing touring acts of 1998, has sold well over a quarter-million records, and was the highest-charting independent artist on Triple-A radio for her 1997 album End of the Summer.

Williams's fourth solo album, the 2000 release The Green World, was inspired by an undergraduate class on Shakespeare, "whose plays often centered on the conflict between the orderly closed world of Elizabethan court life and the 'green world' — that place which takes you deep into the woods (literally or figuratively), where you face the unpredictable and undergo great transformation."

The Beauty of the Rain, her latest release, earned Williams the 2003 Boston Music Awards Singer/Songwriter Album of the Year honor. The work addresses a wide variety of subjects, including technology, identity struggles, dreams, impressionism, and the tug of war between independence and intimacy.

"I wanted to convey the idea that the world isn't coming apart, but people are communicating more," Williams explained of the songs, which map out the emotional terrain of people whose lives are in transition.

Much of the inspiration for The Beauty of the Rain came from Williams's own experiences, as she made the transition to a different life in New York City, and worked to make sense of her new surroundings. "Where The Green World was a meditation on the big picture, on the sky and fields of Massachusetts and being surrounded by nature, The Beauty of the Rain is more tied to an urban landscape," she said. "It takes on smaller conversations."

The recording features guest appearances by a stellar array of talent, including Alison Krauss on vocals, Bela Fleck on banjo, and Blues Traveler frontman John Popper manning the harmonica and backup vocals.

Like Gilkyson, Williams is an artist with strong social justice convictions, and she donates a significant portion of her time to promote wilderness preservation, solar power, mental health programs, and the legalization of industrial hemp.

Tomorrow night's free concert will take place at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion, located in the town parking lot, where food and refreshments will be available for purchase, and concertgoers are encouraged to bring their own lawn chairs or blankets.

Platinum sponsors for this year's concert series are F&M Bank, The Republican, 92.3 The Train, KHJ, 1050 AM WMSG, the Garrett County and Maryland State arts councils, the town of Oakland, the Greater Oakland Business Association, and the Oakland and Maryland Main Street programs.

Gold sponsors are Railey Mtn. Lake Vacations, Wal-Mart, Will O' the Wisp, WEPCO Federal Credit Union, and WQZK, while Silver sponsors are the Oakland Rotary Club, Terra Alta Bank, Miners & Merchants Bank, and an anonymous sponsor.

For further information, persons may consult the Little Yough Music Festival web site at www.littleyough.com, or contact Oakland Main Street Program manager Cherie Ross at 301-616-3026.

LYRA — RELIGIOUS AND SECULAR CHORUS

Lyra Slated To Conclude Penn Alps Music Series

Lyra, a religious and secular chorus from St. Petersburg, Russia, will conclude the 2004 Music at Penn Alps series at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 28, at the Penn Alps Great Hall.

Lyra is a community chorus of professional musicians who are students or graduates of the St. Petersburg Conservatory. The chorus was formed to explore and popularize the diverse range of Russian choir music, both sacred and secular, especially that of the more obscure composers. To date, Lyra has recorded three CDs and toured throughout Russia and Western Europe.

Although Lyra's members follow different musical paths as choir conductors, opera singers, instrumentalists, and music teachers, they are united by their "passion for ensemble singing," noted a spokesperson. The full choir consists of about 25 singers. When on tour, Lyra performs with five or six singers selected to maintain the harmony of the choral sound.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by season and corporate sponsors and by the support of individuals. This concert is sponsored by the Casselman Inn. Season sponsors are Sincell Publishing Co. Inc. and the Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop.

For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices, and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may contact the Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985.

Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats, so ticket holders are advised to arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating.

Penn Alps is located east of Grantsville on Old Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

LOST ANTHEM TO PERFORM — The band Lost Anthem will present a full-length concert in a natural ampitheater at Country Acres Strawberry Farm along Foxtown Road in Accident on Sunday, Sept. 5, beginning at 7 p.m. The concert is part of Breakaway 2004, which is scheduled for Friday, Sept. 3, through Sunday, Sept. 5.

Breakaway 2004 Set For Sept. 3-5

Breakaway 2004 has been scheduled for Friday through Sunday, Sept. 3-5, at Country Acres Strawberry Farm, Foxtown Road, Accident.

A spokesperson noted, "Breakaway is an event in its fourth year of operation — growing by leaps and bounds each year. The weekend is designed for youth in middle school, high school, and post-high, with specific events planned for each age group."

The event is sponsored by Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, Youth for Christ, and with partial funding by a grant from MMA.

On Friday from 6 to 9 p.m., the kick-off session will include speaker Conrad Esh, Irwin, Ohio, praise and worship music, and snacks.

The farm open will open Saturday at 2 p.m. with free time of informal games and special music. Supper is scheduled for 5 p.m., and the evening session from 6 to 9 will include worship time, a choice of workshops, and snacks.

The farm will open Sunday at 9 a.m., with the worship service scheduled for 10 a.m. Lunch will be held at noon, and workshops are scheduled for 2 p.m. Supper will be served at 5 p.m.

At 7 p.m. on Sunday, the band Lost Anthem will present a full-length concert in a natural amphitheater on the farm. Persons should bring a blanket or lawn chair. In the event of inclement weather, the concert will be moved to Cherry Glade Church, Accident-Bittinger Road.

The public is invited to attend, and the only charge is $5 for the concert Sunday evening. Anyone with questions may call 301-245-4016 or 301-895-3151.

It's that time again. Time to fold up the beach towels and get the kids to school. But before you kiss those dog days goodbye, Nemacolin's cooking up a seriously good time. We're talking three days of live music, great food and plenty of family activities. Since we're just a short drive from Pittsburgh, you can come up for a day or — even better — spend the whole weekend. Because before you know it, summer will be up in smoke. To make sure you make the most of Labor Day weekend, call us for details.

Historic Preservation, Museum Grant Applications Sought

The Maryland Historical Trust (MHT), an agency of the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD), is accepting applications for Fiscal Year 2006 grants under the MHT Historic Preservation and Museum Assistance Grant Programs.

These grant programs are funded through the MHT Grant Fund and include grants for capital and non-capital historic preservation and museum enhancement. Available funding from the MHT Grant Fund in current Fiscal Year 2005 is approximately $1.3 million and, it is anticipated that a similar amount will be available for FY 2006.

Nonprofit organizations and local jurisdictions may apply for historic preservation grants to fund capital projects. Business entities and individuals may also apply for Capital Historic Preservation grants when preservation of the property serves a high public purpose. Eligible projects include the acquisition, rehabilitation, or restoration of historic property in Maryland.

Only nonprofit organizations and local jurisdictions may apply for historic preservation non-capital grants. Non-capital projects may include a wide array of historic preservation activities, ranging from historic property research, survey, and documentation work to the development of historic preservation educational programs and planning documents.

Nonprofit museums and those museums operated by local governments that have been in operation for at least three years may apply for Museum Enhancement grants.

Museum Enchantment grants are designed to help non-state-owned historical and cultural museums to research and care for historical objects; to research, design, and install exhibitions; to create education programs; and to market the museum for local and tourism audiences. In FY 2005, Museum Enhancement grant awards ranged between 3 and 8 percent of a museum's operating budget.

Completed applications for Capital and Non-Capital Historic Preservation grants are due on Dec. 3. Museum Enhancement grant applicants must first submit an "Intention to Apply" form, which is due Dec. 3. Completed applications for Museum Enhancement grants are due on March 11, 2005. The project selection process will begin in January 2005, and grant awards will be announced after July 1, 2005. The maximum grant award for Capital and Non-Capital Historic Preservation grants is $50,000.

A dollar-for-dollar match is required of local jurisdictions, individuals, and business entities for capital grants, and of all local jurisdictions for non-capital grants. Nonprofit organizations are not required to provide matching funds for any of the grant programs; however, those projects that do include funding from other sources will be more competitive in the grant selection process.

MHT funding priorities for FY 2006 include an emphasis on the application of the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation, National Register significance of the property, high-quality research and documentation of Maryland's heritage resources, excellence in museum practice, K-12 programming, and contributions to community economic well-being.

For information, applications, and copies of the open project selection criteria, persons may contact the appropriate MHT staff member: Claudette Sherman at 410-514-7633 or sherman@dhcd.state.md.us (capital projects); Nicole Diehlmann at 410-415-7625 or diehlmann@dhcd.state.md.us (non-capital projects); or Mary Alexander at 410-514-7622 or Alexander@dhcd.state.md.us (museum enhancement grants).

Applications may also be downloaded at www.marylandhistoricaltrust.net under "documents" or at www.dhcd.state.md.us.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

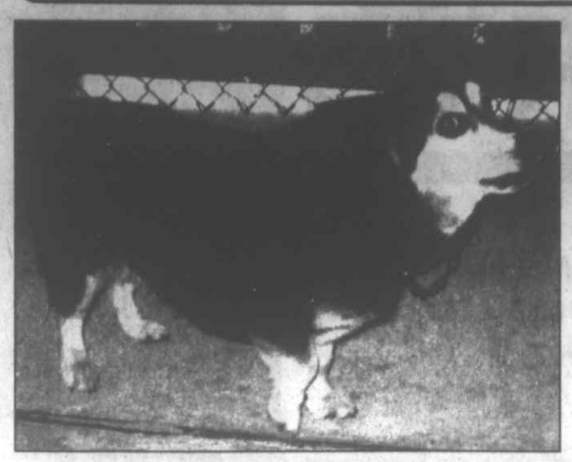
Ryan O. Bennett, son of Jane Bennett, Crellin, joined the U.S. Army in February 2004. He received basic training at Fort Benning, Ga., in the warrior division.

Bennett, 19, graduated June 4, and received an award for expert marksman along with two other awards.

He is now stationed with the UNC Honor Guards in Seoul, South Korea, guarding the Governor's Palace.

Persons wishing to contact Bennett may write to Bennett, Ryan O., UNC Honor Guard, Box 0022, APO AP962055290.

Adorable Adoptables



PRECIOUS, a small female beagle mix, would like to be adopted from the Garrett County Animal Shelter as soon as possible. An unnamed friendly black male Lab mix is also looking for a home. He was brought in as a stray, but is wearing a collar. Dizzy, a female collie/beagle mix, is an owner give-up. The shelter also has felines anxious to be adopted. Oreo and Angel are unspayed females. "They are sisters, so it would be nice for them to be adopted together," noted a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. "They are quite friendly." Last week's featured cats, Lilly and a calico, are also still available. "Please spay and neuter your pets. There are litters of kittens still being brought into the shelter," said the spokesperson. "Monetary assistance is available from the Garrett County Humane Society and PAWS." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334 3553.

Chicken Dinner Slated At Swanton Community Center

A barbecued chicken dinner will be held at the Swanton Community Center on Saturday, Sept. 4, starting at noon. All proceeds will be used for upkeep of the center.

Cost is $6 for adults and $3 for children. A yard sale will also be held, beginning at 8 a.m. Persons should bring their own table. The public is encouraged to attend.

Oaks Take Semi-Pro West Region; State Title Chase Set For Saturday

The Oakland Oaks downed the Westminster Falcons by a 3-1 tally in Carroll County Sunday to claim the Maryland Semi-Pro West Region title. Oakland's win was paced by a masterful 14-strikeout performance by Tobi Stoner and a powerhouse batting display by Ryan Hess.

The quarterfinal victory places Oakland in the semi-pro circuit's final weekend of play, as the Oaks square off against the Purdue Chicks, kings of the Eastern Shore League, in a 3 p.m. battle Saturday at Brunswick High School. The winner of that game will take on the winner of the other semifinal game, slated for noon that same day, in a 7 p.m. state Semi-Pro League championship contest. Oakland carries an overall 23-13 record into Saturday's play.

The visiting Oaks jumped out to an early lead Sunday. In the top of the first, Stoner singled, stole second, then Jeremy Fitzwater hit a ground ball to the left side of the infield. Westminster's third baseman overthrew first, and Stoner scampered all the way home from second to put Oakland up 1-0.

The contest then settled into a pitcher's duel between Stoner and Westminster hurler Alban, as neither team scored again until the fifth stanza.

Jeff Kuykendall singled to lead off the top of the fifth for Oakland, but two successive outs followed and it appeared he might end up stranded at first; however, Hess ripped a triple to right center, and Kuykendall rounded the horn and scored all the way from first base. Stoner followed with a run-scoring single that sent Hess home from third.

The Falcons' lone run came in the bottom half of the fifth inning.

Both pitchers worked the full nine innings, with Stoner giving up eight hits and one earned run, while Alban held the Oaks to six hits. The Westminster hurler whiffed six Oakland batters and gave up two earned runs. Each team committed one error.

Hess fueled Oakland's scoring tally by going 3-for-4 with an RBI triple, a double, and a single, and he also scored once. Stoner had two hits, drove home one run, and scored once. Kuykendall scored a run as well.

This weekend's final four appearance marks the first time the Oaks have made it into the semifinal round since 1999. This year's Pen Mar League champion squad features some fine depth, especially at the plate. James Altobello recorded a .408 average to come in fourth in the regular season league batting tally, behind circuit leader John Hummel of Salisbury, who batted .471, Tri-State's Brian Howell, who hit .435, and D.J. Schrekengast of Parkersburg, who tallied a .416 mark.

In addition to Altobello's team leading performance, Oakland had strong regular season showings from Hess, who batted .382, Bryan Lenhart at .356, Matt Miller at .346, and Alex Weinstein at .309. Hess cranked out eight doubles, good for second on the circuit, and 19 RBI, landing him in fourth place.

Oakland's pitching staff was led by Stoner, who recorded four wins against two losses during the regular campaign, and 45 strikeouts (fourth best in the league). Teammate Bryson Meyers netted an 0.68 earned run average, taking second in the league standings, while Stoner was third with a 1.03 ERA.

The Oaks are coached by Craig Bosley and his assistants, Jim Weinstein and Jeremy Fitzwater.

Eric Hallenbeck Named Garrett Lakers' New Baseball Coach

The Garrett College Athletic Department has named Eric Hallenbeck as the college's new head baseball coach/admissions recruiter for the Lakers. Hallenbeck comes to Garrett from Frostburg State University, where he was recently promoted to associate head coach.

He has assisted the Frostburg baseball program for the past eight years with duties that included pitching, hitting, and defense instruction, recruiting of student-athletes, and directing camps. Over his coaching career at FSU, he helped lead the Bobcats to a 205-102 record and three Allegheny Mountain Collegiate Conference Tournament Championships.

"Leaving a program where I've spent almost a decade was difficult; however, the tradition of Garrett baseball and closeness of the Garrett College community made it an easy choice," said Hallenbeck.

Hallenbeck's coaching career started in the summer of 1993 as an assistant for the Brunswick American Legion baseball team. The following summer, at the age of 22, he started a new American Legion program in Boonsboro, where he remained the head coach until 1997. During this time period he took on other coaching responsibilities, including the student assistant coach at Frostburg in 1995 and the assistant coach at Frederick CC in 1996.

Since 1992, Hallenbeck has been involved in numerous baseball camps, including the Cal Ripkin Baseball School, the Diamonds in the Rough Baseball Camp, and Northern Virginia Baseball Academy.

"We are very excited to have Eric join us," said Garrett athletic director Ann Wellham, "We feel certain that his coaching experience at Frostburg and Frederick CC has prepared him to become a successful Division I JUCO college baseball coach. His discipline and work ethic will help to ensure that Garrett College baseball will remain one of the top programs in the Maryland JUCO Conference and the NJCAA Region XX."

Hallenbeck takes over a Garrett program that went 20-20 last year and was the Region XX runner-up. He inherits nine returning sophomores and a large incoming freshman class.

"I want to thank Garrett College for giving me this opportunity. I am used to winning, and winning the right way. That's exactly what we are going to do here. Seth Hansen, Garrett's assistant baseball coach did a tremendous job recruiting this year, especially without having a head coach in place. With the players in our program, I expect to challenge for the Region XX championship again," Hallenbeck concluded.

NEW LAKER COACH — Eric Hallenbeck, currently an assistant coach at Frostburg State University, has been named the new head baseball coach and admissions recruiter for Garrett College. Hallenbeck has been involved in various areas of coaching since 1993, also serving as an assistant at Frederick Community College. He is pictured above with Ann Wellham, Garrett athletic director. See story for details.

Special Olympics Cycling Practice Schedule Noted

The Garrett County Special Olympics team will begin cycling practices this week at Herrington Manor State Park, according to Charla Beiler, area director for Special Olympics Maryland. Practice times will be Tuesday and Thursday from 6 to 7 p.m. and Saturday at 10 a.m.

Special Olympics offers year-round sports training and Olympic-type competition for developmentally disabled individuals ages 8 and up. Anyone interested in cycling or any of the other offered sports may contact Rachael Shaffer at 301-616-6333 or Charla Beiler at 301-245-4388.

WESTERN MD. AMATEUR TOURNEY FINALISTS NOTED — The Western Maryland Amateur Golf Tournament was played recently at the Oakland Golf Club, and the three-day event featured 114 duffers from a wide region, including Texas, Florida, and New York. The top competitors were bunched in a tight group after two days of play, with Waynesburg, Pa., resident John Kingora and Reisterstown's Bob Przybylski leading the pack at 144, and Keyser's Jason Hale following at 145. Kingora caught fire in Sunday's final round, turning the front nine in 37 strokes while using just 31 strokes over the back nine, carding a four under par for the last four holes to romp to his fourth straight tourney crown. His overall score of 212 was nine strokes ahead of his three nearest rivals — Przybylski, Oakland's Matt Skidmore, and Baltimore's Tim Elliott — who tied for second with 221s. The age 55-59 Silver Division winner was Masontown, W.Va., resident Ron Witt, while Cumberland's Gary Wiseman took the age 60-67 Gold Division, and Elk Garden's J.R. Shillingburg prevailed in the age 68-and-up Platinum Division. Pictured above, from the left, are Kingora, Skidmore, Elliott, and Przybylski.

Fishing Contest Winners Named

The winners of the Garrett County Fishing Contest, sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, for the week ending August 22 are:

Bluegill: 12 ozs., 10 ins., caught by Ryan Dernoshek, Canowsburg, Pa.

Chain pickerel, 1 lb. 4 ozs., 18-1/2 ins., caught by James Baker, Frederick.

Yellow Perch: 12 ozs., 11-1/2 ins., caught by Matthew Zang, Greensburg, Pa.

Weekly winners are awarded a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. Anglers may enter their catch at Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House at 32 Outfitters Way, McHenry.

We do not need a special day to bring you to our minds.
The days we do not think of you are very hard to find.
Each morning when we awake we know that you are gone.
And no one knows the heartache as we try to carry on.
Our hearts still ache with sadness and secret tears still flow.
What it meant to lose you no one will ever know.
Our thoughts are always with you, your place no one can fill.
In life we loved you dearly; in death we love you still.

There will always be a heartache, and often a silent tear.
But always a precious memory of the days when you were here.
If tears would make a staircase, and heartaches make a lane,
We'd walk the path to heaven and bring you home again.
We hold you close within our hearts; and there you will remain,
To walk with us throughout our lives until we meet again.
Our family chain is broken now, and nothing seems the same,
But as God calls us one by one, the chain will link again.

Loved and sadly missed,

Southern Duffers Aiming To Link Up With Another Region Crown

More depth and more experience are two ingredients that should spell continued success for the 2004 Southern High School golf team, which opened its season this week with victory in two multi-team matches. (See separate story.)

"We should be considered one of the favorites in the region to return to the state tournament," said coach Alan Skidmore, noting that three starters from last year's state finalist team are back this year. They include senior Matt Skidmore, who is a three-time MVP, three-time state finalist, and former Top Elite Junior Tour Player of the Year.

Also back are senior Josh Lear, a two-year starter, 2003 state finalist, and team Outstanding Underclassman; and sophomore Joe Albert, a 2003 state finalist and team Rookie of the Year.

"We will miss four-year starter and three-time state finalist Travis Friend," Skidmore said. "Travis was an outstanding high school golfer and is going to pursue a career in golf management by attending Campbell University in North Carolina this fall."

Other team members expected to step up are junior Ivan Stutzman and sophomores Ryan Martin and Seth Fike, who saw action during last year's successful season.

"These three will again see plenty of match time in rounding out our six-man match team, Skidmore said.

Coach Skidmore said that the SHS team has grown to 20 members thanks to the successful junior golf program at the Oakland Golf Club.

"PGA golf professional Patrick Warren has developed some fine young golfers who will vie for spots in the top six this year. They will eventually replace golfers lost to graduation, keeping the future of the SHS golf team very bright."

Assisting Skidmore this season are Dave Martin and Max Hill.

NHS Golf Team Places Third In Beall Triangular

The Northern High School golf team made its season debut Tuesday in a triangular match hosted by Beall High's squad. NHS finished third with a 218, behind Beall's winning 174 and Berkeley Springs's 186.

Low medalist honors for the day were shared by two golfers, the Mounties' David Gearing and the Indians' A.J. Blankenship, who both carded 39s. NHS's Michael Bergstrom shot a 42.

The other Beall scores were Sam Kennell with 40, Josh Plummer, 45, and Melissa Stevans, 50.

Ram Golfers Open Season With Five Wins

The golf team of Southern High School, rated preseason as one of the area's top squads, opened its season Monday by edging Keyser by one stroke and whipping Frankfort in a tri-meet hosted by Keyser.

The Rams competed again Tuesday in a quad meet and cruised to wins over host Moorefield, Petersburg, and East Hardy.

Southern recorded a 151 in Monday's meet, while Keyser finished with a 152 and Frankfort was a distant third with a 196.

Seniors Matt Skidmore and Josh Lear carded 33 and 36, respectively, to pace the Rams as low medalists, while sophomores Joe Albert and Seth Fike carded 40 and 42.

Keyser's Ranjit Shenoy recorded a 36, while Mike Cader led Frankfort with a 43.

Skidmore and Lear both shot below par to lead Southern to a victory over Petersburg, Moorefield, and East Hardy on Tuesday at Valley View Golf Club.

Skidmore shot a 32 and Lear a 33, as the Rams finished with a team low score of 146.

Ivan Stutzman and Seth Fike earned a 39 and a 42, respectively.

Moorefield was second with a 175, led by Jeremy Simon's 39. Petersburg placed third with a 200, led by Jon Webster's 40, and East Hardy was fourth with a 296. Steven White led East Hardy with a 67.

The 5-0 Rams will play Allegany today at the Cumberland Country Club courts, and will travel to Canaan Valley to take on Tucker County next Wednesday.

BREAKFAST WITH COACH — Three former members of an early-1960s Southern High School football team met recently at Loch Lynn Restaurant to have breakfast and reminisce about "the good ol' days" with their former coach, Leroy Bolding. The three SHS Highlanders (which was the school's team name before it became the Rams) were seniors together on the best team ever coached by Bolding, a 1965 squad that finished with a 6-2-1 record. Pictured from left are Stanley "Sonny" Martin, Jerry Fike, Coach Bolding, and Bradley "Doc" Upole. Martin was the halfback and outside linebacker on that squad. Fike was one of the fastest running backs to ever wear a Southern jersey. He played tailback and was a punt/kick return specialist with many touchdowns to his credit. Upole was a bruising fullback who opened many holes for Martin and Fike, and also excelled at the middle linebacker position. Bolding, who has been retired for several years, was a science and biology teacher at SHS during and following his coaching days.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

SATURDAY–UGH, SUNDAY–LOVELY

by Dan Muss

The forecasters were right again this past weekend; they said that Saturday would be cold and rainy with a chance of severe thunderstorms until late afternoon and then it would clear. So Saturday there weren't many sails out except for a few hardies that liked the nice 6-8 knot breeze. We older and wiser Masters Fleet sailors gathered on the deck and decided to stay warm and dry. Since there was a real threat of severe weather, the principle race officer (PRO), Ed Peters, decided to hold the two Saturday races back-to-back to get the sailors off the water early. (The two Saturday races are usually sailed with a lunch break in between.)

And clear it did. By 5 p.m. the sun was out, and the lake and the surrounding hills looked stunningly beautiful.

They said that Sunday would be nice, with wind 4 to 6 knots SW, and, again, they were right. It was as perfect a sailing day as we can expect, with enough wind to power us through the motorboat wakes, but not too much to have to fight to stay upright. The PRO, Dick Gregory, set an unusual course, with the start off Thousand Acres, the windward mark off Penn Cove, and the leeward mark just east of the Turkey Neck Yacht Club.

The wind was nominally SW, but it kept switching back and forth between W and S. When we got to the line it was square, but a few minutes later the wind shifted to the south, and the port tack, pin end of the line was favored. We started down the line on starboard and got a leeward overlap on Rissell. We asked him to go up (which would put him over the line early); he did not respond, the boats touched, and Rissell had to do a 720-degree penalty turn just as the starting horn went off. We led the fleet halfway to the next mark, but that old fox wasn't finished! Rissell took the lead as we sailed into a hole, and while we were second around the mark, Elster came up and passed us heading down-wind and held a one-boat-length lead with us to leeward of her on the outside until about 150 yards from the leeward mark.

At that point I quietly asked Fearless Crew Marilyn Filemyr to take off the spinnaker pole and take down the spinnaker. With the board down a little more we slipped behind Elster and then headed up to windward of her. But she slowed down as she took down her spinnaker, and we established an inside overlap. Elster had to give us room at the mark; we rounded just ahead of her and covered her to finish second.

LEMLEY GOLF TOURNAMENT TO BENEFIT LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS – The 7th annual Al Lemley Memorial Golf Tournament will be held Friday, Sept. 17, at the Oakland Golf Club. The proceeds from the tournament will benefit Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation, Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, and Northern Garrett Rescue Squad. "The GCMH Foundation has received nearly $20,000 from this tournament since it began in 1997," said Kathy Greaser, GCMH director of development. "This generosity helps ensure GCMH's vital position as one of the finest community hospitals in Maryland." Lance Rhodes, on the left, and Gary Brack, in the center, are shown above as they register the GCMH team for the tournament with Jeanne Lemley. The GCMH foursome consists of Brack, Doug DeLo, Jeff Hinebaugh, and Rhodes. For tournament registration information, persons may contact Patrick Warren at 301-334-3883.

Adopt Policy

the Deep Creek plant, as that figure is only an engineering estimate. Once in operation, the actual capacity may vary. The county, therefore, will only sell a maximum of 2,468 units.

Additionally, some units will be kept in reserve for public facilities, noted Commissioner Ernie Gregg.

A property owner who is granted a reservation will have five years from the date that the plant's additional capacity becomes available to connect to the system. If the connection is not made by that date, the owner will have to pay an additional fee for each unit until a connection is made.

Tonkovich stressed that the deadline is five years after the completion of the expansion project and not from the adoption of the reservation policy.

Additionally, a reservation does not entitle any individual or entity to connect to the system until or unless directed and designated to do so by Public Utilities.

The county also reserves the right to change, modify, amend, or refine the reservation process.

Allowing property owners to purchase the units before the plant expansion is actually completed will help reduce the loan amount that is needed for the project, Tonkovich noted.

The director said he thought the demand for units would be close to the 2,468 that have been allocated and anticipates that about 150 connections will be made per year.

On Sept. 1, Tonkovich will meet with Maryland Department of the Environment officials, who will sign off on the final plans for the Deep Creek plant project. Construction is expected to begin in the spring as soon as the weather permits.

Units remained on the scene for about 1½ hours.

from the Tri-Towns EMS and Valley Medical Service made the transports, while personnel from the Bloomington Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene. Although Larry Smith showed signs of possible injury, police said he refused medical treatment.

Smith was cited as bearing fault in the accident, but the exact charge was not reported by state police.

State Still Faces Teacher Shortages In Certain Areas

The Maryland State Board of Education this week declared teacher shortages in several key subject areas and in school systems located throughout the state.

The board's action spotlighted critical shortages of certified teachers in career and technology education, computer science, English for speakers of other languages, mathematics, chemistry, physics, and special education. It found teacher shortages cropping up in all 24 systems, and noted a lack of teachers who are male and teachers who are members of minority groups.

As classes are getting under way in many Maryland school systems this week, several hundred positions remained open – most in the hard-to-fill areas cited in the report.

"We continue to search for ways to draw more qualified people into the teaching profession and keep them there," said Nancy S. Grasmick, Maryland state superintendent of schools. "While the number of new teachers at our schools has dropped somewhat, major shortages remain."

Maryland's annual teacher staffing report, presented to the state board, found that 5,929 new teachers were hired in the state last year. That is down from 7,445 last year, and represents the fewest new hires in six years. Of that number, 3,084 were new teachers, having recently received a teacher training program. The remaining were experienced teachers.

Of the new teachers, just 1,420 were trained at Maryland colleges and universities. This requires that school systems do most of their recruiting outside the state.

The Maryland Teacher Staffing Report, which MSDE began publishing 20 years ago as the Maryland Teacher Supply and Demand Study, uses information from local schools systems and Maryland higher education institutions with teacher training programs. The information is based on the most current available data (fall 2003), and the projected needs of school systems for 2004-06.

Teacher hiring projections have changed from a few years ago, when Maryland was hiring more than 7,000 teachers per year. Hiring is expected to remain around 6,000 per year for the next few years.

The state board's action serves at the basis for the Sharon Christa McAuliffe Awards given by the Maryland State Scholarship Administration and for the federal government to identify students eligible for deferment or cancellation of student loans.

Appalachian Lab Slates Events On Fossil Fuel Issues

The Appalachian Laboratory of the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science, Frostburg, will hold two public events in the next two weeks.

"Both deal with the issue of sustainability and why society must move to less dependence on fossil fuels, such as oil, and toward a steady-state economy," said an Appalachian Laboratory spokesperson.

The documentary film The End of Suburbia: Oil Depletion and the Collapse of the American Dream will be presented on Thursday, Sept. 2, at 3:30 p.m. in Room 109.

Hosted by Barrie Zwicker, the 78-minute film was directed by Gregory Greene and produced by Barry Silverthorn.

In addition, Brian Czech will conduct a seminar, "The Steady State Revolution: Uniting Scientists and Citizens for a Sustainable Society," on Thursday, Sept. 9. The event will also be held at 3:30 p.m. in Room 109.

Czech is with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the author of Shoveling Fuel for a Runaway Train: Errant Economists, Shameful Spenders, and a Plan to Stop Them All.

For further information about the two events, persons may contact Ed Gates at 301-689-7173 or gates@al.umces.edu.

The Appalachian Laboratory is located at 301 Braddock Road, adjacent to the Frostburg State University campus.

A Collision Course On I-68 Leads To Tragedy, Response, Recovery

by David Foster

After a day of travel, with three hours still ahead before they would reach their home, Peter and Kathleen Vinton and their five children — Laura, Melissa, Andrew, Shannon, and Daniel, ranging in age from 12 to 5 — bounded through the front doors of the Cracker Barrel restaurant along Interstate 79 near Fairmont, W.Va. The lively Baltimore County family was on the return leg of a trip out to Nashville for a performance by Laura's Irish dance troupe, and the Vintons were looking forward to sitting down to a meal together at their favorite restaurant chain sharing how much fun they had been having on the trip, especially the previous day at the Six Flags amusement park near Louisville.

It was sometime around 8 p.m. on Wednesday, July 9, 2003.

While the large family was eating and laughing, a Greyhound bus with a troubled young man aboard rolled to a stop in Breezewood, Pa. Charles Jackson had left his hometown of Pittsburgh a couple of hours earlier, on a journey that no one, perhaps not even Jackson himself, knew where it would end.

Described as a good boy by his mother, Jackson had never been very good at school and had quit after the 10th grade, fallen in with the wrong crowd, and was getting into trouble and stealing cars. During a jail stay he had been diagnosed as being clinically depressed, and when he started taking medication his spirits lifted; however, the prescription's cost precluded long-term use, and on that July evening he had been off his medication for over a year. He had a young daughter by a former girlfriend, and her presence seemed to draw him out and give him someone to care for, but he did not get to see her as often as he liked.

TWO TONS OF MANGLED STEEL AND BROKEN GLASS lay in the eastbound lanes of Interstate 68 just east of Friendsville, where Peter Vinton had been pinned beneath in the wake of a head-on collision the night of July 9, 2003. Peter and Kathleen Vinton and their five children were on their way home from a vacation trip when they were struck head-on by a stolen car operated by a troubled Pittsburgh man who had taken aim at two other eastbound vehicles before hitting the Vintons' SUV. The events leading up to the tragedy are described in the story on this page, while the rapid and expert lifesaving responses of passerby and trained volunteer medics and personnel will be detailed next week, along with the story of the Vinton family and how they are making the most of their "second chance."

As the bus doors opened the 28-year-old man stepped off the bus into a glaringly lit parking lot, his only baggage a bus ticket to Miami and his dark and lonely soul. He walked into a Sunoco station and purchased two large bottles of aspirin, but when he left the store he turned and circled around to the back of the building, where he attempted to break into a parked Ford Explorer but failed. He then turned his attention to a maroon 1984 Chevrolet Caprice, which he was able to start without the use of keys. Jackson, who never possessed a driver's license, drove off into the night sometime around 8:30 p.m. — alone except for his thoughts.

Just over an hour later, as the Vintons were buckling their seat belts and hitting the road out of Fairmont, grateful that their next stop would be their own beds, Mike Kerns was kissing his wife goodbye at Ruby Memorial Hospital's Sleep Clinic. Kerns, a 15-year veteran of the Cumberland City Fire Department where he serves as a paramedic with a lieutenant's rank, began the 75-mile drive home with his son and daughter with him in the car. A short distance from Morgantown, Kerns pulled off at Cooper's Rock to let his 16-year-old son get behind the wheel. As the boy was still driving on a learner's permit, he drove at a pace averaging five to ten miles below the speed limit from there on into Maryland.

While the Kernses were stopped at Cooper's Rock, it is quite possible that the Vinton family passed them by, heading east in their silver GMC Chevrolet Suburban. It was likely now a little after 10 p.m., and Kathleen and Peter Vinton remarked to each other how light traffic was on the road. Among the five children, 12-year-old Laura was reading a book, and 10-year old Andrew was watching a video of Spy Kids 2.

Within a matter of minutes, a number of lives would change dramatically.

Shortly before 10:30 p.m., Charles Jackson was approaching Friendsville from the east in the stolen Caprice. Around Pigs Ear Road, he passed by a Maryland State Police trooper, Tfc. Steve LeMay, who was working a traffic stop on the other side of the highway in the eastbound lanes. Somewhere in the area of the Youghiogheny Overlook visitors' center, Jackson crossed over the median and continued hurtling down the highway in the eastbound lanes — headlong into oncoming traffic.

Within seconds, Ontario resident John Rouse, also been traveling westbound, heard a chilling transmission over his citizen's band radio of a trucker warning anyone who could hear him that a car was running full speed going the wrong way approaching Friendsville.

"Past Exit 4 I saw tail lights from the wrong way," Rouse later told police. "I accelerated and caught up with a red Caprice with only its parking lights on; I waved, flashed my lights, honked my horn several times...I saw the driver turn his head and look at my vehicle...the driver then turned on his headlights and sped off. My speed at this time was about 65 mph, I estimated his speed to be around 80 mph...."

Around the same time Rouse heard the warning on the CB radio, Eric Klein of Newton, N.C., was on the same stretch of road heading west for Bridgeport, W.Va., where he was staying in a motel for a temporary work assignment.

At the 7 mile marker, "I saw a red Chevy driving west on east I-68, and called 9-1-1," Klein recalled later. "I saw the car going the wrong way, swerving all over the highway. The car struck the guard rail on both sides of the roadway and I thought he was stuck...he appeared to be on something or drunk, he drove wildly and could not control his car, after he hit the guard rail he blew out his two left tires...[but] he quickly got going again and dodged oncoming traffic several times. I followed him (on the other side of the road) and clocked him at 55 to 60 mph...."

Meanwhile, Martinsburg W.Va., resident Sean Lough, an employee of the Air National Guard Base there, was heading toward his home, when he came upon a sight he couldn't fathom at first.

"I was traveling eastbound on I-68 about 1½ miles outside of Friendsville [when] I saw oncoming headlights about ½ mile in the distance," Lough told police. "At first nothing seemed out of place, but almost before I could get through the thought process that something was off about the proximity of the headlights, the vehicle was upon me.

"In a span of about three to four seconds I judged that he was in the same lane as I was [and] headed straight at me, fast. In the ans of Truth. Recently a Bush administration advisor resigned from his position after appearing in an advertisement for the above mentioned group. Of course, the Bush administration claims it was unaware that Air Force Col. Ken Cordier has appeared in the ad, but I highly doubt they were so ignorant (CNN News).

As a so-called 527 group, Swift Boat Veterans for Truth is barred from coordinating efforts with an election campaign. (CNN News) Although oddly enough, it would appear as they bash John Kerry's Vietnam war record, that is precisely what they are doing for the Bush administration. The 527 groups are named for the federal provision that makes such organizations tax exempt and allows them to accept unlimited donations (CNN News). That means that this organization could have received any number of dollars in funding from anyone, including a presidential campaign.

Before his departure, Cordier – who spent six years as a prisoner of war in North Vietnam – was a member of the Bush-Cheney campaign's veterans' steering committee, campaign spokesman Steve Schmidt said in a written statement issued Saturday night (CNN News). I find it more than odd that this man worked directly under the Bush campaign and now is one of the veterans bashing John Kerry.

Although, two old comrades of John Kerry's are coming to bat for him in wake of all of the lies. Wayne Langhofer, who was present with John Kerry when he won the Silver Star, had this to say, "I was with Kerry when he won his Silver Star, and as far as I'm concerned, he did right" (CNN News).

Really, in my opinion Unfit for Command should not be the tile of this book; rather, Unfit to Read. With all the lies that are no doubt floating on the pages of that book, I would rather trust the very news sources that have offered it such scarce coverage. What a lot of Americans don't realize, and what popular news media does little to remind them of, is that John Kerry is also a published author with the book Our Plan for America, a book written by him and John Edwards detailing the way they will lift this country out of the ashes of the Bush administration. I feel the author of Unfit for Command should have saved that title for a book about George W. Bush. Maybe even popular media is so fed up with the Bush administration that even they don't want to cover something that may grant George W. Bush another four years as United States president – another four years of being a lonely, disliked country that is responsible for numerous tragedies, including the much hated Iraq war.

To the Editor:

Your editorial of August 19 leveled the charge that the "major media of this nation" is "grossly unfair and biased" and "pro-Kerry." You used three examples to illustrate your point; none of them support your allegation.

You mentioned a Washington Post editorial that was about the danger of protest zones, and you wrote: "It's fascinating that none of these thoughts were shared when the same 'free speech zones' were utilized at last month's Democratic National Convention in Boston." I wanted to read the editorial in question, so I looked it up online. The first sentence of the Post editorial is: "Protesters at the Democratic presidential convention in Boston were kept in 'free speech zones' – cages, really – that were so constrained and remote from delegates that most protesters avoided them altogether." The piece mentions that things will be "a little looser" at the Republican convention due to a court ruling and goes on to discuss a proposed "large antiwar demonstration in Central Park" that had "landed in court yesterday." It cites the need for a balance between protesters' rights and legitimate fears about terrorism and suggests the responsibility for finding that balance lies with city officials.

I understand that your complaint is about the timing of the editorial's publication. I don't know why (or even IF, come to think of it) the Washington Post didn't run an editorial like this a month ago. I don't know why or if they didn't run one when the Republicans introduced free speech zones at their convention in 2000 or when the Democrats followed suit later that year. Neither do you – at least on the question of "why." It is logical to assume the court proceeding on the Central Park demonstration was a factor in the decision to run such an editorial now (more than a week – in a daily paper – before the Republican convention begins). It is insulting and opprobrious to suggest a pro-Kerry bias is at work.

You also use one of the favorite methods of the purveyors of the liberal media myth: compare two events that seem similar on the surface, but in fact have little in common. The expectation is developed that these two "stories" should have received a comparable amount of news coverage. When one looks more closely at certain important specifics of the stories, however, it becomes clear that political bias had nothing to do with how much attention each enjoyed. In the case you cited, the only media bias at play in all the Moore-created hype over his award-winning film was commercial television's understandable penchant for high ratings.

You probably know by now that you should have been just a little more patient with the coverage of Kerry's Vietnam service. As I write this, the controversy is getting intense attention. As with the interest in President Bush's National Guard service, you can be sure the major media will draw this one out as long as they can. Or will they? They weren't interested during the 2000 election campaign when the allegation that Bush didn't fulfill his obligation to the Guard surfaced. Even after all the attention earlier this year, there are still mysterious gaps in the president's service record, but the major media has put this story to rest. Deservedly so? Perhaps, but one could find it "odd" that you aren't bemoaning any perceived bias there.

Why don't you leave the distortions to clowns like Michael Moore? And next time you want to play ombudsman to big media, check your partisanship at the door.

Sincerely,
Emily Morgan

To the Editor:

I hardly know where to begin in answering your last editorial except maybe to ask you, "How was your vacation to Yemen?" How can you possibly say there was only "20 seconds of coverage" on the release of the book Unfit for Command? John O'Neill, one of the authors of the book, has been on every major network for at least two weeks, actually debuting on CNN's Wolf Blitzer Reports on April 20! His book promo tour, combined with the intense coverage of the recent Swift Boat ads, has made the book's premise a major news story for weeks!

The only explanation I can come up with is you just do not watch TV. Not even Fox. You must be one of those intellectuals who are opposed to watching TV. I am not trying to be sarcastic; I am just trying to figure out how your editorial could be so misinformed.

I will agree that Unfit for Command co-author Jerome Corsi hasn't garnered much media coverage. Here's why: He has been caught posting statements on a conservative web site that he has had to apologize for. He referred to the UN as a "communist, anti-American terror-ridden propaganda pulpit." On Catholicism, "Boy buggering in both Islam and Catholicism is okay with the Pope as long as it isn't reported by the liberal press," Corsi on John Kerry's faith, "After he married TerRAHsa, didn't John Kerry begin practicing Judaism? He also has paternal grandparents that were Jewish. What religion is John Kerry?" John Kerry and his wife, Teresa, are Catholic. On Islam, "A worthless, dangerous Satanic religion." And can you believe he called America's sweetheart Katie Couric "Little Katie Communist." This guy sounds like what I would call a "hatemonger." "How odd" that we haven't seen much of Jerome Corsi!

And what about John O'Neill? John O'Neill is a successful lawyer from, guess where, Houston, Texas! He met Bob Perry and Harlan Crow through social and business contacts in Texas. Bob Perry has given the Swift Boat Veterans $200,000, he is also the top donor to the Republicans in Texas, according to Texans for Public Justice. He donated $46,000 to Bush's campaign for governor in 1994 and 1998. And surprise, surprise, Karl Rove said through a spokeswoman that he and Perry were longtime friends, but have not spoken in at least a year. Harlan Crow is also a financial backer of the Swift Boat Veterans and is listed as a trustee of the George H.W. Bush Library Foundation. The connections and people go on and on, and are too many to cite in this letter. If you are wondering where this came from, it was in an article by Kate Zernike and Jim Rutenburg, in the New York Times, what I suppose you would call a "little liberal paper" up north in New York!

Retired General Tommy Franks, Bush's former top general in Afghanistan and Iraq, said that the criticism of John Kerry's war record is political hyperbole and Kerry is "absolutely" qualified to be commander in chief. And much to my surprise on ABC's "This Week," he said he had not decided whether to endorse President Bush for re-election. General Franks no less. So Unfit for Command is probably not on his night-stand.

As far as your premise that the press is "liberal," don't you realize that went out of fashion along with LBJ? Haven't you heard of David Brooks, William F. Buckley, Robert Novak, Peggy Noonan, Bill O'Reilly, Sean Hannity, Rush Limbaugh, Ann Coulter, John Stossel, The Washington Times, The Wall Street Journal, The National Review, The New York Post, CNBC, and Rupert Murdoch's Fox News? And this is just off the top of my head. Might I suggest something for your night stand? The September issue of Harper's magazine and Eric Alterman's book, What Liberal Media?

To the Editor:

Maryland State Police one big happy family! That's what they tell you when you become a member of the highly esteemed police circle. Once you are either employed by MSP, married into, or the son or daughter of an MSP employee, you become part of this wonderful family. You are because you understand what it's like to have a true family member sacrifice, swear loyalty, and commit to the Maryland State Police. I know this for a fact because I married into the "family."

My husband, a TFC (trooper first class), has been a member of this "so-called" family for 15 years. He has dedicated his life to serving the great people of Maryland, risking his life more times than I can count. He has volunteered for risky assignments, and he has missed family functions and some of his children's sporting and school events to protect others. Granted, this was his choice. I can honestly say that those of us who know my husband know he's always wanted to be a trooper and do this job to the best of his ability.

Thos of us in the MSP circle know that our loved ones who do serve deal with a lot of "flack," to put it nicely, about what they do for a living. It's usually a very thankless job. But, most of the time the comments I have heard about my husband have been that he is decent and fair, not with the typical "cop attitude," and at the same time gets his job done.

My husband currently works (or so we will soon see) in the Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Section (CVES) stationed in Garrett County. Finally. He's able to work and live in the area we love – an area in which we both grew up and are now raising our family. A sergeant at the Finzel scale house has decided for some unknown reason to fabricate and exaggerate false allegations against my husband. As a result, he's being transferred to the New Market scale house in Frederick County. This is a 2½-hour commute from our home.

TACO BELL DONATES TO FIRE DEPTS. – Oakland's Taco Bell recently presented the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department with a check for $1,865.09. The money was raised in the restaurant's "Support Your Local Fire Department" campaign, held on Mondays from March until June. Taco Bell advertised the effort on local radio stations WWHC, WKHJ, and WMSG, with fire company members inviting the public to "come dine with them" and raise money for the Oakland and Gorman fire companies. The restaurant donated 20% of the receipt totals on these evenings, and if the nightly total reached $60, an extra $50 was donated. Fred Callis, president of the OVFD, took a fire truck to the restaurant on several Monday evenings throughout the campaign. "This was a wonderful idea, giving us a great opportunity and exposure," Callis said. "We are very appreciative of Bill Hancock and Taco Bell for thinking of us." Hancock said he was inspired to initiate the effort after learning about several fire companies helping a local family after their trailer was destroyed by fire. He is pictured at right as he presents the check to Callis. The Gorman VFD was given $265.72. Currently Taco Bell is supporting the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad by hosting "Taco Bell Tuesdays." A portion of the proceeds earned from 5 until 8 p.m. each Tuesday will be donated to the rescue squad to help with the new building and other supplies.

See, it is not only the citizens who have problems with the police. But, when there's interdepartmental turmoil – well, you rarely hear about it. I think it's about time that the people of Maryland know that the troopers of this agency really don't have anyone to back them up either! Apparently, the phrase innocent until proven guilty does not apply internally. Superiors will go on the word of just one person, and it's a real shame that a person in this department can get away with exaggerating facts and not having to abide by the rules themselves. Where I come from, superiors and supervisors are to set the examples that they want their employees to follow. Unfortunately, unless your ex-spouse is a major, captain, or higher in rank, you really are not going to get anywhere.

Just in case you were wondering, my husband has correct documentation regarding the allegations against him. He is going through the appropriate channels (which can take months), but basically has run into a brick wall. After showing the corrected paperwork and pleading his case he is basically being told that a reverse of this transfer would be nearly impossible. MSP's medical doctor would have to put in a recommendation.

This sergeant arranged a direct order that my husband had to obey that goes against MSP's policy manual. Situations that were to remain confidential have been openly discussed. She has made comments to my husband and others that clearly demonstrate her lack of concern for her subordinates. Not only my husband, but other employees at this scale house have been treated unjustly by this woman, and the sad thing is she gets away with it. Everyone fears retaliation. It has been mentioned that this women definitely has a lot of pull/influence down state.

The saddest thing of all is that I, too, fear the retaliation this letter may cause my husband and others who work with him, but more so, I hope that the attention this letter gets – if any – will help my family and the families of others. This situation needs to be addressed. I was once proud to be a part of the MSP family; after all, they provided for my family – until one sergeant stabbed us in the back because one person made it personal instead of professional. This is tearing my "whole" family apart.

Colonel, if you read this letter are you willing to help? What about you Governor Ehrlich; what can you do?

Kathleen V. Seaman

To the Editor,

I have the privilege of being a landowner in the Deep Creek Lake watershed, although family and business obligations do not permit me to live here full time. My husband and I have enjoyed Garrett County for many years and take our responsibilities as landowners and taxpayers very seriously.

The most significant review of the impacts of development in the Deep Creek Lake watershed in the last 20 years is happening right now and could very well decide the fate of this precious resource for the rest of our lifetimes. The current planning and zoning "regulations" (and I put this in quotes, given the number of variances routinely approved) were established more than 20 years ago. They are outdated and based on scant information compared to what is available now for communities to conduct comprehensive and judicious planning.

The county commissioners, led by John Nelson, have engaged a highly competent firm, ERM, to provide all of us with recommendations about the carrying capacity of the watershed – based on a comprehensive review and sound planning criteria that communities all over the country have relied on for professional assistance. What can the lake handle? How much traffic and home building can this area sustain? What kind of community do all of us want? What kind of economic development is possible for the watershed without destroying the very qualities that make this area so attractive?

Based on the first public hearing held in March, the commissioners listened to requests from participants to be more involved. As a result, another public hearing (not on the original schedule) was held several weeks ago. While it was unfortunate that only 50 citizens were there, it is not surprising that on a summer day in August the turnout would be low. However, Mr. Nelson deserves credit for listening, and delivering. While it would have been useful to allow those attending to speak to give Mr. Nelson and ERM more feedback, we did hear a detailed presentation from ERM and had the opportunity to fill out the Program Summary form.

From what I recall from the first public hearing, virtually every comment has been addressed in ERM's Issues and Options Summary dated July 2004. What's more, every major issue discussed in March appears on 'the Program Summary form seeking more citizen input.

This is a personal plea to everyone who lives, works, and recreates in the Deep Creek Watershed to fill out the Program Summary form (available at www.garrettcounty.org/pandz or at the County Commission office), and mail it back to John Nelson. I particularly want to encourage those people who believe that it's too late, or that their voices won't be heard. Not engaging in the process is a sure fire way not to be heard. The process, as I have witnessed it, has already shown that if you participate, you will be heard.

There are some who have been quoted in this newspaper saying they want to see Deep Creek become the "Lake Tahoe of the HABITAT PLANS MORTGAGE BURNING – There will be a mortgage burning for the Teter family on Sept. 8 at 6 p.m. at their home on Table Rock Road. In 1983, Garrett County Habitat for Humanity chose the Teter family over 30 other applicants to be the first family in the county to get a home through the program. All Habitat volunteers and home partners are invited to join in this celebration. Pictured above are Catherine Teter, on the left, and Ida Maust of GCHFH. During the week of Sept. 14-20, Habitat for Humanity International will observe the 10th anniversary of Building on Faith, an annual celebration of church partnerships where affiliates and churches around the world are urged to organize bold building projects and praise-filled worship services. Churches may contact the Habitat office for free church bulletin inserts. Habitat is currently building homes 47 and 48 on Rt. 135 in Deer Park. Those interested are encouraged to stop and see the progress. Organizations, companies, individuals, or churches interested in helping Habitat may contact Doug Riley at 301-533-0600 or driley@garrettcac.org.

Tadder Donates Photo To Bill's Outdoor Center

by Jo Donaldson
Garrett County Chamber of Commerce

Going underwater and shooting up through Deep Creek Lake is just one of the things award-winning photographer Tim Tadder did recently to get that special photograph.

"He sees things through that lens that I can't see," said Deb Clatterbuck, director of tourism and marketing with the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. "He hangs from trees, leans almost out of the boat, and does whatever is necessary to get the shot he wants."

During his recent visit to Garrett County, Tadder presented a large framed photograph of boating on Deep Creek Lake to Justin Hershman, manager of Bill's Outdoor Center. Taken in 2000-2001, the photo of two boats and their wake was used on the 2003 Vacation Guide cover and on the past two Travel by Boat brochures published by the chamber.

"That was a fun day," said Hershman, who took Tadder around on a boat to get different shots. "This picture has a lot of sentimental value."

Hershman plans to hang it in Bill's Outdoor Center. Another copy of the photo was given to Justin's grandfather, Bill Sisler, who was driving the second boat in the shot.

Tadder was photographing throughout Maryland for the state advertising campaign when he first came to Garrett County. Hershman and his grandfather were riding on boats while Tadder was looking for scenic vistas.

"I was not happy with the angle I was shooting from," he said. As they passed under the bridge, Tadder thought about shooting from there. "I got up on the bridge and asked them to loop around and drive under the bridge."

"I love that picture," said Clatterbuck, who led Tadder around different parts of Garrett County. He took photos in the different towns, parks, historic buildings, restaurants, and at the Garrett County Fair. "The last time he was here it was near winter," she said. "This time we wanted him to capture Garrett County in the summer."

The photographs will be used in future Vacation Guides and for other Chamber of Commerce publications and advertisements.

Growing up in Baltimore, Tadder helped his father, an award-winning photojournalist turned commercial photographer. After teaching and traveling through Australia, he earned his master's degree in photojournalism from Ohio University.

He enjoys sports photography as well as travel. Besides photographing some of the Olympic athletes, including Michael Phelps, he has photographed the Super Bowl and numerous adventure sports activities.

Some photos are staged, said Tadder, who prefers things actually happening. If staged, he makes sure people are wearing the right safety equipment and that background, etc., are accurate.

"I abide by my journalism training," he said. His photographs appear in magazines like National Geographic, Smithsonian and Associated Press publications.

Tadder has won numerous contests, including Time magazine Picture of the Week. He took six first place awards at the San Diego Fair, and won People's Choice and the Margaret Fry awards. Fry started the contest, which featured more than 4,000 photos by amateur and professional photographers.

"I have a good time taking pictures," he said. "People in Garrett County have been so nice and super helpful."

same three to four second span I changed lanes quickly to the passing lane on my left, which the oncoming driver matched almost as quickly, and then [I] swerved hard left into the center median strip of I-68. The vehicle also matched my swerve seeming to aim at me as I left the roadway. I thought he was going to hit me he was so close...he hit the guardrail and bounced back onto the roadway, missing my vehicle by mere inches," recalled Lough. "I whipped my wheel forcefully to the right as I hit the grass of the median and slid sideways for a moment before ending up a few degrees shy of a 180-degree turnaround...."

Following behind Lough's white sedan was a vehicle being driven by Friendsville resident Wilma Keefer. Mrs. Keefer and her husband were on their way home from church. Suddenly Mrs. Keefer noticed headlights up ahead coming straight at their two vehicles.

"I saw headlights facing the car in front of me located under Blooming Rose Bridge on I-68 [driving] towards us westbound on the wrong side of the Interstate, remembered Keefer. "He tried to hit the white car, which moved to the median [and] slid in a complete turnaround toward me. Then he, tried to hit me. I moved over on the side of the road against the guard rails to avoid him hitting me...this vehicle missed me by a couple of inches...he had no tire as it sounded so loud. [He] drove very fast past me...."

As these events were unfolding, Tfc. LeMay, who had heard a radio report of a vehicle heading the wrong way on the Interstate, had cleared his traffic stop and was en route from the east with lights and sirens running, trying to catch the wrong-way driver before someone got hurt.

The Kernses were on the other side of Friendsville, approaching from the west, a couple of vehicles behind the Vinton family. "We started down a long straightaway approaching the bridge," Mike Kerns said. "I saw a tractor trailer swerve and its tail lights disappear. In the moment it took me to wonder about that, we saw a Suburban on its side right in the road in front of us...."

The Suburban belonged to the Vintons, who had been next in line of Jackson's aim. "All I saw was headlights swerving all over the road, and immediately felt panic rising," Kathleen Vinton said this week. "It happened so fast, six seconds maybe, I screamed 'Pete, look out!' Peter served to the right, and the car matched the move, then Pete swerved to the left, and the car matched that, and then there was a big boom..."

East." Beyond not having quite the kind of mountains and land mass that requires, we all have to ask ourselves the question, "Is that what we want?" And more importantly, do we want a few deciding for the many?

I understand how difficult it is to remain optimistic given what we have seen happen in this watershed. A handful of developers have taken it upon themselves to significantly alter the landscape and scenic views of Deep Creek Lake for their own personal gain. The egregious building on the ridge line cannot be undone. However, ERM has already signaled that there is inadequate information and understanding about the implications of the growth rate in the watershed. Based on the views of your fellow residents, the vast majority agrees that something has to be done to protect this resource from over-building. This is the time to get involved.

Deep Creek Lake is a recreational area, and I realize that building six figure and million dollar rental homes will not end any time soon, despite the apparent glut of rental proprieties. I also know that the building industry plays a significant role in the county's economy. I also know that most communities serious about their quality of life impose temporary moratoriums or some kind of limits on building until the planning process is completed. As farmers have kept sections of their fields fallow to protect top soil, as fishermen have reduced catch quotas to protect dwindling resources, as loggers who want to stay in business have embraced selective cutting, so too must developers take stock and slow down until we all have sufficient data to make reasonable and informed decisions about the future of the watershed. I realize this is a contention suggestion, and likely viewed as an easy one for me to make given that my family doesn't rely on the building industry for our livelihood. I believe however, that given the current circumstances, a parallel discussion should take place regarding the issuance of permits, so the integrity of the process Mr. Nelson and others are leading is not compromised. We owe it to ourselves and the next generation to proceed slowly and with professional planning assistance.

Please. Get involved. Again, the Program Summary form is available at www.garrettcounty.org/pandz or at the Commissioners' office. The deadline for your input is August 30, 2004. Thank you.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

September '04

THE SUN—The sun moves from the star group Leo into Virgo on Sept. 16, where it spends the next six weeks. The amount of daily sunlight decreases in September. The month opens with approximately 13 hours of sunlight, and closes with about 11 hours and 50 minutes of sunlight. In early September the sun rises about 6:50 a.m., and sets around 7:45 p.m. In late September sunrises are about 7:10 a.m., while sunsets are about 7:05 p.m. The sun's midday height during September drops from 58 to 47 degrees. The length of twilight is about an hour during the month, meaning that the fainter stars fade from view about an hour before sunrise and the fainter stars reappear an hour after sunset. In mid-September, we have about 9.7 hours each night for star gazing. September 22 is the first day of fall, with the sun's most direct rays moving south across the equator. Over most of the world, the sun rises due east and sets due west. On Sept. 25, there is an even split between day and night, each lasting 12 hours.

THE MOON—As September opens, the moon is a little past full, shining in the late evening sky. After Sept. 6 the moon shifts into the morning sky, then most easily viewed at dawn. On the morning of Sept. 10 the crescent moon appears near the brilliant planet Venus in the eastern dawn. On Sept. 13-15 the moon hides in the sun's glare. On Sept. 17 the moon reappears as a narrow crescent low in the western dusk. By the 21st the moon has grown to half full (resembling a letter "D"), the best moon shape to view the craters with binoculars. The moon grows to full on the evening of Sept. 27, then shining among the stars of Pisces. This is the Harvest Moon, the full moon that lingers longest in the evening sky. There will bright evening moonlight through the end of the month.

THE SOLAR SYSTEM—Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steadily, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. The brilliant planet Venus is spectacular in the eastern dawn in September. At the start of September, Venus is just below the bright planet Saturn. As the month progresses, Venus moves away from Saturn and toward the bright star that marks Leo's heart. The innermost planet Mercury can be seen low in the eastern dawn in early September, but the planets Jupiter and Mars appear too close to the sun to be seen during the month.

THE STARS—In the evening hours, the Big Dipper floats over the horizon in the north-northeast. Follow its handle leftward to the bright golden star Arcturus. Nearly overhead as darkness falls is the bright star Vega, a member of the Summer Triangle. Low in the northeast is the golden star Capella, the first bright winter evening star to appear.

ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES IN SEPTEMBER–The Frostburg State Planetarium will reopen on Sunday, Sept. 5, with the program "Seven Wonders of the Universe." Our free 50-minute Sunday programs begin at 4 and 7 p.m. with a brief live tour of the current evening sky. Persons may call 301-687-4270 for further information and directions on how to get to the planetarium.

The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 17, at the LaVale Public Library. All sky gazers are welcome.

Dr. Doyle Writes this column for beginners who would like to identify the brightest starts, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or get a free brochure or sky charts, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-387-4270 and press 4. Doyle hosts "SkyWatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights, that airs weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and 96.3 FM in the Oakland area. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Correction Noted

Information submitted to this newspaper last week incorrectly identified a non-credit Microsoft Excel II computer course that will be offered next month at the Garrett College Grantsville Outreach Center as Microsoft Word II. The four-session Excel II course will meet at 6 p.m. each Wednesday beginning Sept. 1 and concluding Sept. 22.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen
Lightning Safety

Q. If I'm out in the open and a lightning storm suddenly comes up, what's the best way that I can be safe?

Remember that lightning is essentially just a spark jumping ... although a very big spark. In the wintertime when it's very dry inside your home, you can get a spark to jump from a pointy object (like the tip of your finger) to some other surface. The way to avoid having sparks jump is to avoid pointy objects.

However, lightning usually follows a very irregular pathway, unlike the sparks that jump from your finger. That means it can strike in unexpected places. In the earth's atmosphere, a lot of electrical charge builds up on the large thunderclouds, and all that electricity is just waiting for a chance to travel to the earth and be neutralized. The air along pathways down from the cloud (and up from the earth) begins to ionize, building a "pointy object" made out of air. Ionized air conducts electricity much better. The best-conducting (lowest-resistance) pathway through the sky is often an irregular path, depending on minor things like dust in the air, etc. That's why lightning bolts follow strange paths, and in cartoons a lightning bolt is drawn as a zig-zag line.

Those pathways of ionized air are nearly impossible to predict, and what's more there are lots of them, starting out from many different points on earth and different points on the cloud. When an pathway of ionization up from the earth connects with an ionization path down from the clouds, the circuit is complete, a whole lot of current flows, and we call that a lightning strike.

Which pair of the many paths will connect first is anybody's guess – which means that lightning strikes the earth in a very random way.

The lightning rod, invented by Ben Franklin, is a pointy object with a low-resistance path that is deliberately put in one place in order to invite lightning to hit it, instead of hitting a house. The metal lightning rod conducts current directly into the ground with nearly zero resistance, and thus protects the house.

A tall tree sticking high above a forest is somewhat like a lightning rod, a lower resistance path, which is why many forest fires are started by lightning strikes. That's why it's not smart to stand under a tree in a lightning storm. You're better off getting wet, but away from an area where lightning is more likely to strike.

The entire idea of safety around lightning is to make sure that you're not part of that lowest-resistance path. If you see lightning start in the distance, take cover inside a building or a car. Actually, being inside a car is quite safe, because the metal of the car provides a conducting path for electricity, and inside is free from electric current. Just don't touch anything metal.

However, the standard phrase "take cover" doesn't do much good when you're suddenly caught out in the open, such as in the middle of the lake. So let's ask what else you might do.

The first thing to do is to make sure you're not associated with any pointy objects. Also, you don't want to lie flat on the ground, because that might make you part of the conducting path as the current travels along the ground from a nearby strike. If you can curl up into a ball, but hardly touch the ground, you're presenting a pretty small target.

If you're caught out in the lake in a boat, getting to shore quickly is your best bet. Driving the boat over reasonably near the shore (where there are some tall trees) improves your margin of safety. A tree creates a cone of protection that shields objects fairly near it from lightning.

But if there's not enough time (say you're in a canoe or kayak), try to get down low, so as to become the smallest possible target. In an open boat, get up on the cushions (insulators) with your hands and feet not contacting any water. In a boat with some kind of a roof (pontoon boat, etc.), preferably get underneath (but not touching) anything metal.

Being out on the bounding main during a lightning storm is certainly dangerous, and none of these strategies is foolproof. But you can improve your odds by minimizing your size.

KITZMILLER POSTMASTER KATE SCHENK was honored recently with a covered-dish dinner at the Kitzmiller School. The town's postmaster for the past 20 years, Schenk accepted the position on Sept. 17, 1984, and will retire on Oct. 1. More than 150 people attended the dinner, including Schenk's father, Walter Campbell, Bloomington postmaster John Baier and his family, and Elk Garden postmaster Sandra Hawk and her family. Mayor Jim Browning presened Schenk with plaques and a flower arrangement. Pictured is postmaster relief Edie Didawick, Schenk, and highway contract carrier Margie Michaels. Didawick and Michaels expressed their appreciation to the organizations and residents whose support and contributions made the event successful.

161 Participants Attend First Ever Rounds Reunion

The descendants of Nathaniel Rounds and Martha Olive Wilt recently held their first family reunion at the Savage River Pavilion in Big Run State Park near Grantsville.

With at least 161 family members and friends in attendance, the reunion was deemed a success and will be held again next year.

Carl Dorsey and Dick Rounds welcomed family and friends. Rosella Rounds Yoder opened with a prayer, and Loretta Hummel coordinated the music, with several family members and friends participating. Rusty Rounds and Harry Minnick provided sound equipment.

Renee Warnick Mason presented a large genealogy display and collected family tree information. Several relatives also exhibited family tree photo gallery presentations and showed works displaying a variety of artistic, musical, and literary talents.

Diana Deal coordinated the gift selection to recognize special participants, including youngest, largest family present, married most recently and traveled the farthest. The following family members and guests received gifts: Jamison Warnick, Nettie Broadwater, Rusty and Shelly Rounds, Bill and Betty Reams, Rick and Derrick Rounds, Rosella Yoder, Carl Dorsey, Butch Rounds, Robert Preston, and Mable Blamble.

Julie Warnick Mock organized games for children of all ages to enjoy throughout the day. The children earned points playing games and chose rewards at a prize booth.

Fundraisers during the reunion included raffle tickets, soda sales, a donation jar, and three cakewalks.

Members of the reunion committee are Hummel, Deal, Mock, and Mason. The next reunion will be held July 9, 2005, at the same location.

Hetz Descendants To Hold Reunion

The descendants of George and Martha Hetz will hold their 15th annual Hetz reunion this Sunday, Aug. 29, at the FOP Lodge, Sam Crow Road, Aviltion. The meal will be served at 12:30 p.m..

Participants are asked to bring game/sports equipment and a covered dish. Serving supplies will be provided. Donations for a white elephant sale and bingo prizes would be appreciated.

Local family members are asked to contact those out of the area. For more information and specific directions, persons may call 301-689-6378.

Short tracks produce numerous winners

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Atlanta

As the Craftsman Truck Series heads to the half-mile Bristol Motor Speedway for Wednesday's O'Reilly 200, the circuit's string of consecutive different short-track winners stands at 10.

Veteran driver Dennis Setzer, who became part of the streak with his victory at South Boston, Va., last October, said having different winners is easy to explain.

"I think the reason for parity on the short tracks is there are so many (good) short-track teams," he said. "Many of the drivers come from different short-track backgrounds as do many of the teams."

SETZER

And, as Martinsville winner Jon Wood explains, short tracks allow drivers from underfunded teams to compete on a more equitable basis.

"On a short track, you can't out-dollar everyone else, and the true talent shows," he said.

GFS MARKETPLACE 400 REVIEW

Biffle gets it done

Roush driver beats teammate Martin for first win in '04

Cox News Service

Greg Biffle led 73 of 200 laps to win Sunday's GFS Marketplace 400 at Michigan International Speedway.

Biffle pulled away from Mark Martin's Taurus in the closing laps, beating his Roush Racing teammate to the finish line by 8.216 seconds — nearly half the front straightaway.

"I was a little bit concerned because you never know what Mark Martin has up his sleeve," Biffle said. "He's always an aggressive race-car driver."

Biffle, the only driver to win both the Busch and Craftsman Truck series championships, has struggled in the 2004 Nextel Cup season. He had just one top 10-finish in the first 19 races this season and is not a contender for the new "Chase for the Nextel Cup" championship playoff.

But Biffle says his team is turning things around, with recent finishes of fourth at Pocono and sixth at Indianapolis.

"It's been tough at times this season, but I knew we could be in Victory Lane," Biffle said. "We've got this 16 car ironed out."

Martin, who is battling for a spot in NASCAR's championship playoff, was leading the race, but fell to 23rd on the 130th lap after being penalized by NASCAR for leaving the pits with a loose lugnut.

MICHIGAN NOTEBOOK

Another DNF drops Johnson to second

Cox News Service

After building a big lead in the Nextel Cup series standings, Jimmie Johnson fell to second Sunday after failing to finish for the third week in a row.

A blown engine in the GFS Marketplace 400 gave Johnson his fifth DNF (did not finish) in 2004.

"I'm just dumbfounded right now," Johnson said.

Gordon, co-owner of Johnson's car, finished seventh.

"I just hate it for Jimmie," Gordon said. "They weren't testing or trying anything different in the car, so I don't know what the deal is."

Strong outing for Edwards

Carl Edwards was pleased with his performance in his first Nextel Cup start.

Replacing Jeff Burton in the No. 99 Roush Racing Ford, Edwards finished 10th Sunday.

"This is a victory for us," Edwards said. "I thought we'd be about 20th, but the car came on. This is unbelievable."

Burton finished 12th in his first race for Richard Childress Racing.

More disappointment for Earnhardt

Sunday was another frustrating race for Dale Earnhardt Jr.

Earnhardt finished 21st Sunday.

"We struggle at tracks like this for some reason, but we'll figure it out," he said.

Earnhardt has only two top-10 finishes in his past 10 races at Michigan. Still, Earnhardt is in good shape for the championship chase, remaining third in the standings, 139 points behind leader Gordon.

New rules package strives to level playing field

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Atlanta

NASCAR's rules package for 2005 will try to put the brakes on runaway racing-engine development and reduce dependence on aerodynamics, but some say the new specifications announced last week may not bring about the intended results.

Beginning next season, teams in the top three divisions — Nextel Cup, Busch and Craftsman Truck —will be limited in the gear ratios they can run at any track other than Daytona and Talladega, where restrictor plates already limit engines.

The two gears in the rear end of the car — the ring and pinion — come in various ratios. On most race tracks, if the gear ratio is limited, the engine speed is restricted by a like amount.

The changes come as mechanics continue to find ways to increase engine rotations per minute. Just a few years ago, race engines turned about 8,000 rpm, but lately — at tracks like Martinsville Speedway — engines have turned more than 10,000.

High rpms mean more speed on the track, but higher costs in research and development and less durability.

NASCAR President Mike Helton said the goal of the new rule is to keep Nextel Cup engines below 9,500 rpm, and those in Busch Series and Craftsman Truck Series to 8,800, which is less than many teams are turning now.

Teams will be allowed to select from up to three gear ratios at each track, and NASCAR will check the ratios by manually counting teeth on the gears and by electronically monitoring the rpm the engine turns.

Some team managers agree with Helton that the rule will save competitors money. Others aren't so sure.

Chad Knaus, crew chief for Jimmie Johnson, doubts there will be much money saved.

"A lot of people have spent an awful lot of money to develop the technology to get our cars to turn the rpm they're turning right now," he said. "Now a lot of people are going to have to go back to work and find the best package for the gear ratios they're giving us."

Knaus also said fans may see less action on the track. "It might make it a little bit harder to pass," he said.

Helton said that while some teams may not embrace the change now, he believes it soon will be accepted, just as the compression limits and one-engine-per-weekend rules which have been put in place in recent years.

"Some people won't like it because it's another level of constraint," Helton said. "But there are more that do like it because they can more efficiently budget their expenses and be competitive."

NASCAR also announced rear spoilers would be chopped another ¾-inch next season, dropping them to 4½ inches.

That change is expected to take downforce from the cars, somewhat reducing the emphasis on aerodynamics and putting more emphasis on the driver's role.

COMMENTARY

Older fans left out as drivers get younger

By JEFF GLUCK
Cox News Service

During a recent vacation, I ran into a man named John, who fits into the so-called "NASCAR Dads" group. John is a father from California who pulls for Dale Jarrett and has followed racing for more than 30 years.

As the November elections draw closer, political commentators will argue over which candidate gets John's vote.

But we'll leave the political analysis to the experts. On the racing side of the NASCAR Dads issue, there's a more pressing concern: Drivers who belong to the same age group as the NASCAR Dads are an endangered species.

Just eight Nextel Cup regulars are 45 or older, and just a few are close to being involved in NASCAR's "Chase for the Championship."

So where does that leave the group of racing fans aged 45 and up which, according to NASCAR, make up 43 percent of the sport's base? It leaves them rooting for 49-year-old Ken Schrader. Or Mark Martin and Dale Jarrett, the only older drivers who still have an outside chance of making it to NASCAR's playoffs. Other than that, it's either Rusty Wallace or Sterling Marlin before the remaining middle-aged drivers drop off the scoreboard page.

This isn't a problem in the other major sports. Once a sports fan reaches the mature age of 45, he can still root for the same baseball team he followed as a child. Football teams don't age. Universities embrace older fans as donors. But in NASCAR, all the talk these days is about the "Young Guns," a marketing scheme cleverly devised to make racing fans in their 40s look for their false teeth and canes.

It's these fans who feel the most betrayed by NASCAR. While the sport closes historic tracks and makes new rules to please the younger generation, older fans wonder when sitting in the stands with their No. 6 Viagra gear went out of style. Corporations can't market the Young Guns to NASCAR Dads, some of whom have kids older than rookie Brian Vickers, who was born in 1983.

NASCAR seems to have responded to the issue by widening the gap between the sport and the 40-something fans who grew up following a certain brand of racing, which now seems increasingly unfamiliar.

Fans like John think it's crazy to run a Busch Series race in Mexico next year, where there are certainly no NASCAR Padres.

Meanwhile, rumors recently surfaced that Terry Labonte could go to a part-time schedule after this year, and Wallace sounds like he'll hang up his helmet after 2005 or 2006.

Racing's most devoted fans are running out of drivers to root for.

So, you ask, what's the solution? Aging fans have to feed their need to root for someone.

The answer: Enjoy the Young Guns and appreciate the older drivers while they're still around.

Local Student In Who's Who

Tiffany Bernard, Oakland, has been included in the 38th annual edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students. Students are nominated by their principals, guidance counselors, coaches, youth groups, churches, and educational organizations.

Nomination is based on students' academic achievement and involvement in extracurricular activities. According to Who's Who, 99 percent of the student have a grade-point average of B or better.

This is the fourth consecutive time that Tiffany has been included in a Who's Who edition. Less than 1 percent of all high school students are published more than one time, noted a Who's Who spokesperson.

Mikulski Maintains Commanding Lead in Funds, Polls Over Pipkin

by Kevin W. McCullough
Capital News Service

COLLEGE PARK – Democratic Sen. Barbara Mikulski had raised $5.6 million for her campaign, almost eight times as much as her Republican challenger, according to the latest reports with the Federal Election Commission. That is a closer margin than earlier reports, when state Sen. E.J. Pipkin was trailing Mikulski by as much as a 10-1 margin. But even Pipkin's campaign manager, Dave Brockhorst, said the campaign still has "a long way to go."

Pipkin has the advantage of deep pockets: More than half of his $701,912 in campaign receipts are loans from the candidate himself, according to the FEC.

But pollster Patrick Gonzales said that while money is important, Pipkin's money may do little more than let him lose to Mikulski by a narrower margin than her previous challengers. Mikulski has netted more than 70 percent of the vote in her last two campaigns.

"She's going to be tough to beat," said Gonzales, the president of Gonzales Research & Marketing Strategies. He said she is a popular incumbent, which puts any challenger at a strong disadvantage unless that incumbent stumbles.

"I haven't seen an indication that Mikulski is vulnerable," he said. "Things could change, but it's not likely."

The latest poll on the race by Gonzales showed Mikulski leading Pipkin among likely voters by more than 30 percentage points. She also enjoyed a job approval rating of 65 percent in the telephone poll of 386 regular Maryland voters that was taken between June 4 and June 9. The poll has a margin of error of plus or minus 3.5 percentage points.

But Mikulski "takes every race seriously" and "never takes anything for granted," said her campaign manager, Mike Morrill.

According to the latest filings with the FEC, Mikulski had spent $2.7 million as of July and still had $2.9 million on hand. Pipkin reported spending $618,560 in the same period and having $83,351 in the bank.

But Brockhorst downplayed the campaign's comparatively meager bank account, saying that Pipkin will likely be putting more of his own money into the campaign.

Pipkin, who earned his considerable personal wealth in bond trading, also spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in his 2002 campaign for Maryland State Senate, his only other bid for elected office so far. The Mikulski campaign has also pointed out the sources of Pipkin's funds, saying that the Republican Party had sought a candidate who would spend large amounts of his own money on the race. Mikulski has not yet contributed to her own campaign.

But Brockhorst said Pipkin also hopes to benefit from the recent success the GOP has enjoyed in Maryland with the election of Gov. Robert Ehrlich. He said the campaign is not counting on a boost from the presidential election in Maryland, which President Bush is expected to lose again as he did in 2000.

In the Gonzales poll, Ehrlich received a 52 percent job approval rating, but Bush received his lowest job-approval ratings of his tenure with a 39 percent rating. Only 38 percent of those polled said they would vote for him if the election took place on the day the poll was taken.

GC Democratic Headquarters Slated To Open

The Garrett County Democratic headquarters is slated to officially open at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 1, at 224 Alder Street, Oakland. This event, which is free and open to the public, will include a dessert social and meeting sponsored by the Democratic Club of Garrett County.

Headquarter hours will be 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Fridays, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays.

Because of the opening celebration, the September meeting will be held at the Alder Street location, not as regularly scheduled at Garrett College, noted a spokesperson.

Oakland Eastern Star Chapter To Resume Meetings

Oakland Chapter #67, Order of the Eastern Star will resume its meetings on Tuesday, Sept. 7, at 7:30 p.m. at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple.

There will be a covered-dish dinner to celebrate the chapter's birthday at 6 p.m.

In addition, Wilda Hile, deputy grand lecturer assigned to the Oakland Chapter, will make an official visit. All members are urged to attend.

DONATES TO LOCKS OF LOVE – Ashleigh Friend, Grantsville, recently donated 10 inches of her hair to Locks of Love, a not-for-profit organization that provides hairpieces to financially disadvantaged children under the age of 18 with medical hair loss. These custom-fitted hair prosthetics are provided free of charge or on a sliding scale to children whose families meet the Locks of Love board of directors guidelines. Donors provide the hair, volunteers staff the office, and the manufacturer hand-assembles each piece, which requires approximately four months. Ashleigh's hair was cut by Sherry Georg, owner, Shear Delight Salon, Accident.

Bartlett Sharing Campaign Funds With Other Republican Candidates

by Michael Santa Rita
Capital News Service

COLLEGE PARK – With a substantial fund-raising lead over his Democratic challenger in the 6th District, Rep. Roscoe Bartlett has begun donating funds to other Republican campaigns in Maryland and elsewhere.

The Frederick Republican had raised $482,009 for his 2004 campaign and spent $320,743 as of June 30, the date of the last filing with the Federal Election Commission. Democratic challenger Kenneth Bosley has not yet raised the minimum $5,000 that would require him to file a report with the FEC.

With that lead, Bartlett's latest FEC report reads like a political travelogue: In the last quarter, he sent $1,000 each to the Coburn for Senate Committee in Muskogee, Okla., the Demint for Senate Committee in Columbia, S.C., the Nethercutt for Senate campaign in Bellevue, Wash., the Schaffer for Senate campaign in Centennial, Colo., and the Vitter for U.S. Senate campaign in Metairie, La.

Bartlett also gave closer to home, sending $4,000 to the Bob Ehrlich for Maryland campaign, $225 to the Washington County Republican Central Committee, and $100 to the Maryland Federation of Republican Women, among other expenditures.

But aides deny that the recent donations to other Republican campaigns is evidence that Bartlett thinks he has an easy race of ahead of him.

"The level of seriousness remains the same," Lisa Wright, Bartlett's press officer, said. "He serves at the pleasure of the voters, and he takes that very seriously."

And Bosley denied that his lack of funding is an impediment to his campaign.

"We haven't collected our financial obligations yet. We've told people to hold it off and do it later rather than earlier," Bosley said. "When the campaign heats up that's when we will make our biggest effort." Besides, he said, "money is not the issue as far as the ability to collect votes." Bosley cited Bartlett's decision to attend a banquet in honor of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon earlier this year as an example of political folly that will cost the incumbent votes.

While this is Bosley's first run in the 6th District, it is not his first bid for Congress from Maryland. He ran three times – in 1998, 2000 and 2002 – for the 2nd District seat in the Baltimore suburbs before redistricting landed him in Bartlett's 6th District, which stretches across central and western Maryland.

Soap starlet lands prime-time role at CBS

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Q: Help! What has happened to the adorable actress who used to play Belle Black on "Days of Our Lives"? There's a new face. Why? –Marie Mango, Massapequa Park, N.Y.

A: Fan favorite Kirsten Storms, 20, was released from her role as Belle Black so she could accept a co-starring role in "Clubhouse," a new Aaron Spelling drama premiering in the fall on CBS.

The actress initially hoped she would be able to juggle both roles, but that proved impractical. Storms made her last "Days" appearance on July 15.

In "Clubhouse," she plays Betsy Young, the free-spirited older sister of principal teen star Pete (Jeremy Sumpter, "Peter Pan"), a batboy for the fictional New York Empires. The series also stars Mare Winningham as their mother, and Dean Cain as Pete's idol and mentor at the team clubhouse.

As a footnote, while Storms' departure from "Days" was amiable, it also set off a mini-soap opera of sorts behind the scenes, where newcomer Charity Rahmer was hired to take over the role of Belle, then almost immediately was fired. Another newcomer, Martha Madison, now plays the role.

Q: Ted Levine of "Monk" has a very distinctive voice. Is that him, uncredited, doing the voice of the vengeful trucker in the movie "Joy Ride"? –Peter in Sarasota, Fla.

A: Yes, Levine provided the voice of "Rusty Nail" in that 2001 movie thriller. And by the way: Several readers wrote to point out my recent typo that shaved years off Levine's age. The gifted actor is 46, not 36.

Q: Did the same actress who played Max and Isabel's mother in "Roswell" also play the police psychiatrist in the "Lethal Weapon" movies? –J.P., Thornton, Colo.

Kirsten Storms

A: Yes, Mary Ellen Trainor, who played Diane Evans in "Roswell," also played Dr. Stephanie Woods in all four "Lethal" movies.

Q: I recently caught a very early "Cagney and Lacey" rerun in which Meg Foster played Chris Cagney. Is she related to Jodie Foster? Is she still acting? –Paula Baston, Fort Worth, Texas.

A: As most readers remember, Foster (no relation to Jodie Foster) was replaced by Sharon Gless on "Cagney and Lacey" in 1982 after network executives declared the former actress "not feminine enough" for the role. The episode you saw was one of only six in which Foster played Cagney (Loretta Swit played the role in the original network movie pilot).

Although getting fired, especially on such personal grounds, couldn't have been pleasant for Foster, it didn't stop her from working in films ("The Osterman Weekend," "The Emerald Forest," "Masters of the Universe"), frequent TV guest appearances ("Quantum Leap," "ER," "Hercules: The Legendary Journeys") and onstage.

TRIVIA

William Peter Blatty ("Gunn") quit his job and wrote "The Exorcist" after winning $10,000 on the game show "You Bet Your Life."

Debbie Reynolds ("Halloweentown") calls herself "the oldest living Girl Scout." She has paid her $2 annual dues since she was a child.

Fitness Center Sparks Interest Across Country

ELAINE KACKLEY

The Flowery Vale Senior Health & Fitness Center, Accident, receives many inquiries about programming and services, according to fitness director Elaine Kackley. The number of inquiries increased after a news story on the center was published by the Associated Press in the spring.

"People were calling to tell me they had seen my picture or read about the program in Chicago, Florida, New Jersey, and other places," Kackley said. She collected clippings from regional and national news media.

Last week an inquiry came from Canada. The Garrett County Community Action's Area Agency on Aging program had gone international. "I was out of my office and heard the voice mail message. I had to get approval to place along distance call to respond," Kackley said. The call had come from a western province, so there was a time discrepancy.

"This is really exciting. We know we have a really successful program here. We have helped so many of Garrett County's 55 and older population in the three – now almost four – years that we have been open," Kackley noted. "It's great to be able to share our experience and information with others across the state and across the country. Well, now even those in another country."

For information on the Flowery Vale Fitness Center, persons may call 301-746-8050.

Nursing Assistant Course Slated At Garrett College

Garrett College will offer a Maryland approved nursing assistant course beginning Tuesday, Sept. 7. Maryland regulations require that anyone who performs nursing tasks, delegated by a nurse, for compensation must complete an approved nursing assistant course of study, and be licensed through the Maryland Board of Nursing.

The theory portion of the course will meet Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings from 6:30 to 9:45 p.m. Students who pass the theory portion of the course will continue into an intensive 40-hour on-site clinical experience.

Individuals who wish to work in a long-term care facility (nursing home) must then take the Maryland registry test to become geriatric nursing assistants. The registry test has both written and skills components. Although the registry test is not a part of the GC course, students who are not employed will have the opportunity to self-fund and be sponsored for the test through an outside agency.

A CORNER OF GARRETT COUNTY is cleaner now thanks to this group of LifeSkills program participants, who volunteered their time recently to clean up around the Savage River Reservoir. The nine students and two staff members cleaned trash from the banks of the reservoir and from the Dry Run boat launch. Users of the pristine recreation area should note the hours of labor that went into collecting the trash shown in front of the group, a pile markedly smaller than last year's collection and which will be hopefully even smaller next summer. Pictured from the left are students Matt Snyder, Zach Fultz, J.R. Bowman, Justin Brant, Andy Schrock, Justin Hetrick, Jeff Schrock, Kayla Leibrand, Shana Hetrick, and LifeSkills staffers Jessie Dinbokowitz and Justin Lewis.

Topics for the course include the role and responsibilities of nursing assistants, major organs and body systems, common medical terms and abbreviations, ambulating devices, human growth and development, ethical and legal issues, and demonstration of various nursing functions.

All potential students must register in person at the Continuing Education and Training office, located in Room CE-208 on the college's McHenry Campus. For tuition and additional information, persons may call Kista Wilt at 301-387-3069.

Loch Lynn After-School Program Fundraiser Set

The Loch Lynn After-School Program will hold a fundraiser at Broadford Park titled "Music in the Park" on Saturday, Aug. 28, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. to raise money for the upcoming year.

Entertainment will be provided by Nathan and Amy Friend, Amy Piper-McConnell, Valerie Naylor, Jody and Shalene Teets, and the ermission Tree.

There will also be games, face painting, and an Asset Building activity with the health department. Those attending are encouraged to bring a picnic lunch. Donations will be accepted.

This program is operated by Garrett County Community Action Inc. in collaboration with the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families.

GCFW Seeking Contributions For Directory Booklet

GCFW Civic Club of Oakland are once again collecting and updating information to prepare for the publication of a current "Quick Guide to Garrett County Resources," and are seeking contributions to help defray the cost of publication.

Because the club bears a major portion of the cost of publication, it requests contributions from agencies, organizations, and individuals. Names of donors will be printed in the booklet, according to Bobby Andersen, who heads the special projects committee that is in charge of this product.

The directory, published biennially by the Civic Club, contains contact phone numbers of Garrett County agencies and organizations. Its goal is to make residents, newcomers, and visitors aware of the many services and sources of help available in the county. The booklet is distributed free of charge throughout the county.

Interested persons should send contributions to GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, P.O. Box 167, Oakland, MD 21550. Checks should be made payable to the GFWC Civic Club.

Free Seminar Set For Prospective Entrepreneurs

A free seminar for persons who are thinking of starting their own businesses will be offered from 6 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 8, in Room 211 of Garrett College's Continuing Education and Training building.

During this introductory session, participants will take an assessment to determine their readiness to be in business, learn about local resources to help them along the way, identify financing options, discover the importance of a business plan, and much more.

Interested persons are requested to pre-register by calling 301-387-3080, as seating is limited. This course is being offered by the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College and the Small Business Development Center.

Social Workers Being Sought For "I Can Cope"

The American Cancer is looking for licensed social workers to volunteer to be trained to offer the I Can Cope series in Garrett and Allegany counties.

I Can Cope is a patient services program offered by the American Cancer Society for patients as well as their families and friends who are dealing with a cancer diagnosis.

For more information about the program and how to become involved, Garrett County social workers may call Donna McClintock-Fost at 301-334-7770. Those in Allegany County may call Julie Longenecker at 301-723-5894.

The Seasons of our Lives

SUNDAY Genesis 41:37-57

MONDAY Exodus 1:1-22

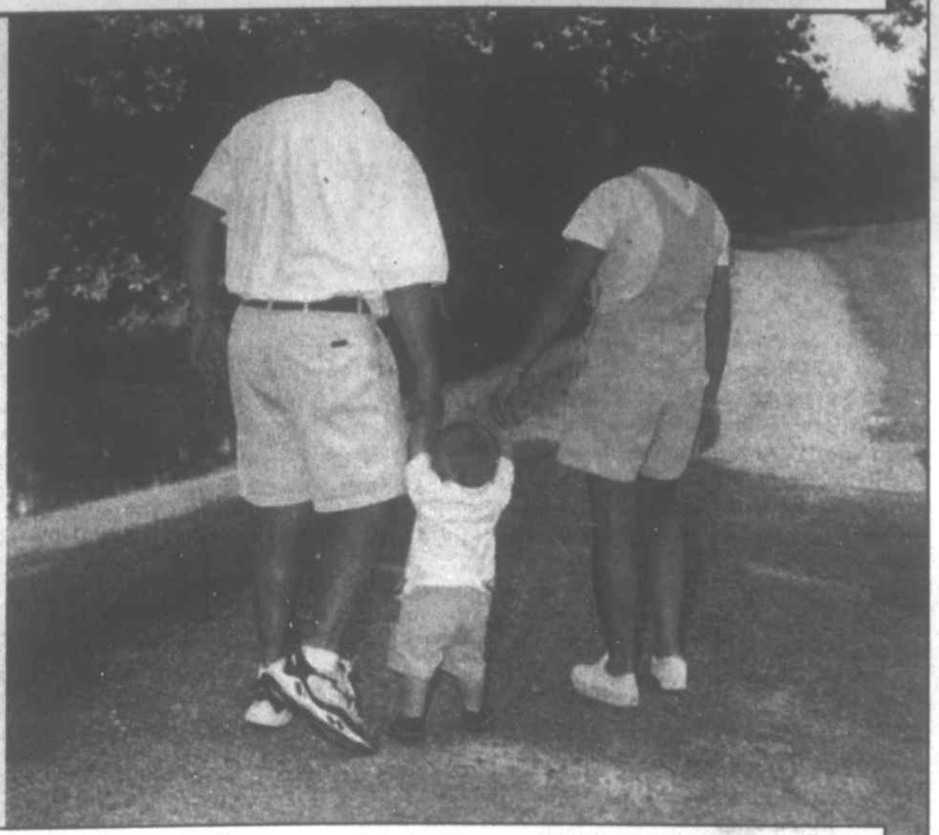
TUESDAY Exodus 2:1-10

WEDNESDAY Exodus 2:11-25

THURSDAY Exodus 3:1-12

FRIDAY Exodus 3:13-22

SATURDAY Exodus 4:1-17



As late August approaches, we might feel an occasional cool breeze some evenings or notice a lone leaf letting go as it drifts to the still warm ground. The poet, Oliver Wendell Holmes, expressed it this way... "The foliage has been losing its freshness through the month of August, and here and there a yellow leaf shows itself like the first gray hair amidst the locks of a beauty who has seen one season too many."

Certainly, Autumn is not far behind. Soon the trees will be ablaze with glory. The mountains will change from green gowns into those of red and orange and gold. Summer will surely not leave without her annual encore.

Such are the "seasons" of our lives. Whether our days are bright with color or the days are gray and cold, God is there for us. After all, as the creator of the four seasons, doesn't He intend for our lives to mirror those seasons somewhat? When we trust Him in all circumstances, the Creator will attend to our human transitions as well. "Be urgent in season and out of season." [2 Timothy 4:2]

Won't you learn more about God's unfailing love as you worship Him this week? We must make our preparations now for the seasons of our lives.

True Forgiveness

We sometimes decide whether someone deserves our forgiveness by carefully considering how many times they may have wronged us, or even by considering the perceived worth of the person. But is it truly forgiveness if we calculate whether the person deserves it? True forgiveness, like true grace, is unearned. Forgiveness that is deserved is really something more like a pardon, or even a person having served their time. To truly forgive someone, there should be no consideration of whether they are deserving of it or not. The true act of forgiveness takes place in the heart of the person who has been wronged, and has absolutely nothing to do with the person who committed the wrong. We see true forgiveness in God's sacrifice of His sinless Son for the atonement of our sins. Nothing we did makes us deserving of that sacrifice. On the contrary, the whole transaction is pure grace; that is, a free and unearned gift. Our existence itself has 0the quality of grace because our lives are a pure gift, and there is nothing we did, in the past, present, or future to deserve the gift of life. So, we should not calculate or decide whether someone deserves forgiveness, but instead, we should just give it to them.

Then Peter came up and said to him, "Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? As many as seven times?" Jesus said to him, "I do not say to you seven times, but seventy times seven."

R.S.V. Matthew 18: 21-22

Health Benefits Provided By These Vitamins

Most people know that a diet rich in antioxidants is good for you. New research suggests that taking antioxidant supplements like vitamins E and C can prevent serious eye damage in persons with diabetes. Antioxidants neutralize reactive oxygen molecules in the body. Diabetics are known to have lower blood levels of antioxidants to fight these reactive compounds. In one study, diabetics taking 400 IU of vitamin E and 1000 mg vitamin C daily for 10 days had significant improvements to the surface of their eyes. This included more surface tears, a better time interval between blinks, and lower eye-surface levels of harmful reactive oxygen molecules. Other research with antioxidant vitamins is clarifying their role in treating disease.

High doses of B vitamins may help those with Alzheimer's disease. According to research findings, high doses of three B vitamins (Vitamin B6, B12, and Folic Acid) lowered levels of homocysteine, an amino acid that has been linked to Alzheimer's.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• In a freak accident in Los Angeles, an unnamed man drowned in his car — while it was on dry land. His Volkswagen convertible hit a fire hydrant, causing an uncontrolled outpouring of water. Unfortunately, the blast of water caught the driver full in the face, and with such force that he was unable to breathe or escape.

• Before she became famous, pop star Sheryl Crow taught music to elementary-school students.

• That revered icon of the Western canon, Sir Isaac Newton, suffered from depression, and he had two nervous breakdowns in his life.

• It is still not known who observed: "We expect modern youth to be strong, courageous and prepared to pay more taxes than their fathers."

• Wild rice is actually an aquatic grass plant.

• Do you enjoy golfing? If so, try to play at the Nyanza Club in Kenya sometime. But those familiar with the course offer this piece of advice: Beware of aggressive hippos at the 8th hole.

• In Medieval times, ale, rather than wine, was often used for communion in church.

• In Russia until the 1860s, caviar was not considered to be the delicacy it is today. In fact, it wasn't consumed by people at all: It was used to feed pigs. Finally the peasants started eating it, and eventually the czar caught on — at which point, of course, it became too expensive for either pigs or peasants.

• The microphone was invented way back in 1878.

• A strange weather phenomenon was recorded in London in 1984: Flounders fell from the sky, after having been borne aloft by a tornado funnel.

• Perhaps unsurprisingly, the word "seduce" comes from the Latin for "lead astray."

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 3, 1777, the American flag is flown in battle for the first time, during a Revolutionary War skirmish at Cooch's Bridge, Maryland. Patriot Gen. William Maxwell ordered the Stars and Stripes banner raised as a detachment of his infantry and cavalry met an advance guard of British and Hessian troops.

• On Aug. 31, 1888, prostitute Mary Ann Nichols, the first victim of London serial killer "Jack the Ripper," is found murdered and mutilated. The East End of London saw four more victims of the murderer during the next few months, but no suspect was ever found.

• On Sept. 1, 1939, some 1.5 million German troops invade Poland along its 1,750-mile border with German-controlled territory. Nazi leader Adolf Hitler claimed it was a defensive action, but Britain and France were not convinced and declared war on Germany, initiating World War II.

• On Sept. 2, 1946, Eugene O'Neill's play "The Iceman Cometh," about desperate tavern bums clinging to illusion as a remedy for despair, opens on Broadway. Many critics hailed the play as O'Neill's finest work.

• On Sept. 4, 1972, U.S. swimmer Mark Spitz wins his seventh gold medal at the Summer Olympics in Munich, swimming the fly leg of the 400-meter medley relay. No other athlete has won so many gold medals at a single Olympiad.

• On Sept. 5, 1988, the Savings and Loan Crisis plumbs new depths as the Robert M. Bass Group, backed by $2 billion in federal aid, agrees to acquire the nation's largest bankrupt thrift, American Savings and Loan Association. It was the most expensive bailout ever for a single S&L institution.

• On Aug. 30, 1992, the TV series "Northern Exposure" wins the Emmy for Outstanding Drama Series. The offbeat show, about a Manhattan doctor forced to work in a small Alaska town, was among the top-20 most-watched TV shows until it was canceled in 1995.

Pet Threats Remain as Summer Wanes

The days are growing shorter, the nights may be a bit cooler, and the kids are heading back to school, but the commonly acknowledged end of summer does not mean the end of risks to dogs and cats from warm-weather threats.

Fleas and ticks are still in top form in many parts of the country, and are only just tapering off in colder climates. It's important to keep up with regular treatment to prevent these pests from making a home in your pet's coat, even through the beginning of fall (and perhaps all the way to winter). Look at the back of the package in which your pet's flea treatment came — whether it is the once-a-month direct application, shampoo or collar — and schedule the treatment on time.

Barbecues and pool parties will still be held even after Labor Day, weather permitting, and your pet should be kept away from the neighbor's shindig, as well as tempting things like corn holders, discarded food and empty containers. If you're holding a party, keep an eye on your pet and, if possible, place him or her in a room with a blanket, toys, food and water when direct supervision isn't possible.

And don't forget to protect outdoor pets from the sun! Even if the weather is much cooler, the sun's rays can still cause sunburn and, over time, increase the risk of skin cancer in pets. Rub sunscreen (available in pet stores) on your pet's exposed skin, including its nose, paws and ear tips. It won't like it much, but you'll be ensuring a longer, happier life for your pet. Who doesn't want that?

Collecting

Hummels

Q. My mother has decided to sell her extensive Hummel collection. Could you recommend some dealers who might help her with this? — Shari, via e-mail

A. The first Hummel figurines were created by Berta Hummel, a Franciscan nun, also known as Sister M. Innocentia. The earliest limited editions appeared in 1935 and were crafted and marketed by Franz Goebel of Rodental, Germany. In addition to figurines, plates and plaques were also produced. Hummel pieces are, of course, collected throughout the world.

To sell your collection, you need the advice of an expert. You might want to contact Dorothy Dous, president of the Hummel Collector's Club, Inc. Her addresses are 1261 University Drive, Yardley, PA 19067; and www.hummels.com. John Copeland is a dealer who specializes in Hummels. His toll-free telephone number is 1-800-882-9946.

Q. I am in the process of helping a friend sell his antiques and collectibles. Although I have reference books and use eBay, I need professional help. Can you recommend a good appraiser in my area? — Bev, Pueblo, Colo.

A. There are several appraisers in your area who might be able to help. You should expect to pay a nominal fee for both their time and expertise. A free appraisal is generally worth what you pay for it. Three established Colorado appraisers are William Geary, P.O. Box 2247, Colorado Springs, 80901; George Wooley, 3175 F Road, Grand Junction, 81504; and Margaret Grover, 734 Grape St., Denver 80220.

Rick Wilkes Set To Speak To Arthritis Group

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Arthritis Fibromyalgia Support Group will hold a free seminar on "Transforming Pain into Optimal Health" on Tuesday, Sept. 7, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in the GCMH Community Services Building. The speaker will be Rick Wilkes, president of Thriving Now LLC.

Wilkes is a Maryland and nationally certified massage therapist and emotional freedom coach. He will teach several body centered techniques for reducing pain, stress, and anxiety with a particular focus on the body as an energy system.

"We're not just a mix of bones, muscles, organs, and fluids in a sack of skin," said Wilkes. "I will give participants a brief look at the difference between the mechanical/biochemical view of the body and a more quantum view."

He will discuss Chinese medicine and how it specializes in looking at the body as a field of flowing energy, where disruptions cause emotional pain and physical disease. There will be hands-on exercises with touch and before and after ranking of stress and pain.

The program will also discuss massage therapy, its many forms, and how to choose the right therapist. There will also be an introduction to the energy tapping technique, EFT (Emotional Freedom Techniques).

"I am an advanced practitioner in EFT, and I find that it can often make a huge difference in the emotional side of having a chronic pain condition, and sometimes even clear up or dramatically improve the condition itself."

There is no charge to attend the meetings, and all ages are welcome to attend. For more information on the group, persons may call Vicki Insley at 301-334-9767.

Md. Forest, Park Service Seeking CCC Members

Former Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) members are being sought to help celebrate the history of the Depression-era agency's work in Maryland state forests and parks during a campfire program set for 7 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 11, at Gambrill State Park in Frederick County.

The Civilian Conservation Corps, also known as "Roosevelt's Tree Army," was established in the early 1930s as part of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal program. The CCC was designed to provide jobs for young men and to help reclaim and improve damaged natural environment areas. There were a number of camps located throughout western Maryland, including several in Garrett County. The CCC is credited with laying the groundwork for the creation some of Maryland's most popular state parks.

"We would like to recognize former CCC members who worked hard to lay the foundations of resource conservation in Maryland," said Gambrill State Park staff member Erick Creter. "We would also like to have former CCC members share their stories at the campfire event." Interested persons may contact Creter at 301-293-4170.

Training Classes For Volunteers Set By Hospice

Hospice of Garrett County Inc. will sponsor training classes for Faith in Action patient care volunteers during September and October. The classes will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. each evening at the Hospice office in the lower level of Dr. Daniel Miller's office building, 69 Wolf Acres Drive, Oakland.

Hospice is currently in need of patient care volunteers who provide companionship to terminally ill patients and their families. The volunteers may be asked to sit with the patient, run errands, or help in various other ways.

Volunteers are also needed for bereavement after-care. The Hospice Bereavement team stays in touch with the family for one year after the death of a loved one. They do mailings and home visits, and maintain a relationship with the family by telephone.

The schedule of classes is as follows: Sept. 9 – "Overview of Hospice," executive director Brenda Butscher, and "HIPAA, Confidentiality, Sexual Abuse, and Safety," director of clinical services Charee Reckner; Sept 16 – "Listening Skills" and "Family Dynamics/Stress Management," Nancy-Elizabeth Nimmich; Sept. 23 – "Working With the Volunteer Coordinator," volunteer coordinator Ida Maust; and Sept. 30 – "Universal Precautions, Infection Control, Documentation of Personal Care, and Signs and Symptoms of a Dying Person," Reckner.

The classes will continue the next month with the following: Oct. 7 – "Legal and Financial Planning," Shirley Fitzwater of First United Bank and Trust and a visit to Newman's Funeral Home to learn about funeral home skills; Oct. 21 – "Physical Therapy (Transfer Skills)," Audrey Kennedy of Garrett Rehab; and Oct. 28 – "Grief Counseling Skills," director of bereavement Jane Sealing and "Spirtual Aspects," Pastor Ivan Maust.

A graduation dinner will be held on Thursday, Nov. 4, for the new volunteers.

"Hospice extends an invitation to you to become part of the Hospice team and to be a patient care volunteer," said Butscher. "You will find working with the terminally ill and their families to be rewarding. Keep in mind that doing good for others is doing good for yourself."

To register or for more information, persons may call the Hospice office at 301-334-5151, in Grantsville at 800-521-5252, or by TTY at 800-735-2258.

Local Resident To Compete For Truck Show Title

Jayme Miller, Accident, is among five western Maryland area residents vying for the chance to become the second Western Maryland Truck Show Queen this Friday, Aug. 27.

The princesses will compete for the WMTS Queen title beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Allegany County Fairgrounds. The winner will receive a crown, bouquet of flowers, and a $1,000 savings bond, which will be awarded after she completes her reign. The first runner-up will receive a bouquet and a $500 savings bond, while the second runner-up will receive a bouquet and a $250 savings bond.

The event is open to the public. The competition will be judged on personal interview, evening gown, speech, on-stage questions, and essay.

Miller is the daughter of John and Christy Miller, Accident. A student at Northern High School, she plans to attend Garrett College and become a school teacher. She is employed at the Wisp.

Other contestants include Shirley Tressler, Tracey Clark, Terran Beeman, and Miranda Fitzgerald.

TREATMENT PLANT WORKERS RECOGNIZED – The Garrett County Department of Public Utilities has not one but four award-winning treatment plant workers. Laboratory director Dale Baker, Deep Creek Lake wastewater treatment plant, received the 2004 Lab Analyst Excellence award from the Chesapeake Water Environment Association, Water Environment Federation. Operator Jim Friend received the 2004 Maryland Rural Water, Wastewater Operator of the Year award. He runs the water and wastewater plants in Friendsville. Operations manager Allen Festerman received the 2004 Chesapeake Section American Waterworks Association Operator of the Year award. Operator Ed Santamaria received the 2004 Maryland Rural Water, Water Operator of the Year award. He runs the water and wastewater plants in Bloomington. Pictured, left to right, are Baker, Friend, Festerman, and Santamaria. "The Garrett County Department of Public Utilities is very proud of these individuals, their on-the-job tireless performance, and their achievement of significant recognition among their peers," said director Mark Tonkovich.

Miss Tressler is the granddaughter of Mabel McKenzie of Salisbury, Pa. She graduated from Meyersdale High School, and currently attends Allegany College of Maryland. Her major is nursing/academic. She is employed at Meadowview Nursing Home in Berlin, Pa., and is a member of St. John's Consistory/ Choir.

Miss Clark is the daughter of Jim and Cindy Clark, Barton. A student at Westmar High School, she plans to attend Frostburg State University after high school. She is the recipient of the Maryland Distinguished Scholar honorable mention award, and is a member of Barton United Methodist Church.

Miss Beeman is the daughter of Terry and Denise Beeman, Lonaconing. She graduated from Westmar High School and is currently employed at Timbrook Nissan. She plans to continue working there and become a successful sales representative.

Miss Fitzgerald is the daughter of Glenn and Marlene Fitzgerald, Rawlings. A student at Westmar High School, she plans to attend Frostburg State University to study law or become a psychologist. She was voted vice president of the student council, is the first runner-up in the Miss Teen Cumberland Pageant 2004, and is very involved in school activities.

Stress Relief Retreat Slated For Caregivers

The Area Agency on Aging's National Family Caregiver Support Program will hold a stress relief retreat to help alleviate the "rigors of being a caregiver" on Thursday, Sept. 9, and Friday, Sept. 10, at Herrington Manor State Park.

The retreat is for family caregivers of individuals age 60 and older and grandparents and other relatives age 60 and older who have assumed the care of a child 18 years or younger. Respite service is available.

Activities will begin with registration from 3 to 4 p.m. on Thursday, followed by entertainment, a picnic supper, massage therapy, walks in the park, music, fireside stories, and a sleepover.

After breakfast on Friday morning, a boat tour of Deep Creek Lake will be given. The tour last 1½ hours. Gift giveaways will be given also.

For information and reservations, persons may call the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431, ext. 143, no later than Aug. 27.

Grantsville HS Class Of 1939 Celebrates 65th

Members of the 1939 graduating class of Grantsville High School celebrated their 65th commencement anniversary with a reunion at Penn Alps Restaurant, Grantsville, on Aug. 14.

Thirteen classmates attended, along with spouses and other guests. Those present for the event were Helen Beachy Barnhard, Edna Lewis Colflesh, Ruby Buckel Orendorf, Lucille Patton Ritter, Laura Durst Turner, Vernon Reichenbehcer, Carl Broadwater and his wife Lorena, Cecil Edwards and his wife Wilma, Garland Hummel and his wife Miriam and daughter Pat, Alverta Ringer Bowser and husband Russell, Alverta Zehner Dronenburg and husband Robert, Mary Schaefer McKenzie and husband Clinton, and Mabel Broadwater Stanton and granddaughter Rachel.

Carl Broadwater served as the master of ceremonies, and a brief memorial service was led by Garland Hummel in memory of the 23 deceased classmates. The class numbered 44 at graduation.

Pioneer Clubs At MLP Church To Kick Off Sept. 8

The Pioneer Clubs at Faith Evangelical Free Church will kick off on Wednesday, Sept. 8, at 6:45 p.m. Children ages 2½ years to grade 6 are welcome to join.

Participants will learn about Jesus, earn activity badges, make crafts, and play games with other club members.

The church is located at 1008 Maryland Highway, Mtn. Lake Park. For more information, persons may call 301-334-4172.

ACCIDENT

YARD, CRAFT, AND BAKE SALE

The Garrett Covenant House Accident Daycare in Accident will hold a yard, craft, and bake sale on Friday, Sept. 3, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. This event will be held at the pavilion behind the Accident fire hall. All proceeds will benefit the residents of the Covenant House.

DEAL REUNION

The 36th annual Deal reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 29, at the Accident Town Park. The covered dish picnic will begin at 1 p.m. Those attending are asked to also bring a favorite recipe for the cookbook. There will also be a "white elephant" sale.

American Legion Auxiliary To Hold Fundraiser Sale

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit #71 (Oakland) will host a basement "yard" sale on Friday, Aug. 27, at the Legion Post, located along Memorial Drive. The sale will be from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

A wide variety of items will be available for sale at bargain prices, a spokesperson said. All proceeds will go toward supporting Auxiliary projects.

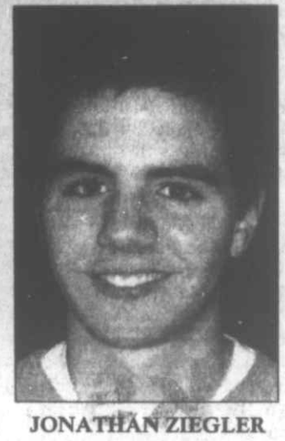
Five GC Students Net Scholarships

ANDY HADY

SARAH MULLENAX

BRIAN KASECAMP

CASSIE GREGORY



JONATHAN ZIEGLER

Five recent graduates of area high schools have received scholarships from the Garrett College Foundation and will attend Garrett this fall, according to Bretta Reinhard, executive director of the foundation.

Andy Hady, son of William and Jennifer Hady of Bittinger, has received a Garrett College Board of Trustees scholarship and the Edward and Hazel Hinebaugh Scholarship. He is a 2004 graduate of Northern High School, where he was on the golf team and track team all four years, a member of the Northern Lettermen's Club, on the Honor Roll, and the Distinguished Honor Roll.

Undecided about his future career, Andy has enrolled in the General Studies program. His interests lie in construction and design. He is active in the youth group of the Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittinger and in the Junior Fireman Organization of the Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department. His hobbies are golf, hunting, all aspects of carpentry and construction, and Civil War history.

Sarah Mullenax, a 2004 graduate of Southern High School, has received the Amy Mildred Sharpless Scholarship. In high school she was a member of the National Honor Society, the Honor Roll and Distinguished Honor Roll, and the softball and soccer teams. She also participated in Minds in Motion and was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Sarah is enrolled in the General Studies program and plans someday to have her own business. Her interests are roller blading, skiing, snowboarding, and playing softball and soccer. She is the daughter of Zanea and Larry Mullenax of Swanton.

Brian Kasecamp, a 2004 graduate of Beall High School, has received the Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Boxley III Scholarship and the Daniel Edward Offutt III Achievement Award Scholarship. In high school he was on the soccer, baseball, and golf teams, and also belonged to the National Honor Society, the Drama Club, Ski Club, and Ecology Club.

Although he is still uncertain about his career choice, Brian has enrolled in the Social and Behavioral Sciences program. His interests are sports and history, and he is active in his church group and community basketball. He is the son of Terry Kasecamp and Lawrence Kasecamp of Frostburg, and said that he is proud that a baseball field in Cresaptown is named after his family.

Cassie Gregory, daughter of Lawrence and Crystal Gregory of Oakland, has received the Daniel Edward Offutt III Achievement Award Scholarship, the Cortney and Marie Tasker Scholarship, the William Henry Schmidt Memorial Scholarship, and the Sylvan Manufacturing Lawrence Gregory Sr. Scholarship. She is a 2003 graduate of Southern High, where she was a member of the yearbook staff and the National Honor Society.

At Garrett Cassie is in the honors program, majoring in elementary education as she pursues her goal of becoming a pre-kindergarten or kindergarten teacher. Her community service consists of the Adopt-a-Highway Program, the Rotary Christmas project, and the House of Hope food drive. She enjoys working with children, exercising, shopping, and spending time with friends.

Jonathan Ziegler, a 2003 graduate of Ferndale Christian School, has received the Colonel Haig and Ruth Ridder Jackson Scholarship and the Daniel Edward Offutt III Achievement Award Scholarship. He is enrolled in the college's business administration program and hopes someday to start an online used auto parts company. As a member of the worship team of Ferndale Baptist Church, Jonathan has made two mission trips to Mexico. His interests are playing soccer, hunting and fishing, and playing guitar. Jonathan is the son of Jon Ziegler and Carla Ziegler of Oakland.

Miss Cannon To Wed Mr. Reams

Mr. and Mrs. Harold "Moose" Cannon, Oakland, have announced the engagement and upcoming marriage of their daughter Kerri J. Cannon to John A. Reams, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Henry Reams and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Woods, all of Oakland.

The bride-elect is a 1997 graduate of Southern High School, and is employed by Dottie's Fountain and Grill, Oakland.

The prospective groom is a 1996 graduate of Southern High, and is employed by Beitzel Corporation, Grantsville.

The wedding ceremony is planned for 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 4, at the Pine Grove Church of the Brethren. A reception will immediately follow at the Oakland American Legion.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Forrest Allen Green, 69, and Sylvia Jean Vansickle, 53, both of Salisbury, Pa.

David Allen Rolf, 43, and Rebecca Lynn Few, 31, both of Mtn. Lake Park.

Edward William Peterson, 37, and Julie Eileen Warnick, 34, both of Oakland.

Bruce Eugene Brown, 36, and Linda Louise Paugh, 33, both of Oakland.

Matthew Grover Duling, 27, and Alison Lynn Becker, 25, both of Fairmont, W.Va.

Eric Lynn Stullenbarger, 26, and Vicki Sue Passley, 42, both of Fredericksburg, Va.

Miss Crystal Keefer Marries Mr. Carl Garlitz In June Ceremony

Crystal Annette Keefer and Carl William Garlitz Jr., both of Friendsville, were joined in marriage on June 26, 2004. The bride is the daughter of Getty and Wilma Keefer, Friendsville, and the groom is the son of Carl Sr. and Lynda Garlitz of Cumberland.

The ceremony was held at the White Oak Church in Terra Alta, W.Va., with Pastor Norman Criss of Tunnelton, W.Va., officiating.

The bride wore a white floor-length gown with a crinoline overlay skirt. The gown was covered with white embroidered daisies, which the bride hand-detailed with pink and clear glass beads. The groom wore a black tuxedo with a pink Windsor tie.

The couple exchanged their vows at the altar under a white trellis decorated with pink roses, a gift from the bride's mother. The bride was given away by her father, who then sang "The Rose."

The bride's attendants wore ankle-length gowns, each with its own style and pattern. They carried bouquets of pink and white flowers, arranged by the bride. The groom's attendants and the bride's father wore black tuxedos with pink bow ties and cummerbunds. The each wore a boutonniere of pink and white roses, also made by the bride. The groom's father was also dressed in a black tuxedo but with a black bow tie.

Kali Last, Iowa, friend of the bride, was the maid of honor. Scott Garlitz, brother of the groom, stood as the best man. Bridesmaids were Harmony Carr and Ginnie Sines, friends of the bride. Serving as groomsmen were Bill Garlitz, brother of the groom, and Bill McKenzie, Baltimore, cousin of the groom. The bride's god-daughter, Amanda Behling, and niece, Jennifer Sisler, were junior bridesmaids. Junior groomsmen were Jerry Sisler, nephew of the bride, and Greg Garlitz, brother of the groom.

There were also two flower girls and two ringbearers. Kayla Glotfelty, friend of the couple, carried a small bouquet herself, as well as one to give each of the mothers. Carrying a basket of rose petals was Alexis Garlitz, niece of the groom. Joseph Last, godson of the bride, carried the groom's ring in a small bamboo chest. Britton Garlitz, nephew of the groom, carried the bride's ring on the traditional satin pillow.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church's fellowship hall. The hall was decorated in pink and white flowers, also arranged by the bride. Most of the food and drinks were provided by the bride's paternal grandmother, Nina Keefer; the bride's parents; and her sister, Cindy Sisler.

The three-tier wedding cake was baked by Beatrice Criss, Tunnelton, W.Va. The sides of each cake tier were adorned with pink hearts, and some of the bride's flowers were also used. The cake-topper was a Waterford crystal bride and groom seated on a pink rose.

The couple visited with the maid of honor for some days before leaving on a trip south, visiting the bride's maternal grandmother, Pansy Trout, and her aunt and uncle in Indian Trail, N.C., as well as spending a week at Disney World.

Ms. Beitzel And Mr. McKenzie Exchange Vows In July Ceremony

Virginia Beitzel and Steve McKenzie were united in marriage on July 30 at the Garrett County Courthouse.

Virginia, daughter of Roger and Wilma Guthrie, Grantsville, has one daughter, Lara, and one son, Josh. She works as postmaster of Bittinger Post Office.

Steve, son of Doris and the late Dalton McKenzie Bittinger, works as a logge at D&S Logging, which he owns with his brother Don ald.

The couple and the chil dren reside in Bittinger.

Ms. Paugh Will Wed Mr. Brown

Linda L. Paugh and Bruce E. Brown, both of Oakland, announce their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Kenneth and Barbara Paugh Sr., Oakland. She is employed by Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The groom-to-be is the son of Dale and Shirley Brown, Oakland. He is also employed by Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The ceremony will take place September 18, 2004, at Fairview Church of the Brethren, Oakland, at 3 p.m. A reception will follow the ceremony at the Elks Lodge in Oakland. Invitations will be sent.

Agency On Aging To Hold Dinner-Dance Fundraiser

The Area Agency on Aging, a department of Garrett County Community Action, will host a fundraising dinner-dance on Friday, Oct. 22, at the Grantsville Senior Center. Proceeds will benefit the Meals on Wheels program. Those interested in attending are encouraged to purchase tickets early.

Tickets for the event are $45 per person or $85 per couple. Businesses or organizations may purchase a table for six for $250. The cost of the ticket is tax deductible. The ticket entitles the holder to a five-course sit-down dinner and entertainment.

The dinner included hors d'oeuvres, soup, salad, entrée, dessert, and glass of wine. A cash bar offering beer and wine will also be available.

Tickets may be purchased by calling 301-334-9431.

"Persons interested in obtaining tickets should contact the agency as soon as possible," said a spokesperson. "Due to the success of the last event held in November 2002, the agency anticipates selling out of tickets early."

NORTH GLADE 4-H BUILDING FUND RECEIVES DONATION – The North Glade Homemakers recently presented a check for $400 to the North Glade 4-H Building Fund. The monies were from proceeds raised from selling Watkins products in the community. The first project to be completed, once enough funds have been raised, will be a new roof, followed by bathrooms and inside renovations. Persons wanting more information about the club or the fundraising efforts may contact Debbie Friend at 301-334-3917. Pictured above, from left to right, are Mary Shreve, North Glade Homemakers president; Friend, 4-H organizational leader; Rachal Winegardner, treasurer; Rebecca Winegardner, vice president; Cheryl Winegardner, mother and project leader; and Renae Winegardner, future 4-H'er.

Faith Evangelical Free Church Set To Hold Summit

Faith Evangelical Free Church, 1009 Maryland Highway, Mtn. Lake Park, will host a Global Ministry Summit on Saturday, Sept. 18, from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. A team of five experienced mission consultants from the Evangelical Free Church of America will be on hand to preach and lead workshops throughout the day.

Twelve workshops will be offered and will cover topics ranging from increasing missions awareness in the local church to short-term missions to an effective missions prayer in the local church. A special women's track is also offered.

The summit is designed to help church leaders think of what their own church can do in missions and to provide such leaders with numerous practical ideas.

To register, persons may contact Naomi Hagen Asare at 1-800-745-2202 before Sept. 3. Registration is $30 and includes lunch. For more information persons may contact the church at 301-334-4172.

"Money Matters" Workshop Slated By Cancer Society

An American Cancer Society's I Can Cope session titled "Money Matters" will be offered on Wednesday, Sept. 8, at 5 p.m. in the Community Services building at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

This workshop is designed to help those diagnosed with cancer or other disabling diseases who are worried about how they are going to pay for treatment.

"It may also help you learn how to prepare yourself in case you or a loved one someday find yourselves in this situation," said an American Cancer Society spokespersons.

Guest panelists will be available to answer questions and give advice on financial matters dealing with illness and how to prepare if an illness does occur. The panelists will be Kathy Callis, Garrett County Memorial Hospital director of financial services and admissions; Linda Ashby, FIP supervisor with the Garrett County Department of Social Services; and Kathy Kabel, certified public accountant.

The workshop is free and open to all Garrett County and surrounding area residents. To register for the workshop or to find out more, persons may call Sara Burdette at Garrett County Memorial Hospital at 301-533-4311. Registration is suggested to guarantee materials, but is not required.

Starting A Home-Based Business Course Slated

A two-session class titled "How to Start and Operate a Business from Home" is set for 6-9 p.m. Monday and Wednesday, Sept. 13 and 15, at Garrett College. This course will teach participants how to choose an appropriate business for the home, what zoning or other regulations may apply, and how to incorporate a business and family life under the same roof. The course will also cover financing, business planning, setting up the workspace, time management, and marketing.

The instructor will be Beverly Williams, a 25-year veteran in home business and the founder and former president of a national membership organization for home-business owners. She was recognized by the U.S. Small Business Administration as 2002 Home Business Advocate of the Year. Williams is co-author of Business In Your Bathrobe: The Ultimate Guide to Operating a Business From Home. She currently operates a speaking and consulting business and is a partner in an advertising specialty business.

Class space is limited. For tuition and other information, or to register, persons may call Kista Wilt of the Small Business Development Center at 301-387-3069.

SMOKEY HITS THE BIG SIX-O — Despite turning 60, Smokey Bear is showing no signs of slowing down in his advocacy for safe outdoor fire practices. The venerable bruin was on hand recently for a birthday celebration at New Germany State Park, where cake and ice cream were served for guests from across the state. Children made birthday cards for Smokey which are on display in the New Germany nature center, and the fire prevention activities included a fire-fighting exercise demonstrated above by 7-year-old Jonathan Schultz of Annapolis. Pictured below are Grantsville residents Kristi Garlitz, left, and Tammy Jo Garlitz, as they get a real "bear" hug. The Friends of New Germany volunteer group helped sponsor the event.

Welding Courses Slated At Garrett

Three welding courses are being offered by Garrett College this fall semester. All courses will be taught by Greg Carrico at the Center for Adventure and Outdoor Studies on the McHenry campus.

Two sections of Fundamentals of Welding (WT 135) are scheduled, one on Monday and the other on Tuesday, both meeting from 6 to 10 p.m. This course includes methods and types of equipment used in welding with emphasis on maintenance. Fundamentals of arc and oxyacetylene, as well as properties of metals, will be taught.

Intermediate Welding I (WT 136) is scheduled for Tuesday from 6 to 10 p.m. This course covers lap, tee and fillet welds on light steel, beads and manipulation of welding rod on heavy steel plate, butt and lap welds, brazing and running beads with bronze rod, silver soldering, and introduction to vertical welding.

Intermediate Welding II (WT 137) is scheduled on Thursdays from 6 to 10 p.m. This course teaches welding skills in the area of gas metal arc processes, welding of carbon and low-alloy steels, stainless steel and cast iron, and metal surfacing processes. This course prepares students to take the welding certification examinations.

Students may register for these courses at the Student Assistance Center from 8:3 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Thursdays, an until 4 p.m. on Fridays fo the next two weeks. Classe start Wednesday, Sept. 8.

Inaugural Issue Of Maryland Life Will Be Available Mid December

Great State Publishing LLC, Frederick, recently announced that the inaugural issue of Maryland Life magazine will be available in mid-December 2004 (January 2005 publication date).

Maryland Life will be a bimonthly publication "that explores and celebrates the destinations, dining, home styles, and people that make Maryland a great place to live. Contributors will include many of the state's finest writers and photographers."

Maryland has been without a statewide magazine for nearly a decade. This new magazine is backed by a major private investment, led by longtime Maryland newspaper publisher George B. Delaplaine Jr. of Great Southern Enterprises.

Other investors include Marlene B. Young, vice president of Great Southern Enterprises; Philip W. Hammond, chief financial officer of Great Southern Enterprises; Bond Street – GSP LLC; Karin DeFrancis of the Maryland Jockey Club; former Harford County newspaper publisher Peter A. Jay; and Great State Publishing's three managing principals: Dan Patrell, Ross Peddicord, and Scott Runkles.

Given their extensive background in publishing, the management team of Great Southern Enterprises comprising Delaplaine, Young and Hammond will be assisting the principals in an advisory capacity.

"Maryland has a great story to tell. We are very pleased about the launch of Maryland Life magazine, which will showcase the unique people, places, and events that make Maryland such a vibrant state," said Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. "From the first day my administration took office, it has been our mission to make our state 'One Maryland.' Any entrepreneurial effort that helps us succeed in this mission is a win for all of us."

"Tourism is a major economic factor in this state, so we're delighted with the emergence of Maryland Life, said Aris Melissaratos, secretary of Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development. "For readers both inside and outside the state, its message will help to highlight the great benefits that make this state such an attractive place to visit, and to live."

"Statewide magazines are some of the most profitable and longest running publications in the U.S., especially within the Mid-Atlantic, and yet Maryland has been underserved for years. We plan to change that trend," said Patrell, who will be the publication's editor. "Maryland Life will fill this void by celebrating life and living in Maryland for our state's citizens, as well as the many people that come to the state each year for business or pleasure."

He added that the publication's target audience was "anyone who loves Maryland."

"The need is certainly there for a high quality statewide magazine in Maryland," said Delaplaine. "Maryland ranks as one of the top five states in the country in wealth on per capita income and has one of the most educated populations in America, yet we are still without a magazine that commemorates why our state is a great and unique place to live."

"For generations, many have referred to Maryland as 'America in Miniature,' noted a Maryland Life publicist. "Each issue of Maryland Life will bring meaning to this phrase with in-depth articles and full-color, high-gloss photography that span the state's 23 counties, Baltimore City, and Ocean City. With page after page of timeless information and images, each issue is destined to become a keepsake.

"Maryland's diversity of identities – thoroughbreds, landscapes, lighthouses, boating, crabs, urban areas, mountains, rustic resort communities, beautifully appointed homes – provide an unlimited supply of captivating story ideas to fuel the magazine, as well as provide diverse opportunities for potential advertisers."

The centerpiece of each issue will be a multi-paged photo essay, which focuses on a "visually compelling" aspect of Maryland, followed by other feature articles that "touch the heart of Maryland."

The front end of the magazine will feature reports from all regions of the state, "Maryland Select" events, products that are uniquely Maryland, slices of Maryland history, and stories about interesting Marylanders.

The back end will host regular departments that focus on destinations for families and adults, interior and exterior style, dining, and other topics.

"Preliminary efforts to market the magazine, which will have an initial controlled circulation of 50,000 copies and will be available on newsstands, have been encouraging," said the publicist.

With limited exposure prior to this announcement, the magazine is well on its way to signing up its first 1,000 subscribers, and advertising has been sold to a number of well-known Maryland companies such as David Gable's Stone Store, Helga Surratt's and Patrick Brennan's About Faces Day Spas and Salons, and David Kusher's Virtual Physical Company.

OHS Class Of 1951 Gathers For Brunch

The Oakland High School class of 1951 members attended a brunch at the Deep Creek Brewery, McHenry, on Aug. 15. Twenty-five people attended, plus two members of the class of 1950.

The class of 1951 was the first class to graduate after completing 12 years of schooling. Prior to that year, students in Garrett County received a high school diploma after completing just 11 years.

The class of '51 alumni voted to continue to meet yearly, and next year will meet again for brunch on Aug. 14, 2005, at the Deep Creek Brewery.

For additional information, persons may contact Pat Steyer, committee chairperson, or Frances Gnegy, secretary.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Well, the Bittinger Picnic is over for another year. The day started off with rain. I can't really remember a day when it didn't rain on the picnic. It was held at the Bittinger fire hall. The picnic originated in the early 1900s and was held in the Brenneman Grove until the past few years. The barbecued chicken sold out early, along with a lot of other goodies. A rifle which was made by Bob Brenneman and raffled off by the fireman was won by Bonnie Tichnell.

I believe we remember our past and happy times through sunny lenses, except I can remember many very wet and muddy horse shows. But bad weather didn't deter me from wanting to go to them. It is hard to think that anything would get me out today, but apparently a good many of the people from Bittinger whom I tried to call today were probably at the fire hall for the picnic. My aunts always called the Bittinger Picnic the picnic, like there was not another picnic, except, of course, the Cousins' Picnic.

How can I pay attention to anything except having to send my first beautiful baby to college even if it is only to Morgantown? It is still too far for me, because a day without my Claire is day a without sunshine. It is only three days after her 18th birthday. She always has had a very hard head. When she was born her head was perfectly shaped, which made her delivery extra hard. She could crawl and walk very much ahead of schedule, so I guess it is no surprise that she still has a very hard head. She wouldn't listen to me about how smart a choice it would be to do her first year at Garrett College. But since she was a little girl she was always on the go. She climbed on top of the highest furniture that she could and then jumped off of it.

Her sisters and I got up very early on Friday morning to see her off. It is some comfort to me to know she has a good head on her shoulders and, I might add, a beautiful head. In one way she is not quite as lucky as I was when I went to college. I had a big brother and two of my closest friends from my class at Northern High School on campus with me. I had so many people from home and we never lacked a ride home for a weekend visit.

I thought of everything she could possibly need as I packed a mommy's box filled with little things a kid always asks their mommy to hand over instantly, such as safety pins, bobby pins, pony tail bands, band aids, white-out, a sharpener, extra pens and pencils, pain and cold relief medicines, and about a dozen of little slips of paper with messages about how much I love her and how wonderful a girl she is, and also some lipstick kisses. But somehow I forgot a big necessity – rain gear. She has no umbrella or slicker, nothing to keep her dry as she walks to classes, etc. Strange as it is to say, I did not have any rain gear in my college days, but I don't remember ever getting wet or needing an umbrella until I was living in New York City. But I just found out the true story about umbrellas and college students, as Doris Cooper's daughter told her only dorks use an umbrella anyway.

I guess I am being over critical of Claire's father in that he was the only parent to take her to Morgantown for freshman orientation and to move her into her dorm. If I were along at least I would know her address and maybe start a bank account for her there. I couldn't be more miserable to watch the rain just pouring down here, as I am sure it is raining in Morgantown.

It is hard to believe that it has been 18 years since I took a summer graduate school class in American Novels at West Virginia University while I was pregnant with Claire. I could barely fit under the desk, as they were not designed for pregnant women. It was pretty funny to me to hear my professor call me "Miss Sussman," in my interesting condition. What I remember of that campus was how hot it was.

One especially memorable day is when I wore my favorite maternity shirt with pink short sleeves. I stopped at a great ice cream shop on my way home and as I drove along the Interstate, I dropped a big chunk of chocolate ice cream on my huge belly. When I got home I had a message from Steve Herman, president of GCC, demanding that I come in for an important meeting, so I had to change my top and drag myself out to GCC. But it was not a meeting – it was a baby shower.

"BIGS," "LITTLES," STUDENTS, AND OTHER VOLUNTEERS recently staffed the Rotary French Fry trailer at the Garrett County Fair, thanks to a partnership between the Rotary Club of Oakland and Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Alleghenies Garrett County Branch. Numerous fair goers bought the Rotary's "world famous" fries during the event. Proceeds will benefit the local BBBS's School-Based Lunch Buddies and Community-Based Mentoring programs. A portion of the funds will also go toward the Rotary Club's Christmas Project. "School has started and many children are waiting for someone to come and have lunch with them every week," noted Shannon Brode, BBBS county coordinator. "There are also many children who just need a friend to spend a couple of hours with them every week. Would you like to be part of the challenge of mentoring and make a 'big' difference?" For more information, persons may call Brode at 301-334-3591 or 800-400-0735. BBBS of the Alleghenies Garrett County Branch is affiliated with BBBS of America and United Way of Garrett County. Pictured in the front row, left to right, are Trisha Lewis, Erin Gambetta, and Russell Sines. In the back row are Camille Spurr, Ed Spurr, Josh Gambetta, and Kevin O'Connor.

Even after Claire was born, she was not a stranger to the college campus because many days I had to take her along when I taught classes. She was not any trouble. The only problem she caused was just to select which girl or woman who had begged to have the privilege of taking care of her while I was busy in front of the class. One of my students included Caity's and Mere's 5th grade teacher, Angela Bittinger Rush, and Shelia Bender Miller, now the principal at Accident Elementary School. You would think after 18 years of preparation for this milestone event I would be more prepared emotionally. But I am not. I guess very few mothers are.

Believe it or not, Claire came home for a very quick trip on Saturday afternoon. She stopped by for only a few minutes before going up to Oakland to a girlfriend's birthday party. Still, we have to take what we can these days. As happy as I was to see her, Boo was even more happy. Claire looked so beautiful in her new pink WVU sweatshirt. Boo really does not know that her dear mistress is not just out in McHenry, but much farther away, and he will not see her everyday. Maybe it was sheer coincidence that the sun came out as soon as she walked in the door.

Heidi Hare and her foreign exchange student from Spain will also attend Courtney DeSimone's party in Oakland this evening. My siblings and I have many close friends from the southern part of the county.

I have sincere sympathy for the feeling of the thousands of mother who wave goodbye to their combat-bound sons. During World War I and II they had every reason to believe their sons would willingly defend them and their country and what it stands for in the world. This war in Iraq is a different story all together. I guess Gary Buckel tried to be funny when he told me to make sure Claire registers for the draft, which could be a real possibility for her and her two little sisters. In this war we lost our allies and the right to expect humane treatment of our troops who may get captured and be POWs.

I am very glad that Claire is college bound and not basic training. I am scared for her, as I know that even close to home colleges still have plenty of danger lurking for a young innocent girl and I wish I could be there to protect her. Good luck to all our college-bound students and the rest of the young people who will embark on their journey to adulthood this September. We will miss you, so please come back soon and often, and be safe and good while you are away. Make us more proud of you than we already are.

I recently mused about hair color in Bittinger and I realized how few red-haired natives were among Bittinger people. The only true red hair that I remember was that of Doris Cooper's younger brother, Sam Opel. Doris is really more of a strawberry blonde than a true redhead. Another of my peers was another Opel girl, June Opel, who was a NHS classmate of mine.

It seems that we have gotten plenty of precipitation since last winter, but I saw again today that Rock Lodge spring was not running. As usual, that worries me. Does that mean that our ground water supply is not as healthy as I believed? It seems very early to see so many colored leaves on our trees and also those on the ground. How fast our flowers are going away and being replaced by scary very early Autumn colored leaves! As fast as they appear they will also disappear, and everyone knows what that means: winter, snow, ice storms, etc. I would rather have lots of flowers of every color of the rainbow.

It is still family reunion season in Bittinger. Last Sunday the Opel clan got together at the home of Jack and Joan Beitzel. Jack's mother Leah was an Opel as was Mary Russell Brenneman. Mary enjoyed a weekend with her three daughters, Carolyn, Doris, and Ruth and their families. One of their girls took one of Mary's tiny, but very scrappy, dogs to the reunion and he picked a fight with a much bigger dog.

One thing I learned in my experience with animals is that size is not equal to tough. The most fierce guard dogs I know is the little long-hair dachshund belonging to Rodney and Marci Glotfelty.

My little horse, Little Joe, was only a couple inches above pony size, but he regularly out jumped and out ran much bigger horses.

Real Estate Facts by...

Jeff Hovis

WHAT DOES THAT OFFER MEAN?

How wonderful, you got an offer to purchase your home! Before you say yes or no or reply with a counter-offer, make sure your real estate agent explains the following terms included in the Offer To Purchase.

Obviously, price is important, but your bottom line may be affected by other terms of the contract. Never accept or decline an offer based simply on price. Take a very close look at any Contingencies where the buyers specify other terms for things like repairs or decorating allowances.

Does the Closing Date allow enough time to accomplish what you need to? This is different than the Date of Possession. Often the same as the closing date, it may be after or even before. Pay attention to the Contract Expiration Date, if there is one, specifying how long you have to consider the offer before it is withdrawn. Consider all offers seriously, and don't waste any time in responding.

Look at how much Earnest Money is being offered as a "deposit" towards the purchase price. Although not the most important aspect of an offer, you can usually assume that the higher the earnest money deposit is, the better qualified the buyers are to complete the purchase.

It's great when you have an Offer in hand, but it's better to feel you've made the best decision based on your understanding of all the terms involved.

If you'd like to sell your home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

Garrett Unveils ESL Program

An English as a Second Language (ESL) program is being planned by Garrett College to start in fall 2005, according to dean of academic affairs Dr. Virginia Broaddus.

"For some time we have been designing an ESL program that meets the needs of those in our community as well as those from around the world," Broaddus noted. "Aware that Garrett County and the surrounding region have a small but important international population, we wanted to accommodate the needs of local residents as well as those wishing to study abroad, making Garrett County their home."

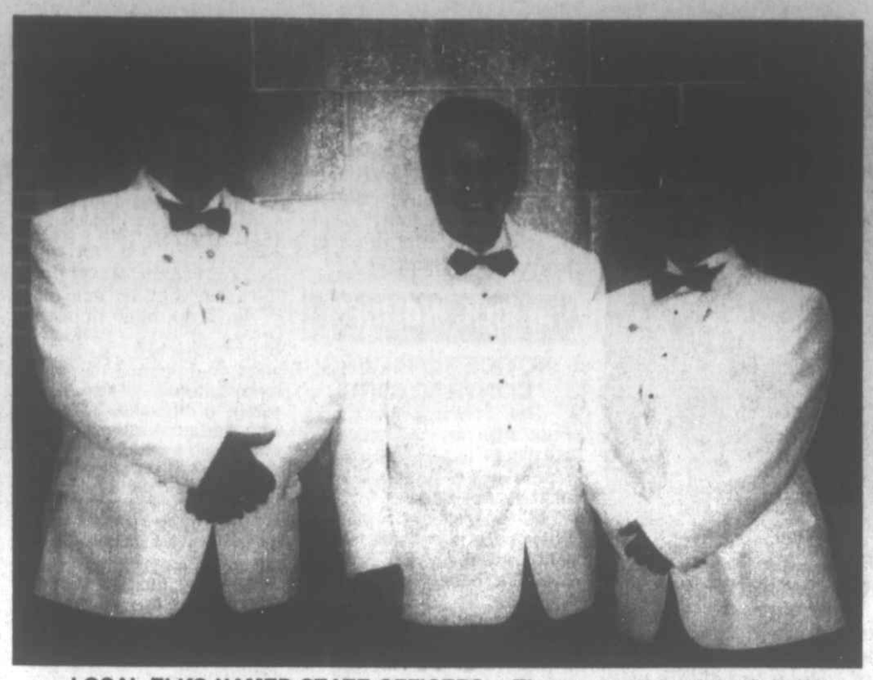
The ESL program is designed to strengthen non-native speakers' skills in using the English language. Multiple levels of instruction in reading, writing, and speaking English, along with English grammar, will be offered. Students will be able to progress steadily, as they build on their English language abilities.

To be admitted to the program, a student must submit a TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) score of 425 or higher, high school or college transcripts, and an original essay. Telephone interviews with designated college personnel will also be required.

Levels of instruction will be based on TOEFL scores as follows: Intermediate (TOEFL 425-449), Advanced (TOEFL 450-499), and Superior (TOEFL 500-549). Students who place into the ESL Superior level may take courses offered in the college's developmental language arts series. Learning support will be offered through the Integrated Language Arts Center, computer aided instruction modules and tutoring.

Broaddus, who has researched ESL at other institutions, cited the benefits of having an ESL program at Garrett: "Programs like ESL help Garrett College open windows to the world. By offering students the chance to strengthen their English language skills, GC in turn helps American citizens understand the changing nature of our culture – one in which global education plays a vital part. As we witness the world become an ironically smaller place, we feel an obligation to enable all citizens to play a vital role in their world. ESL is one way of meeting that obligation."

Anyone desiring further information about the ESL program may call the Student Assistance Center at 301-387-3010.



LOCAL ELKS NAMED STATE OFFICERS – The state convention of the Maryland, Delaware, and D.C. Elks Association was held recently in Frederick, where two members of Oakland Elks Lodge #2481 were installed as state officers for the coming year. James Stewart, left, was installed as vice president for West District and chairman for the 40-lodge Elks training course, while Sandra Brantner, right, was appointed chaplain. The pair are shown flanking state association president Carroll Wagner of Ocean City, who conducted the installation ceremony. Stewart, a charter member, past Exalted Ruler, and lodge trustee of the Oakland Lodge, has served as state membership and Americanism chairman, Tiler, and has conducted Elks training for the past two years. Brantner, past Oakland Lodge trustee, is the first female to be elected Oakland Lodge Exalted Ruler, and is also the first female to serve as a state officer for the six lodges of the West District. She has also served as past district deputy, and has served as district chairperson for the Elks National Foundation for the past two years.

I remember one day at the National Pony Club Rally in Bath, Ohio, when my teammate, a tiny girl who ended up as a jockey, was mounted on a huge long-legged 17-hand thoroughbred. She and I took our mounts on a quick early morning walk. Little Joe out walked big O'Rourke. His strides were actually longer than O'Rourke's strides.

Now back to some local news. Micah Plevayak will leave for Bologna, Italy, for a year's study. He has attended Dickinson College. He is a son of Vicki Teets-Talliferro and grandson of Dorothy Teets.

Jon and Eric Garlitz will be attending college at the University of Wyoming. They are sons of Nancy Garlitz and grandsons of Dorothy Teets.

Mike and Lea Pochet, Beavercreek, Ohio, were weekend guests of the Stanton, Beachy, and Poholsky homes. They are now stationed at Wright Patterson Air Force Base.

Rodney and Marci traveled to College Park on Sunday to take Robbie to college at the University of Maryland. This week he will attend band camp at the university prior to starting classes next week.

Beside Robbie and Claire, good luck goes to Torrey Poholsky and Brent Housley, who have also left for their various college towns. Also the best goes to Andrew Hady, who will be attending Garrett College, and the same for Derek Buckel, who will be joining the Coast Guard this fall. I am sure I missed many of the other students in the community, but don't have their names. Carla Buckel was home on Saturday from West Virginia University. She started her classes this past Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Harris, Radford, Va., were Friday morning visitors of Mr. and Mrs. James Wagner.

Ms. Sheri Brenneman-Bell of Lanham spent some time visiting relatives and friends and attended the Bittinger picnic. She also visited her parents homeplace, that of Homer and Janie Brenneman.

Marvin Beitzel has returned to the Cherry Hill Assisted Living Home on Aiken-Miller Road following leg surgery at Morgantown.

Mr. and Mrs. David Platter, Fincastle, Va., and Kathryn and Duane Glotfelty, Pittsburgh, were weekend visitors of Leora Yaste and attended the Bittinger Picnic Saturday and the Opel Reunion on Sunday.

Donations for the Dove Center will be collected at Emmanuel Lutheran Church. Items needed are listed on the church bulletin board. Those with questions may call Sally Poholsky.

Bill and Barbara Bass, Anderson, S.C., are visiting Kevin and Carol Bass and family this week.

WOW Lodge 45 will hold the ceremony at the Friendsville Community Park. The program will include the Accident Community Band in remembrance of local firefighters who have died. For more information, persons may contact Mary Frantz at 301-746-5331.

TWO COMPLETE GCMH SUMMER EXTERN PROGRAM – The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Nursing Extern Program welcomed two new participants this summer. Julie Davis, a nursing student at West Virginia University, and Ken Sapp, a nursing student at Fairmont State College, participated in the eight-week program. The program allows nursing students to work in the hospital under the direction of an experienced RN mentor during their last year of college and obtain valuable clinical experience and skills. "One of the goals of the program is to encourage retention among nursing education program graduates through the concept of paid work/learn practice experiences. We also want to encourage students to consider working in various healthcare positions," said Bethany Browning, GCMH education coordinator. "This is only our second year of the program, and already one student who participated became an employee at GCMH after her graduation." Program participants spend four weeks in the medical/surgical unit, one week in the Intensive Care Unit, one week in the operating room, one week in the emergency department, and one week in the Family Centered Maternity Unit. The externs are allowed to perform all aspects of nurses' duties with the exception of administering medication and starting IVs. Upon completion of the program, GCMH presented both externs with a $500 scholarship. The program accepts two externs each year. Among other requirements, applicants to the program must be currently enrolled in a program approved by a state board of nursing to prepare candidates for registered nurse licensure. For more information on the GCMH Nursing Extern Program, persons may contact Browning at 301-533-4318. Above, Davis, on the left, is pictured with her surgical services RN mentor, Peggy Riggleman. Below, Denise Liston, GCMH vice president of clinical services, on the left, and Browning, on the right, are shown presenting Sapp with his scholarship.

Travel Tips for Persons with Diabetes

If you have diabetes and are planning to travel, there are a few tips to remember to make your trip as hassle-free as possible. Awareness of heightened security measures taken at airports worldwide is a necessity, especially if you use insulin that must be delivered through a syringe. When traveling by plane, a note from your doctor describing the need for in-flight access to a blood glucose monitor, medications, lancets, syringes, test strips, monitor batteries, glucagons emergency kit, and food should be obtained before boarding. Always travel with medications in their original containers with prescription labels intact and readable. A note from a physician identifying all current medications can be useful. Whether traveling by air, car, foot, or even bike, a medical identification card stating that the bearer has diabetes should be carried at all times.

Consider packing twice as much medicine and diabetic supplies as you expect to need while away from home. Have a back-up plan if the bag containing all your diabetic supplies is lost or stolen. Advanced meal planning can be an excellent way for diabetics to avoid blood sugar problems while traveling. When traveling, insulin does not need to be refrigerated. However, avoid temperature extremes like those inside closed cars during summertime.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY

IN THE MATTER OF:
Cheryl Ann Goehringer
FOR A CHANGE OF NAME TO:
Cheryl Ann Landon

(DOM REL 61)

The above Petitioner has filed a Petition for Change of Name in which she seeks to change her name from Cheryl Ann Goehringer to Cheryl Ann Landon. The petitioner is seeking a name change because: I have recently adopted a daughter giving her my maiden last name and want both of us to use the same surname.

Any person may file an objection to the Petition on or before the 20th day of September 2004. The objection must be supported by an affidavit and served upon the Petitioner in accordance with Maryland Rule 1-321. Failure to file an objection or affidavit within the time allowed may result in a judgment by default or the granting of the relief sought.

A copy of this notice shall be published one time in a newspaper of general circulation in the county/city at least fifteen (15) days before the deadline to file an objection.

SUBSTITUTED TRUSTEES' SALE
OF VALUABLE FEE SIMPLE DWELLING PROPERTY
KNOWN AS NO. 2849 BROADFORD ROAD
OAKLAND, MARYLAND 21550-4330

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Danial A. Miller and Bonnie L. Miller to Craig Ingram, Trustee(s), dated December 18, 1998, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber No. 760, folio 182, and Declaration of Substitution of Trustees dated July 29, 2004, and recorded among the aforementioned Land Records substituting Thomas P. Dore, Mark S. Devan, Michael T. Pate, Jennifer Matthews Herring and Yona T. Openden as Substituted Trustees under the Deed of Trust aforesaid, Manufacturers & Traders Trust Company being the current holder of the Note(s) secured thereby, and default having occurred under the terms thereof, the undersigned Substituted Trustees will offer for sale at public auction, at the Courthouse door, Alder Street entrance, Oakland, Maryland, on Tuesday, September 7, 2004 at 2:00 PM.

All that lot of ground and the improvements thereon situate in Garrett County, State of Maryland, and described as follows: BEING all that property described in a Deed of Trust dated December 18, 1998, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber No. 760, folio 182.

The improvements thereon being known as No. 2849 Broadford Road.

The improvements thereon consist of a dwelling.

The property will be sold in "As Is" condition, subject to any existing building violations, etc. and also subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any. Neither the trustees nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any representation or warranties, either expressed or implied with respect to the property including without limitation, description, use, recorded or unrecorded leases or other occupancy agreements, if any, operating and management agreements, physical conditions or to the environmental conditions of the subject property.

A Statement of Mortgage Debt has been filed in the foreclosure case in the approximate amount of $65,000.00.

TERMS OF THE SALE: Cash or certified check deposit in the amount of $10,000.00 will be required of the purchaser (other than the above-named Holder) at the time and place of sale, balance in cash, immediately within thirty (30) days of the final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court of Garrett County, time being of the essence, and to bear interest at the rate of 8% per annum from date of sale to date of settlement. In the event the above-named Holder purchases the property at the sale as the high bidder thereat, no deposit will be required and the requirement of interest on the balance of the purchase price shall be waived. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of the interest. If the purchaser defaults, in addition to all other remedies including but not limited to attorney fees, the Substituted Trustees may declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney fees and all other charges due and incidental and consequential damages. Taxes, water rent and ground rent, if any, to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall have the responsibility of obtaining possession of the property. In the event the Substituted Trustees do not convey title for any reason, purchaser's sole remedy is return of deposit.

NOTICE OF REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS FOR ENGINEERING SERVICES

The Town of Loch Lynn Heights is in the process of obtaining engineering services to provide design, construction, and inspection services for the Loch Lynn Heights, Maryland, Wastewater Collection Lines Inflow and Infiltration Remediation Project. Professional services will include (1) design of system, (2) preparation of bidding and contracting documents, (3) participation in the evaluation of bids received, and (4) monitoring and inspection of construction activities to ensure compliance with plans and specifications.

All consultants interested in being considered for this project must submit three (3) copies each of (1) Letter of Interest, (2) Statement of Qualifications and Technical Expertise, (3) Experience of management and personnel who will be in charge of the project, (4) Examples of Previous Experience as it relates to the scope of services in this request for proposals, and (5) References.

The goal of the competitive process is to objectively select the firm that will provide the highest quality of service for the specified project. Accordingly, technical qualifications and experience will be weighed heavily. The firms judged most qualified will be invited to meet with the Loch Lynn Heights Town Council to discuss the project in greater detail.

Please submit all requested information to:

The Honorable Larry F. Friend, Mayor, Town of Loch Lynn Heights, Town Hall, 211 Bonnie Boulevard Loch Lynn Heights, Maryland 21550, no later than 3:00 p.m., local time, on Friday, September 3, 2004. Qualification packets submitted after this time and date will be returned to the submitting firm unopened.

Attention is directed to the fact that the proposed project is to be financed with various state and federal government grants and loans, and that all work will be performed in accordance with the regulations issued by those agencies. The selected firm will be required to comply with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Executive Order 11246, Section 109, of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1974, Section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, Conflict of Interest and Statement and Access to Records provisions and any other agency-specific requirements, and all other requirements as they relate to HUD-funded projects.

The Town of Loch Lynn Heights will afford full opportunity to disadvantaged and minority business enterprises to submit a show of interest in response to this invitation, and will not discriminate against any interested firm or individual on the grounds of race, creed, color, sex, age, handicap, or national origin in the contract award.

The contract will be awarded to the responsible firm whose proposal is judged most competitive and determined to be the most advantageous to the Town of Loch Lynn Heights. The Town of Loch Lynn Heights reserves the right to decline on any and all submissions. Additional information may be obtained by contacting Mr. Michael Mullan, the Garrett County Circuit Rider Town Manager, at 301-334-1979 or mmullan@garrettcounty.org.

Message from the Dean's Desk — Garrett College

Dean of Academic Affairs

With classes starting in just two weeks, lots of people have been walking down Garrett's hallways recently. It's wonderful to welcome them back for the school year's start or to greet them as they begin their education with us. In all cases, I'm reminded of how Garrett College's students come from all walks of life — and of how far they can travel during their time with us.

For students just starting the path toward college, Garrett offers a way to enhance their education. Each year, for instance, we register many students who are either enrolled in regional high schools or who are being home-schooled. In these cases, Garrett becomes a stepping stone to the next level of education. Our non-credit division's Community Music School offers music instruction for anyone from 7 to 70. It's a joy to walk down our halls and hear voices in song or the sounds of flute or piano, bagpipes, or guitar as students take private lessons coordinated by Jerry McGee, our music program administrator. For other home-schooled students, our credit courses such as biology or art are key to rounding out an education, and so we're pleased that instructors like Carolyn Deniker and Ron Skidmore can provide top-notch experiences preparing students for transfer. We're always proud when students like recent graduate Guy Stanton III, who came to us as a high school student, are accepted to programs like WVU's landscape architecture major. Max Yax, who came to GC as a home-schooled student from Tucker County, has also earned our applause with his acceptance at the Cleveland Art Institute and the prestigious scholarship he's been awarded. Students like Kris Gregory, who started at Garrett during the time that she was home-schooled and is graduating from Frostburg this December, make us proud, too. Kris is now hiking a new trail as she assists our with our AVS Backcountry Living Skills class. It's no wonder we're often in awe of the paths that high school and home-schooled students take, particularly when Garrett's a part of the course.

Naturally, our programs aren't limited to the young of age; they're also open to the young at heart. Watching seniors take advantage of Garrett's opportunities has been rewarding in more ways than one. I'm glad to remember how much some of our seniors have contributed in courses like American Literature and Introduction to Computers. People like Ginny Grove, who also teaches developmental English for us, have walked into retirement and made it a learning experience by exploring new concepts and then sharing their ideas with their classmates. This semester, we're glad we can offer those 60 and over a "free" Garrett experience: Seniors won't be obligated to pay tuition or fees for GC's courses. The benefits for all students are rich, indeed, as our classrooms come alive with voices and experiences from those who have walked unique paths in life.

"Roads less taken," of course, belong to many in our region, and those roads often have incredible rewards. We're very proud of students like Linda May Gerard and Nancy Feather, both of whom came to GC after some time away from school and have now earned bachelor's and master's degrees from West Virginia University. We're always glad to recognize those who have stepped away from a classroom only to return and, in the case of Linda and Nancy, gain "classrooms of their own" as adjunct faculty for Garrett's math program and WVU's sociology department, respectively.

In the next several weeks, I'll listen for many kinds of footsteps walking down Garrett's hallways. Some will belong to students finding their way to college for the first time; others will belong to students rediscovering the joy of learning in the leisure of retirement. Some steps will be taken by those seeking a new career; others will be taken by those in search of new knowledge. In the end, students take many different paths before finding their way to Garrett, where they can begin a new walk and even blaze new trails in the company of those who cheer them on as they achieve their goals.

Evening Hours For Registration Set At Garrett

With fall semester classes at Garrett College set to begin Wednesday, Sept. 8, extended hours for evening registration have been announced, according to a college spokesperson. Registration hours from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. will be in effect Monday through Thursday, Aug. 30 - Sept. 2; Tuesday through Thursday, Sept. 7-9; and Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 13 and 14. On the Fridays of Sept. 3 and 10, registration hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

For the second consecutive year, Garrett College has held the line at $76 per credit hour for tuition for in-county residents. High school students who enroll in college credit courses receive a 50 percent tuition reduction. Course schedules are available at the college and at all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library.

Persons desiring further information may call the Student Assistance Center at 301-387-3044.

Garrett Offering Seniors Tuition-Free Classes

Maryland residents 60 years of age or older will be able to attend Garrett College this fall semester without paying tuition or combined fees for credit courses, according to a college spokesperson. Individual course fees may apply.

Heretofore, tuition had been waived, but students were still responsible for the combined fee of $18 per credit hour.

Seniors will need to pay the $15 registration fee. They may register at the Student Assistance Center during business hours next week. Classes start September 8.

Depression Rate Is Highest In Garrett County

by Glenn Tolbert

A startling list of statistics revealing the depth of mental and physical problems faced by a significant number of Garrett Countians was released to the public Wednesday by two renowned sociologists from the University of Maryland.

Called "Garrett County Speaks: Improving Health and Well Being," the three year, ongoing study presented everything from sociological upheavals in local families because of low wages to the fact that Garrett County has the highest rate of depression – with mothers leading the statistics – than any other county in the state.

The change in family structures mentioned above is due to the fact that women generally are more employable in the county than men because they draw lower wages.

"This often leaves the woman working two to three jobs, while the man then becomes the primary care giver," said one of the presenters.

The presentation was made to leaders of local social work agencies, all of whom are facing budget cuts and some of whom expressed frustration at not being able to reach those in need.

Leading the discussions were Bonnie Braun, Ph.D. and Elaine Anderson, Ph.D. Using the term "food in-security" to mean there was not enough food in a GOODBYE, LAZY HAZY DAYS – It just doesn't seem right to be saying farewell to summer already, but that does seem to be the case, as August has passed and September is here. School is under way, as is soccer and football practice, homework, and yes, the fluttering of some colored leaves already. The Labor Day weekend is to be pretty in Garrett County, so everyone can take a few more dips in the pool or boat rides on the lake. Our southern friends are not so fortunate weather-wise, as yet another powerful hurricane is on the way, headed for Florida and the eastern shores again. The mountaintop may get rain from this one next week, so be sure to enjoy the outdoors this holiday while the weather holds. Photo by John McEwen.

KR Business Park Gets $442,955 Grant From ARC

The Appalachian Region Commission has approved a $442,955 grant to the Garrett County commissioners. The federal funds, along with $110,740 from county sources, will be used to construct a local access road into the newly developed Keyser's Ridge Business Park.

The new road will run approximately 0.20 miles from U.S. Route 40 into and through the park and is vital to the park's development. It is estimated that 700 new jobs will be created once the park is fully operational, according to Senator Paul Sarbanes, who made the announcement.

"These funds will help in the completion of a new comprehensive industrial park, which will serve as an incubator for job creation," said Sarbanes. "I'm glad to see that the Appalachian Regional Commission has continued to support job growth in our state's rural areas, as is evident in the Keyser's Ridge Business Park project."

"These funds are federal investment in jobs and infrastructure in western Maryland," said Senator Barbara Mikulski. "I will keep standing up in the U.S. Senate for projects that help western Maryland grow, and create jobs today and jobs tomorrow."

The Appalachian Regional Commission is a federal-state partnership "that works with the people of Appalachia to create opportunities for self-sustaining economic development and improved quality of life."

A HAPPENSTANCE REUNION between two high school pals took place recently on the other side of the world. Chris Menker (left) and Geoffrey Tressler "ran into each other" in Uzbekistan. Both young men are 2003 graduates of Southern High School and both are serving in the United States Army. "I couldn't believe it when I saw him," Tressler said. "And I hardly recognized him because all that long hair is gone." The meeting was short, as Tressler is headed to Kandahar (where the temperatures can rise to as high as 140 degrees in the sun, he noted.) Geoffrey, who e-mailed this picture, said that seeing a face from home was great. He is the son of Ken and Beth Tressler, and Chris is the son of Mel and Cathy Menker, all of Oakland. "There's one thing you realize over here is that your family is the most important thing in the whole world," Geoffrey said. "My family, especially my mom and dad, have always been there for me, and I'm grateful every day." Stay safe, boys.

GC Officials Discuss New Substance Abuse Treatment Plan For Offenders

Garrett County health officer Rodney Glotfelty reviewed the governor's new substance abuse treatment initiative with the county commissioners this week. Enacted by the Maryland General Assembly in the 2004 session, legislation established pre- and post-release programs for low-level substance abuse offenders.

"It's burdensome," said Glotfelty about the county's task to comply with the bill (SB 194/HB 295). He added that Garrett County may only receive $5,000 as a start-up cost for the initiative. "It's not giving us a lot of funding," he said. But the health officer stressed the importance of the programs.

The state's goal is to reduce the number of individuals with substance abuse disorders and to reduce the direct and indirect health and social costs of substance abuse to the individual and the community.

Studies show, Glotfelty said, that untreated drug and alcohol abuse leads to higher recidivism rates, unemployment, health care costs, and rates of spousal abuse, as well as increased criminal activities – such as theft, burglary, and robbery – for offenders.

"Treatment has been proven effective," he said. Money will also be saved in the long run, as it is cheaper to treat abusers than it is to incarcerate them or pay for the side effects of their untreated substance abuse.

Under the new legislation, inmates serving sentences for six or more months in local or state correctional facilities will be considered for parole to enter a drug treatment program if they have served at least ¼ of their sentences,

Train/Bus Accident Victims To Be Remembered Sept. 10

A monument erected in memory of seven Garrett County children who were killed in one of the nation's worst-ever train/school bus accidents will be unveiled and dedicated during a special ceremony on Friday, Sept. 10.

The event will be held on the grounds of the Amphitheatre Ticket House in Mtn. Lake Park on the 45th anniversary of the tragedy which occurred at the railroad crossing separating the towns of Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn. Killed in the accident were Nancy Deems, a student at Southern High School, and Janet Deems, Merle Harvey, Nancy Harvey, Shirley Lee, Richard Hinkle, and Lee Hoffman, all students at Dennett Road Elementary School. Many other children were injured, some critically.

According to Mtn. Lake Park Town Council member Donald Sincell, coordinator of the ceremony, a time of fellowship and refreshments will begin at 5 p.m. at the Ticket House, which is located just off Maryland Highway (Rt. 135) along G Street. The dedication ceremony will begin at 6 p.m. A bronze statue purchased by two sisters of one of the victims of the accident, with assistance from the town and various donors, will be unveiled during the ceremony.

Participating will be Rev. James F. Remley, who will provide prayer, scripture readings, and a message. Presenting music will be the Broadford Quartet, comprised of Dave Martin, Tim Miller, Carl Fike, and Jeff Fike.

Sincell said that a special invitation is extended to all family members of the victims of the accident, as well as emergency service volunteers, hospital workers, pastors, and school officials who served at the time of the accident. Invitations have been sent to all of the mayors and town councils in the county, as well as the Garrett County commissioners and others.

The dedication ceremony will include the laying of a specially designed memorial wreath, and all children who are either nephews,

GC Commissioners Approve Three Amendments To Water/Sewer Plan

The Garrett County commissioners unanimously approved three amendments to the county's water and sewer master plan on Tuesday, following a public hearing on the issue. The additions will allow a water tank in Accident to be replaced, upgrades to be made to the BFS Wastewater Treatment Plant at Keyser's Ridge, and Mountain Lake Park's sewer rehabilitation program to proceed.

Accident's current water system has been operational since 1976, and over the years its 265,000-gallon ground storage concrete reservoir tank has experienced numerous problems, Director Mark Tonkovich, Garrett County Public Utilities, told the commissioners. Though the town has repaired and maintained the tank, a recent inspection identified a major problem.

The concrete tank is continuing to deteriorate, as sections of concrete, some as large as 3 feet by 3 feet, have broken away from the steel reinforcement, Tonkovich said. The town is proposing to replace the concrete tank with a glass-lined bolted steel tank.

"This type of tank has had great success in cold weather climates similar to Garrett County's," the director noted. "The glass coating adheres to the steel and will not separate during freeze-thaw cycles, which is the typical problem with cold climate concrete tanks."

The second amendment will allow interim upgrades to be made to the BFS Wastewater Treatment Plant at Keyser's Ridge.

"The Keyser's Ridge Industrial Park has been targeted by Garrett County and a number of manufacturing prospects working with the Department of Economic Development as a potential site for a manufacturing facility," noted Public Utilities laboratory director/project manager Dale Baker.

As a result, the department contracted Thrasher Engineering to evaluate the existing Rotating Biological contractor Package (RBC) wastewater facility and provide a cost estimate for upgrading the facility to its permitted capacity of 14,000 gallons per day.

"The facility is currently operating a 2,000 GPD average daily flow," said Baker. "The treatment facility is antiquated and in need of improvements to accommodate the effluent requirements of the permitted flow."

Thrasher provided a cost estimate in May and recommended that the department obtain a discharge permit for Puzzley Run and construct an additional wastewater facility near the existing RBC site.

In July, Tonkovich met with the owner of BFS facilities, Marshall Bishop. According to Public Utilities officials, Bishop indicated that he did not have any problem with upgrades being performed to the facility or that additional real estate be purchased by the county and another wastewater treatment plant be constructed with discharge to Puzzley Run, as long as capacity was reserved for a truck stop that BFS intends to construct at Keyser's Ridge.

Preliminary planning limits for a discharge permit for Puzzley Run have been obtained from the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE), Baker noted.

Good Samaritans, Area Volunteers Spring Into Action To Save Family

Part II of III

"It happened so fast, six seconds maybe, I screamed 'Pete, look out!' Peter swerved to the right, and the car matched the move, then Pete swerved on the left, and the car matched that, and then there was a big boom..." – Kathleen Vinton

It was over in an instant, but the ordeal had really only just begun. Broken glass and spilled auto fluids were strewn across the eastbound lanes of Interstate 68 just west of Friendsville, where on that July night last year a tortured young man took his own life, and quite nearly all seven members of the Vinton with him in a purposeful head-on collision.

Charles Jackson lay dead in his stolen sedan, which was crumpled in a heap, and the airborne Suburban of the Vinton family came to rest on its side, as if it were a toy tossed and stomped by an angry giant.

Ten-year-old Andrew Vinton called forth from the back seat, "Is anybody dead?"

The surrealness of hearing her son say such a thing when surrounded by the cocoon of his family seemed to "snap me out of my daze and into an adrenaline rush," Kathleen Vinton said later.

"The air bags had gone off and I smelled something that may have come from the bags. I undid my seatbelt and crawled out through the broken windshield and collapsed, rolled over, and saw the devastation. I thought, 'The guy in the car must be dead,' then looked back at our vehicle and the first thing that came to my mind was, 'It would be a good thing if four of the seven people in our family

THREE-VEHICLE ACCIDENT INJURES TWO – Two people were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital Wednesday afternoon following a three-vehicle accident in front of Citgo on Third Street in Oakland, according to Oakland City Police. James Cecil Tucker, 58, Terra Alta, W.Va., and his wife Vivian were traveling southbound on Third Street in a 1994 Ford pickup and Betty Rae Paugh, 79, Oakland, was behind them in a 1998 Buick. Louise Wilson, 37, Oakland, was operating a 2003 Escape northbound and apparently crossed the center line, clipping the rear end of the Tucker vehicle, and hitting the Paugh vehicle head-on, police said. She was charged with failure to keep right of center. Paugh was trapped in her vehicle, and was extricated by members of the Oakland fire department. She is listed in critical condition, according to police. The Tuckers were not injured. Wilson was also transported to the hospital for her injuries. Traffic was detoured for an hour. weekend, deputies made numerous arrests during aggressive traffic enforcement.

Jamie Lee Shifflet, 21, Terra Alta, W.Va., was arrested for DWI on a bicycle and fleeing on foot.

James Henry Schmidt, 24, Swanton, was arrested for DWI.

John Lewis Armstrong, 48, Oakland, was arrested for DWI, driving without a valid license, possession of marijuana, and possession of CDS paraphernalia.

Destruction Of Property Incident Leads To Charge

An Oakland man who allegedly punched out a door window in his South Third Street apartment building Saturday was arrested on a destruction of property charge by Oakland police officers.

Charles French Stinson, 49, had been dropped off outside the building around 5 p.m., according to the police report, then yelled and cursed at the vehicle's occupants and at apartment residents who asked him to quiet down. The disturbance continued intermittently for the next two hours until, at approximately 7:15 p.m., a loud crash of breaking glass was heard at the entrance doors.

Police arrived to find a blood trail leading to Stinson's apartment, and he answered the door bearing a large gash on his wrist. When questioned by police, who noted that Stinson appeared to be highly intoxicated, he reportedly admitted to breaking the window.

Stinson, who refused all attempts at medical treatment, was later released from the Garrett County Detention Center on his own recognizance.

Party Leads To Drug Arrest

A Grantsville man faces drug-related charges filed by Maryland State Police troopers who broke up a loud party at the Meadow Lake Campground early Sunday morning.

Jamie Joe Mason, 30, was charged possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, and was later released from the Garrett County Detention Center on his own recognizance.

Troopers reported that a large crowd was at the campground pavilion when they arrived shortly before 1 a.m. While they were talking to the group, a trooper saw Mason step away and place an object near a rock, where a clear plastic bag containing suspected marijuana was subsequently discovered.

Peace and rest at length have come, All the day's long toil is past, And each heart is whispering, "Home, Home, at last."

Man Arrested For DUI After Single-Vehicle Accident

A Friendsville man was arrested after he was discovered approximately two miles from the scene of his overturned vehicle on White Rock Road north of Sang Run Road Friday evening, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Lucky Roy Calhoun, 48, failed a series of field sobriety tests, and was arrested for drunk driving. He was charged with driving on a suspended driver's license, driving on an out-of-state driver's license, driving while impaired (DWI), driving under the influence (DUI), driving an uninsured vehicle, speed greater than reasonable, and failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

No injuries were reported in the accident. Deep Creek firefighters and members of the Friendsville Rescue Squad assisted at the scene.

In a separate incident, Anthony Smith, 19, Morgantown, W.Va., was cited for failing to reduce speed to avoid a collision Saturday evening.

According to police, a soft drink bottle fell from the dash and lodged between the floor and throttle pedal of Smith's 1999 Chevrolet truck. The vehicle accelerated and struck the rear of another 1999 Chevrolet truck, operated by David Gump, 42, Moundsville, W.Va.

All parties refused medical treatment, police said. Deep Creek firefighters responded to the 6:48 p.m. scene.

Points to Ponder...

Labor Day — the unofficial end of the summer season in Garrett County. Unfortunately, the significance of the day is little more than a Monday off from "labor," as few really know the history of its founding. There is actually some confusion as to who did found the holiday over 100 years ago.

Essentially, though, it was a creation of the labor movement and is a day dedicated to the social and economic achievements of American workers, a national tribute to the contributions workers have made to the prosperity and well-being of our country.

This holiday brings to mind a recent editorial that appeared in the Standard Democrat, a newspaper that serves four counties in Missouri. The title is "Political Speeches Lack Real Substance," and among its points was how there is so much focus on relatively unimportant issues in the current presidential campaign. These issues include the gay marriage controversy, the 30-plus-year-old war records of Bush and Kerry, who should pay more and who should pay less in taxes, and which candidate's wife is more popular. The writer of the column, Michael Jensen, states that the candidates both tend to remain silent on many of the major issues, such as how to control medical costs and how to afford the numerous government benefits that are doled out to millions of people. He suggests that they remain silent because they are problems without a solution. He concludes his column with the following words that he would like to hear a candidate say:

"We have far too many people in this nation who are not pulling their weight. And we need all Americans who are able and healthy to produce their fair share of the labor that makes this nation so great. From this moment forward we will no longer subsidize those who are able to provide for themselves. We will no longer pay for a lifestyle that is slowly ruining the entire country. We will assure jobs to those physically and mentally able to work. These jobs may not be glamorous, but they will provide an income in return for a service. And through this process we will return self-respect and self-reliance to this nation."

An editorial by Bill O'Reilly released yesterday carries a similar theme. He criticizes both the Democrat and Republican parties in their attempts to prove which party is the most compassionate. He says that the Democrats have historically been big on giving Americans entitlements, with no discipline attached to the giveaways, "thus trillions of dollars have been wasted on programs that provided no long-term solutions."

He says the Republican Party has now "adopted the same kind of approach, promising Americans healthcare, drug subsidies, more money for education, and on and on and on."

He continues: "But the truth is that the federal government can't afford to pay your health bills."

He says that true compassion is telling people the truth about their situation.

"If you fail in school, you'll fail in life. The government will not help you. If you smoke, take drugs, or drink to excess, your health will fall apart and no amount of healthcare will prevent it. If you give birth at age 14, you'll be poor and so will your children. And no politician is going to change that…

"The federal government simply cannot afford to drag you through life… A compassionate politician will set up programs that encourage self-reliance, hard work, and personal responsibility in all areas."

Some excellent points to ponder for Labor Day.

To the Editor:

A recent quickening pace in downtown Oakland reminds us that there have been a number of changes in the 10 years since we came to town. Acquisition of the train station, development and continued enhancement of Dailey Park and the museum, Our Town Theatre, concerts at the Open Air Market, the steadiness and reliability of the Book Mark'et, offerings and activities of the Art Gallery, and the Englander and Alder Haus antique shops have given Garrett County visitors a reason to drive into Oakland. Now they visit LaDonna's Restaurant and, as of the last few months, the Antique Emporium – and they purchase things. And inevitably visitors look up at the beautiful dome of our court house and around at its surroundings and say, "What in the world happened?: They refer, of course, to the 1970s addition to the courthouse soon to be vacated. The cry is, "Tear it down!"

Those who object to tearing down the incompatible addition for monetary reasons should consider two things. First, how much would it cost to renovate that space for future use, and second, how much would the increased traffic of those seeking the charm of a small town with parks, beautiful old buildings, and open spaces benefit the town in the long run? Restoring this space of the courthouse would be a gift to those who live here and a beacon for those who would travel here. It would enhance the new and quickening pace already set in motion in Oakland. How could we put a price tag on this kind of progress?

To the Editor:

As we get closer to the election, the arrogance of this administration grows and grows. Confronted by the Olympic Committee to cease running an ad that is clearly in violation of Olympic rules (the one that shows the Iraqi soccer team and claims that two more democracies are able to compete due to the president's actions) the administration agreed last week to discontinue them – but not until the last day of the games.

Then, Major General Fay's report comes out on the prisoner abuse scandal and reveals that there are more culprits that the seven "rogues" that the president has claimed to be at fault. This report, resulting from the Pentagon's own investigation, claims that intelligence officers were involved and that as many as 30 more people, including high level officers, may face criminal charges.

Last week Bush's National Re-election Campaign legal counsel reluctantly resigns after admitting he was giving advice to the Swift Boat Veterans' anti-Kerry smear campaign; just as the president was vehemently denying any relationship between his campaign and that group of liars.

As if the above weren't enough to convince most reasonable voters that this administration will say and do anything to get re-elected:

The president proudly announces that he has created 1.3 million jobs, failing to mention the four million jobs lost during his first four years.

He proudly touts his tax cuts that is bringing prosperity to all Americans, failing to mention the 1.3 million new additions to poverty (bringing the total to over 36 million people in the richest country in the world) during the last 12 months.

He claims that his war in Iraq was a "catastrophic success." The military "won" it too fast to prepare for an orderly peace. Ironically, the military that won the war so fast was Clinton's military. It was Clinton's defense budgets and acquisitions that fought the war since Bush's first budget wasn't in effect in time to acquire any new technology to have any affect on our military strength.

After four years, we have more people in poverty, fewer jobs, more Americans without health care, the highest deficit in history, and a war based on erroneous and irrelevant intelligence. And Osama – remember Osama? He is still there, planning further attacks.

To the Editor:

First off, I would like to salute The Republican and the people of Garrett County and the surrounding areas for the wonderful letters I read two weeks ago. It is great to see other Americans feel the same way as I about George W. Bush and his administration.

I would like to especially salute Mr. Crede Calhoun, I felt his letter was very well written, and detailed some extremely important injustices that the Bush administration has been hiding, or misreading to the American public. It is up to us to always voice our opinions against a man like George W. Bush, and open the eyes of those who still support him.

But my letter today is in response to Mr. Clemens II's letters about presidential candidate John Kerry. I would like to note that Mr. Clemens is a former schoolmate of mine, and also class president of his graduating class. His political opinion I am sure is well thought out, researched, and I respect what he had to say, although I am sorry that I must disagree.

Mr. Clemens tried to say that John Kerry has made equally as many "stupid" remarks as President George W. Bush. This may be true. No matter how articulate somebody is, with the amount of media coverage a president gets there are sure to be the occasional slip-ups. Let's not forget how harassed former Vice President Al Gore (a man I believe to be the one that should be leading this country today) was when he made the now famous comment, "I invented the internet." While John Kerry may have made the statements Mr. Clemens listed in his letter, he never made an arrogant comment that may bring hardship to U.S. soldiers in Iraq to the extent of George W. Bush's comment, "Bring it on!"

While Mr. Clemens says George W. Bush supported our troops, I would like to know why families back home were holding bake sales to buy body armor for their sons and daughters fighting the war. John Kerry has never tried to make a connection between Saddam Hussein and Osama Bin Laden, a connection that any American who has monitored high-end news shows like "60 Minutes," or listened to news from outside the United States knows is incorrect. As a matter of fact Osama Bin Laden and Saddam Hussein are enemies.

Candidate John Kerry has never, in my opinion, lied in any way about his military service. He has never once used the "f-word" when talking to a senator, or having a discussion with a member of the media. Yes, his wife made the comment "shove it," but in comparison to what Vice President Cheney said, this is really nothing.

Bush is for the troops? Then why is morale in the military at an all-time low? Why are more psychologists treating post-traumatic stress syndrome more than ever? Why are soldiers from Iraq writing home begging their parents to vote against George W. Bush in the upcoming election? (Yes, I did get that from Michael Moore's film – an undisputable fact.)

Mr. Clemens, like all young Americans, has to remember one thing. George W. Bush's military is getting smaller, and military enlistments are down. This means one thing; if the war in Iraq and the other engagements this country is involved in do not end, there will likely be a reinstatement of the draft. This means that, yes, Mr. Clemens along with other members of our community may be forced by law to fight a war they are against and want nothing to do with. There is rumor that the Bush Administration has already introduced a bill that would re-instate the draft.

I for one agree with nothing that is taking place in Iraq today. I feel it an unnecessary engagement, and do not want to be forced by someone like George W. Bush to fight it. George Bush has had his four-year term and in my opinion has nearly devastated our once great country. Sure, John Kerry has made some stupid remarks – but at least on November 2 give him a chance to do better than George W. Bush has. Remember this; things really could not get any worse.

Thank You,
Jeremy Gosnell
Oakland

To the Editor:

I would like to respond to the letter by Mr. Ed Clemons II that appeared in last week's issue of your newspaper. In his letter, Mr. Clemons presents a list of 15 quotes which he claims are statements Senator John Kerry has made in recent campaign speeches. This list is presented as evidence that Senator Kerry is prone to making (in Mr. Clemons' words) "stupid statements."

Your readers should know that the quotes in Mr. Clemons' letter are not the words of Senator Kerry; they are all public statements made by former Vice President Dan Quayle.

For those who did not read Mr. Clemons' letter, here are the 15 "John Kerry" quotes:

1. The vast majority of our imports come from outside the country.
2. If we don't succeed we run the risk of failure.
3. One word sums up probably the responsibility of any governor, and that word is "to be prepared."
4. I have made good judgments in the past. I have made good judgments in the future.
5. The future will be better tomorrow.
6. We're going to have the best educated American

View from My Window

ONE FAREWELL

All good things must come to an end. Who said that first, I do not know. It has been true of every creaturely thing or enterprise since the fall of Adam and Eve from the estate of grace into the estate of sin.

Part of Christian teaching, however, is that what happens in time and space, here and now, is somehow connected to what happens in eternity. The testimony of the Bible is not singularly clear on how that happens, but that the connection happens is singularly clear. It is part of human hope and part of human fear.

Last Lord's Day I concluded a pastoral ministry of 21 years and eight months. My congregation and I approached the day with both celebration and sadness in our hearts. We spent most of the day exploring both our joy and our sorrow.

One of the hardest facts of life to discern is when it is time to leave. I have known for two years that that time had come, that I had done everything I knew how to do there, that it was time not only for me to move on, but also for them to have new pastoral leadership.

Part of the trick of a healthy good-bye is helping everybody to see how this is right and good for all. I needed to leave, but my congregation needed to see that I was leaving for good reasons, reasons for which they could rejoice both for them and for me.

My joy is a year in Paris, France, which begins in a few days. Their joy is the anticipation of a new pastor and new era of ministry.

When I began my ministry there I was 27 years old. Though it may not seem so to anyone who is that age, nevertheless, 27 is young. Today I am 49. Perhaps the perspective of time will reverse the judgment, but 49 does not seem young to me today. I have a strong sense of being very middle-aged.

The short of it is this: I have spent the majority of my adult life serving that congregation. Leaving there is a little piece of death. Both the celebration and the sadness had a slightly funereal quality to it. When it was my turn to say a few last words, I reminded those who had said so many nice things, "Don't forget, I'm not dead yet."

There is still time for me to make a mess of life, but the door is closed on making a mess in that part of my life. A good ending can redeem much of the middle, and we have had a very good ending.

Gift-giving made up a substantial part of our farewell. Most of that giving was from them to me. I admired the skill with which they gave gifts. The best gifts are ones which express the relationship of the persons in the gift exchange. My congregation gave me a variety of such gifts.

There was the gift of a beautiful meal after our morning worship. A footnote to my ministry has been encouraging healthier fellowship meals. The spread which they laid on had abundant fruits and vegetables and someone remembered my own preference for unsweetened iced tea.

The gifts also ranged from the ridiculous to the sublime. The leader of the congregation – she was their leader 22 years ago and she is their leader today – gave me an apron so I can keep all the great French food off my shirts and ties. She has had many occasions to watch me eat.

As to the sublime, the congregation presented me with a beautiful quilt, which they had made (partly as a Vacation Bible School project) inscribed with the 23rd Psalm (King James Version, of course) which has been a hallmark of my ministry.

There were several gifts of photographs, including a CD-ROM of pictures from the length of my ministry with the image of the church sanctuary copied onto the surface of the CD. Someone else gave me a copy of Holman Hunt's Christ Knocking at the Door, which I had discussed during a recent sermon on Revelation 3:20.

And they were generous, both as a congregation and individually, as they have been generous throughout my ministry there.

For my part, I had a gift for them. Two years ago I was in France on a pastoral sabbatical. I spent a week on the south coast of Brittany where I collected scallop shells from the beach. In France even atheists eat les coquilles de S. Jacques, the seashells of St. James. The scallop shell is the symbol of pilgrimage to St. James of Compostella in Spain.

I turned 70-odd shells into pilgrim necklaces last week. I blessed them with water my son and I had brought back from the Jordan River four years ago.

At the end of our final worship service together, after we had dined with the Lord in Holy Communion, members of the church community lined up to receive their pilgrim necklaces. As I placed the necklace on each one, I said, "Receive this sign of your pilgrimage into the holiness of Christ."

So a generation of life came to an end, but an ending for new beginnings.

Garrett County Youth Fare Well At Maryland State Fair

A contingency of 12 Garrett County youth traveled to Timonium last week for the Maryland State Fair and returned with a record number of awards.

The Maryland State Grand Champion Market Steer was exhibited by Randi Rodeheaver of McHenry. The steer weighed 1,389 pounds, and received a blue ribbon award for rate of gain with a gain of 2.6 pounds per day. It was named the Champion Crossbred Steer before being named the Grand Champion Market Steer. Randi sold her steer at the annual market livestock sale for $2.60 per pound to Sylvan Manufacturing of Oakland.

Randi also placed second in the 16-year-old Senior Showmanship category. She is the daughter of Don and Sharon Rodeheaver, and is a member of North Garrett FFA.

Tracy Bowman, Accident, was named State Champion Senior Showman, and also received the overall Grand Champion Showmanship award with her crossbred heifer. Her heifer was also named champion in the crossbred class. Tracy is a member of the Oak Hill 4-H Club and North Garrett FFA. She is the daughter of Ken and Robin Bowman.

Sisters Lacie and Becky Berkebile of Accident also showed their market steers and breeding heifers. Lacie's market steer placed first in its class and received a blue ribbon for rate of gain. Lacie's steer had the third highest rate of gain at 3.01 pounds per day. Her short horn heifer also placed first in its class, and Lacie placed fourth in the 18-year-old Showmanship class.

Becky's market steer placed third in the class and was awarded a red ribbon for rate of gain, with a rate of 2.3 pounds per day. Becky also placed sixth in the 15-year-old Senior Showmanship class. Becky's Simental heifer placed first in its class, and went on to be named Reserve Champion Simental Heifer.

Lacie and Becky are the daughters of Gary and Nancy Berkebile, and are members of the Oak Hill 4-H Club and the North Garrett FFA.

Michelle Holler, Oakland, showed a crossbred market steer that took first place in its class. The 1,144-pound steer gained 2.2 pounds per day and was awarded a red ribbon. Michelle placed third in the 15-year-old Senior Showmanship class. She is the daughter of Mike and Barbara Holler, and is a member of the Red House 4-H Club.

Randi, Lacie, Becky, and Michelle also exhibited their market steers in the county herd contest. The class consisted of four market steers and was judged for quality and uniformity of the four animals. The Garrett County group received second place for their entry.

Brothers Aaron and Levi Lantz and Catlin Carrico exhibited meat goats. Aaron's market goat, which weighed 78 pounds and was the third highest rate-of-gain animal, was selected Reserve Champion Market Goat. Aaron sold his goat Sunday evening at the annual market livestock sale for $3 per pound to Michael and Leah Birch, director of the Maryland 4-H Foundation. The animal was donated to the Maryland 4-H Foundation.

Aaron also exhibited four breeding does, which received two second places and two third places, and a meat goat buck, which placed first in its class. Aaron placed second in the Jr. Showmanship class.

Levi placed first in the Junior Showmanship class and received a trophy for Jr. Champion Showmanship. His market goat placed second in his weight class. Levi also exhibited four breeding does, which placed fourth, fifth, and sixth in their respective classes.

Levi and Aaron are the sons of Willie and Arlene Lantz, Oakland, and are members of Ryan's Glade 4-H Club.

Catlin Carrico exhibited four breeding does, which placed fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh in their respective classes.

Catlin is the daughter of Greg and Camille Carrico, Oakland, and is a member of the Oakland Oakleaf 4-H Club.

The Garrett County goat exhibit also received a trophy for winning the herdmanship award. The meat goat show has grown significantly in the past couple of years. This year there were about 60 market goats and 60 breeding goats, with 10 to 15 animals per class.

Ethan Broadwater of Grantsville presented his two Karakul wool sheep in the Registered Wool Breed division. He received first place for his senior ewe lamb and eighth in the junior ram class. He is the son of Mike and Lisa Broadwater and is a member of the Grantsville 4-H Club. The sheep were awarded to Ethan through the Youth Conservative Program for rare breeds of sheep.

Three Garrett County 4-H members participated in this year's State Engineering Events. Cain Strum received first place and was named Champion in the Jr. Division of the Small Gas Engine Contest. Cain had to take a test, identify engine parts, and give a visual presentation on small gas engines. Cain is a member of the Red House 4-H Club and is the son of Lowell and Tonya Strum.

Aaron Lantz placed second in the 10-year-old bicycle contest. He had to take a test of bike safety, identify bicycle parts, pass a safety inspection, and ride four different bicycle courses.

Eric Tichnell placed third in the Intermediate Division of the Lawn and Garden Tractor event. He had to take a written test, identify lawn maintenance equipment and parts, and drive an obstacle course. He is the son of Gary and Kate Tichnell, and is a member of Ryan's Glade 4-H Club.

The members of the Red House 4-H Club entered their Champion Garrett County Fair 4-H Educational and Promotion Booth, and was awarded a blue ribbon.

Nicole Harvey participated in the State 4-H Fashion Review on Sept. 1. Details were not available at press time. Nicole is the daughter of Scott and Sandy Harvey and a member of the Country Kids 4-H Club.

Adorable Adoptables

BOB THE TAILLESS TABBY IS LOOKING FOR A NEW HOME. Described as a calm friendly guy, Bob was given up by his owner. Also available for adoption from the Garrett County Animal Shelter is friendly gray male feline who was brought in as a stray. "He can sure purr!" said a Humane Society spokesperson. A very docile female beagle mix is also looking for a home. She, too, was a stray. Last week's collie mix was adopted, but the black Lab mix is still at the shelter. He was found in the northern part of the county and was wearing a collar but no identification. "Do you know who the owner is?" asked the spokesperson. "Remember if you get a pet, you are responsible for its welfare, which includes spaying/neutering, vaccinations, adequate housing, food, water, and loving care from you." The Human Society also reminds residents that the county requires that both dogs and cats be licensed. Tags may be purchased at the courthouse or animal shelter. Melva Jane Steyer Cator, 62, Montville, Ohio, died Sunday, Aug. 29, 2004, at the Hospice House of the Western Reserve in Cleveland, Ohio.

Born March 11, 1942, in Bayard, W.Va., she was a daughter of the late John W. Gay and Mary E. (Conway) Gay. She was also preceded in death by her two husbands, Lawrence Steyer and Robert A. Cator.

She was a homemaker.

Surviving are six daughters, Patricia Collins, Thompson, Ohio, Denise Sowa, Medina, Ohio, Judy Young, Thompson, Tanya Mier, Medina, Karen Lindermann, Roaming Shores, Ohio, and Kathleen Pniewski, Madison, Ohio; two sons, Ray Steyer, Perry, Ohio, and Karl Cator, Yorktown, Va.; one sister, Nancy Gay, Oakland; three brothers, Lloyd Gay, Robards, Ky., Roy Gay, Enterprise, W.Va., and Joseph Gay, Bayard, W.Va.; 19 grandchildren; and two great-grandsons.

A private family burial was held at the Garrett County Memorial Gardens, Oakland, with the Rev. William McCallister of Bayard officiating.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests that contributions be sent to Hospice of the Western Reserve, 5786 Heisley Road, Mentor, OH 44060.

Arrangements were under the direction of the Behm Family Funeral Home & Crematory, Madison.

KAZUKO Y. HAMILL

Kazuko Y. Hamill, 71, Oakland, died Monday, Aug. 23, 2004, at her home.

Born March 23, 1933, in Tokyo, Japan, she was preceded in death by two husbands, Crawford E. Booth, in 1973, and Judge Stuart F. Hamill Jr., in 1990.

Mrs. Hamill was a 1960 graduate of the Spencer School of Business, a member of the Garrett County Historical Society, the Oakland Golf Club, and past member of the Junior Woman's Civic Club.

Surviving are her daughter, Linda Beckman and husband Roy, Allison Park, Pa.; one granddaughter, Taylor Rachel Beckman; several brothers and sisters; and numerous nieces and nephews.

At her request, her body was cremated.

A memorial service will be held at a later date.

Inurnment will be in Oakland Cemetery.

The family requests that memorials take the form of contributions to the charity of the donor's choice.

Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, is in charge of arrangements.

Turkey Grower Organizers To Serve As AG Parade Marshals

by Jo Donaldson
Garrett County
Chamber of Commerce

Organizers of the first annual Garrett County Turkey Growers' Festival will serve as 2004 Autumn Glory Grand Parade Marshals at this year's parade on Saturday, Oct. 16.

"There are only a few of us left," said Loretta Opel, who helped prepare the turkey dinners and box lunches in 1954. She and Helen A. Glotfelty Booth are working with the Chamber of Commerce contacting other surviving members of the Turkey Growers or their wives to take part in celebrating the 50th anniversary of that first annual dinner.

Turkey dinners remained an important part of the early celebrations and the Autumn Glory Festival which began in 1967. The early dinner was considered a big success, with volunteers serving turkey dinners to 475 people. Many also sampled the smoked turkey, which was a new addition at that time.

Committee members for the Turkey Growers dinners included Chairman Gerald Glotfelty, Marvin Beitzel, Harland Bowman, Elaine Glotfelty, Robert O. Glotfelty, Roy Glotfelty, and John Reckner.

Wives of the Turkey Growers prepared the meal and 4-H girls served. Displays of both live and dressed turkeys were of interest to those attending the early events. People came to the dinners from New Jersey, Virginia, West Virginia, Washington D.C., Ohio, Pennsylvania, and all sections of Maryland.

John Holman of Friendsville won the dressed turkey door prize at the first annual dinner. The committee hired Dusty Shaeffer and three others for $50 to furnish entertainment for the evening. They also decided to give away a door prize of a 10- to 15-pound dressed turkey and a dressed turkey hen to the person, other than a member of the Turkey Growers, who sold the most tickets for the dinner.

Branded Gar (for Garrett County) and Land (for Maryland), the festival trademark was to feature a shield, torn open, revealing a turkey. Rev. Henry J. VonSchlichten, former resident of Accident, and Carlton Knox of Bittinger each received $50 for submitting the winning brand name and trademark.

The ladies menu committee decided to prepare a souvenir menu for the first annual festival. Besides featuring "GarLand" roast turkey, it included gravy, dressing, mashed potatoes, sauerkraut, cranberry sauce, and other items, still offered with current turkey dinners during Autumn Glory.

At this dinner, Walter W. Dawson was the toastmaster. Remarks were made by Earle R. Poorbaugh, director of information for the state of Maryland; Senator Neil C. Fraley; Delegates George E. Coddington, Harry C. Edwards, and Arthur H. Green; county agent John H. Carter; home demonstration agent Ethel Grove; assistant county agent James McHenry; and president of the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce Newton Coplin. Guest speaker was Dr. H. M. Devolt of the Livestock Sanitary Service.

The turkey growers also provided box lunches for the Autumn Glory Special. Visitors coming to Oakland on the B&O Railroad were given the lunches as they loaded buses to go to Swallow Falls. Opel remembers making the lunches in the Southern States building owned by Lowell Loomis, a Turkey Growers member.

Some turkey dinners were served at the Deep Creek Lodge in McHenry. "Then we sold tickets for Northern High autumn dinners," she said.

The turkey dinners were an on again-off again event until the Lions Club became involved in the 1960s, according to local historian John Grant. However, the idea of a large festival to attract visitors to the area remained popular and led to the start of the Autumn Glory Festival, which now attracts more than 60,000 in mid-October.

"It was a lot of work," said Deb Clatterbuck, director of tourism and marketing for the chamber, who remembers helping with Southern High School's turkey dinners in the 1990s.

Opel and Booth have been contacting other surviving members of the Turkey Growers, including Webster Brenneman, Blaine Glotfelty, Marvin Beitzel, Carlton Knox's wife Doris, John Reckner's wife Ida, Russell Teets's wife Dorothy, and Walter Bowman's son Sam. Those able will participate in the parade and Autumn Glory Kick-off dinner.

Other members of the Garrett County Turkey Growers in 1954 were Harold and John H. Bowman; W.E. Buckle; Austin, Elwood, Gerald, O. Dale, Kermit, Nathan, Roy R., and R.O. Glotfelty; Thomas B. Hagerman; Russell Klotz; Ernest Knotts; and Clarence Knox and Ralph Kolbfleisch.

This article is one of a series that will appear between now and the Autumn Glory festival. The Chamber of Commerce would like to hear from anyone who has other information or items from the Turkey Growers dinner or early Autumn Glory Festivals. Persons may contact Jo Donaldson at 301-387-4386 or jo@garrettchamber.com.

More information on Autumn Glory events will be posted at www.garrettchamber.com.

PREPARING FOR AG FESTIVITIES – Surviving members of the Garrett County Turkey Growers' Festival or their wives will take part in celebrating the 50th anniversary of that first annual dinner by serving as parade marshals at this year's Autumn Glory Parade on Saturday, Oct. 16. Loretta Opel and Helen A. Glotfelty Booth, pictured above, are helping the Chamber of Commerce contact other surviving members. They helped prepare the turkey dinners and box lunches in 1954. Below is the festival trademark, branded Gar (for Garrett County) and Land (for Maryland), and featuring a shield, torn open, revealing a turkey. See story.

7. I stand by all the misstatements that I've made.

8. We have a firm commitment to NATO. We are a part of NATO. We are a part of Europe.

9. Public speaking is very easy.

10. A low voter turnout is an indication of fewer people going to the polls.

11. We are ready for any unforeseen event that may not occur.

12. For NASA, space is still a high priority.

13. Quite frankly, teachers are the only profession that teach our children.

14. It isn't pollution that is harming the environment. It's the impurities in our air and water that are doing it.

15. It's time for the human race to enter the solar system.

On the "Urban Legends Reference Pages" at snopes.com, there is a list of Dan Quayle quotes. Thirteen of the 15 "John Kerry" quotes are in this list, in the same order of appearance. Therefore, I believe that the "John Kerry" quotes list is the Dan Quayle list abridged: the unusable quotes were dropped, and the remaining quotes attributed to Senator Kerry. To prove this assertion, here is the Dan Quayle quotes list in its entirety. The numbers after certain quotes refer to the matching quotes from the "John Kerry" list.

1. If we don't succeed, we run the risk of failure. (2)

2. Republicans understand the importance of bondage between a mother and child.

3. Welcome to President Bush, Mrs. Bush, and my fellow astronauts.

4. Mars is essentially in the same orbit...Mars is somewhat the same distance from the Sun, which is very important. We have seen pictures where there are canals, we believe, and water. If there is water, that means there is oxygen. If oxygen, that means we can breathe.

5. What a waste it is to lose one's mind. Or not to have a mind is being very wasteful. How true that is.

6. The Holocaust was an obscene period in our nation's history. I mean this century's history. But we all live in this century. I didn't live in this century.

7. I believe that we are on an irreversible trend toward more freedom and democracy – but that could change.

8. One word sums up probably the responsibility of any vice-president, and that one word is "to be prepared." (3 – the "John Kerry" list has 'governor' for 'vice-president.')

9. Verbosity leads to unclear, inarticulate things.

10. I have made good judgments in the past. I have made good judgments in the future. (4)

11. The future will be better tomorrow. (5)

12. We're going to have the best-educated American people in the world. (6)

13. People that are really very weird can get into sensitive positions and have a tremendous impact on history.

14. I stand by all the misstatements that I've made. (7)

15. We have a firm commitment to NATO. We are a part of NATO. We have a firm commitment to Europe. We are a part of Europe. (8 – the "John Kerry" list drops 'We have a firm commitment to Europe.')

16. I love California, I practically grew up in Phoenix.

17. A low voter turnout is an indication of fewer people going to the polls. (10)

18. When I have been asked during these last weeks who caused the riots and the killing in L.A., my answer has been direct and simple: Who is to blame for the riots? The rioters are to blame. Who is to blame for the killings? The killers are to blame.

19. Illegitimacy is something we should talk about in terms of not having it.

20. We are ready for any unforeseen event that may or may not occur. (11 – the "John Kerry" list drops 'may or'.)

21. For NASA, space is still a high priority. (12)

22. Quite frankly, teachers are the only profession that teach our children. (13)

23. It isn't pollution that's harming the environment. It's the impurities in our air and water that are doing it. (14)

24. [It's] time for the human race to enter the solar system. (15)

Quotes one and nine from the "John Kerry" list are not found in this particular Dan Quayle quotes list, but other versions of the list are out there (see below). Perhaps these two quotes can be found on one of them.

The snopes.com website indicates that the Dan Quayle quotes list printed above was last updated on November 11, 2000, and therefore has existed in its present form for at least that long. This fact by itself would rule out any of the quotes as being from "recent John Kerry speeches." The website also informs us that during the 2000 election campaign, "versions of this list with all the quotes mischievously attributed to [then] Vice-President Al Gore and [then] Texas governor George W. Bush also circulate around the internet." It's not surprising that it would be making the rounds during the 2004 election as well. I suspect that Ed Clemons got this list from a website without realizing that it had been falsely attributed.

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to clear this up.

Ms. Paugh Will Wed Mr. Brown

Linda L. Paugh and Bruce E. Brown, both of Oakland, announce their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Kenneth and Barbara Paugh Sr., Oakland. She is employed by Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The groom-to-be is the son of Dale and Shirley Brown, Oakland. He is also employed by Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The ceremony will take place Sept. 18, 2004, at Fairview Church of the Brethren, Oakland, at 3 p.m. A reception will follow the ceremony at the Elks Lodge in Oakland. Invitations will be sent.

Edgar Sines To Celebrate 90th Birthday Friday

Edgar Sines of Swallow Falls will celebrate his 90th birthday on Friday, Sept. 3. He was born near Lead Mine, W.Va., in 1914.

Mr. Sines married Peggy (Clouser) Sines and moved to Garrett County in 1945 after buying a farm near Swallow Falls. In addition to being a farmer, he was a coal miner and heavy construction worker/welder on many road-building jobs for S.J. Grove and other contractors.

He was a member of Local 37 Operating Engineers for 50-plus years. He is a member of the Oakland Church of the Nazerene.

Mr. and Mrs. Sines are the parents of six children: Rich, Walt, Steve, and Eddie Sines, Marilyn Friend, and Frani Grove. The couple will celebrate their 71st wedding anniversary on Jan. 27, 2005.

Persons who wish to send cards may do so at this address: Edgar Sines, 4284 Oakland-Sang Run Road, Oakland, MD 21550.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Three couples recently applied for their marriage licenses, according to David Martin, clerk of the Garrett County Circuit Court. One couple requested that their names not be published.

Douglas Gene McQuaid, 47, and Yvonne S. Keeley, 49, both of Lumberport, W.Va.

Charles Ryan O'Neal, 27, and Rhonda Carole Netzer, 28, both of Cumberland.

OTT, MPA To Host Two Concerts By Famed Pianist Franko Richmond

Renowned pianist Franko Richmond is returning to Garrett County for two concerts, co-produced by Our Town Theatre (OTT) and Music at Penn Alps. Both programs are being sponsored by David and Irene Eyer.

Richmond, an award-winning artist, plays a wide variety of both original compositions and popular favorites. His concert last September at OTT was met with praise, a spokesperson said.

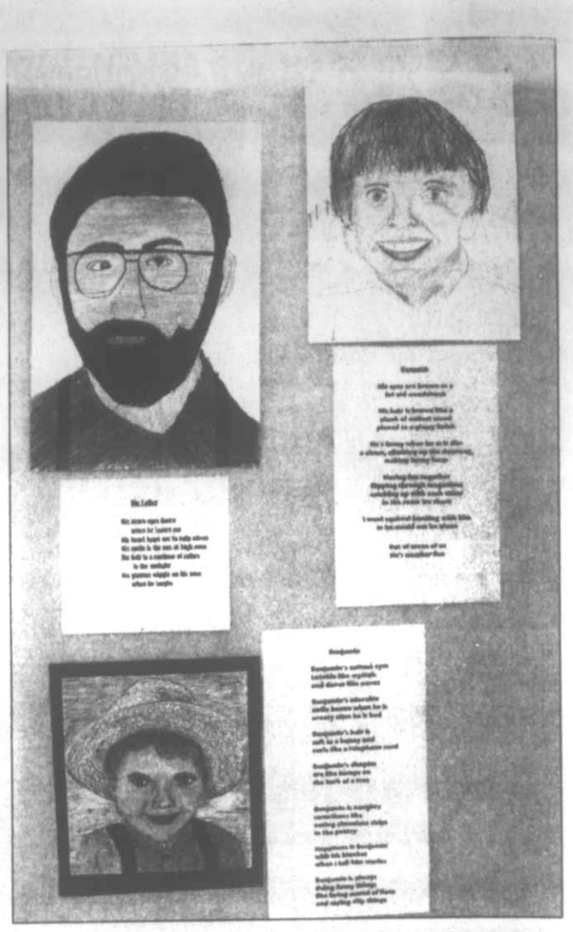
The first concert will be at Our Town Theatre on Friday, Sept. 10, at 8 p.m. The program will feature various musical styles, the spokesperson said. Richmond will play requests from over 50 selections in his repertoire, including show tunes, movie themes, Latin hits, and contemporary pop.

The evening will include a wine and cheese reception with the artist, sponsored by Garrett County's Firefly Farms.

Tickets are $15 and reservations may be made by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640. This concert is a fundraising event for OTT's proposed Backstage building.

The second concert will be at the Great Hall of Penn Alps, Grantsville, on Saturday, Sept. 11, 7:30 p.m. Richmond is the guest artist for the Schrock Memorial Concert.

The pianist's program will include both popular and original compositions, culminating in a performance of his internationally recognized theme, "The Time Has Come," featuring a local children's choir under the direction of Ellen Putman. This performance is presented in remembrance of the events of Sept. 11, 2001. Reservations are not needed, and patrons are requested to make a donation at the door.



PORTRAITS OF HONOR – Some special works of art by the 6th, 7th, and 8th grade students of the Swan Meadow School, Gortner, were on display recently at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. Last spring, the students worked with their art teacher, Ronnie DiGioia, and their language arts teacher, Liz Rees Gilbert, to create portraits and poems. The works were to be in honor of people they admired. DiGioia helped the youngsters create their colored pencil drawings, using photographs of their subjects. Gilbert said the project in the writing class was something special. "I loved working with the students on this project," she said. "It was so uplifting. And we had quite an assortment of subjects — grandparents, parents, siblings, and others. The project was inspired by the children's book "Grandpa's Face," by Eloise Greenfield and Floyd Cooper. Shown above is a salute of an especially cherished little boy, and at right are three more such tributes.

Yough Fest To Host Garrett Bill Of The Remedy, Smith & Roberts

This summer's Little Yough Music Festival wraps up tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 3, with a highly-anticipated double-bill concert featuring top home-grown acts The Remedy and the Smith & Roberts band performing at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion. Concertgoers should note that the show is slated to begin 30 minutes earlier than a previously advertised 7 p.m. start.

The free show concludes the eighth consecutive year of the highly successful Little Yough Music Fest series, which has gained a reputation for attracting some top talent from the U.S. and Canada to shows that invariably pack the pavilion with grateful music-lovers from throughout Garrett County and beyond.

The evening will kick off in high gear at 6:30 p.m. with The Remedy's driving rock 'n roll and wailing blues sound — featuring the Bittinger Brass — then around 8 p.m. Smith & Roberts' folk and bluegrass band will downshift to a somewhat more reflective pace. Many of the original compositions that Smith & Roberts will perform during its acoustic-based set appear on the group's new CD, by Accident, which has just been released this week and will be on sale at the show.

Tomorrow night's show could well prove to be the biggest one yet, as both bands have accrued rabidly loyal followings among their fellow Garrett County residents. Even if their live appearances are few and far between, it's quite possible that most readers of these words know at least one of the 14 musicians slated to take the stage tomorrow night as they hail from all corners of county. Although amateur by choice, the musical mastery of these performers bespeaks a performance history that in some cases stretches back to local grade school music bands and area grade school theater performances.

The night's openers, The Remedy, is a 10-piece band including guitarist and vocalist Jim Jones, an Oakland ophthalmologist; keyboardist and vocalist Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator for Garrett County; bass player and vocalist Mark Ashby, an electrical engineer in Fairfax County, Va.; and drummer Charles Walch, an Oakland surgeon.

The Bittinger Brass contingent of the band boasts trumpet player Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County's health officer; saxophone and clarinet player Gino Mauricci, an employee of FSCI in Oakland; sax and flute player Greg Was, chief financial officer for Garrett County Memorial Hospital; harmonica player and vocalist Fred Hazelwood, an Oakland dentist.

Fronting this armada of talented musicians are vocalists Janna Brown and Kimberly Grimm-Weimer. Brown is an Oakland audiologist, while Grimm-Weimer is a first grade teacher in the Garrett County school system.

Tracing the musical roots of such a large array is an exercise for a professional genealogist, but in summary the Remedy's roots can be traced in large part to the Apple Corps, a teen band organized in the late 1960's by Southern High School students Jones and Pagenhardt, along with two other SHS buddies.

The Apple Corps quartet played many local gigs, including the Friday night teen dances that used to be a regular feature of the Oakland Armory; sock hops in the SHS gym; and teen dances at Elk Garden High School and Parsons High School. Pagenhardt underscored the youthfulness of both the band and its audiences when he observed "When we started playing we were not old enough to drive, so our dads drove us all over the tri-state area."

Three other members of the Remedy are products of the Garrett County school system. Glotfelty was a member of the Northern High School Husky Marching Band; Ashby (younger brother of the Apple Corps bassist) is a Southern High graduate who has been plying his bass for 35 years; and fellow SHS alum Grimm-Weimer has sung and performed onstage since childhood, and is a former Miss Maryland.

Those individuals and the other highly accomplished musicians in the Remedy have a long history with their various instruments. They all are also in the midst of their respective successful professional careers, which pulled many of them from their music for a number of years.

The onstage thrill for several band members was rekindled through several years of playing "Bittinger Barn Parties," a local Labor Day tradition, where Glotfelty, Ashby, Jones, and later Mauricci, along with several other musicians, gathered to entertain the revelers.

After that, Was, Pagenhardt, and Jones began holding informal jam sessions in Was's basement. Some neighbors got wind of the talent in their midst, and two years ago they asked Jones to supply some music for a 50s-themed party celebrating the completion of their home renovation. As the story goes, Jones told them he'd bring a record player over to spin tunes, but surprised everyone by showing up with a full band that included Pagenhardt, Walch, and Brown. Word spread like wildfire in the wake of this spirited gig, and the group went on to play bull roasts, retirement parties, and other affairs as the current lineup coalesced.

"We're having loads of fun," Pagenhardt said recently. "This is a big stress reliever, and it's a lot of fun for our kids to see what all the old folks are up to."

Tomorrow evening's second act, the Smith & Roberts band, needs no introduction. The five-piece played for an enthusiastic overflow Yough Fest crowd last Labor Day weekend, and this year the band is ready for an even bigger show. The 12 songs from by Accident, their new release, were self-recorded and self-produced over the past year, mostly in Accident. Many of the selections were performed live by the band at last year's Yough Fest gig, along with a number of songs from their 1979 release, Buffalo Run, which will also be available for purchase at tomorrow's concert.

The only change to the Smith & Roberts line-up from last year is the replacement of drummer Alex Hicks. Loch Lynn area resident Fred Jacoby is the band's new drummer. Jacoby is well-known on the local music circuit, especially through his work as percussionist with the local Celtic group Sang Run, and as percussionist and a guitarist for the Jeff Gilbert Garage Band. The Potomac State College journalism professor has also performed in several productions at Oakland's Our Town Theatre.

Hickory Environ. Back-To-School Night Scheduled

A Back-to-School night will be held at the Hickory Environmental Education Center on Tuesday, Sept. 7, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

An overview of the center will be provided by Bruce Taliaferro, coordinator. A planetarium program titled "The Skies Above Hickory" will be offered by James Hart.

In addition, preparations for a 40th year celebration of the center in 2005 will be discussed, and input from the public is strongly encouraged.

"Show your support for the Hickory Environmental Education Center by attending this important event," said Taliaferro.

this year's concert series are F&M Bank, The Republican, 92.3 The Train, KHJ, 1050 AM WMSG, the Garrett County and Maryland State arts councils, the town of Oakland, the Greater Oakland Business Association, and the Oakland and Maryland Main Street programs.

Gold sponsors are Railey Mtn. Lake Vacations, Wal-Mart, Will O' the Wisp, WEPCO Federal Credit Union, and WQZK, while Silver sponsors are the Oakland Rotary Club, Terra Alta Bank, Miners & Merchants Bank, and an anonymous sponsor.

The highly successful Little Yough Music Festival, organized by Ken Perrin and local officials and businesspersons eight years ago, is a much anticipated summer feature that draws scores of music lovers to downtown Oakland. The fest could not be what it is without the dedication of a number of parties, according to Perrin.

"I want to thank all of the sponsors, volunteers, and Oakland's Main Street Manager and committees that help make this summer's event the tremendous success that it has been," Perrin commented recently. "The publicity through The Republican and Radio FX has been outstanding. This year has been very gratifying for me personally with hundreds of attendees telling me that they think the music selection this year was the best ever.

"As most people know, I have been doing this for eight years now and this year I think we had a tremendous mix of blues, acoustic rock, folk, and alternative country. The artists, without exception, loved playing in Oakland and love the attentive and supportive audiences. For that reason, The Little Yough Summer Music Festival has gained a national reputation for being a favored venue of acoustic music by singer/songwriters."

For further information on tomorrow's concert, or the Little Yough Music Festival as a whole, persons may consult the series' web site at www.littleyough.com, or contact Oakland Main Street Program manager Cherie Ross at 301-616-3026.

NHS DOGS PREPARED FOR THE HUNT – Hoping to continue the momentum from a 5-2 season-ending run last year after stumbling through an 0-3 start, the Northern High School varsity football team brings 10 seniors back from last season. The experience will come in handy against this year's powerhouse opponents, including Beall, the 1A state runner-up two years running. The NHS varsity and junior varsity are both pictured above. In Row 1, from the left, are Darrick Lowdermilk, Robert Stark, Michael Wolf, Eric Johnson, Dave Smearman, Jared Beach, Jeremiah Wilt, Ben Wagner, and Trevor Butler. In Row 2 are Brock Glotfelty, Nick Payne, Corey Yoder, Eric Diehl, Tyler Warn, Corey Carr, Keenan Kabell, Adam Rounds, Nick Ferrell, Eric Espada, and Dustin Platter. In Row 3 are Matt Mason, Jesse Storey, Anthony Lewis, Jeff Wilburn, Brandon Opel, Mitch Fost, Dom DiRienzo, Neil Kamp, Bryce Manges, Dean Rounds, Ben Diehl, Steven Taylor, Adam Rounds, and Tyler Masters. In Row 4 are Andy Ganoe, Blair Silbaugh, Jason Doerr, Aaron Menges, Trevor Warnick, John Andres, Rich Milton, Corey Diehl, Matt Artice, Steven Funk, Justin Carr, Justin Rosenberger, Garrett Gulledge, and Ryan Seaman. Not pictured are Colin Stallings and Chris Brenneman. The Husky dogs will be let loose on visiting Clear Spring in tomorrow night's season opener at the NHS stadium. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

NHS Ready To Release Its Hounds, Run Through Gridiron Opponents

Campaign Kicks Off Tomorrow at Home Vs. Clear Spring

The 2004 Northern High School varsity football program has high hopes for the coming season, which opens tomorrow night, Sept. 3, with a 7 p.m. homefield contest against Clear Spring. With the return of a number of the squad's top offensive weapons from last year – including area rushing king Michael Wolf – it's quite possible that the cheers from the Northern "Dog Pound" will reverberate throughout the Cove time and time again this fall.

SEASON PREVIEW

One point NHS head coach Phil Carr and his assistants have been stressing over this summer's practice sessions is the importance of a quick start. That lesson was brought home all too painfully last year, as the Huskies shot themselves in the foot with three straight losses from the outset, basically playing themselves out of contention early as other teams got a leg up on them. Carr rallied his troops as the campaign wore on, and the team mounted a gritty comeback to finish its season on a roll. Northern took five of its last seven outings – and four of its last five – to finish at 5-5.

"Of our five losses, four were to very strong squads that made the playoffs – Smithsburg and Beall in Maryland, and Keyser and Berkeley Springs in West Virginia," Carr said. "However, we didn't let those defeats get us down, and worked hard to get back on the winning track and stay there. We want to continue this year right from where we left off last year.

"We'll have our chance this season for revenge against the Mounties and the Indians, who will be two of the toughest teams we'll face in addition to Allegany and Southern."

The Huskies' vaunted wishbone option offense has the potential to return to the form that helped carry the program to an overall 28-4 mark from 1998 through 2000, when opposing defenses spent a good deal of their game time chasing NHS runners into the end zone.

With the entire starting backfield from the second half of last season making a return, along with a trio of experienced starters along the offensive line, Northern stands a good chance of keeping its scorekeepers mighty busy, despite the absence of graduating seniors and All Area offensive linemen honorable selections Chad Carr and Danny Ellis, as well as fellow graduates Jeff Yommer, Corey Fike, and Andrew Frantz. This year's NHS varsity roster boasts ten seniors, nine juniors, and four sophomores.

Wolf, now a senior, will be the leader of the Husky pack on offense again this season. A small (5-10, 165) but darting runner who has an uncanny ability to shoot through a sliver of a gap before it closes, Wolf took the area rushing title last year with a 160.2 yards-per-game average for a total of 1,602 yards. The performance marked the best running tally in Northern history, and it was the first time a Husky led the area in rushing. "We expected great things from Michael last season, and he exceeded our expectations," Carr commented of his 2003 Maryland All-State 1A/2A honorable mention selection.

NHS's starting backfield is rounded out by three fine athletes, each of whom also poses a threat to score on any given play. Twinned with Wolf at the other halfback spot is big senior Eric Johnson (6-0, 190), and that pair will line up behind junior fullback Tyler Warn (5-11, 185), a relatively small-statured blocking back who packs a proven punch.

As in past seasons, Northern's offense will run a complex scheme that will challenge its quarterback to make quick decisions. This year's highly mobile field general, senior Robert Stark (5-9, 150) has already proven himself up to the challenge by marshaling the Huskies through their strong showing of the second half of last season.

The power of a good offense comes from its line-

EVERY HUSKY TEAM HAS ITS MUSHERS, and the Northern High football program has one of the most experienced coaching staffs in the area. Most of the Huskies' coaches have been working together as a group for a number of years, a tribute to their cohesiveness as they prod their young charges through numerous hours of physical and mental preparation leading up to the 48 minutes of each week's game. Pictured from the left, in the front row, are assistant coach Joe McKenzie, head coach Phil Carr, and assistant Bob Moranduzzo. In the back row are assistants Jon Houser and Frank Ewing. Not pictured are assistants Greg Carr and Dan Vannosdein. The seven NHS coaches follow the vision of the old sporting maxim: "Sports do not build character – they reveal it."

With Good Off-Season, More Experience, Rams Optimistic

With a solid nucleus of returning starters, what could be one of the most talented offensive backfields in a number of years, and excellent work in this past off-season, Coach Fred Gregg, his team, and all Southern High School football fans are optimistic that the Rams will have considerably more opportunities to celebrate this year.

Three seasons ago the Rams got off to a rough start, but rallied in the second half of the season to earn a spot in the playoffs. They finished that year with a 6-5 mark.

However, the last two seasons have been nightmarish, as the Rams recorded only two victories in 20 starts with back-to-back 1-9 records.

While many variables factored into the Rams' struggles, Coach Gregg knew that the first and most important thing that his players needed to do was to refocus and recommit to the program, especially in the off-season. And that's precisely what the current team of Rams have done.

"This was one of our best off-seasons ever," Gregg said, "and I think the lack of success our past two seasons proved to the kids how important an off-season regimen is if you want to be successful on the field.

"Everyone — the players, the coaches, and the mangers — has really been working hard for the past nine months to get our program back on top," he said. "This commitment speaks volumes about our kids' work ethic, sense of commitment, and confidence.

"They are also one of the most coachable groups of kids I've ever had," he said. "They enjoy being challenged and then responding to that challenge."

Anchoring the team offensively this season will be six returning starters, including senior and three-year starting quarterback Cory Bosley (6-0, 155), and the team's top two rushers in juniors Andrew VanBogelen (6-1, 195) and Bret DeWitt (6-0, 163).

"With Cory's experience, intelligence, and athletic ability, he is the true field general," Gregg said.

VanBogelen was the area's fifth leading rusher as a sophomore, recording 719 yards on 131 carries in just seven games. He also had 161 return yards and 72 receiving yards.

DeWitt finished last season with 504 yards on 124 carries for a four-yard average. He returned 14 kickoffs for 319 yards.

"Andrew and Bret are both very talented, but different kinds of runners," Gregg said. "Andrew has the power to run inside and run over people, while Bret is more of a slasher with good speed and elusiveness, which gives us a nice combination."

Competing for time in the fullback spot are juniors Nick Gregg (5-10, 181) and David Reams (5-10, 160), and senior Michael Schmidl (6-2, 176).

"All three of these guys are doing well at being blockers first, and runners second," Gregg said.

Backing up Bosley at quarterback will be junior Jason Wakefield.

The eight-year coach was quick to point out that any backfield, even a highly talented one, is really only as good as the linemen in front of it.

"Controlling the line of scrimmage is a huge key to winning football games, and we haven't done a very good job of that the past two years," Gregg said. "But we are pleased with the personnel we have this year, especially some of the guys who moved up from junior varsity."

Brandon Manko, a 5-9, 196-pound junior, is the only returning starter, so Gregg and company will have to rely heavily on their new recruits, as well as some upper classmen who were second-team last year. These include senior Dustin Hoffman (5-11, 205), juniors Ricky Wotring (5-10, 230), Brandon McWilliams (5-10, 208), Gage Welch (5-10, 205), Matt Davis (5-10, 175), Drew Taylor (5-10, 239), Matt Kisner (5-11, 206), and sophomore T.J. Sisler (5-11, 219).

Two other offensive starters back are senior split end Brad Reese and senior tight end J.D. Plank.

Others vying for playing time on offense are Jeremy Gregory and Johnny Knox at tailback, Ryan DeWitt and Tyler Graham at split end, Anthony Schrock and Jeremy Glotfelty at slot, and Nathan Harris and Chris Miller at tight end.

Another gaping hole in the Ram program was that of the defensive unit, which allowed an average of over 33 points per game last year.

Anchoring the up-front personnel will be Plank at end and Manko in the interior, both of whom are returning starters in those positions.

Returning linebackers are VanBogelen and Gregg, and a returning secondary starter is Brad Reese.

Competing for time at defensive end along with Plank are Reams, Harris, and Davis, while Hoffman, Kisner, McWilliams, Taylor, Welch, Wotring, and Logan Osekowski are all attempting to join Manko on the line.

Expected to start with VanBogelen and Gregg at linebacker spots are Schmidl, Knox, and Miller. Others working to secure spots in the secondary, along with Reese, are Ryan DeWitt, Graham, Bret DeWitt, Glotfelty, Gregory, Schrock, and Doug Upole.

The kicking and punting will once again be handled by Bosley and VanBogelen.

Gregg said the team goals are the same as always: have a winning record and make the playoffs.

"We've worked very hard. We're motivated and we're optimistic," said Gregg.

TOUGH OPENER

The Rams will get no break whatsoever in their opener this Friday night when they host St. Vincent Pallotti, a private school located in Laurel.

"This is a very tall order for us, right off the bat," Coach Gregg said. "This could be the most athletic team on our schedule. At least they rank right up their with Fort Hill and Allegany."

St. Vincent is led by an experienced senior quarterback in Kevin Olive (6-3, 200).

"This guy has a real command of his offense," said Gregg. "He has very good moves and can throw the ball."

Olive's favorite target is senior Jim Jennings (6-3, 215). "He is a private school state wrestling champion," Gregg said. "He has good hands, he can jump, and he can flat-out fly."

The two rushers that the Ram defense will have to worry about most are senior fullback Dustin Meeham (5-9, 185) and junior halfback Trevin Parrish (6-1, 195).

"Meeham is a strong inside runner and a good blocker," Gregg said. "He also starts at middle linebacker.

"Parrish is a real speedster."

St. Vincent uses several offensive formations, including the I, split-back, and some wing-T.

Their 5-2 monster defense usually features a blitzing back almost every play.

"They are quick, aggressive, and very good hitters," Gregg said.

"We simply can't match up with them speed-wise," he said, "so the keys for us will be to control the ball as much as possible, have no turnovers, and do everything we can to keep their backs contained when they have the ball. If they get outside on us, we'll be in trouble.

"This is the kind of team against which you can make nine great defensive plays, but then make just one mistake and they are in the end zone."

Assisting Gregg again this year are Tom Bosley, Jim Bosley, Greg Tressler, and Rick Wakefield, plus Dave Bosley, who "came out of retirement" after being a member of the Ram staff for 24 years. New assistants this year are Steve Savage and Greg Cartrette.

Friday's kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

Oakland Youth Football Squad Swept By Keyser

The Oakland Rams of the Cumberland Area Youth Football League dropped a pair to visiting Keyser, as the Division I team fell 47-0, and the Division II Ram squad was downed by the Steelers in a 19-6 defeat.

Keyser's Division I squad jumped out to an early 22-0 lead in the first quarter, and added six points in the second stanza, twelve in the third, and seven in the fourth. Oakland's Ryan Fitzwater and Seth Hinebaugh were noted for their efforts on offense, while Bubba Shockey was singled out on the defensive side of the ball.

The Rams 13-point loss in the Division II game featured strong showings by Alec Holloway and George Scheffel.

Car Wash Set As Fundraiser For SHS Girls Soccer

The Southern High School girls' soccer team will host a car wash fundraiser on Sunday, Sept. 5. The girls will be washing cars at two locations: Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland and the F&M Bank in McHenry.

The car wash will begin at 10 a.m. and run until 5 p.m. All donations will be accepted and will go toward defraying costs to the team this season.

In Loving Memory of Our Dear Dad

Raymond H. Schlosnagle

We knew it was just a matter of time until God would call your name. In life we loved you dearly, in death we do the same.

It broke our hearts to lose you, but you did not go alone; for part of us went with you, the day God called you home.

You left us peaceful memories, your love is still our guide, and though we cannot see you, you are always at our side.

Our family chain is broken and nothing seems the same; but as God calls us one by one, the chain will link again.

Sadly missed by your children, Shirley, Sandra, Rebecca & Spencer and families

Young Husky Duffers Show Promise Despite Slow Start

The Northern High School golf team traveled to Rocky Gap State Park Tuesday to take on host Fort Hill, a much larger 2A school, and Frankfort. The Sentinels took the triangular with a team score of 183, while NHS placed second with a 215, and Frankfort brought up the rear with a 227.

Low medalist honors were shared by Northern's Michael Bergstrom and Fort Hill's Travis Bothast and Corder Phillips, who each carded a 42.

Graduation claimed three senior starters from last year's team — Andrew Hady, Jason Rice, and Ben Hannibal, and NHS has only has two seniors on its roster this season, returning starter Bergstrom and classmate Ben Margroff. That pair, along with juniors Matt Margroff and David Vagnetti, form the nucleus of a promising program, according to Husky coach Warren Glotfelty.

"Having Michael and Ben back is one of our strengths this season," Glofelty said. "Losing three starters will test our new starters David Vagnetti and Matt Margroff, because they haven't had a lot of competitive playing time in the past. However, it will be fun to watch them and the rest of the guys progress through the year. Our freshmen show a lot of talent and desire, and we look forward to working with them over the next few years."

This afternoon Northern is slated to take on Keyser and Frankfort in a triangular on the Polish Pines course. The Huskies will visit Preston Wednesday.

NHS Ready

men, and NHS has some Clydesdales in the traces this year. Junior center Corey Yoder (6-1, 170) will take care of snapping duty, a tough but vital job that seems to draw attention only when something goes amiss.

Flanking Yoder on either side will be senior guard Ben Wagner (5-10, 225) and junior guard Eric Diehl (5-11, 195), and the draft horses continue to expand down the line as senior tackle Trevor Butler (5-10, 255) and junior tackle Anthony Lewis (5-11, 250) serve as some big bookends for the interior of the unit.

With quick, strong hits and fleet-footed movement at the core philosophy of Carr's wishbone scheme, each offensive lineman will be expected to "head'em up and move'em out" when Stark spurs his backfield herd in motion. Helping Northern's rolling thunder mow down the corners to spring the ballcarrier will be tight ends junior Nick Payne (6-1, 175) and sophomore Brock Glotfelty (6-2, 205).

"Offensively we should be pretty good if we don't turn the ball over," Carr predicted, adding that his major worry is a lack of depth beyond the backfield's starting line-up. Should two of the three starters pull up lame, the squad may have to do some scrambling to fill the void.

Northern's defense is also hoping to make a return to glory, and assistant coach Frank Ewing and his "Grave Digger" unit are ready to man the spades. Northern's defense gave up an uncharacteristically high 26 points per game last season, far above what it had relinquished in previous years when the Grave Diggers earned a reputation as one of the stingiest units in the area.

The Huskies' front five are anchored by last year's All-Area honorable mention defensive lineman Butler at nose guard. The hefty line also features two big defensive tackles, senior Jared Beachy (6-0, 235) and either junior Adam Rounds (6-1, 225) or Diehl. Defensive ends senior Jeremiah Wilt (5-9, 195) and Wagner are charged with containing outside scampers by opposition quarterbacks as they and their fellow linemen work to collapse the pocket.

The key to NHS's defense is a set of speedy and smart linebackers who will have to punish their prey. This season's NHS's linebacking corps features Wolf — who plays a "deep linebacker" post that is every bit a roaming safety position as it is a linebacking slot. Wolf led last year's defense with 78 often bone-jarring tackles. He will be joined by another hard hitter in Warn and sophomore Corey Carr (6-0, 205), who has the size to make his presence known in no uncertain terms. The defensive backfield is composed of Johnson, Payne, and Stark, with Wolf making numerous forays into the secondary.

"Defensively we have some shoes to fill," Coach Carr stated as he drew a line in the sand at the unit's feet. "We'll have to get better as we progress through the season.

"Our goal is always to win," Carr continued to say of the squad as a whole. "Getting back to the playoffs is our main objective this year. Our kids have been very focused thus far even though we had distractions with the passing of my mother. I am extremely pleased how our seniors stepped up during my absence from practice, and everyone is really excited about starting up against Clear Spring tomorrow night in front of our home crowd. It should be a beautiful night for football, and we hope to have a great turnout to support our guys."

SEASON OPENER

Tomorrow night's season opener against Clear Spring is a debut in more ways than one, for it marks the first varsity football contest for the Washington County school. The 1A school has joined the ranks of the Monocacy Valley Athletic League, one of the top small school conferences in the state, and the Blazers will be looking to get off on the right foot against the host Huskies. Clear Spring is coached by former Bishop Walsh skipper John Wilson, who is known for an airborne coaching style on offense that produced some fine seasons for the Spartans.

Northern's coaching staff, which scouted the Blazers Saturday during a scrimmage at South Hagerstown, is expecting Coach Wilson to spread his offensive unit across the field with up to five wide receivers who will be running a number of timing patterns. Clear Spring will use a shotgun formation to take advantage of the strong arm of quarterback Tyler Braithwaite (6-1, 195). The Blazer field general has a huge target available in the form of tight end Bryce Sigler (6-3, 245), while a good bulk of the blocking will come from offensive tackle Cory Bush (5-9, 290).

"Our defensive linemen, especially our ends, are going to have to apply pressure to Braithwaite," Carr remarked. "We also have to have our secondary step up their play a notch, with tight coverage and hard hitting. Robert Stark, Mike Wolf, and the others will have to intimidate their receiving corps from the outset."

The Huskies' offensive game plan is set up to face a 5-3 Blazer set that features a number of blitzing linebackers. "We've prepared for them in this week's practices by having Stark work on his pre-snap reads of the defense," stated Carr. "If he sees a blitz coming, he'll be ready to audible at the line. Our offensive guys are going to have to be sharp to keep up with his calls, but we think we're ready.

"The biggest difference between our two teams is speed, which we think comes down in our favor. They may be bigger, but we know we're faster, and we're going to have to play smarter than they do. Teams that throw the ball a lot risk two big problems — they have trouble controlling the clock, and they can make costly mistakes real quick. They may get off a big play now and again, but if we hang in there and play our style of game, we can pound out some long scoring drives and keep the ball out of their hands. That will be the key to the game," the Huskies' skipper concluded.

WISP TURNS IN FINE HOT STOVE CAMPAIGN – The Wisp Hot Stove Baseball League squad finished just shy of the summit of the 2004 summer circuit, dropping a 5-4 title contest to Corbin's Electric last month. The Garrett County team recorded marks of 20-3 overall and 5-2 in the playoffs, both of which matched Corbin's tallies. The Wisp unit is shown above, and sitting in foreground is batboy Alex Smith. Kneeling from the left in Row 1 are Matt Sisler, Jeff Smith, Dustin Stough, Jared Rodeheaver, Ed Herpel, Garrett Gulledge, Eric Espada, and Justin Rosenberger. Row 2: Patrick Brady, Ed Lytle, Matt Watson, Dom DiRienzo, Scott Bass, Brent Butler, Jared Lapp, and coach Kevin Bass. Row 3: coach Bill Southerly, Tyler Southerly, head coach Greg Carr, Corey Carr, and coach Ray DiRienzo. Wisp's dominance of the league was evidenced by the team's .351 batting average as the squad outscored its opponents 226-48, and recorded 230 hits to the opposition's 76. Top hitting stats were compiled by Corey Carr, who batted .650 with 47 RBI, three home runs, and three triples; Patrick Brady, .452; and Dom DiRienzo, .384 and 14 doubles. The pitching staff gave up an average of just three hits per outing, limiting opposing lineups to a miniscule .152 average, and chalked up a team ERA of 1.65. The top hurlers were Carr, who went 10-1 with a 1.54 ERA while whiffing 115 batters in just 68 innings; and Matt Sisler, 9-2, 1.27 ERA, with 81 strikeouts in 55 innings.

Oakland's State Title Hopes Plucked By Purdue Chicks

The Oakland Oaks had numerous opportunities to grab the Maryland Semi-Pro state crown Sunday, but the Purdue Chicks kept slipping free from their grasp to eventually claim the title with a 3-0 victory. Oakland loaded the bases in three separate innings, and both times came away with nothing to show for its efforts.

Purdue opened the scoring on the Brunswick High diamond by reeling off a pair of runs in the top half of the leadoff stanza. Despite drawing seven walks, and two Purdue fielding errors, Oakland's batters never really got on track during the nine-inning contest.

The Oaks had a golden opportunity to score big in the fourth, when Tobi Stoner led off with a single and Jeremy Fitzwater and Mike Arvizo drew successive walks. Oakland's scoring hopes evaporated, however, as Purdue pitcher Bramer settled down to strike out the next three batters.

The Oaks loaded the bases again in the eighth inning with two outs showing, but another clutch strikeout by the Chicks' hurler kept the goose egg in the Oakland scoring column. One other inning ended with Oaks perched on all the bases, but no score to show for it.

Overall, Bramer held the Oaks to just four singles, which were punched out by Stoner, Fitzwater, Arvizo, and Jamie Clark. A southpaw, Bramer whiffed 16 Oaks with a quick running fastball that tailed away from Oakland's right-handed batters.

Dan Vagnetti tossed a fine game for Oakland, working the first 7-plus stanzas, giving up just five hits, and striking out four while walking one. Fitzwater came to the mound for relief duty in the eighth inning, and gave up one hit the rest of the way.

The Oaks – champions of the 2004 Pen Mar League – finished 23-14.

SUMMER'S BACK WITH GOOD SAILING

by Dan Muss

This has been the coolest August I can remember at Deep Creek, but last week we had pleasant highs in the 70s. The weatherman called for light air on Saturday, so I turned down the offer of a third crew, which I regretted later.

The wind was just about as good as it gets on Deep Creek Lake. The principal race officer (PRO) set a good, traditional course through the slot. The marks were windward, gybe, leeward, windward, leeward, and finish to windward. We were up on the gunwale most of the time and the puffs were easy to handle. But after a great start we slipped to third by the first downwind leg. We sailed in close to the Turkey Neck Shore with fearless crew Marilyn Filemyr flying the spinnaker for the first time. We were moving nicely, but the fleet in back of us rode a big puff on a plane down the middle of the slot and passed us. It was not our finest hour, but, as usual, we had a good time.

The teams sailing the second race did not have as much luck with the wind; the PRO had to shorten course to get the boats across the finish line.

On Sunday the forecast was for heavy air with storms off and on all day. But when we got to the club it was dead calm, with some black clouds off to the southeast. The PRO postponed for 30 minutes while we heard thunder rumbling off to the southeast. We were on the point of giving up when the PRO decided to go after the postponement. My team hesitated, but then decided to go too. The committee had made a good decision; the wind picked up and they got a good, short race in before the storm hit.

We were quite late getting the boat rigged and, with the air still quite light, barely made it to the starting line in time for the start. As we approached the committee boat, "Nemesis" gave us the course designation. We had only enough time to give the committee our number and make one turn around the boat as the starting horn went off. But it turned out by some lucky happenstance to be a perfect start at the favored end of the line and on the starboard tack.

We even had Rissell at the start, but he was first around the windward mark. With our regular middle crew, Sue Case, our spinnaker was up in a jiffy and we held our second place until the final upwind leg. We got close to Rissell, but he covered us and we could not catch him. As he approached the finish line a puff hit them and they came very close to capsizing... just short of the line. They recovered, however, and won.

Next weekend, the Commodore's Cup!

have not committed violent crimes, and are determined to be amendable to treatment.

Defendants will also be offered drug or alcohol treatment as an alternative to criminal prosecution, providing that they are evaluated and found amenable to treatment, that an appropriate treatment program is recommended, and they consent to disclose treatment information to show their compliance. Defendants will also be required to pay an administrative fee of $150 into the newly established Maryland Substance Abuse Fund.

New state and local drug and substance abuse councils will be established to oversee the treatment programs. The law requires that local councils consist of a health officer, social services director, juvenile services director, state's attorney, public defender, sheriff, board of education president, county commissioner, district court judge, and circuit court judge. Designees from those departments may be appointed in lieu of the directors and other officials.

Glotfelty noted that the already established Garrett County Alcohol and Drug Abuse Advisory Committee could be recruited to fulfill the council requirement, as the membership includes representatives from most of the required departments. Additional representatives could be added to the committee, rather than starting a entirely new group from scratch.

The law also states that local plans be established that include strategies and priorities for meeting identified needs of the general public and criminal justice system for alcohol and drug abuse evaluation and prevention and treatment services.

The plan also must include a survey of all state, federal, local, and private funds used in the county for the treatment services. The local council or committee will help establish the plan and oversee the grant funding.

"They're asking the committee to do a lot," said Glotfelty.

Additionally, the Garrett County Health Department will be the local administrator for the programs. The health officer said it was not something it relished doing, but he did not know what other department would have the available staffing and services to provide the administrative oversight. Glotfelty noted that the local Department of Social Services already had much to do.

Glotfelty said he would draft a letter to send to the governor about the county's intention to designate the Health Department as the administrator and the Garrett County Alcohol and Drug Abuse Advisory Committee as the local council. Meetings will be held with the committee members to provide them with information about their new role, to see who wishes to continue serving, and to get suggestions on new members.

The county must present the local plan and the names of the advisory committee members to the governor by the end of January.

Accident Victims

nieces, or cousins of the victims of the crash, as well as the children and grandchildren of survivors of the accident will be invited to help place the wreath.

The idea for erecting the monument was that of Florida resident Heather Davenport and Holly Hoffman of Carlisle, Pa., both of whom are sisters of crash victim Lee Hoffman. The Mayor and Town Council of Mtn. Lake Park supported the effort and has nearly completed site preparation for the monument. A number of local businesses, organizations, and individuals have made financial contributions to the effort.

Assisting with the planning of the dedication is Karen Reckner, special events coordinator for the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

"It is extremely important to us, the members of the Mayor and Town Council of Mtn. Lake Park, to our residents, and especially to the family members of these seven children that they are never forgotten," Sincell said. "This monument, placed in such a serene setting in the park, will do a lot toward meeting that commitment."

Persons who wish to make a financial contribution to this project are invited to make out checks to the Town of Mtn. Lake Park, designate them for the Memorial Project, and send them to the Mayor and Town Council, P.O. Box 2182, Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550. All contributions are fully tax-deductible.

Deer-Miss Slightly Injures Driver As Vehicle Hits Tree

A McHenry woman who swerved to miss a deer while driving along Sang Run Road Tuesday was injured when her small SUV struck a tree instead, according to the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police.

At approximately 2:41 p.m., Jennifer Mary McDonnell, 24, was eastbound approaching Hoyes Road when she hit a pine tree while trying to miss the deer. Her 2002 Geo Tracker then traveled across the road and hit an embankment off the westbound shoulder.

McDonnell was transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries that police said were not life threatening. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the scene.

No charges were filed.

survived this.' And I started to pray."

The answers to Vinton's prayers began arriving within one minute, in the form of three passing motorists who stopped to do whatever they could.

The trio of Good Samaritans could not have been more heaven-sent, as they were Mike Kerns, a Cumberland Fire Department medic; John Gall, a West Virginia state trooper; and Elizabeth Cease, a trauma nurse with a medevac helicopter service based out of Morgantown. The three were the first wave of a torrent of support that washed over the Baltimore County that night, and throughout the 13 months since.

"Mrs. Vinton and a couple of the kids were crawling out of the Suburban when I got there," recalled Kerns, the only one of the trio available to speak about that evening's events. "A couple of other cars stopped at the same time, including Mrs. Cease, and I started triage – prioritizing the victims by the severity of their injuries.

"It was one of the worst accidents I've ever seen," the 15-year fire department veteran stated.

Meanwhile, Kathleen Vinton helplessly "watched the rescuers bring my kids out one at a time and laying them next to me. I didn't see Pete anywhere, and I thought to myself, 'He was such a good father.'

"It was devastating, but I was calm because of the prayers, the Hail Marys; the kids were praying with me," the mother of five said. What she couldn't see was that Peter Vinton was alive, but partially pinned under their 2-ton Suburban.

Within moments Maryland State Police trooper Steve LeMay, who had hurtled down westbound Interstate 68 from the other side of Friendsville in a desperate attempt to stave off the collision, arrived on the scene.

"It looked like a war zone," said LeMay, who had begun mentally preparing himself for the worst when he heard the words "collision" and "entrapment" come across his police radio just before he arrived at 10:41 p.m. "All five kids were already lying in the grass of the median strip by the guardrail, with their mother. Several motorists had stopped and were already administering first aid and comfort to the Vintons, including the father, whose right leg was pinned underneath the front passenger door of his vehicle.

"The Chevy Caprice had heavy front-end damage, and the car had hit the Suburban so hard that the Caprice's rear axle had come off. The driver was pinned inside; I checked for signs of life, but couldn't find any. The floorboard of the Vintons' Suburban had come up to the bottom of the seat cushion. It could have been much, much worse than it was."

As LeMay began securing the accident scene, units from the Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department were closing in fast from the east. "We weren't sure of the extent of the situation, other than there was a report of an entrapment," Friendsville fire chief Terry Spear recalled. "We were all going over in our minds what we would have to do.

"What sticks in my mind as we rolled up was the sight of the kids lined up on the grass in the median," Spear stated. "They appeared to have been properly moved, with spinal alignments maintained."

A layer of fog prevented the response of a medical helicopter, which would have been summoned for Peter Vinton, who was lying facedown out the passenger side of the Suburban. Friendsville medic Mike Hoover said. "He was lucky that he wasn't bearing too much weight of the vehicle because of the shape of the door and window. He was conscious the whole time and in a lot of pain," he said.

"The father was badly injured," concurred Trooper LeMay, "but he kept asking, 'How are my wife and kids?' It was the same with Mrs. Vinton. She was very worried about her kids, that she couldn't get and tend to them. That's when I saw the most amazing thing. There were several women volunteers who had arrived with the fire and rescue units, and the 'mother in them' began to come out as they cared for the kids, and that comforted Mrs. Vinton greatly. It was something to see."

As incident commander, Spear was making lighting decisions that meant life or death. "We had to stabilize the Suburban and get it off Mr. Vinton. We got our low pressure bags under it and expanded them to lift the vehicle off him, then cut the roof's A-post and peeled the roof back," said Spear. "Mr. Vinton was talking," Hoover added, "but when we began to cut the roof back in order to extricate him he began yelling. That got the kids, who could hear everything, a little upset and agitated, so we decided to move them out ASAP."

"We got to work, and called out all Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad units we had to join the Friendsville squad, and began coordinating with the Bruceton Mills Ambulance Service for another ambulance," said Spear.

"Everything fell together perfectly, it couldn't have gone better," the Friendsville fire chief said. "That was so important, because this accident had the most injuries we had seen in the Friendsville area in approximately 20 years."

The efforts of the numerous passerby and volunteers saved her family's lives, Kathleen Vinton said, adding "When we were being put into the ambulances, I asked the paramedics to pray for our family.

"I know they did, and I thank them, and everyone who came to save us that night."

As the doors closed on the ambulances, the Vinton family's journey was only just beginning.

household to plan meals, Braun and Anderson made dramatic statements, such as: of low-income persons in Garrett County, 50 percent were food insecure.

Garrett Countians were found particularly vulnerable to food insecurity, even though someone in the household was employed, "because their incomes were inadequate to meet basic needs."

Among the items that mothers had trouble paying for, food ranked at the top, while clothing and dental care ranked a close second and third.

Listed under Key Finding #4 was the headline "Food Insecurity is Associated with Depression and Poor Physical Health." The sub-headlines were bulleted:

•As food insecurity increases, levels of depression increase.

•As food insecurity increases, poor physical health is more likely.

•As economic well being decreases, physical health decreases.

Garrett County was also listed as having the most chronic health problems in the state, with mothers having the most problems. Garrett County mothers reported that 40 percent do not have medical insurance, while 38 percent of their partners are also uninsured.

While no numbers were available for specific mental illnesses, Braun and Anderson said their study indicates that Garrett County has abnormally high rates of bipolarism (manic depression). They gave no reason for the findings.

In a presummation to the report, the study found that Garrett County citizens are vulnerable to health related-disease, disability, and death associated with overweight, poor nutrition, and lack of physical activity. Obesity costs Marylanders $368 million in Medicare expenses and $391 million in Medicaid costs, according to the report.

On a cheerier note, the study found that those with social support, such as families and friends, are economically better off, have lower rates of mortality, and are less likely to have mental and physical problems.

The ongoing study concluded that Garrett County needed more better paying jobs with benefits. The rest of the solution was addressed to social agencies, and urged such things as "customizing services for families" and increasing availability to nutritious sources of food, while improving access to physical, dental and mental health care.

will be working with Public Utilities to design and construct a new wastewater facility near the existing RBC site to provide for maximum build-out wastewater flows from the industrial park and proposed BFS truck stop, he added.

Thrasher provided an amended environmental report to Public Utilities on July 21. Baker said this report would amend the original one presented by Earth Tech, which was prepared with the intent to construct pump stations and a force main to pump the wastewater to Grantsville's wastewater plant at an estimated cost of $2.8 million.

"The interim upgrades to the existing plant at BFS and the design and construction of a new site in proximity to BFS will cost the department and consequently taxpayers less," Baker said.

On July 21, the MDE requested that signs be posted on the existing wastewater treatment plant property abutting Route 40 and Puzzley Run. This indicates that an application for a discharge permit has been filed for an average discharge permit of 50,000 GPD of treated domestic wastewater into Puzzley Run, downstream of Lake Louise, Baker said.

The tentative schedule for the project is as follows: study and preliminary design phase completion, Oct. 20; final design phase completion, Nov. 17; completion of bidding and negotiations, Dec. 15; and construction completion, Dec. 21, 2005.

The third amendment will allow Mtn. Lake Park to proceed with sewer system rehabilitation work. In July of this year, the town was awarded grant and loan funds through the state's Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program, the Public Utilities officials noted.

This funding will be used to replace portions of the sewer collection system in need of repair to minimize infiltration of surface water into the sewer system and finally reduce flows at the treatment plant. The town will contract and manage the repair work.

According to Public Utilities, the funding for repair and replacement of the town's sewer lines is provided from the following sources: $600,000, CDBG; $100,000, MDE; and $100,000, Mtn. Lake Park.

Maryland Leads Region In SAT Test Results, Verbal Up 2 Points

Maryland SAT results jumped two points in verbal to 511 and remained steady in math at 515 as the number of test takers (68%) in the state increased for the fifth straight year. The state's scores on both the verbal and math sections continue to exceed those of the other states in the middle states region, and the math score was in the top three in the country among states with at least the same participation rate.

Over the past five years, Maryland's verbal score has increased by four points and the math score by six points as the percent of test takers has continued to climb, particularly among minority students. The state's verbal and math scores have increased three of the last four years with the verbal score going from 508 in 2001 to 511 in 2004 and the math from 510 to 515 as the number of test takers increased by 4000. Among the state's recent graduates, the number of Hispanic students taking the SAT increased by 14.6 % and the number of African American students by 9%.

The SAT is the most important college entrance exam for Maryland seniors, with 68% of the class of 2004 taking the test. Maryland's net verbal and math score is the fourth highest in the country among states with similar or higher participation rates, attesting to how well prepared Maryland students are for college, according to a spokesperson for the Maryland State Department of Education.

Maryland students continued to show outstanding results on Advanced Placement (AP) exams as well, as both the participation among ethnic groups and the number of exams receiving grades of three to five – the highest levels – increased for at least the third consecutive year.

The College Board, which administers both the SAT and AP programs, recently honored State Superintendent of Schools Dr. Nancy S. Grasmick and Maryland for leading the nation in increasing the participation of public high school students in the AP program. AP courses expose high school students to college level course work and rigorous standards. Many colleges use the results of AP exams to award college course credit to entering students.

"It is clearly evident that our emphasis on higher expectations for all our students is making a difference," said Dr. Grasmick. "The work we have been doing to strengthen our curriculum, to provide good instruction based on standards, and to put support systems in place is helping all our students, and particularly our minority students, be more successful academically and perform at the higher levels we expect of them."

For at least three years, Maryland has seen increases in the number of minority students taking AP exams and increases in the number of exams receiving higher scores, demonstrating that it is possible to increase the number of test takers and improve scores at the same time, said Grasmick.

Twelve percent more students took AP exams in 2004 than did the previous year. The number of exams taken increased over 15% and nearly 14% more exams received a score of three or better.

Among minority students, 14% more African American students took 15% more exams, and nearly 18% more of their exams received a score of three or better.

CERTIFIED AS "SAFE SITTER" INSTRUCTORS – Two more individuals have been trained by the Safe Sitter Organization to teach young adolescents about safe babysitting techniques. The sitter program is sponsored by Garrett County Memorial Hospital (GCMH). The new instructors, both of GCMH, are Kathy Greaser (left), director of development, and Linette Sines (right), marketing and development specialist. They join GCMH Wellness Coordinator Judy Simson (center) as safe sitter instructors. "By having three certified instructors, GCMH can now offer the program to larger groups," said Sines. Dr. Patricia Keener, an Indianapolis pediatrician, developed the program after a friend's toddler choked to death while in the care of an adult sitter who didn't know what to do. The goal of the program is to reduce the number of avoidable and unintentional deaths among children being cared for by babysitters. Instructors give students hands-on practice in basic life-saving techniques so they are prepared to act in a crisis. Instructors also teach safety and security precautions, such as what to do if a stranger comes to the door, and when and how to call for help. They give information on child development and suggest age-appropriate activities, and also teach sitters about the business aspect of babysitting. To successfully complete the safe sitter program, participants have to pass both a practical and written test. For more information on GCMH's Safe Sitter Program, or to schedule a program for a specific group, persons may contact Simson at 301-533-4295.

Public school graduates in Maryland typically request their SAT scores be sent to over 2,500 colleges and universities in the country with the University of Maryland College Park topping the list. Maryland public school graduates in 2003 received nearly a half-billion dollars in scholarships and grants.

Arthritis Group Seminar Slated

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Arthritis and Fibromyalgia Support group will be holding a free seminar titled "Transforming Pain into Optimal Health" on Tuesday, Sept. 7, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the GCMH community services building. The speaker will be Rick Wilkes, president of Thriving Now, LLC.

There is no charge to attend the meetings, and all ages are welcome. To register attendance, persons are asked to call Vicki Insley at 301-334-9767.

Northern Senior Receives Garrett Coll. Scholarships

Northern High School senior Randi Rodeheaver has been awarded two scholarships by the Garrett College Foundation (GCF) to continue her education at Garrett College this fall, according to GCF executive director Bretta Reinhard.

Randi received the Garrett College Agriculture Club and the Ronald Hugh Sisler Memorial scholarships. Her college major is agriculture management technology, and she hopes to have her own club calf operation one day.

Randi is slated to graduate from Northern next spring. An active member of FFA, she has served the organization as reporter, treasurer, and president. She is also a member of the Garrett County Livestock Association, and in her free time she enjoys showing cattle and riding four-wheelers.

Randi is the daughter of Donald and Sharon Rodeheaver of McHenry.

SHARPIE 500 REVIEW

The SLUMP comes to an end

Earnhardt back in Victory Lane, points race tightens

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Bristol, Tenn.

Dale Earnhardt Jr.'s runaway win in Saturday's Sharpie 500 at Bristol Motor Speedway made his midseason swoon seem like a distant memory. And an already close points race is a couple of notches tighter with two races to run before the Sept. 11 cutoff for the 10-race "Chase to the Championship."

After finishing 22nd, 31st, 25th and 27th in consecutive Cup races during mid-July and early August, Earnhardt led 294 laps in winning the 500.

Earnhardt celebrated the win with a burnout on the frontstretch as thousands of flashbulbs went off in the grandstands packed with more than 150,000 fans, many of them wearing Earnhardt red.

His victory all but assured him of a spot in the 10-driver, 10-race season-ending "playoff" for the season title. And behind him, many of the drivers vying for the other nine spots helped their causes.

"I know Dale Earnhardt Jr. is happy about winning, but he ain't much happier than I am finishing in the top five," said Sadler, who finished fifth in the 500 and held on to the seventh spot in the standings.

Newman was the big winner in the points race, moving from 13th to 10th in the standings.

Some drivers lost ground in the points race.

Kasey Kahne entered the race in 10th place in the standings and had started on the outside pole, but by Lap 187 he was lapped by race leader Rusty Wallace. He finished 21st and dropped to 11th in the standings.

A mental mistake by Mark Martin on a green-flag pit stop at Lap 227 cost him a lap. He drove down both the front and backstretch pit roads, something one does on a yellow-flag stop but does not have to do when the green flag is out.

"Just treat me like a dummy," Martin radioed to his crew. "I can't remember everything."

Martin wound up 13th but held on to 12th in points.

Kevin Harvick, who was eighth in the standings entering the 400, fell two laps behind complaining that his left arm was numb. Kyle Petty took over the No. 29 on Lap 360 but was five laps down when he got back on the track. He finished 24th but preserved Harvick's eighth position in points.

Jeff Gordon held on to the points lead even though he was ordered to drive through the pits under green after he passed cars under the yellow flag with a little more than 100 laps to go. He lost another lap and finished 14th.

Wallace led much of the first third of the race and was second to Earnhardt on Lap 202 when the No. 2 Dodge slowed on the backstretch, out of fuel.

He lost two laps, then was involved in a spin on the backstretch and found himself 26th, 10 laps off the pace.

There was one 230-lap stretch of green-flag racing, but there still was plenty of the beating and banging for which Bristol is known.

BRISTOL NOTEBOOK

Earnhardt Jr., fans liked passing Gordon

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Bristol, Tenn.

About the most exciting part of Dale Earnhardt Jr.'s rout of the field in Saturday's Sharpie 500 at Bristol Motor Speedway was when he lapped Nextel Cup points leader Jeff Gordon.

A big percentage of the more than 150,000 fans surrounding the half-mile oval cheered and snapped flashbulbs as Earnhardt's No. 8 Chevrolet sped past Gordon's No. 24 Chevy.

GORDON

Even Earnhardt took note of the reaction.

"I was looking up in the stands," he said. "I was seeing how they felt about it. I knew they were going to appreciate that."

Earnhardt, who led 295 of 500 laps in winning for the fourth time this season, said it's not so much that he enjoys passing Gordon. He just knows how much on-track scrambles between himself and Gordon could do to help stimulate fan interest in NASCAR racing.

"We have a mutual appreciation for what a good consistent rivalry would bring to the sport," he said. "And we both, I think, want that.

"I want to get to where I can race with him every weekend, and I think he would like that, too."

Martin welcomes Busch races

Veteran Nextel Cup driver Mark Martin, who leads the Busch Series in career victories with 45, will get four more chances this season to pad that total.

In addition to the race he already was set to run on Sept. 10 at Richmond, Martin will take over the No. 9 Ford that Jeff Burton vacated when he left Roush Racing.

Martin, who made his return to the Busch circuit with a runner-up run at Michigan, will race Roush's Ford at Dover, Phoenix and Atlanta.

Before last week, he hadn't raced in Busch since 2000.

"It felt really felt good to get back out there in the Busch Series and compete," Martin said.

Seeing the light at Darlington

"The Lady in Black" was turned into "The Lady in Light" last week when the lights came on at Darlington Raceway for the first time in the track's 55-year history.

A surprisingly large crowd, estimated at more than 15,000, turned out to watch Nextel Cup points leader Jeff Gordon, Craftsman Truck Series points leader Bobby Hamilton and retired Cup champions David Pearson and Cale Yarborough turn laps under the lights.

The first night race at Darlington will be a Craftsman Truck Series event Nov. 12.

TALK THE TALK

A guide to NASCAR terms

"Magnaflux"

Short for "magnetic particle inspection." A procedure for checking all ferrous (steel) parts (suspension pieces, connecting rods, cylinder heads, etc.) for cracks and other defects utilizing a solution of metal particles, fluorescent dye and a black light. Surface cracks will appear as red lines.

BUSCH REPORT

Earnhardt Jr. edges Kenseth in thriller

Dale Earnhardt Jr. outran his old Busch Series rival Matt Kenseth in the first green-white-checkered flag finish in NASCAR's Busch Series history and won the Food City 250 Friday at Bristol Motor Speedway by a little more than the length of a car.

Earnhardt started on the pole and led four times for a race-high 125 laps, but Kenseth got one last chance when Jay Sauter's spin in the closing laps brought out the yellow flag and set up the race-ending dash to the checkered flag.

But when the green flag was displayed for the final time, Kenseth spun his tires and fell too far behind to make a pass. "I don't know if we could have beat him or not," Kenseth said. "But I did exactly what I needed not to do."

Kyle Busch finished third, ahead of Kevin Harvick and David Green.

The race was slowed by 13 caution periods for 87 laps, including one on Lap 29 when series points leader Martin Truex Jr. was involved in a crash. He battled back to finish eighth and heads to California with a 78-point lead over Busch.

DRIVER SPOTLIGHT

Earnhardt Jr.'s racing roots planted at Tennessee track

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Bristol, Tenn.

To hear Dale Earnhardt Jr. tell it, Bristol Motor Speedway is more than just a race track. It's a special place in his heart.

As he sat in the press box late Friday night after his victory in the Food City 250 Busch Series race, Earnhardt's thoughts returned to his childhood, back to the days when he was tagging along with his father, the late Dale Earnhardt, and hanging out with the children of other drivers. Back in the days before drivers had luxury motorcoaches and jets and actually drove themselves to the track.

"There were only a few tracks on the schedule that I really went to much as a kid, but this was one of them," Earnhardt said. "We'd always drive up and go through the mountains. It was always a lot of fun coming and going."

Coming to Bristol meant seeing friends such as Brad Means, Scott Williams, Jason Jarrett and Heidi Bodine — all with fathers working on the circuit.

"It was one of the tracks you could count on everybody being at," he said. "All your buddies were here. I always liked the place. . . .

"There are a lot of memories here. It's almost like your backyard in a way."

One thing that made Bristol special for the young Earnhardt was that his father won nine Cup races and a Busch event on the high-banked track known for its fender-banging action.

"He had a fast car in '87 or '88 and won that race without any power steering," he said. "Just to see him have such a fast car was something.

"He came close to winning four or five times, but he'd only get one or two of them."

Earnhardt said his own style of driving is far tamer than his father's ever was.

"I wish I could be as aggressive as he was," he said. "He used to run into people and be real aggressive. It was real exciting to watch.

"Everybody remembers all the races he ran here. He was kind of like a bull in a china shop."

Peterson Named Full-Time Garrett AVS Instructor

by Joan Crawford

Therese "Terry" Peterson, who has been an adjunct instructor of adventure sports courses at Garrett College since 1988, has accepted a one year appointment as full-time instructor of Adventure Sports.

In this position, Peterson will teach adventure sports courses, including white water kayaking, introduction to adventure sports, parks and recreation, cross country skiing, and telemark skiing. She will also be teaching students in the Traditional Age Youth (TAY) program, a cooperative effort with the Mt. Top Mental Health Association, the Garrett County Board of Education, and the college. One of the goals she has identified is to develop the TAY program to become a model for other such programs in the state of Maryland. Her particular interest is to emphasize anger management.

Peterson holds a bachelor of science degree in sports management from James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Va., and a master of science in environmental education/educational psychology from West Virginia University. She is certified by the American Canoe Association as a whitewater kayak, flatwater canoe instructor, by the Professional Ski Instructors of America as a certified Level III telemark/Level I track and skate Nordic ski instructor, and by SOLO as a wilderness first responder.

In addition to teaching backpacking, kayaking, and skiing courses at Garrett College, Peterson has served as adventure program director at the Norwood School in Bethesda. In that position she designed, directed and facilitated a youth adventure program for 100 children ages 8-12 years that included whitewater rafting, kayaking, rock climbing, hiking, camp craft, and environmental education. She also served as therapeutic recreation specialist for Montgomery County, where she implemented educational programs for at-risk youth designed to enhance motivation, self-esteem, leadership, and group awareness.

Among her personal expeditions are a six-week trekking/whitewater rafting expedition guiding 10 clients through the Peruvian Andes on the Urubamba River, and a ten day backpacking expedition to the Grand Gulch region of Utah. She has kayaked numerous whitewater rivers in the United States, and has skied major mountains from New England to California.

Peterson says these many adventure experiences have helped her to develop a "safety first" philosophy in all aspects of adventure programming. "Watching students overcome their fears, learn to resolve conflicts and evolve into competent leaders brings me great joy," she remarked. "The Adventure Sports program encompasses all the things I like to do. Its greatest strength lies in the sincere dedication and compassion of its professors, and I am pleased to be part of that team."

Concerning the future of the program that has 55 students enrolled this year, she said, "I like the direction the program is going and I would like to see the students get more involved with this community."

Originally from Alabama, Peterson grew up in an Air Force family and moved all over the United States, but spent much of her time in West Virginia and western Maryland. She now resides in Friendsville.

Home Energy Applications Now Accepted

Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., Office of Home Energy Program (formerly known as Maryland Energy Assistance Program) will accept applications for those who haven't applied since July 1, 2004, at several locations in September.

Locations accepting applications are: the Grantsville Senior Center, every Friday in September between 8:30 a.m. and noon, and 1 to 4:30 p.m.; Parkwoods Apartment Complex, Sept. 27, 1-4 p.m., Meadowwoods East, Sept. 28, 1-4 p.m.. Meadows East, Sept. 29, 1-4 p.m.; and Underwood South, Sept. 30, 1-4 p.m.

Persons with questions may call 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403.

Long & Foster Adds Newman As New Realtor

Long & Foster Realtors announce the addition of new sales associate Kym Newmann to their Deep Creek Office in McHenry. She is a lifelong resident of Western Maryland, but recently moved to Garrett County, where she resides with her partner, Jason Van Sickle.

Newmann has an undergraduate degree in biology from Mount Saint Mary's College and a master's degree from John Hopkins University, where she studied biotechnology.

"She brings to the Long & Foster office a great deal of enthusiasm and work ethic, and is viewed as a true asset to the team," a spokesperson said.

Newmann is involved locally in the Junior Women's Civic Club and the Mountain Top Saddle Club.

Wolfs Honored In Ga. For Real Estate Successes

Communities magazine recently named the "Wolf Team" — Bob and Teresa Wolf, with Keller Williams Platinum Partners, as a member of the 2004 Communities 100, a designation recognizing Atlanta's leading realtors across 12 metropolitan Atlanta real estate boards. This is the second year Bob Wolf has received this honor.

The designation is based on the net sales volume of metro Atlanta's realtors as reported and verified by 12 of the area's boards of realtors. The honor was established in 1986 by Communities magazine to recognize only the highest producers of the 19,446 realtors in the area. In essence, Bob Wolf is in the top 1.5% of board-certified realtors in the entire metro Atlanta area, a spokesperson said.

The Communities 100 honors the top producing 100 realtors in each of the following three groups: those who are individual agents working for general brokerage companies, those who are team agents working for general brokerage companies, and those who are new home agents working for new home, on-site specialist companies. The company for which the realtors work, along with their function within that company, determined their placement within a category.

The cutoff this year for individual agents was $6.618 million, for team agents was $8.557 million, and for new home agents was $5.183 million. Bob and Teresa Wolf are in the team category with a net sales volume of more than $10 million.

Bob Wolf was honored at an invitation-only gala awards breakfast at the Grand Hyatt Atlanta in Buckhead.

The couple presently reside in the Atlanta suburbs. They have two children and one grandson. They are former residents of Garrett County.

Communities magazine is Atlanta's new home directory, listing more than 1,700 subdivision, cluster, condominium, loft, and town home communities across the metro Atlanta area. Founded in 1978, the magazine is published every other month and distributed at real estate offices, corporate relocation offices, and more than 200 retail locations.

Serving the terminally ill and their families in Garrett County

Nominations Sought For Woman Of Year, Employer Of Year

Garrett County Business and Professional Women (BPW) recognize the accomplishments and contributions of working women and employers by honoring them during National Business Women's Week, which is held in October of each year.

A spokesperson for the group said, "Take a moment and think about a special person who is contributing far beyond the norm in lighting the path for other women. Think of that woman who is not afraid to speak up in supporting policies, ideas, legislation, or actions that will benefit women in general. Think of that woman who is always mentoring other women and guiding younger women in setting and achieving goals. She should be nominated for Woman of the Year."

In addition, employers can be nominated for Garrett BPW Employer of the Year recognition. Qualities include being family friendly, promoting the rights of women employees, allowing growth of ideas and talent, and an environment that is conducive to working women.

The recipient of each award will be selected from nominations submitted to the Garrett BPW committee by Sept. 29, 2004. For more information or a nomination form, persons may contact Norma Bolding at 301-334-4757 or Donna Fost at 301-895-3112.

Motorcycle Safety To Be Focus Of MSP Labor Day Enforcement

As the last summer travel holiday approaches, troopers will be out in force this Labor Day weekend. Troopers will participate in several regional enforcement operations. Federal grants will be used to work driving under the influence saturation patrols, aggressive driver, and speed enforcement operations statewide.

"The recent increase in motorcyclists, especially older operators, has led to an increase in motorcycle crashes, deaths, and injuries across the nation," Colonel Thomas E. Hutchins said. "These last few weeks of summer are some of the heaviest travel periods for motorcyclists in Maryland. I have directed Maryland State Troopers to intensify efforts to enhance motorcycle safety. This includes strict enforcement action against not only unsafe motorcyclists but also unsafe automobile drivers who threaten the safety of motorcyclists and others on our highways."

During the holiday period troopers will pay special attention to motorcycle safety. A National Highway Traffic Safety Administration study has shown older drivers are at a higher risk of being involved in a serious or fatal crash. There has been a recent rise in the number of fatal crashes with motorcycle drivers over 40. With alcohol contributing to 40% of those crashes, DUI enforcement will be key to help reduce that number. State police want to remind all motorcycle riders that Maryland Law requires an approved helmet and approved eye protection. "Driving a motorcycle after consuming alcoholic beverages is a dangerous mix," said an MSP spokesperson.

The Labor Day holiday is nationally recognized as one of the CARE (Combined Accident Reduction Effort) holidays. State police agencies across the country increase the number of road patrol personnel by reassigning administrative officers to the highways throughout the holiday period. In Maryland, the areas of heightened awareness and enforcement are seatbelt and child safety seat violations, speeding, and driving under the influence of alcohol and drugs.

"We want to remind motorists traveling this Labor Day of the following: plan the trip carefully, leave early, make sure you are rested, stay alert, and stay calm behind the wheel. Also make sure your vehicle is in good working order. The most important tips are: obey the speed limit, don't drink and drive, and always buckle up," the spokesperson said.

Motorists can report highway traffic hazards and suspected drivers under the influence by dialing #77 on their cellular phones or, for emergencies dial 9-1-1. "Remember to always use your cell phone safely and reasonably while driving," the spokesperson concluded.

4-H Club News

NORTH STAR
by Kevin Haenftling, reporter

Members of the North Star 4-H Club camped recently on Herman Hill and held their regular monthly meeting. Roll call was answered by naming a favorite animal. There were 10 members present with their families.

Kevin Haenftling reported on the 4th of July and Join Hands Day events; Kara Savage on the District, Maryland Guernsey, and Black and White shows; Brett Stanton on state public speaking; and Angela LaMastus and Kara on the rodeo.

The trip to the Carnegie Science Center was rescheduled for Oct. 9. The club will be going to Cove Run Farm on Sept. 11 at 6 p.m.

On Saturday, after the camping trip, the members went to the farm of Rachel Schmidt. Rachel gave demonstrations with her Holland Lop bunnies, Holstein dairy calves, Angus beef, and lamb. Kevin demonstrated how to show his rabbit, Chocolate. Kara showed her Guernsey calf, and Brett showed his Holstein calf.

Members of the club are selling Glory-Be 4-H Beanie animals. They have a selection of cows, dogs, pandas, white bears, lambs, and rabbits. They will order goats, horses, cats, USA bears, roosters, and pigs. The Beanie animals sell for $10 each. For more information, persons may call 301-746-8732 or contact any North Star 4-H member.

Local Management Board

Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families, Inc.

Where Innovation is at Work, Because Results Matter

Local Management Boards (LMBs) were created by State law to, "ensure the implementation of a local, interagency service delivery system for children, youth and families." Each LMB is responsible for assessing the needs of its community and, in collaboration with service providers, policy makers, community leaders and others, make sure that children and families get the needed services and supports.

LEADERSHIP

- Capacity Building: In the past 3 years, the Garrett County LMB has leveraged nearly $3 million dollars in new funds to support families in Garrett County. Across the state, LMBs leveraged over $43 million dollars in new federal and private dollars for their local communities.
- Creating National Models: the Garrett County LMB funds one of only a handful of our nation's universal nurse, social worker home visiting programs (Healthy Families Garrett County), serving over 700 families with children birth to 5 years during FY04. The Garrett County LMB funds and provides program fidelity oversight for 10 evidence-based universal programs to support positive youth development including Communities That Care, Healthy Communities/ Healthy Youth, Dare to be YOU and Second Step.
- Serving as a major economic engine: the Garrett County LMB provides funding support for more than 120 full and part-time interagency employee positions, not including community employment due to the multiplier effect.

TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE

- Focusing upon results: the Garrett County LMB facilitates community planning to integrate services and direct efforts that achieve results. LMBs, utilizing results-based management and budgeting, fund and evaluate services that produce measurable out-comes that demonstrate with data that the well being of children and families has improved.
- Increasing efficient use of resources: the Garrett County LMB developed and maintains our local web-based Community Information File with over 500 family services in Garrett County. Log onto www.garrettpartnership.org or www.communitystuff.info Kiosks are placed strategically throughout the County.
- Supporting technology utilization: the Garrett County LMB works with partners to plan for increased use of technology and growth in communitywide technology infrastructure.

CONSUMER SATISFACTION

Our consumers' voices are important. In order to know how well we are doing, a standardized survey that has been normed on a diverse population of over 20,000 is mailed to a post office box. Program contacts receive a print out on the percentage of respondents who are "generally satisfied" with services and a typed (anonymous) list of responses to three open-ended questions: what is the one thing you liked…didn't like … would change? The Attkisson CSQ-8 survey provides service recipients with a forum to express their unbiased opinions and yields feedback useful to fine tune program operations. About 85% of respondents are satisfied on the national sample used for norming this survey tool, while in Garrett County client satisfaction runs well over 90% across multiple programs.

- During FY 2001, 300 completed client satisfaction surveys were returned from 14 programs with an aggregate 'satisfaction' rating of 90.3% (272/300).
- During FY 2002, 452 completed client satisfaction surveys were returned from 17 programs with an aggregate 'satisfaction' rating of 92.9% (420/452).
- During FY 2003, 412 completed client satisfaction surveys were returned from 17 programs with an aggregate 'satisfaction' rating of 93.6% (392/412).

COMETS

Q. Where do comets come from and what are they made of?

A. Comets come from the outer reaches of the solar system. Like every other object in the solar system, comets travel in orbit around the sun. But unlike the planets, their orbits are not circular; instead, they travel in ellipses that are often very elongated.

There are certain regions in the solar system which are populated by floating junk:

1. The Asteroid Belt between Mars and Jupiter seems to be the leftover rocks from a would-be planet that never quite aggregated into a standard planet. The tugging in one direction from the sun, combined with tugging in the other direction from Jupiter, probably prevented the many pieces from coalescing together.

2. Way out beyond Neptune and Pluto, there is a region known as the Oort Cloud that is composed of a lot of loose debris that is not dense enough to ever become a planet. This is where comets come from. When a couple of blobs of material come fairly close to one another, their orbits (around the sun) can change due to their interaction with each other. Sometimes one of them swings into a path that hurls it deeply inward toward the sun – an extremely elliptical orbit. Some of those ellipses can bring the object close enough to earth to be seen.

Where did all that debris come from? Long before the solar system formed, earlier generations of stars exploded and hurled dust and gas far out into space. The gravitational attraction of all that dust and gas eventually caused the material to begin collecting in one place. Most of the gas coalesced and formed the sun; a small fraction of it went into orbit around the sun and gradually became Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune. The heavier elements in the dust also tended to coalesce, and formed the smaller planets (including earth), the many moons of Jupiter, the rings of Saturn, and so on. Mixed in among the materials that became rock was a certain amount of oxygen, ammonia, water, carbon dioxide, and so forth. Some of that stuff remained out in the Oort Cloud and never became part of any planet.

Given a long enough time, a faraway rock can attract water, ammonia, etc., and become completely encrusted with those chemicals, all of which would be frozen solid at the farthest extremes of the solar system. Nothing happens to such a ball until it gets into an elliptical orbit and heads toward the sun.

What is a comet made out of? Without traveling to visit a comet, we can only look from far away. When the object gets close enough to start feeling the heat of the sun's rays, the outer surface starts to melt and evaporate. The atoms of gas thus produced might get bounced up into an excited state, then drop back down to a lower state, and give off light as they do so. If a telescope on the earth catches some of that light, we can figure out what the gas must have been in the first place. The evidence thus collected seems to say that comets are made of "dirty ice." Of course, if there is an inner ball of rock within the comet, we won't find that out when we only look at the radiation from the outermost shell of ice.

The elliptical orbit of a comet tells us that after a fairly close approach to the sun, the comet will go very far away, to the outer reaches of the solar system. But an orbit – even a funny shaped one – is still an orbit, and so the comet will come back again after a long while. Halley's comet became famous because it comes back every 76 years. It was so spectacular in 1910 that there was great hoopla anticipating its arrival in 1986, but that show fizzled; the amount of radiation wasn't so great in 1986, probably due to less water evaporating away. On the other hand, a new comet lit up the sky for several months in 1995 with a very bright green glow.

With all the junk coming from the asteroid belt or the Oort Cloud and orbiting around the sun, nearly all of it stays millions of miles from earth. So there are a lot of comets out there, usually too small to be seen. If such an object actually hits the earth, we call it a meteor instead of a comet. However, that's really a very rare event, because the earth is a very small target in space.

HABITAT TO DEDICATE HORTON HOUSE – Garrett County Habitat for Humanity will host a dedication ceremony at its newest home on Sept. 15. The celebration at the Horton house, located in Hopeland Village (4039 Maryland Highway, next to the Deer Park fire hall along Rt. 135), is open to all members of the public. The dedicated will begin at 6 p.m. An open house at the new home will start at noon on the same day. During the week of September 14-20, Habitat for Humanity International will observe the 10th anniversary of Building on Faith, an annual celebration of church partnerships where affiliates and churches around the world are urged to organize building projects and worship services. Persons may call the Habitat office to obtain free church bulletin inserts. Currently the local Habitat organization is building homes #47 and #48, both along on Rt. 135 in Deer Park. Persons are invited to stop by to see the progress. Persons, organizations, companies, and/or churches who would like to know more about how to help Garrett County Habitat for Humanity may contact Doug Riley at 301-533-0600 or driley@garrettcac.org.

W-Md. Health System's Organ, Tissue Donor Program Saves Eleven Lives

As the summer months wind down, the hospitals that make up the Western Maryland Health System — Sacred Heart Hospital and Memorial Hospital of Cumberland — are full of life-saving activity, a spokesperson reported.

In August, the staff at both hospitals participated in three organ and tissue donor cases that resulted in saving the lives of 11 people.

The Transplant Resource Center of Maryland (TRC), the organ and tissue procurement organization for the state of Maryland, worked with Sacred Heart Hospital to facilitate an organ and tissue donor case, resulting in three organs being recovered for transplant. TRC also worked with Memorial Hospital of Cumberland to facilitate in two organ and tissue donor cases that resulted in eight organs for transplant. Tissues were also recovered for either research or eventual transplant.

"As a result of this dedicated team work, and the commitment of three donor families, the gift of life was made possible to 11 people," said Mary Garry, hospital development coordinator for TRC.

In Maryland, there are currently 2,343 people awaiting a life-saving organ transplant. Nationally that number exceeds 85,000, the spokesperson said. Each day, approximately 17 people die across the country while waiting for a vital organ transplant.

"There are now 11 fewer people on that waiting list because of the hard work demonstrated by the staff at the Western Maryland Health System to make the organ and tissue donor cases a success," said Garry.

The organs that restore life include the heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, pancreas, and intestine. Tissue is needed to replace bone; tendons and ligaments to improve mobility and independence; corneas to restore sight; heart valves to repair cardiac defects and damage; and skin grafts to help burn patients heal.

"In these particular cases, the organs recovered for transplant included liver, lungs, kidneys, heart, and pancreas. The tissues included saphenous veins and heart valves," said Garry.

The Transplant Resource Center of Maryland is the not-for-profit health service provider of organs and tissues to the citizens of Maryland. TRC facilitates the donation and recovery of human organs and tissues for transplantation and research. TRC provides advocacy, family support, and comprehensive public and professional education, and is committed to organizational excellence to enhance the organ and tissue donation and distribution processes, the spokesperson said.

"TRC has a great partner in the Western Maryland Health System, and its commitment to making organ and tissue donation a success will result in more lives being saved," Garry said.

For more information about organ and tissue donation, persons may contact Mary Garry at 410-242-7000, ext. 2008.

How to Treat a Stye in the Eye

The medical term for a stye in the eye is hordeolum. This is an uncomplicated infection of one or more glands at the edge of the eyelid or underneath it. It is most often caused by a bacterial staphylococcal infection. Styes start out as redness, tenderness, and pain at the edge of the eyelid that may cause the eye to water, become sensitive to bright light, or feel as though something is in it. An abscess then forms which usually causes a round, swollen area on the lid. At times, the swollen area may have a yellowish spot at the center. It is very important not to puncture the pus filled yellow spot without medical supervision because scarring may occur.

Warm soaks or compresses are the most common treatment for styes, however in some cases topical antibiotics designed for use in the eye are prescribed. Examples include Bacitracin ointment or tobramycin ointment or solution. For severe cases, antibiotics taken by mouth may be required. Over-the-counter pain medications like aspirin or Tylenol can help ease discomfort. Styes usually heal within a week's time normally. If recurring styes are a problem, gently washing the eyelids each day with a cotton swab dipped in a mild baby shampoo and water solution may help. Always use a fresh cotton swab for each eye.

Baltimore Man Charged With DUI After ATV Mishap

A Baltimore man faces a driving while under the influence (DUI) charge filed by Maryland State Police troopers who investigated a Saturday morning all-terrain vehicle accident near Swanton.

Frederick Tweedale, 28, was operating a 1995 Polaris ATV on southbound Route 495 when he attempted to pass an automobile north of Swanton Hill Road, according to the report. Tweedale lost control of his ATV, which overturned.

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Tweedale to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Oak Park Church Hosting Worship Healing Services

The Oak Park Church of the Brethren, Mtn. Lake Park, will conduct healing services at its 8:15 and 10:30 a.m. worship services this Sunday morning, Sept. 5. These special services are open to everyone. The main level of the church is handicap accessible.

"The Church of the Brethren has historically practiced anointing with oil and has been witness to the power of God, using this Biblical method of healing," said Pastor Mel Menker. "There have been dramatic and immediate experiences of healing, while others have experienced a healing over time after the service."

Menker noted that the healing may be for physical, mental, emotional, or spiritual, or a combination thereof.

The church is located across from Southern High School. For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-2243.

REGISTRATION INFORMATION

Noncredit registration will be taken on a first-come, first-served basis and should be completed at least one week prior to the starting date of class. Courses listed in this schedule are subject to change. Provisions included are not to be regarded as an irrevocable contract between the student and the College. Payment may be made by mail or in person at our office. We accept VISA or MasterCard. Please call us at 301-387-3069 or 301-895-4310, ext. 3069.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Course fees listed include tuition, fees, and out-of-county/out-of-state differentials (where applicable). Costs listed for Maryland Senior Citizens (persons 60 years of age or older) include a tuition waiver (where applicable) and fees. All students are responsible for any materials or texts that may be required for all classes. Certain courses may be eligible for financial assistance from the following sources: New Horizons – 301-387-3071; Western MD Consortium – 301-334-8136; Garrett Works – 301-533-3110.

REFUND POLICY

In order to withdraw from a Noncredit course the student must complete a 'withdrawal' form at the Continuing Education office. Refunds will be made in full if you withdraw from a course prior to its first session, provided the course tuition/fees exceed $20, or if the course is cancelled. If you withdraw prior to the second class meeting, you are entitled to a 75% refund, provided the number of classes scheduled is equal to or exceeds five sessions and the course/tuition fees exceed $20. THERE WILL BE NO REFUND AFTER THE SECOND CLASS SESSION.

Garrett College does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, color, religion, national origin, ethnic origin or handicapping conditions.
This non-discrimination policy includes equal treatment for students in regard to admissions, programs/activities, financial assistance and equal treatment of faculty and staff in employment.

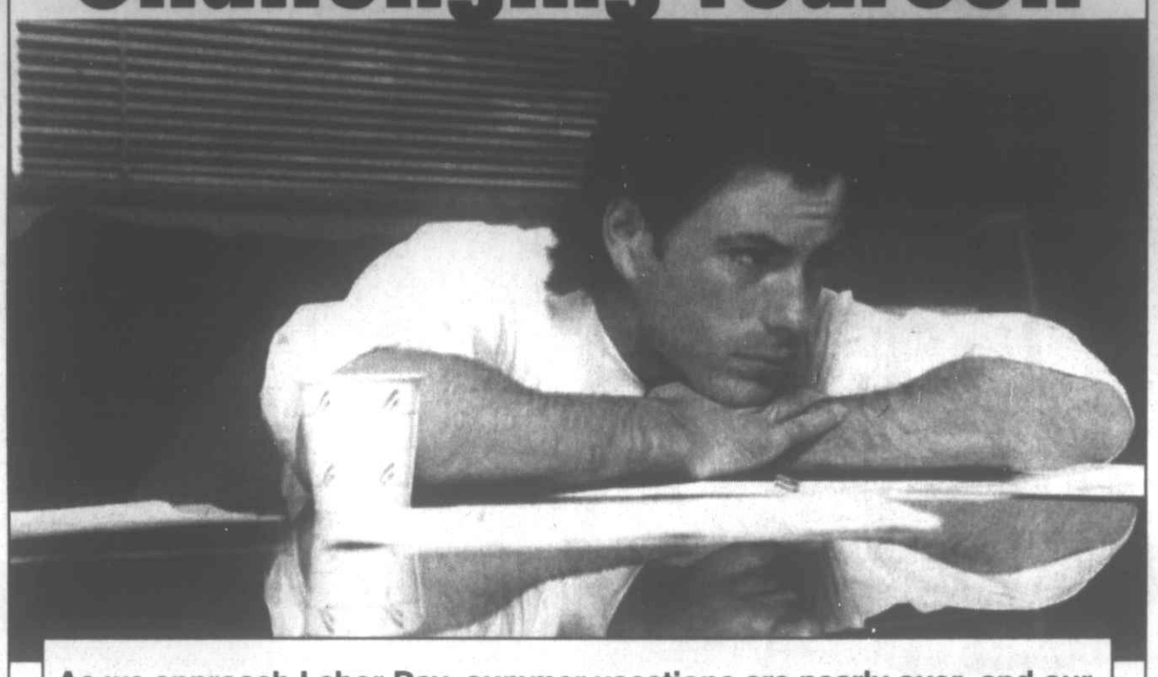
Challenging Yourself



As we approach Labor Day, summer vacations are nearly over, and our attention and energies will again become focused on our careers and our jobs. As we make this transition, it may be a time when we reassess our progress in and our satisfaction with our workplace. "Do I have adequate job security? Am I meeting my employer's expectations? Am I pleased with my own performance?"

St. Augustine, a fourth century theologian, spoke about reassessment. "If you would attain to what you are not yet, you must always be displeased by what you are. For where you were pleased with yourself, there you have remained...keep adding, keep walking, keep advancing."

As we continue to strive, we must reassess our spiritual progress as well. It takes a strong spirit to respond to the challenges we must meet. Therefore, God has said in Exodus 20:9-10.... "Six days you shall labor, and do all your work; the seventh day is a Sabbath to the Lord your God." In His wisdom, our Heavenly Father knew we would need the spiritual energy that comes from weekly worship.

Won't you challenge yourself to worship each week? All meaningful progress begins in God's House.

Being Thankful for All Things

Several years ago, I recall talking to some friends, and I mentioned the terrible day that I was having. I went on to say that nothing seemed to be going right and that as the day progressed I was getting more behind in my work. One of my friends said that I should pray about this and thank God for my daily problems. This struck me as kind of odd, because although I was aware that we should be thankful to God for all His many blessings, I didn't realize that we should also be thankful for our problems and difficult situations. Later on, I was referring to the Bible and I found the following verses: "give thanks in all circumstances, for this is God's will for you ...(1 Thessalonians 5:18). " And although I had read this verse before, this time the words "all circumstances" really struck me. And then, in Ephesians 5:20, I read that we should always give thanks to God the Father for everything in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. Surely it is not always easy to be prayerful or thankful to God for everything, especially when troubles or illnesses come our way; however, accepting God's will for our lives reflects the trust and love we have for Him.

Be anxious for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication, with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known to God.

Health Benefits From "Friendly" Bacteria

Although most bacteria that enter our bodies are seen as bad, some bacteria are beneficial to our health. Medically, these helpful bacteria are grouped under the term probiotics. They are almost always consumed in the diet as a natural part of fermented foods including buttermilk or yogurt. These bacteria improve gut health by aiding digestion and resisting intestinal infection. Probiotics are now also thought to be useful for easing lactose intolerance and treating vaginal yeast infections.

Another type of supplement also referred to as a prebiotic provides a desirable environment in which probiotic bacteria thrive. An example is fermentable dietary fiber. Products containing this type of fiber include oatmeal, flax, and barley. Inulin and oligofructose are the ingredients most commonly seen in commercially marketed supplements. Researchers have suggested a benefit in osteoporosis through increased calcium absorption and improved insulin response in diabetics who take prebiotics.

Jesus IS THE ANSWER

Seed Of Life Offers Inspiration, Healing, Hope To Abused Souls

"Who comforts us in all our troubles, so that we can comfort those in any trouble with the comfort we ourselves have received from God." II Corinthians 1:4

by Renèe Shreve

Yvonne Brett says her entire life is a miracle. As readers begin her autobiography, Seed of Life, though, they may wonder how this newly transplanted Garrett County resident can have such a positive outlook, given the abuse she endured as a child and the painful self-doubt she struggled with as an adult. The answer is simple: faith, hard work, and even more faith.

"I don't want my life to be portrayed as a sob story," she stresses in her soft British accent. "I want it to give hope to others."

Now 51, Yvonne was one of 13 children growing up in a rough, poor section of Nottingham, England. In a no-holds-barred manner, her book recounts a household filled with cold, hunger, and violence.

"We had old coats on the bed to keep us warm," Yvonne writes in Seed of Life. "There was no heating upstairs. In the winter, the frost coated the windows, making patterns like trees. I used to stare at the patterns, making out pictures. I also scraped down the ice with my fingernails to make little peepholes to look outside."

Her parents were physically and mentally abusive to the children, often dragging them into the middle of their own heated battles.

One of Yvonne's most vivid memories is the evening her father didn't come up the stairs of their tiny rented home to beat his children after a quarrel with their mother.

To cope, the little, tow-headed Yvonne locked herself away, physically and emotionally, and learned to suffer in silence. She didn't speak until she was 7 years old.

"I would shut myself away in the darkness and rock back and forth, feeling frightened and insecure," she writes. "If I wasn't under the stairs, I would hide behind chairs or under a table. Wherever I found a place out of the way, I would go and take refuge."

Even after she married and had three children, whom she adored, the extremely shy Yvonne still couldn't express emotion and didn't think she deserved happiness or love. She felt like a "dirty freak."

After a suicide attempt, however, she found a new refuge after a doctor prescribed a unique remedy.

"You need spiritual help. Go to a church, one that is filled with the Holy Spirit of God," he said and gave her the names of two Pentecostal churches in her area.

AUTHOR YVONNE BRETT smiles for the camera amid an array of blooming, cheerful flowers – a sharp contrast to the cover of her autobiography, Seed of Life. The cover features the only photo Yvonne has of herself from her childhood, which was taken when she was 4½ years old and cropped from a group shot of her and six of her 12 siblings. The author had the photo retouched in attempt to conceal bruises on her lips and to thicken her emaciated little neck. Yvonne's book unflinchingly recounts not only an English childhood filled with physical and mental abuse, but, more importantly, her salvation and recovery from that abuse. Ten years in the making, Seed of Life was written to offer inspiration to other abused souls. See story for details.

Not long after that, Yvonne and two pastors' wives prayed together, asking Jesus to come into her life and to give her a new start.

"Peace came over me like I had never felt before," she writes. "I couldn't stop smiling at the fact that I could start my life over again." She looked at her children and thought, "How could I have ever wanted to die?"

Her outlook on life changed immediately, but there were still many years of work ahead of her. She needed to learn more about herself, her new-found faith, and how she could help others.

"I had found that love was so wide and so deep, you could not measure it," she writes. "It starts as a seed from birth, and then it grows into something so wonderful and powerful. I felt as if my seed of love had just been planted inside me, now ready to grow and burst out."

She started reading the Bible, though she could barely read at that time, attending church, and facing her fears and inhibitions.

In 1985, she and her husband Patrick became Assembly of God pastors and began ministering to residents in their Nottingham suburb. They moved to the Keyser, W.Va., area in 1995.

Yvonne began Seed of Life 10 years ago, "whilst" still in England, pouring out her heart and past in longhand onto numerous inexpensive writing tablets.

"When I first started writing, publishing a book was the last thing on my mind," she says. "I needed to get in touch with the Yvonne that I had locked away many years ago."

When she came to the "really hard bits," however, the adult Yvonne would put her tablet aside, thinking there was no way she could reveal those aspects of her life. But each time she did, she felt compelled to pick up her pen again and continue her story.

"Not long into writing this book," she says. "I began to have a great burden to help the hurting and the mentally ill to give them hope in their own lives." To do so, however, she had to tell even the most painful aspects of her life. So, Yvonne kept "writing and writing," and a friend typed it.

Yvonne's friends refer to her as a "magnet" for sad faces, those whom others ignore or have given up on.

"Yvonne has a tremendous gift from the Lord in discerning and empathizing with the hidden pain of others," says her friend Patty Blaisdell of Keyser.

People may also gravitate to Yvonne because of her quiet demeanor and nonjudgmental approach to life. She tries to see beyond the way people look and act, even if they are "prickly."

"Beyond the prickles, there is always a heart looking for love" is a favorite expression of hers. "It helps me to not stay bitter," Yvonne says. It also helped her to forgive her parents before they died.

Yvonne's memoir is beginning to draw even more people to her. A print-on-demand book first published in 2002, Seed of Life is starting to emerge in churches in England, West Virginia, and Tennessee.

Reports are coming in, Yvonne says, that people who are in "bondage" like she once was are being helped through prayer and her inspirational book.

"For me, it has been a powerful eye-opener," she says about the book's unexpected response.

Yvonne is currently working on her second publication, The Unknown Journey, a follow up to the first book. Though Seed of Life ends on a positive note, Yvonne's life is not a "happily-ever-after" fairy tale. The Unknown Journey chronicles her struggles and blessings since completing the first book, including her recovery from a serious car accident and a painful divorce.

"The storms of life keep going," Yvonne says in a matter-of-fact manner. Her recent struggles seem to have helped her to grow even more and given her even more empathy for others.

"Now I can relate to everything," she says. "I have a whole different view."

Yvonne moved to the Mountain Lake Park area about a year ago after finding help for Helena, her autistic daughter, at the Garrett County Lighthouse in Oakland. Her oldest daughter Kerry and son-in-law Nick have moved back to England and are expecting their third child. Her youngest child Steven, who attended Frostburg State University, has also returned to England.

Yvonne is employed by Appalachian Crossroads, helping the physically handicapped and will start classes next month to become a certified nurse's assistant. "I love it," she says about her new job.

She is currently on Pratt and Libby Malone's Partners in Harvest pastorial team, which is affiliated with the Toronto Airport Christian Fellowship in Ontario. Yvonne says they reach out to the "unchurched."

After finishing Seed of Life, readers will see why Yvonne says her whole life is a miracle. A frail little girl who couldn't speak or read has blossomed into a strong outspoken woman who is helping others break free of their bonds through her ministry and writing.

"Now you can't shut me up!" she jokes. You can't stop her from smiling either.

Yvonne is available to speak to organizations, churches, and individuals. Persons may call her at 301-334-1548 or e-mail seedoflife49@hotmail.com.

Seed of Life is available online from AuthorHouse Books at authorhouse.com. A free preview of the book is also available online.

Patriot's Day Assembly Slated At Southern High

Southern High School will hold a memorial service commemorating Patriot's Day on Sept. 10, beginning at 8:45 a.m. and lasting for approximately 20 minutes.

Students and staff will present songs and reflections surrounding the events of Sept. 11, 2001. The assembly will take place in front of the memorial park, built in 2002 honoring those lives lost during that national tragedy. The park is adjacent to the school library.

In the event of inclement weather, the assembly will be held in the gymnasium. The public is invited to attend and participate.

Registration Slated For Evening High School Course

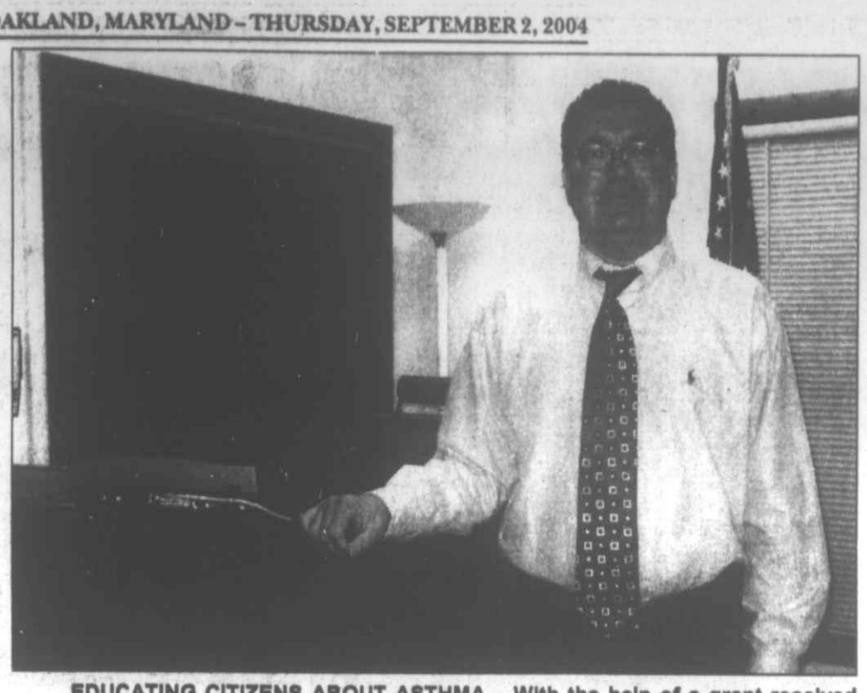
Individuals who wish to enroll in Evening High School in Garrett County may register today, Thursday, Sept. 2, from 6 to 9 p.m. Registration will be held at the Northern and Southern high schools' offices.

A textbook deposit of $20 per course and a $50 registration fee is due at the time of enrollment. Total cost per student will not exceed $100. The Evening High School textbook deposits will be refunded upon the return of texts and other school issued materials that are in good condition. All costs are payable at the time of registration.

Classes for Evening High School students will begin Monday, Sept. 7. The courses offered are subject to sufficient enrollment with consideration being given to graduation requirements. Classes will meet one or two nights per week depending upon the number of students enrolled and the school site. Enrollment for second-semester Evening High School classes will occur in January 2005. Transportation to classes is not provided for participants.

Persons who have not completed high school requirements and wish to take required courses for credit may do so through the Evening High School program. Typical offerings include classes meeting the general requirements for English, mathematics, science, and political science. Other courses, such as art and health, are offered based on student need and sufficient enrollment.

For additional information, persons may contact the guidance office at Northern High School at 301-746-8669, Southern High School at 301-334-1660, or the Garrett County Board of Education at 301-334-8930.



EDUCATING CITIZENS ABOUT ASTHMA – With the help of a grant received by the Garrett County Health Department, Dr. Robert Goralski, pictured, and several Garrett County Memorial Hospital staff members earlier this year hosted "Movin' Mountains in Western Maryland" in an effort to educate area healthcare providers and citizens on asthma. The project was part of a collaborative initiative in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties to improve health outcomes for chronic diseases in the region. GCMH staff members Judy Simson, Wellness coordinator; Lance Rhodes, director of the pharmacy; Eric Tribbey, director of Cardio Pulmonary/Mobile Medical Services; and Randy Crabtree, respiratory therapist, spoke to community members, including children with asthma and their parents, about the signs, symptoms, and treatment of asthma. Spacers and peak flow meters were distributed to participants. Goralski's presentation titled "Asthma Diagnosis and Treatment" was geared for medical professionals. Objectives were to enable participants to not only understand the anatomy and physiology of asthma, but also how to handle asthma-related emergency situations and understand the relationship between exercise and asthma. Presentations were held at GCMH, Accident and Broadford elementary schools, and the health department. "We took this opportunity to educate the community on various asthma management techniques," said Tribbey. "We also wanted participants to gain a better understanding of asthma medications on the market and equipment to monitor their progress. Additional programs and events will occur during National Respiratory Care Week in October." These seminars were sponsored by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, the Garrett County Health Department, and Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Project Grants Available From March Of Dimes

Applications for funding for qualifying projects in the coming year are available now from the March of Dimes.

Deadline for submitting the completed 2005 Chapter Community Grants application is Sept. 17. Deadline to submit the completed 2004 Johns Foundation Grants Program application is Oct. 23.

Both applications may be requested by calling Nancy Thoerig at 301-722-5818.

"Swap Shop" New Feature At Landfill, GC Refuse Sites

The Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Division, General Services Department, has added a new feature at all the refuse and recycling sites as well as the landfill – a "swap shop."

"If you've been to any of the sites during this past year, you've probably noticed items grouped together in a designated area," said a division spokesperson. "The items in the designated area are part of the Garrett County Swap Shop program. Residents are encouraged to participate by leaving items in good condition for others or by taking items for themselves."

Garrett County provides no guarantees or warranties – written, expressed, or implied – and disclaims any and all liability for the condition, working order and/or safety of any item left at or taken from the Garrett County Swap Shop. All items are "as is" and are taken at the recipient's own risk. Recipients are responsible for determining the safety and suitability of any item for any purpose and/or use thereof.

A resident permit is not required to enter the landfill or refuse and recycling sites to recycle.

Recycling in Garrett County is free to residents, businesses, and anyone visiting the area. For more information, persons may call 301-387-0322.

Read. Then Recycle.

'Third Watch' cop a graduate of '90210'

By Taylor Michaels

Jason Wiles

Q: Please tell me everything you can about Jason Wiles, who plays Bosco on "Third Watch." –Flo in Palm Harbor, Fla.

A: A native of Lenexa, Kan., Jason Wiles, 34, says he was sure of his acting goals at an early age, and landed his first work as an extra and a stand-in. After making a few connections with filmmakers and crew members working on movies in the Kansas City, Mo., area, Wiles relocated to Los Angeles to study acting.

He supported himself in commercials until he landed a part in the 1993 TV movie "Big Boys Don't Cry." Small roles in films such as "Higher Learning" and "Windrunner" followed, but Wiles got his big break when he was cast as Colin Robbins in "Beverly Hills, 90210" (1995-96).

His next series role, in CBS' 1998 drama "To Have and to Hold," flopped quickly, but he was cast in "Third Watch" soon after that. During his recent break from the hit NBC series, Wiles has been working on the feature film "Heart of the Beholder," a drama in which he appears with John Dye ("Touched by an Angel"), Greg Germann ("Ally McBeal") and Matt Letscher ("Good Morning, Miami").

Q: What caused the death of the actress who played Lila Quartermaine on "General Hospital"? –Nancy S. via e-mail.

A: Veteran English actress Anna Lee, who joined the ABC soap in 1978, died of pneumonia on May 14. She was 91.

Q: I have heard a song on "The 4400" and "Six Feet Under" with lyrics that start "Bye bye, baby, don't be long." Any idea what it is? –Madeline Kirby, Reading, Pa.

A: Yes, because it's really making the rounds, having also served as the opening theme to "Kingdom Hospital." That's "Worry About You" by Ivy, from her compact disc "Long Distance."

Q: My sister says she read somewhere that Lifetime's "The Division" will not be returning for a new season. True? –Ellen in Atlanta.

A: True. The Lifetime drama took a 20 percent loss in viewers over its most recent season. "We felt that the show had, as all television programs eventually do, run its course, and it was time to offer our viewers another option," a Lifetime spokesman says.

TRIVIA

Desi Arnaz ("I Love Lucy") invented the rerun. He re-aired some episodes to give Lucille Ball a rest while she was pregnant.

Bette Midler ("The First Wives Club") worked at a pineapple processing plant in her native Hawaii before becoming the Divine Miss M.

Sean Hayes ("Will & Grace") is a talented musician. He initially supported himself as a classical pianist and a music director.

Sixth OutSpokin' Dinner, Auction Set For Sept. 18

MIKE WILLIAMS

Mike Williams will be the keynote speaker at the sixth annual OutSpokin' Dinner and Silent Auction slated for Saturday, Sept. 18, at 5 p.m. at Frostburg State University's Lane Center. The event is sponsored by the Maryland Salem Children's Trust, located near Grantsville.

Williams, the youngest of five children born to an inner-city family steeped in drugs, poverty, and abuse, was handed to a postal carrier as an infant by his mother. After two older brothers were killed at the age of 17 – one in prison and one on the streets of Chicago – and two sisters turned to alcohol and drugs, his mother chose a chance at a better future for her youngest child by giving him away.

Eventually, Williams ended up with a Christian couple who had prayed for a child for more than 12 years. Williams met his biological father for the first and last time at the age of 27. His personal story includes the adoption years of a child from a situation similar to his own.

In addition to Williams, the dinner program will once again feature the Salem Choir. Terry Howard, a former Salem resident-turned U.S. serviceman-turned Salem houseparent will also talk about his experiences at Salem, first as a child and then as a parent responsible for children who were like himself.

Howard came to Salem in 1990 at the age of 11. After leaving in 1995, he graduated from Beall High School in 1997 and obtained an AA degree in criminal justice from Allegany College.

In 2001, he enlisted in the U.S. Army, where he served 2½ years. Six months of his term were spent as a tank commander in Kuwait with Operation Enduring Freedom. Howard enrolled in Bowie State University's online ROTC course before leaving active duty in August 2003. He remains in the National Guard with the military police.

Howard returned to Salem as a teaching parent in February of this year and plans to attend Frostburg State University to pursue a bachelor's degree in social work.

"Coming back to work at Salem after living here for five years has been a career-altering experience," Howard said. "I love what I do, and to know that I'm a difference-maker in the lives of young people is an exceptional feeling. I often look at certain kids and see myself 10 years ago.

"Terry is such a blessing to us!" said Salem's executive director Louise Richards. "We love every single child who has come our way in the past 26 years, and it's an indescribable experience to watch one of them in a teaching parent role. Terry has come full circle. All of us hope and pray that our children will grow into responsible, caring, giving adults; in Terry we can plainly see that those prayers have been answered."

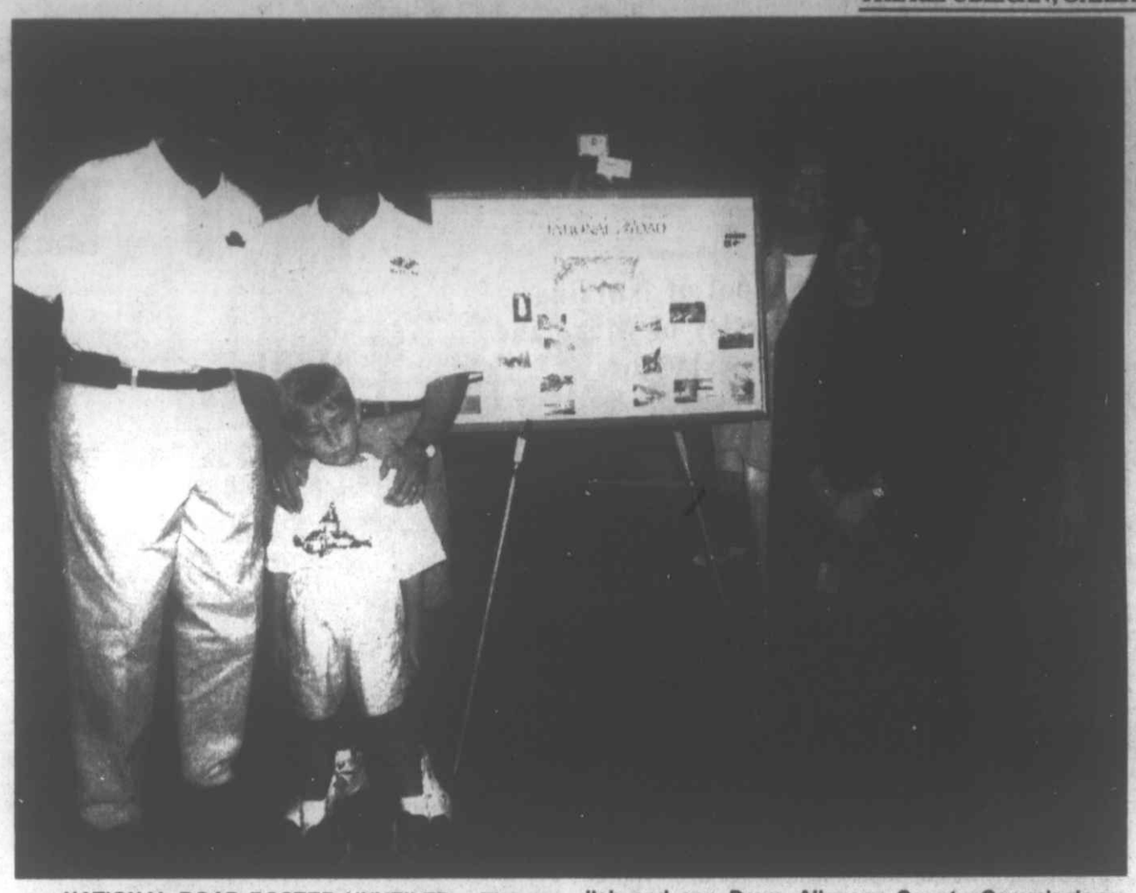
This year's auction will once again feature a wide selection of items donated by area businesses and individuals. One new item is a sushi dinner for four, provided by Dr. Liju Fan – senior scientist of Kevric Company and cooking instructor for the Howard County Department of Recreation and Parks – in her home.

The OutSpokin' event takes its name from the mulit-agency Outspokin' for Kids bike ride across Maryland, begun in 1992 by the Maryland Association of Resources for Families and Youth. The original ride lost participants over the years, and eventually Salem's own Tom Ruckert rode mostly alone, raising $100,000 in 10 years of bicycling the 300-plus miles from Salem to Ocean City.

In 2003, Ruckert retired, and the bicycle ride became a double motorcyle event sponsored by the Watchmen of the Cristian Motorcyclists Association under the leadership of Dr. Terry Russell. It included a local 100-mile trip and a 1,000-mile Millenium Ride from the Salem home to Salem, N.C., and back. This year's Millenium Riders made round trip to Salem, Ind., to raise funds for Maryland Salem.

The Maryland Salem Children's Trust, off Lower New Germany Road near the Garrett-Allegany County line, provides home and family, counseling, and educational services to children who have been abused, neglected and abandoned.

To purchase tickets for the OutSpokin' Dinner or donate an auction item, persons may call Karen at 301-689-8176, ext. 206. Tickets are also available from First United Bank and Trust in McHenry, Grantsville, and Oakland.



NATIONAL ROAD POSTER UNVEILED – The revised "Western Maryland Historic National Road" poster was introduced at the recent Maryland Association of Counties summer conference. The poster, first produced in 1996, was updated and reprinted at the request of the three-county region's tourism and convention bureaus that use the poster at trade shows and conferences to promote the region. Shown from left are Lt. Gov. Michael Steele, Gov. Robert Ehrlich and son Drew, Allegany County Commissioner Barbara Roque, Peggy Jamison representing the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, and Shirley Wisenburg of the Allegany County Dept. of Tourism. The theme of the conference was "Monster Mash," which the three-county western Maryland booth reflected (as well as Jamison and Wisenburg). The poster was designed, researched, and produced by the Maryland Dept. of Planning, in cooperation with the Appalachian Regional Commission. A limited supply is available to the public. The posters may be found at the Garrett County Visitors Center as well as at the other western Maryland counties' visitor centers and the regional interstate welcome centers.

Savage Completes Recreation, Resort Specialist Course

Debra Savage, GRI for Long and Foster Realtors at Deep Creek Lake, has successfully completed a comprehensive two-day course focused on the "unique needs and practices of recreation and resort property sales and management."

Completing this course and becoming a recreation and resort specialist will offer Savage an increased nationwide network of real estate professionals to share information with and increased referral opportunities to better serve her clients and customers, noted a Long and Foster spokesperson.

The lives of seven young Garrett County children came to a sudden, tragic end on the morning of Thursday, Sept. 10, 1959, when their school bus was struck by a B&O train at the railroad crossing between Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn.

REMEMBERING THE CHILDREN

NANCY HARVEY

SHIRLEY LEE LEE HOFFMAN RICHARD HINKLE

These precious children will be remembered on the 45th anniversary of that horrific event with a ceremony on Friday, September 10, and the dedication of a beautiful monument at that ceremony will guarantee that they are never forgotten.

Two sisters of one of the victims of the tragedy have spent a large sum of their own money to help bring the project to fruition. A special fund has been established by the Mayor and Town Council of Mtn. Lake Park to help defray these expenses. Individuals, businesses, and organizations are humbly requested to consider making a tax deductible contribution to this fund. The names of all contributors, except those of donors who wish to remain anonymous, will be published in this newspaper and noted at the dedication. All contributions, no matter the amount, will be greatly appreciated.

YES! I/We want to play a role in preserving the memories of these children!

Children's Programs At REL Promote The Joy Of Reading

The Ruth Enlow Library has released its fall slate of children's programs at the Oakland library and branch locations in Accident and Grantsville. There are programs designed for every age and grade level, from infants through high school seniors.

Oakland Library

•LapSit: Designed for children ages from birth to 3, this nine-week program will meet Mondays, Oct. 4 - Nov. 29, from 10:30 to 11 a.m. LapSit promotes motor coordination, language development, visual perception, and mental stimulation.

•Children's Hour: Designed for preschoolers ages 3-5, this year-round program (with a break for August) meets each Wednesday from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Children's Hour provides stories, crafts, and other stimulating activities.

•Kids' Book Club: Designed for students in grades one through three, this club meets every second and fourth Tuesday at 4 p.m. during the months of September through November, as well as March and April. (The club will not meet from December through February.) Students must be pre-registered to attend. To register, or for further information, persons may call librarian Dorene Rogers at 301-334-3996, ext. 115.

•Young Readers Club: A book discussion group for students age 9 to 11, this group will meet the first Thursday of each month from October through May (with the exception of January) from 4:15 to 5:15 p.m. The first meeting, set for Oct. 4, will feature a discussion of The BFG by Roald Dahl. Young Readers' Club book discussion participants may visit or call the Oakland library at the number listed below to reserve a copy of the book for the first meeting.

•Teen Book Club: This book discussion group for students ages 12 and older will kick off its fall season with a Saturday, Sept. 18, meeting set to begin at 2 p.m. The group will be discussing Prospero's Children by Jan Siegel. Successive meetings are slated for the Saturdays of Oct. 30, Dec. 11, Feb. 5, March 19, and May 7. Interested readers may stop by or call the Oakland library to reserve a copy of the book for the first meeting.

For information about any of the children's programs at the Oakland location, or to reserve a book that is being discussed, persons may call the library at 301-334-3996.

Accident Branch

•LapSit: The Accident branch's LapSit program will meet Wednesday mornings, from Sept. 15 to Nov. 17, from 10:30 to 11 a.m. (See Oakland listing for LapSit details.)

•Children's Hour: Accident's Children's Hour program will meet each Wednesday, Sept. 15 to Nov. 17, from 11 a.m. to noon. (See Oakland listing for Children's Hour details.)

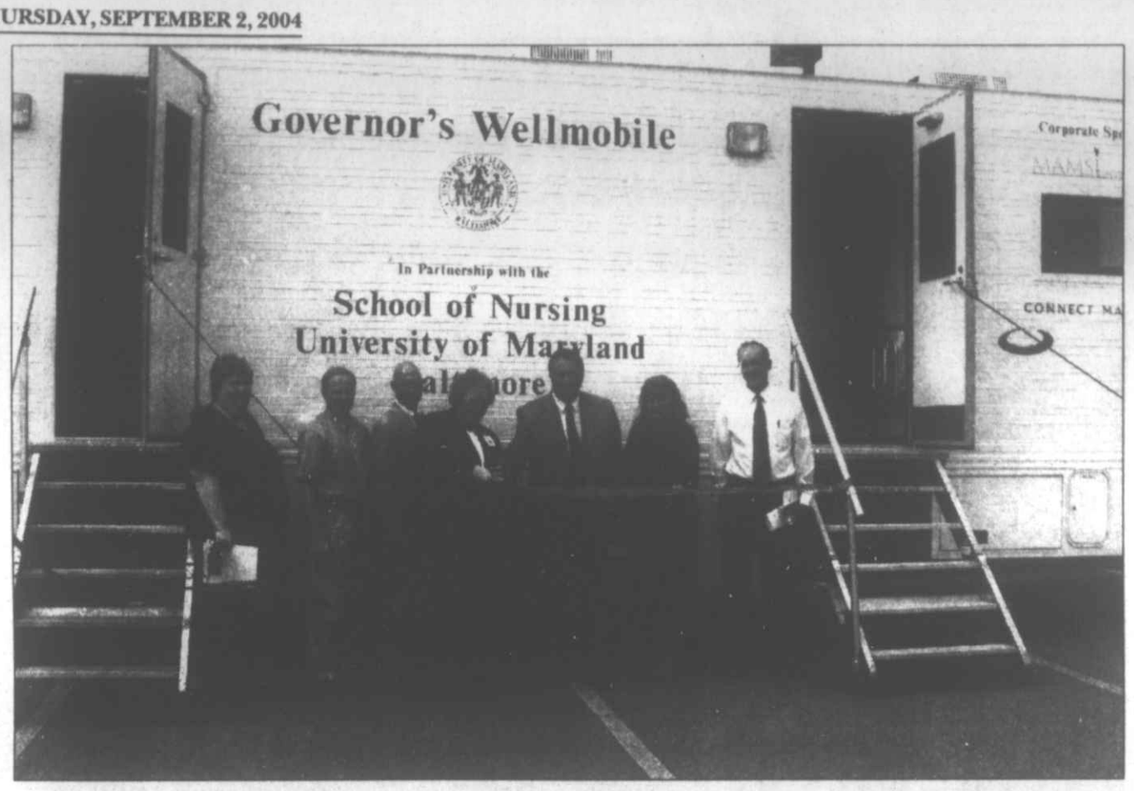
For further information about the Accident branch's programs, persons may call the library at 301-746-8792.

Grantsville Branch

•Preschool Story Time: Designed for children ages 3 to 5, the Grantsville branch's Preschool Story Time will be offered from 11 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. beginning Friday, Sept. 17. (Parents should note that Friday is a new day for the Story Times, as they had previously been offered on Tuesdays.)

•Kindergarten through third grade programs: Grantsville branch staffers are currently planning a few programs for kindergarten through third grade this fall, but the dates are not set yet. The K-3 programming will follow a reading club format.

For information about the programs at the Grantsville branch, persons may call the library at 301-895-5298.



RIBBON-CUTTING CEREMONY HELD – A ribbon-cutting ceremony was held last Thursday for a new site for the Governor's Wellmobile. A full-service health clinic on wheels, the Wellmobile will be at the Garrett County Health Department, Oakland, on Thursdays from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Comprehensive physical exams, immunizations, well childcare, health screenings, and other health care services to uninsured and underserved children and adults will be available. Established in 1994 as a partnership among the public, private, and philanthropic sectors, the Wellmobile Program is operated by the University of Maryland School of Nursing and staffed by its nurse practitioner faculty and students. The Wellmobile currently serves more than 40 sites across Maryland. For more information, persons may call the Health Department at 301-334-7777. Pictured, left to right, are nurse coordinator Bea Lamm, MS, RN; Wendell Teets, superintendent of Garrett County schools; Kerry Hummel, Western Maryland Area Health Education Center; director Rebecca Wiseman, University of Maryland School of Nursing Wellmobile Program; Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County health officer; Brenda Frantz, representing Congressman Roscoe Bartlett's office; and Tom Rosser, Garrett County Department of Social Services. Annual Meeting Set For Friends Of Ruth Enlow

The Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library will hold its annual meeting on Thursday, Sept. 16, at 7 p.m. in the Oakland library. New officers will be elected, and refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Featured speakers will include Irene Padilla, assistant state superintendent for the Maryland State Department of Education Library Development and Services, and author Brad Barkley.

Padilla oversees the Division of Library Development and Services. As the state library agency, the division administers state and federal programs to improve library services in public schools and libraries throughout the state. Padilla will speak about state and federal laws pertaining to public libraries.

Padilla became the director of the Harford County Public Library System in August 1994, and in that capacity led the system through a period of rapid growth, a spokesperson said. During her tenure, the system had nine branches and a staff of 338 employees. She developed and managed an annual budget of $10.6 million, plus a capital improvement budget of $10.5 million. Prior to becoming director of the Harford system, she served as deputy director from 1990 to 1994. She has also worked for libraries in Virginia and Michigan.

Padilla earned both a bachelor of arts degree and a master of science in librarianship degree from Western Michigan University. She also holds a master's degree in public administration from George Mason University.

Brad Barkley, an associate professor at Frostburg State University, teaches creative writing. His latest novel, Alison's Automotive Repair Manual, is a story in which automotive repair doubles as grief therapy. It is set in a small town in West Virginia, where a newly widowed young woman tries to delay putting her life back together, the spokesperson said. His previous novel, Money, Love, was named one of the best books of 2000 by the Washington Post and the Library Journal, and Book magazine named him one of the "Breakthrough Writers You Need to Know About."

Barkley has won fellowships from the Maryland State Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Arts, and his short fiction has appeared in such magazines as the Southern Review, Glimmer Train, the Oxford American, the Georgia Review, Book magazine, and the Virginia Quarterly Review, which has twice awarded him the Emily Balch Prize for Best Fiction.

Barkley, a native of North Carolina, holds a bachelor of arts degree from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and a master of arts degree from the University of Arkansas. He lives in western Maryland with his wife and two children.

The Friends of the Ruth Enlow Public Library of Garrett County is organized to bring together fellow citizens who value and wish to support their public library.

Registration Date Slated For ACT Assessment Test

College-bound high school students may take the ACT Assessment on Oct. 23, the next national test date. The deadline for postmark registration is Sept. 17. The late registration deadline is Oct. 1. Students can get registration materials from their guidance counselor or register on-line at www.actstudent.org.

ACT scores are accepted by virtually all colleges in the nation, including all Ivy League schools. The exam states. Students can find the closest testing location by searching on ACT's web site.

Some students perform better on the ACT because it is based on achievement, not aptitude, said a spokesperson for ACT. The ACT exam includes four parts: English, reading, mathematics, and science. It takes three hours to complete. The test fee is $28.

Free sample tests are available from high school counselors, and sample questions can be found on ACT's web site, which also offers inexpensive practice tests.

Beginning in February 2005, an optional writing test will be added to the ACT Assessment. Since many colleges will not require a writing score, students will only have to take the writing test if their college requires it. Otherwise, they may opt for the regular ACT Assessment without the writing test. Students who plan to start college in the fall of 2006 should check with prospective colleges to find out if a writing score is required.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• The technique of fingerprinting was originally created for use in studying heredity, not criminology.

• It's still not known who made the following observation: "An example from the monkey: The higher it climbs, the more you see of its behind."

• Consider it a case of cosmic justice: In Los Angeles, a man named Edward Musgrove had been separated from his wife, and he was decidedly unhappy about the situation. She was a city bus driver, and as she began her route one evening, Edward, enraged, attacked her. Grabbing the steering wheel, he caused the bus to veer off the road, hit a tree and crash into a brick wall. Although his estranged wife was uninjured, Edward was thrown through the windshield and decapitated.

• The Prudential Insurance Company was originally known as "Widows and Orphans Friendly Society."

• There is actually a device used to measure audience laughter on TV shows: It's called a "mackenzie."

• Ever wonder where the word "clock" came from? It's derived from the word meaning "bell" in several languages: In Old North French, "cloque" meant "bell"; in Middle Irish it was "clocc," and the Welsh word is "cloch." Middle English derived the word "clok" from these and other sources at around the same time that mechanical clocks were first invented.

• Danny DeVito, Drew Barrymore, Jennifer Aniston, Brad Pitt, Prince and Anthony Hopkins are all vegetarians.

• In an attempt to bring back his most famous and beloved character, Mark Twain once wrote a book called "Tom Sawyer, Detective."

• On Sept. 10, 1897, even without Breathalyzers and line tests, George Smith's swerving was enough to alarm British police and make him the first person ever arrested for drunken driving.

• On Sept. 11, 1930, Katherine Anne Porter's first collection of short stories, "Flowering Judas," is published. During her lifetime, she published only 25 stories and one novel, "Ship of Fools," which took her more than two decades to complete.

• On Sept. 9, 1942, a floatplane launched from a Japanese submarine drops incendiary bombs on an Oregon state forest — the first and only attack on the U.S. mainland during World War II.

• On Sept. 12, 1953, six months after the death of Soviet leader Joseph Stalin, Nikita Khrushchev succeeds him with his election as first secretary of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. Khrushchev would rule until 1964, when Leonid Brezhnev, his protege and deputy, organized a successful coup against him.

• On Sept. 8, 1966, "Star Trek" premieres as the crew of the U.S.S. Enterprise takes off on their mission to "boldly go where no man has gone before." Although "Star Trek" ran for only three years and never placed higher than No. 52 in the ratings, Gene Roddenberry's series became a cult classic and spawned four TV series and nine movies.

• On Sept. 6, 1972, during the Summer Olympics in Munich, an attempt by West German police to rescue nine Israeli Olympic team members held hostage by Palestinian terrorists ends when all nine Israeli hostages are killed, along with five terrorists and one German policeman, in an extended firefight.

Help Dog Adjust to New Baby

Q. "Buck," our chocolate lab, has been a beloved member of our family for a long time. But now we're bringing home a new baby, and I'm sure this will upset the mix for a little while. Is there any way to ease the transition of a new child into our dog's life? — Karen T., Knoxville, Tenn.

A. Give Buck as much TLC as you can in the whirlwind days surrounding the homecoming of your new baby. He'll probably feel left out and somewhat confused at the disruption in his routine, as well as the reduced amount of attention he's getting. However, it shouldn't be too traumatic if you try and include him as much as possible.

Any interactions between your newborn and Buck should be supervised — preferably with the baby in your arms. He should certainly come over and get a chance to see — and smell — the new addition. And if he looks a bit uncertain about the meeting, have plenty of treats in your pocket to give him when he's done meeting the baby.

Most Labs I've known have been very accepting of children, and I have heard stories of them being fiercely protective of toddlers. So, both Buck and the new baby should be fine. I do recommend establishing a new routine with him as soon as possible, and making a special effort to spend at least 30 minutes to an hour each day practicing basic obedience. He'll love the attention and will adapt to the new schedule — and the new family dynamic — quite nicely.

Q. I have a glass plate that has an image of Herbert Hoover and the words "President Herbert Hoover" etched on it. It has been in my family for many years, and I would like to find out its approximate value. — Anastazia, Decatur, Ill.

A. During this summer of campaigning, political collectibles have never been more popular. Your plate was probably issued during the presidential race of 1932 that pitted Hoover against Franklin Roosevelt.

Although there are numerous reference books and price guides available at most larger bookstores, you might want to begin your search by contacting Joe Doerring, a Hoover collector and expert. His address is P.O. Box 35351, Des Moines, IA 50315. A second resource is the Herbert Hoover Library, 211 Parkside Drive, P.O. Box 488, West Branch, IA 52358.

Q. I have a phonograph with a turntable that plays all three speeds of recordings. The needle is missing, and I would like to find another one so that I can use it again. Any suggestions? — Shirley, Staarsburg, N.Y.

A. First, check your nearest Radio Shack. Needles for most of the older machines are available through the company's catalog sales.

If that fails, there are several companies that might be able to help you, namely G.M. Wylie Company, P.O. Box AA, Washington, PA 15301; Mike Zuccaro, 8795 Corvus St., San Diego, CA 92126; and Yesterday Once Again, P.O. Box 6773, Huntington Beach, CA 92615.

Q. I have a child's walking stick that was crafted in 1925. How can I find out its value? — Karen, via e-mail

A. Henry Taron, owner of Tradewinds Antiques and Auctions, is a cane and walking stick expert. His address is P.O. Box 249, Manchester, MA 01944. You might also contact the Cane Collectors of America, 2 Horizon Road, Suite G18, Fort Lee, NJ 07024.

Grantsville Center Seminar To Cover "Fad" Diet Details

A seminar titled "Facts and Fallacies about Fad Diets" will begin at 10 a.m. Friday, Sept. 17, at the Grantsville Outreach Center of Garrett College. The one-hour session is free, but participants are asked to register in advance.

The course will address confusion caused by the numerous diet books, magazine articles, and news reports that address the topic of weight loss, according to a spokesperson, who added that consumers are often exposed to misleading information about dieting and receive conflicting advice about what and what not to eat.

"Increasing emphasis on health and fitness is motivating many Americans to try to lose weight, and the weight reduction business has become very profitable," the spokesperson said. "Unfortunately, there are many myths about controlling weight. This class addresses misleading nutritional claims related to fad diets with the main focus on the various diets promoted by the mass media such as Atkins, Dr. Phil, and South Beach."

The facilitator for the discussion will be Dr. Jennifer Thorn Bentlejewski, registered dietitian and Extension educator with the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service. The seminar is sponsored by the service in coordination with the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College.

For more information or to register, persons may contact Terry Beachy at the Grantsville Outreach Center at 301-895-3368 or via email at tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Computer Classes Slated For Sept. At Garrett College

Garrett College has scheduled several computer courses — Microsoft Power Point, File Management, a Microsoft Excel Crash Course, and Quickbooks: Beginner Level — for this month at the McHenry campus.

Microsoft Power Point will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. on Tuesdays, Sept. 7-21. Participants will learn the advantages of using Power Point as a quick and innovative tool for speaker notes, handouts, slides, and other presentations.

File Management will be offered from 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursdays, Sept. 9-23. The course will provide an overview of file and directory naming practices, the use of standard file extensions without overloading directories, and knowledge of the storage devices and media available to backup, preserve and secure documents.

A one-session Microsoft Excel Crash Course will meet from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 10. Designed for beginning level users of Microsoft Excel, the class topics will include workbooks, formulas, formatting a worksheet, working with functions, formulas and print options, and using advanced formatting and editing techniques.

QuickBooks: Beginner Level is a six-hour offering slated for 9 a.m. to noon on Wednesday and Friday, Sept. 21 and 23. The course will cover topics including creating a new QuickBooks company, modifying the preset chart of accounts, adding information to company lists, opening and using registers for any QuickBooks balance sheet accounts, and reconciling a QuickBooks checking account.

For additional information about these courses, persons may contact the college's Continuing Education and Training Division at 301-387-3069.

GC Sets Child Care Workers Training Class

A child-care workers training course will be offered at Broad Ford Elementary School from 6 to 9:15 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays, beginning Tuesday, Sept. 14. The 90-hour course is required by the state of Maryland for persons seeking employment at child care centers, as senior staff for Head Start programs, or as directors of small centers.

This course is being offered by the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College. For more details or for registration information, interested persons should contact Patricia Baer 301-334-8304.

Underwood Church Sets Homecoming

The Underwood Church of the Brethren will host its Homecoming festivities on Sunday, Sept. 12, with a 1 p.m. covered dish dinner and a 2:30 p.m. program featuring special music performances by church members. For information, persons may call 301-334-5777.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS

More than 100 residents, past and present, attended each of the two-day events held Aug. 20 and 21 in celebration of Loch Lynn's first homecoming. The picnic with corn, hot dogs, and covered dishes on Friday evening also included prizes, citizen and youth of the year awards, and musical entertainment. Saturday's events were numerous donkey with cart rides, auto cruise-in, Civil War encampment, musical entertainment, K-9 demonstrations, historical displays, bicycle and helmet safety booth, storytelling, MSP booth, Smokey Bear, cake walks, and food booths. Musical entertainment was sponsored in part by several businesses. These events provided an opportunity for people to spend time getting reacquainted. The mayor and council said they appreciated the efforts of those who helped make this event a great success.

The next regular scheduled council meeting will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 7, at 7 p.m., at the town hall.

ANNUAL STREET FAIR

The Grace Lutheran Church in Friendsville will hold its annual Street Fair on Saturday, Sept. 4, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., rain or shine. There will be a tent covering the bazaar and baked goods tables outside. Back by popular demand are the various soups that will be sold by the quart or by the bowl, as well as sandwiches and homemade desserts. There will be a special section for carryout orders.

Anyone wishing to donate baked goods or items for the bazaar tables can bring them the morning of the Street Fair.

THE SINGING POLICEMAN

The Selbysport United Methodist Church will sponsor Danny Figgins, "The Singing Policeman," on Saturday, Sept. 18, beginning at 6:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

RED CROSS BLOODMOBILE

The August 23 bloodmobile visit to the Friendsville Fire Hall netted 19 full pints and two partial units. Twenty-four people presented, with three deferrals. There was one first-time donor.

The next visit will be in December. Volunteers assisting were Genevieve Serio, Helen Holliday, Esther Benedict, Brian Benedict, and Clint Suter.

SENIOR CITIZEN NEWS

The center will be closed on Monday, Sept. 6, in observance of Labor Day. There will be a pig roast at the Deep Creek State Park on Friday, Sept. 17, beginning at 11 a.m. The cost per person is $5. Tickets are available at the center.

ANNIVERSARY PARTY

A surprise wedding anniversary party was given on August 7 in honor of Rick and MaryAnn Umbel's 30th anniversary. The party was given by their daughters Dawn and Chrissy, with the help of family and friends. Over 100 people attended the celebration. Rick and MaryAnn would like to thank everyone who came and helped them celebrate.

IN HONOR AND REMEMBRANCE

Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 will conduct a special patriotic ceremony to honor the heroes and victims of Sept. 11, 2001, and to salute the local heroes who protect the community.

The ceremony, called "In Honor and Remembrance – Woodmen Salutes America's Heroes," will include recognition of the police officers, firefighters, members of the Armed Forces, and others who help safeguard the community and our nation throughout the year.

WOW Lodge 45 will hold the ceremony at the Friendsville Community Park on Saturday, Sept. 11, at 6 p.m. The program will include the Accident Community Band remembering local firemen who have passed away. For more information, persons may contact Mary Frantz at 301-746-5331.

LIBRARY NEWS

The Friendsville Library Quilters will be holding a planning session for a new project on Tuesday, Sept. 7, at 11 a.m. at the library.

COLLECTING ALUMINUM CANS

Mary Ann Umbel is currently collecting aluminum cans with the proceeds to go toward the Tim Umbel Memorial Scholarship Fund. Anyone who has cans that they would like to donate to this cause may do so by contacting Mary Ann at 301-746-5109. She will come pick them up. The Tim Umbel Memorial Scholarship Fund is a scholarship set up by Coach Paul Edwards of the Northern High School boys' basketball team in Tim's name to be presented to a NHS senior boy or girl athlete who has played four years of basketball, is a leader in the community, and has achieved the academic requirements set forth by the fund. The fund is through the First United Bank, and donations can also be made at any bank location in Tim's name.

SPEAR REUNION

The annual Spear reunion will be held on Saturday, Sept. 11, at the Mt. Fellowship Center. The covered dish dinner will begin at 1 p.m.

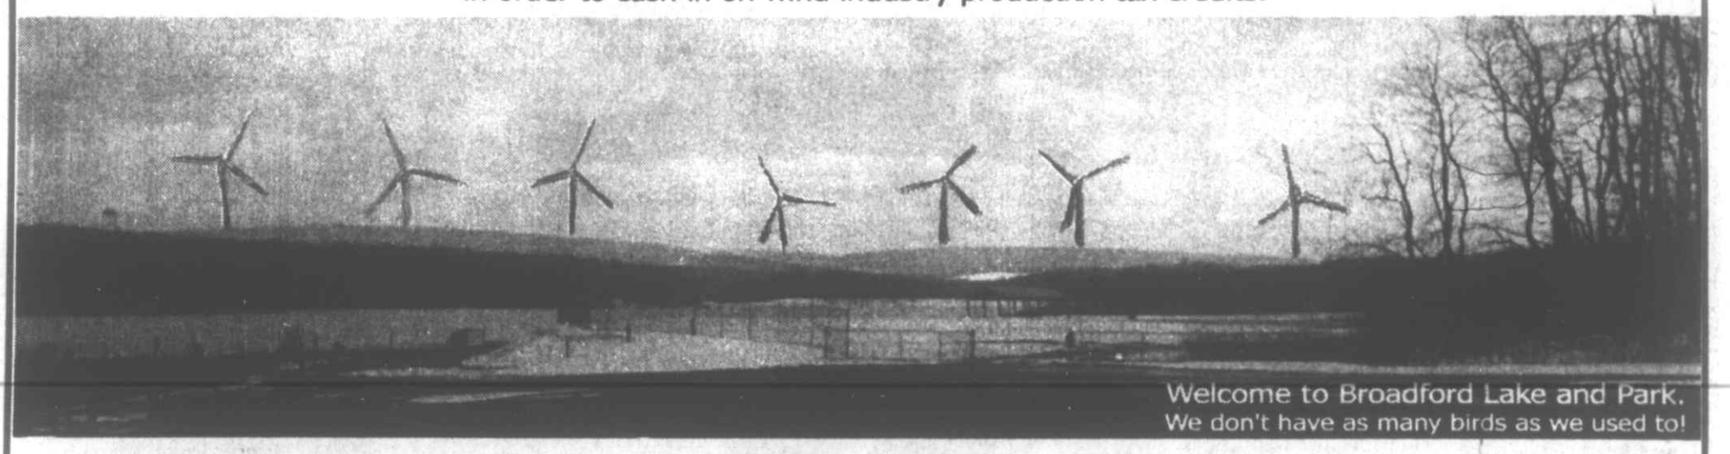
IS THIS WHAT YOU WANT TO SEE IN GARRETT COUNTY?

Multinational energy corporations plan to clear-cut spectacular Western Maryland ridgelines in order to cash in on wind industry production tax credits.



Welcome to Broadford Lake and Park.
We don't have as many birds as we used to!

92 wind turbines 400 feet tall (40 stories) are already approved for Backbone and Big Savage Mountains in Garrett and Allegany Counties. Another 24 huge turbines are now proposed atop Backbone south of US 50, while 40 more are soon to be proposed for Dan's Mountain. Hundreds more will likely follow.

DON'T LET IT HAPPEN!
ACT NOW.

"The long-term economic disadvantages of wind farm development continue the historic exploitation of [our natural] resources by distant capital...."
–Congressman Alan Mollohan, West Virginia, 2004

INDUSTRIAL WIND: BAD FOR OUR ECONOMY and THREATENS OUR ENVIRONMENT

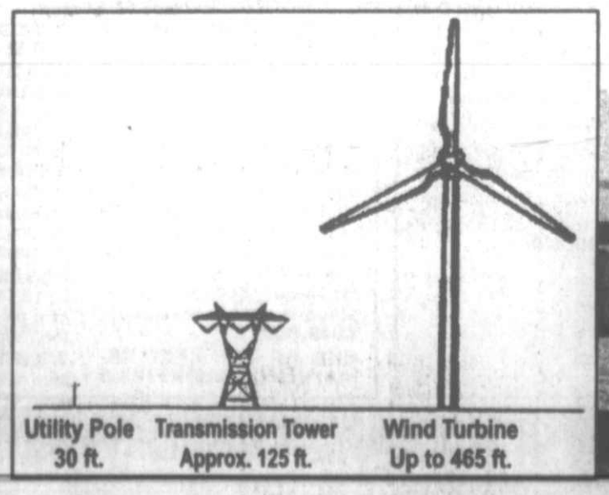
FACT: Power created by wind turbines will be sold to consumers outside Garrett County who won't have to live with the noise and visual pollution.

FACT: Wind power sounds glamorous and progressive but it is actually very inefficient, producing electrical energy on average only 30 percent of the time. Wind energy facilities are often called "wind farms," but this development is highly industrial and not really analogous to agriculture.

FACT: Wind power will not affect our dependence on foreign oil. The amount of wind power that is potentially available in the East is small compared to our gluttonous energy demand. Unfortunately the mining and burning of fossil fuels to supply the East with electricity will continue to increase–even if all potential areas for wind energy were tapped by tens of thousands of huge turbines.

FACT: No state or federal siting regulations exist to ensure that wind facilities are environmentally sound and do not harm property values, heritage views, wildlife, or public lands. While wind power developers projected only 1-2 deaths per tower per year, last year the 44 wind turbines near Thomas, WV, killed over 4,000 birds and bats! Backbone Mountain, the highest in Maryland, is a documented migratory flight path. Native songbirds, bats, hawks, and eagles will be threatened–especially during migration periods. Thoughtful environmental groups such as the Maryland Chapter of the Sierra Club and the Audubon Naturalist Society have expressed concern about wind plant risks.

FACT: The massive turbines will create light and noise pollution with strobes that pulse 24/7. Sound levels that are more than 30 times that of natural background conditions have been recorded at a considerable distance from the newest wind turbines in Pennsylvania, and there is growing concern that the low-level sound from large wind turbines may be injurious to human health. Backbone Mountain would be jeopardized as a natural heritage resource.



FACT: Property values plummet when views are diminished and noise and light pollution intrude. Real estate transactions have already failed because of the projected Pleasant Valley wind plant. Property owners will suffer losses and real estate tax revenues will be negatively impacted.

FACT: INDUSTRIAL WIND PLANTS WILL NOT create significant revenue for our local communities or the State of Maryland, despite empty promises to do so. Instead they will be subsidized with your tax dollars and increased consumers costs. Industrial windplants will also likely adversely affect tourism, which currently brings Western Maryland significant income.

FACT: INDUSTRIAL WINDPLANTS WILL NOT contribute to significant local employment. Construction crews are technical workers–often foreign–especially trained and contracted for the job.

DON'T LET IT HAPPEN!

PLEASE contact your County Commissioners now.
•Garrett County Commissioners at 301-334-8970
•Allegany County Commissioners at 301-777-5911
Tell them that you do not want wind turbines atop Backbone Mountain, Big Savage Mountain or Dan's Mountain. Urge them to enforce Garrett County's Heritage Plan to protect Backbone as a natural heritage site and to place a moratorium on all wind projects until appropriate and enforceable siting guidelines are developed.

PLEASE contact our Senators now and urge them to work with the Senators from West Virginia to study the effects of–and enact siting regulations for–wind projects, thereby protecting private lands, state parks, national forests, and historical/natural landmarks.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Most of the time the Olympic torch even lights up the far away farm in Bittinger. But the home of the Olympics in Athens has only shed more gloom here on me. It only shows how far away we are from peace in the world and good will among all peoples of the world.

Just one example was the success of the Iraqi men's soccer team. Some people cheered for them as a way to show their hate of America, while the president claims their success is his victory. Meanwhile, more western hostages are taken in Iraq and more bombs exploding in Afghanistan. I was heartsick to see a wrestler from Iran defeat an American wrestler. It is sad to say that our conflict with Iran is still ongoing in my heart. In fact, I was very depressed to have seen so many combat sports – boxing, wrestling, Tae Kwon Do, etc. which seem to have gotten more coverage than the ordinary sports like track and field, swimming, and soccer.

It was pretty sad to see our "powerhouse" men's basketball team that couldn't win in international competition. You can't escape the realization of how political the judging in the subjective events like diving, gymnastics, wrestling, etc., can be, where the nationality of a judge can determine the score of a performance involving their location.

One thing that never changes is the medal counts that always reflect the power of nations. Yes, we still are on top most of the time. Always close behind are the Russians, Japanese, Chinese, and Germans.

I can't bear to watch the world that I have to send my girls into, how shallow and valueless it is. When you watch any serious news programs you really know how bad things are. I know already just from my mail when every child or disabled, environment nonprofit organization has to depend on others like me to pay their way. It is pretty bad. While we see our beautiful county disappearing to development of million-dollar houses and forests being ravaged to provide the lumber for them.

If it is true that this upcoming election is too close to call, it is pretty bad. Will Rogers once said, "You never go broke by underestimating the stupidity of Americans." About half of Americans can't see how bad things really are. Will Rogers hit the nail on the head. Our children deserve better and so does our environment and helpless people. A lot of people can only see their own self-interests as long as they can afford a mansion as their vacation home and afford a luxury car and gas in its tank to drive up to it, enjoy the little nature still surviving around it, and they don't give a thought about the homeless or the huge number of fellow Americans who are living under the poverty line, like myself. They are just invisible like me. People prefer to not be aware of me because it is just too depressing to imagine how it is for me. I always had a large appetite for life and now I am unable to go out and grab a piece of it. Quite frankly, I am starving to death for it. I wish I could forget the taste of it or just not care about anything, because to care and be powerless to do anything about it is fruitless.

It is hard to believe that only a couple weeks ago I lamented in this column how chilly it was in Bittinger, but now it is so hot that I needed an ice pack on my head to go to sleep last night. Even during this heat wave I know the winter is only just around the corner and I will not need a couple fans but a working furnace, which is unaffordable for me. I am paralyzed from dread and fear. It is so hard for me to get around and live night after night alone. It is hard to walk without blinding pain.

I wish I could believe when and if I turn 75 years old my children would invite a handful of close friends to a big beautiful birthday party for me like my mother, Ruth DiPaolo, enjoyed last Saturday evening at Point View Inn. Besides her children and grandchildren, attending were Betty Sacra of Winchester, Va., and her cousin, Lucille Ritter of Cumberland, and Lesa and Maddy Whittemore. Bob King of Las Vegas stopped by, as he is visiting his daughter Lesa, for the summer.

I don't think Grand Dame could have wished for a more wonderful crowd of her good-looking and smart grandchildren, her four loving children and in-laws, and friends around her on her birthday. She has so many friends that the planners of the party, Rodney and Carol, had to be very selective as far as who rated an invitation. In spite of some very tragic events in her life, she always was a very lucky lady. I think she is lucky to have a 51-year-old daughter who still needs her enough that when she took a road trip with Betty on Sunday after her party I was in panic because I couldn't reach out and touch her. It was almost as bad as I feel when I can't talk to Claire.

I wish I had someone in my life who needed me that much. My mother could fix anything (almost). She was able to get my riding clothes clean overnight after a muddy Saturday horse show and have them ready for another one on Sunday. When my financial aid at college was in a tangle of red tape it only took a phone call to her to fix it. But even she can't fix the nightmare my life has turned to these days. Only Jesus Christ himself can get someone out of Hell. I guess he can't do that for me now no matter how hard I pray to have mercy on me. Maybe one person has only one miracle in their account and it is sad to say my one was used when I survived my aneurism, which now seems like an unfortunate fate.

I guess another cold front collided with a hot front above Meadow Mountain in the last hour or so, as it got almost too cool. I hear more rumbling above the ridge and I guess it is a good thing because we do need more rain. Let's hope the reason I feel so over-emotional today is because a thunderstorm is brewing over my head. It always does that to me. I know from experience that a hot-blooded horse needs more care and love than a placid cold-blooded plow horse. They also can do more things but are also more prone to breaking down.

My top priority as a groom for elite jumpers was to be able to keep their mind and body better than almost anyone. It was hard for the poor things to be cooped in a stall when they want to run free like lucky "Little Joe," who never had to live in a stall all the time. It took a lot of time to keep those elite show horses in top form because their lifestyle was so unnatural. Joey was able to live free almost his whole life, roaming as he wanted in our big pasture with a handy shelter to get away from the hot sun or flies, rain or snow. That is why he never was lame or sick or unhappy, and able to give world-class performances every time. He was able to die where he lived and loved. He had the best life any horse could want; filled with excitement, travel, good health, friends, and so much love. A life that even a billion dollars can't buy for people. That is why he was as beautiful the day he died at 31 years old as he was when I first saw him when he stood beside his mother. I saw in his eyes my destiny. I knew he was my horse, as no other horse would do for me. No one can want more than spending a lifetime with a true soul mate. I am only sorry that he had to leave this life before me. But I am pretty sure that we will jump clouds in the sky. Then we both will be happy again. Even the biggest black thunderhead would not be too scary for him to jump. It used to be so easy to escape all cares by jumping on his back and galloping away, soaring over every obstacle such as fallen logs, gates, fences, ditches, creeks, and even a picnic table. Nothing could stop us, not even a seven-foot-high hedge on a cross country course, because he knew I would never ask him to jump anything he couldn't.

Shelli Rodehaver and I discussed on August 23rd the possibility of establishing of therapeutic riding on the farm in Sang Run formerly owned by Jack Hinebaugh, which is called "Friend's Delight." It sounds like perhaps it would be a perfect place for many beneficial activities for a wide variety of community members. I know very well how beneficial for the disabled it is to achieve a measure of freedom to enjoy the outdoors on the back of a horse. Although I have had plenty of experience as an instructor of handicapped riding, I am very aware of how much work it took. In the past I did all the mounting process and I am physically unable to do that now. It would take much cooperation from the horse community, etc.

Shelli is working on a great proposal for a group that I think is called "Collision of Groups for Community Progress." Although I could interlink many activities which could benefit lots of people, since our first brainstorming talk my mind has been busy with family matters so I didn't make much progress with well thought out ideas so far.

The birthday wheel of Ruth DiPaolo and her chums continues to turn, as she and Lucy Ritter will travel to Betty's home in Winchester for a few more days of fun and work. So the deadline for this column suddenly was pushed up to this morning and not later this afternoon.

In other news on the local scene, Ferne Beachy and Sally Poholsky visited Bertha Rodamer in Springs, Pa., on Monday.

Sam and Cindy Stanton celebrated their 31st wedding anniversary on Sunday with dinner at the Will 'O the Wisp. Others attending were Lenny and Sally Poholsky, Aaron and Patty Stanton and Alyana, Ferne Beacky, and Dave and Nancy Beachy.

Taylor Glotfelty was honored with a family dinner served at the home of his grandmother, Donna Glotfelty, Monday evening. Taylor has since moved to Detroit, where he will be employed by Roush Industries as an automotive engineer. Roush contracts its engineering services to Ford Motor Company and also to NASCAR race teams.

Tom, Tim, and Donna Glotfelty visited Julius Carey at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland Wednesday evening. Julius was admitted there with head injuries incurred in a logging accident while working with heavy equipment in the woods near Cumberland earlier in the week. He has been discharged and is now recuperating at his Long Stretch home.

While en route to visit Julius in the hospital, the Glotfeltys had an unusual experience. While traveling through Brenneman's Grove, a large deer bounded over the rail fence, landing very near the left front fender of their car, and with another leap, jumped completely over the top of their Subaru, barely touching it, landing near the rail fence on the other side. With one more leap, he bounded over the fence and disappeared quickly into the woods...one "smart" deer that prevented havoc for all, that time!

Ida Reckner and Donna Glotfelty visited with Harriett Buckel Sunday afternoon at the Cherry Hill Assisted Living residence.

Olive Bender spent a couple weeks in the area, and has now completed moving to her new home in Ohio.

Amanda Platter, Smithsburg, spent several days here, and accompanied Lisa Platter and Donna Glotfelty on a bus trip to Atlantic City on Tuesday.

NEW FINANCING, NEW TITLE?

If you're like a lot of folks these days, you'd still like to take advantage of low mortgage interest rates (they will only go higher), and refinance your existing mortgage. A very important element of financing your home is title insurance, which protects you against any claims against your property.

A common question among those refinancing is whether or not they need to buy a new title when they do so. Even if your home is worth much more now than it was when you first financed it, there is likely no need for you to increase your homeowners title insurance coverage.

You should understand that your title insurance is not tied into your mortgage or even the changing value of your home. Your original policy protects you, and even your heirs, for as long as you own your current home. As long as you procured a solid insurance policy to begin with, the likelihood of a title error is so remote that you needn't look into getting a new one when you refinance.

Title insurance can be costly, so save your money! As you may have figured out by now, there are enough other costs involved in refinancing your homeowners loan. If you're really concerned about the standing of your policy, consult a real estate attorney. Any real estate agent can make a recommendation.

AURORA/EGLON

CRAFT, BAKE SALE AT ST. JOHN'S

The annual craft and bake sale will be held this Friday and Saturday, Sept. 3, from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m., and Sept. 4, from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. There will be hot dogs and beverages available and it will all take place at St. John's Lutheran Church in the social room. Proceeds will be divided between Camp Luther and CAMO mission, locally headed by Dr. Dona Alvarez.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY POSTPONES MEETING

The Aurora Area Historical Society's scheduled meeting for Sunday, Sept. 5, has been postponed until further notice.

STEMPLE RIDGE FESTIVAL SATURDAY

The annual Festival at Stemple Ridge United Methodist Church will begin at 5 p.m., Sept. 4, in the new church pavilion. Food will be available for sale and will include hot dogs and hamburgers, homemade ice cream, cake, and pie, among other items. Tickets will be available for a quilt and a blanket chest. Some apple butter is also available. All are welcome.

UTTERBACK BIRTH

Mark and Jill Utterback of Aurora announce the birth of a son on Wednesday, Aug. 25, in Monongalia General Hospital. Named Quintin Edward, the baby weighed 7 lbs. 15 ozs. at birth.

Paternal grandparents are Ed and Mary Utterback of Aurora, and maternal grandparents are Ron and Jane Deverick, of Danville, Ky.

WILSON BIRTH

D. J. and Carol Lipscomb of Oakland became the parents of their second child on Aug. 6 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The little girl weighed 6 lbs. 14 ozs. and has been named Kierra Anae. She has an older brother, Peyton.

Maternal grandparents are Gerald and Almeda Lipscomb of Horse Shoe Run. Virginia Evans and Donald Wilson, both Terra Alta, are the paternal grandparents.

AHS CLASSES OF '41 and '42 REUNION

When members of Aurora High School classes of 1941 and 1942 gathered Aug. 28 for their reunion, they were greeted by a welcome table decorated with a bouquet of dyed wild flowers and a display of garden vegetables, featuring a 12½ lb. head of cabbage. It also contained photos from previous reunions. Tables at the Aurora United Methodist Building were decorated with red and white garden mums and place favors of red and white dishcloth baskets containing candies. The meal was served by ladies of the church.

Following a short business session, all participated in sentence prayer grace for the meal. Those attending from the class of 1941 were Fred and Dorotha Forman of Amboy, Gay Rembold and friend, Carol of Cumberland, Eldred Wotring, his son Bill and wife, Fairmont.

From the class of 1942 were Helen Louise Lantz Shillingburg and daughter, Brenda; Mary Virginia (Lewis) Benson and friend, Walt; Ralph and Barbara Lee, George and Margaret Schrock, Mary (Stemple) Jackson, her daughter Patty, and granddaughter, Stacy; Arva (Wotring) and Stanley Baker, Mildred (Donham) and Hancell "Jake" Teets, and Kathy Hardesty.

Another reunion is planned for next year at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building, with the date Aug. 27 at 5 p.m. set for dinner. Cards were signed to be sent to those members who had been unable to attend and hand written their regrets.

Invitations for next year's reunion will be sent by Mary Jackson's granddaughter, Stacy D'Ursa.

PERSONAL MENTION

Prior to the beginning of school, a flurry of activity for youth took place at Maple Spring, with a trip for older youth to Hershey Park, for younger ones to Bedford Village, and a Sunday corn roast, hot dog toast, and hayride for all church attendees. This past Saturday, Maple Spring women provided lunch for the Leland and Sandy Teets auction, and served the West Marva District Men's Fellowship dinner with over 60 in attendance.

Members of Hauser and Evans families joined for a surprise birthday covered-dish meal at the Maple Spring pavilion on Aug. 27. The honoree was Gladys Evans Hauser who was celebrating her birthday.

AHS CLASS OF '64

The Aurora High School class of 1964 will hold its 40-year reunion at the Aurora Fire Hall on Oct. 16. Invitations will be mailed. Any class member with change of address since last reunion is asked to contact Doris Parks Crawford at 5436 Midship Court, Burke, VA 22015.

MAPLE GROVE CHURCH TO CELEBRATE 65TH

Maple Grove Assembly of God in Horse Shoe Run will be celebrating the 65th anniversary of the church on Sept. 11 and 12. The services will be at 6 p.m. on Saturday the 11th, and at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday, the 12th.

Saturday's speakers will be former pastors, Rev. James Stemple and Rev. Dave Parker. On Sunday, the Rev. A.W. Smith and host pastor, Rev. Robert J. Klier, will address the congregation. The theme for the weekend, "Laborers Together," is taken from 1 Corinthians 3:9.

The church is located on Accident Road at Horse Shoe Run, 1.6 miles from Rt. 24 north. There will be a dinner served following the Sunday morning service and there will be no Sunday evening service. Pastor Klier and the congregation extend an invitation to everyone!

Then, on Sept. 19, The Stevens Family will be at Maple Grove with a ministry in song and testimony. They will be at the 10:30 a.m. service.

International Literacy Day Tea Dates Set

The public is invited to join the Monongalia County Literacy Volunteers, a United Way agency, and several public libraries for a cup of tea to celebrate International Literacy Day on Wednesday, Sept. 8.

The first tea will be in Terra Alta from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Terra Alta Public Library. Preston County Literacy Volunteers will donate GED materials and a Spanish book to the library. There will be a PowerPoint presentation by AmeriCorp member Delisa Riley on the activities of Preston County Literacy Volunteers.

The second tea will be from 2 to 4 p.m. in Kingwood at the Kingwood Public Library. Tours of the PCLV computer lab will be available. There will also be GED materials and a Spanish book donation presentation. Riley will present the computerized photo album of PCLV.

The third tea will be from 6 to 8 p.m. in Morgantown at the Morgantown Public Library on Spruce Street. In addition to the tea, AmeriCorps member Nish Suvarnakar will provide tours of the Literacy Center. A book will be given to participants. Bill Torry will give a presentation at 6:30 p.m. on Cultural Adaptation and what it's like to be in a foreign country.

For additional information, persons may contact the Monongalia County Literacy Volunteers director Susie Huggins at 304-296-3400.

GED Preparation Classes To Be Offered Online

The Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) has launched a new option for those preparing for the GED (General Educational Development) tests to earn a Maryland High School Diploma by Examination – online preparation classes. The pilot program, offered by MSDE's Adult Education and Literacy Services branch, begins in September.

"This innovative program makes use of the Internet to provide interested Maryland residents a useful and very handy tool," said State Superintendent of Schools Nancy Grasmick. "It allows flexibility and privacy in GED instruction. We expect it to be a tremendous success."

Maryland residents 16 and older who lack a high school diploma and are no longer enrolled in school are eligible to apply for the program. It will be piloted by adult education programs in four Maryland counties: Calvert, Charles, Queen Anne's, and St. Mary's. Online classes start in September.

The four GED classes are designed to help adults prepare for the GED tests. The classes conducted online will use books and videotapes as support materials. Eligible learners who register will be scheduled to attend an orientation session to plan a course of study tailored to their needs.

"The 2000 Census data indicates there are more than 613,000 adults in Maryland 18 years and older who do not have a high school diploma," said Ralph Galvin, coordinator of the program for the Maryland State Department of Education's Adult Education branch. "Existing adult education programs serve up to 38,000, so there are many adults out there who could benefit from this type of program."

The goal of Maryland's online GED preparation pilot program is to expand services to as many people as possible who wish access to the program, but have barriers to enrolling in traditional classroom settings.

A special, streaming MSDE TV video features the president of Phillips Foods, Mark Sneed, and focuses on graduates of the GED program and the benefits of the new online pilot. It can be accessed on the MSDE homepage, www.marylandpublicschools.org, and under the "newsroom videos" menu.

Further information is available online at the Maryland Literacy Works, Adult Literacy Resource Center at www.umbc.edu/alrc or from the Adult Literacy Hotline, 1-800-358-3010.

GCSO Releases Statistics For Month Of August

A total of 1,652 control numbers were assigned for a variety of different functions requiring officer action throughout the month of August, according to Garrett County Sheriff Dick Sanders Jr.

Statistics were 16 arrests for driving under the influence of alcohol, 52 motor vehicle accidents requiring a deputy's response, 58 traffic complaints, 31 thefts, 9 controlled dangerous substance complaints resulting in seven adult arrests, 14 domestic violence complaints, 3 domestic violence assaults with 2 arrests for domestic assault, 13 destruction of property complaints, 61 traffic citations issued with 53 warnings, 70 patrol checks at businesses and residences, 36 alarms, 3 missing persons, 98 adult arrests, and 306 court papers served.

Sanders issued a reminder to motorists that the school year has resumed. Deputies will be conducting a "vigorous" campaign toward the enforcement of school bus safety laws, he added. The 2004 legislature has modified the fine for failure to stop for a school bus from $500 up to $1,000.

Persons with questions may contact the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911 or gcso@garrettcounty.org.

County Youth Excel in Raising Market Animals

Local youth enrolled in 4-H and FFA are given the opportunity to raise and sell market animals as a part of their project work. This year, 263 animals were available for buyers on the final night of the Garrett County Fair. Photos of the top rated animals and their buyers can be found in this edition of The Republican.

Featured among the market animals at the sale were many locally-bred steers, hogs, sheep, and goats. To be eligible for competition in this category, each exhibitor must provide proof of origin of their animals, and only those bred in Garrett County qualify.

The champion county-bred steer was sold by Becky Berkebile and purchased by Pine Lodge Steakhouse. The reserve county-bred steer was raised by Nathan Tichnell and purchased by Dr. David Tuel.

The top locally-raised hogs were sold by brothers Levi and Eli Green. Levi's champion county-bred hog was purchased by Rush Services. Eli's reserve champion county-bred hog was purchased by Mettiki Coal.

The county-bred champion lamb was raised by Justin Fitzwater and purchased by Doug's Auto & Truck Repair. The reserve champion county-bred lamb was sold by Adam Rexrode and was purchased by Mead Westvaco and donated to the Livestock Association.

Brothers Colton and Toby Grove sold the county-bred champion and reserve market goats. Their goats were purchased by Don and Pam Adams of Sweet Rewards Farm and Emma Rush, with her parents Rick and Linda Rush.

Southern States Local Member Election Held

Carl Bachtel of Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., and Herbert H. Myers of Kitzmiller were elected to the local board of directors at the Southern States annual membership meeting of Oakland Cooperative held at Pleasant Valley Community Center on August 26. More than 150 stockholder-members and their families attended.

Terry Hauser of Eglon, W.Va., was elected chairman of the local board of directors, while Herbert Myers was named vice chairman.

Elected to the Southern States Farm Home Advisory Committee were Laura Mason of Oakland and Jill Hauser of Eglon.

W. Brooks Hamilton of Red House was elected as delegate to a district election meeting to be held in Flatwoods, W.Va., this fall. Carl Bachtel was chosen as alternate.

The local meeting also included a report by Bill Kraft of French Creek, W.Va., Southern States' district manager, on major developments at the cooperative during the past year.

Reviewing local operations and services was Tom Hart, manager, Oakland Cooperative. He reported that total operating volume for the past year exceeded $3.8 million.

The session also included a special recognition ceremony for the newly elected and retiring board members and Farm Home Advisory Committee members. Those retiring include: Carl Bachtel, Herbert Myers, Brooks Hamilton, Laura Mason, and Laah Wolford.

Local employees receiving safe driving awards were Kevin Louie, 19 years; Wayne Jamison, 6 years; and Kevin Corbin, William DeBerry, and James Sisler, 1 year.

Additionally Kraft presented Hart with the President's Operating Excellence Award, the highest honor a Southern States manager can receive.

Other highlights of the meeting included the presentation of a gold watch to Arthur T. Bernard, who is retiring from Oakland Cooperative with over 24 years service, effective September 1. Special remarks were given by long-time Southern States employee Jesse Harsh and Harley Donham, a native of Aurora, W.Va., and retired vocational agriculture teacher. Both Kraft and Hart were students of Donham's while attending Grafton High School in

SUBSTITUTED TRUSTEES' SALE OF VALUABLE FEE SIMPLE DWELLING PROPERTY KNOWN AS NO. 2849 BROADFORD ROAD OAKLAND, MARYLAND 21550-4330

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Danial A. Miller and Bonnie L. Miller to Craig Ingram, Trustee(s), dated December 18, 1998, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber No. 760, folio 182, and Declaration of Substitution of Trustees dated July 29, 2004, and recorded among the aforementioned Land Records substituting Thomas P. Dore, Mark S. Devan, Michael T. Pate, Jennifer Matthews Herring and Yona T. Openden as Substituted Trustees under the Deed of Trust aforesaid, Manufacturers & Traders Trust Company being the current holder of the Note(s) secured thereby, and default having occurred under the terms thereof, the undersigned Substituted Trustees will offer for sale at public auction, at the Courthouse door, Alder Street entrance, Oakland, Maryland, on Tuesday, September 7, 2004 at 2:00 PM.

All that lot of ground and the improvements thereon situate in Garrett County, State of Maryland, and described as follows: BEING all that property described in a Deed of Trust dated December 18, 1998, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber No. 760, folio 182.

The improvements thereon being known as No. 2849 Broadford Road.

The improvements thereon consist of a dwelling.

The property will be sold in "As Is" condition, subject to any existing building violations, etc. and also subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any. Neither the trustees nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any representation or warranties, either expressed or implied with respect to the property including without limitation, description, use, recorded or unrecorded leases or other occupancy agreements, if any, operating and management agreements, physical conditions or to the environmental conditions of the subject property.

A Statement of Mortgage Debt has been filed in the foreclosure case in the approximate amount of $65,000.00.

TERMS OF THE SALE: Cash or certified check deposit in the amount of $10,000.00 will be required of the purchaser (other than the above-named Holder) at the time and place of sale, balance in cash, immediately within thirty (30) days of the final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court of Garrett County, time being of the essence, and to bear interest at the rate of 8% per annum from date of sale to date of settlement. In the event the above-named Holder purchases the property at the sale as the high bidder thereat, no deposit will be required and the requirement of interest on the balance of the purchase price shall be waived. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of the interest. If the purchaser defaults, in addition to all other remedies including but not limited to attorney fees, the Substituted Trustees may declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney fees and all other charges due and incidental and consequential damages. Taxes, water rent and ground rent, if any, to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall have the responsibility of obtaining possession of the property. In the event the Substituted Trustees do not convey title for any reason, purchaser's sole remedy is return of deposit.

IN THRE CIRCUIT COIURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY
(Adult)

The above Petitioner has filed a Petition to Change Name in which he/she seeks to change his/her name from Steven Allen Bohon to Steven Allen Brant. The reason for this request is: have never had any kind of a relationship with my biological father. However, for the past 16 years of my life I've become very close to my stepfather Ronald Brant. I would be honored to carry his last name.

Any person may file an objection to the Petition on or before the 24th day of September 2004. Such objection must be supported by an affidavit and shall be served upon the Petitioner in accordance with Maryland Rule 1-321.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY
507 E Street
Mountain Lake Park, MD 21550

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Charles W. Vanhoozier and Lily C. Vanhoozier dated May 18, 2001, and recorded in Liber 851, Folio 220 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Substitute Trustees will sell at public auction at the Courthouse door for the Circuit Court for Garrett County, on September 13, 2004, at 10:00 a.m.

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND and the improvements thereon situated in Garrett County, MD, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust. The property is improved by a dwelling.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $5,000.00 by cash or certified check. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within five days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. Interest to be paid on the unpaid purchase money at the note rate from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees and/or homeowner association dues, all public charges/assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, if applicable, to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. Purchaser agrees to pay $245.00 at settlement, to the Seller's attorney, for review of the settlement documents.

If the purchaser shall fail to comply with the terms of sale or fails to go to settlement, the Substitute Trustees may, in addition to any other available legal remedies, declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. In such event, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of resale, reasonable attorney's fees, and all other charges due and incidental and consequential damages, and any deficiency in the underlying secured debt. The purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. If the Substitute Trustees cannot convey insurable title, the purchaser's sole remedy at law or in equity shall be the return of the deposit.

Domestic Assault Results In Six-Month Jail Term

An Accident man who entered not guilty pleas to five domestic assault-related charges was nonetheless convicted and handed a six-month jail sentence during a recent Garrett County District Court proceeding.

Jeremy Colt Moyers, 22, was deemed guilty of two counts each of second degree assault and reckless endangerment, and one count of malicious destruction of property by visiting Judge Charles Foos III. The charges stemmed from a January altercation at Moyers' residence when he beat and kicked his pregnant girlfriend. Moyers was arrested and charged by Maryland State Police troopers.

In other District Court news, a Frostburg (Allegany County) man received a six-month sentence, four months of which was suspended, after he pleaded guilty to misdemeanor theft. John Edward Bell, 41, was in the Oakland Laundromat when he pocketed a wallet left behind by another patron. Bell did not divulge he had the wallet in his possession until witnesses pointed him out. Oakland police officers made the arrest, and Judge Ralph Burnett presided at the hearing.

Randolph Harry Tyrrell, 46, Woodbridge, Va., entered a guilty plea to a marijuana possession charge and was handed a six-month sentence, all but six days of which was suspended, and was fined $300 and placed on one year of supervised probation. His February arrest by state troopers stemmed from a traffic stop on Interstate 68. Marijuana was observed in plain view in the vehicle Tyrrell was driving, and a subsequent search located additional quantities of the drug. Tyrrell's passenger, George Manuel Grontas, 44, Woodbridge, was not prosecuted on a possession of marijuana charge.

Paul William Gordon, 27, Cumberland, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a 30-day sentence, all but one day of which was suspended, fined $300, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service. The charge stemmed from his May arrest by a Maryland Department of Natural Resources park ranger during a New Germany Road traffic stop. A vehicle search initiated after the odor of burning marijuana was noted resulted in the discovery of several marijuana cigarettes and a bag of marijuana.

Walter Burton Shaffer, 45, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., entered a not guilty plea to a charge of misdemeanor theft but was convicted instead. Visiting Judge Edward Malloy Jr. handed down a 30-day suspended sentence, a $110 fine, and 40 hours of community service. Shaffer was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies after he shoplifted a bottle of liquor from Midway Liquors in April.

Vaughn Veryl Winters, 52, Oakland, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a one-year suspended sentence, a $305 fine, and two years of unsupervised probation. His November 2002 arrest by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force stemmed from the execution of a search warrant at his North Eighth Street home. Recovered during the search was one bag of marijuana and several smoking devices — made from modified aluminum cans — that bore suspected burnt cocaine residue, a prescription bottle containing two allegedly illegally possessed medications, and a loaded gun. Additional charges of four counts of drug possession,

"YOU'RE AWFUL BIG FOR A LAPDOG, PAL," is perhaps the sentiment of the squashed scarecrow barely seen beneath this regal, yet relaxed, hound dog. He (or she?) was found in this posture Wednesday morning by an Annapolis Junction resident, Gary Sines, who was on his way out of the Towne Restaurant in Oakland. There he spotted the friendly canine, who seems by this photo to have been quite unaware of anything amusing about his seating choice. He would probably be under the bench today to avoid the endless rains of the past 30-some hours, a remnant of the former hurricane Frances. Garrett County has of yet avoided serious flooding from the downpour, which is supposed to let up soon. The weekend outlook promises pleasant weather once again. Photo by Gary Sines.

Bear Hunt Lottery Applications Being Snapped Up At Brisk Pace

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) opened the black bear hunt permit lottery process this week, which brought an "overwhelming" response from hunter hopefuls, according to a DNR report.

Since the application process opened Tuesday, more than 387 applications have been received: 223 have applied online and 164 have applied via the call center, a DNR spokesperson said.

The hunt, which is the first black bear hunt since 1951, will take place Oct. 25-30 and Dec. 6-11 in Garrett County and those areas west of Evitts Creek in Allegany County.

The bear hunting permits are being made available through a random drawing process. Applications will be accepted from now until Sept. 21. Anyone wishing to apply for the drawing may do so by calling 1-888-579-6768 or going online at blackbear.dnr.state.md.us.

As of today (Thursday), the DNR is accepting checks and money orders when applicants apply over the phone. Those wishing to pay via check or money order should call 888-579-6768.

Once the applicant has applied for the lottery, the operator will provide the applicant with instructions on mailing the check or money order. All checks must be postmarked by Sept. 21 and received by Sept. 27 or the applicant will be disqualified, the spokesperson said.

Anyone wishing to pay with a credit card may do so over the phone at 888-579-6768, or online at blackbear.dnr.state.md.us. The DNR spokesperson noted that online applications can be made by credit card only.

To apply, each applicant must pay a $15 non-refundable application fee and may only enter once. Applicants must posses a valid Hunter Safety Certificate or have held a hunting license prior to July 1, 1977, or hunted on private property prior to July 1, 1977, to apply. The drawing will be held on Sept. 22, and all applicants will be notified shortly thereafter.

DNR will issue 200 bear hunting permits this season. Private-land-only permits will make up 140 of the 200, with the remaining 60 valid for both private and public lands. Each successful applicant may designate one sub-permittee. If hunting on private land, the landowner may become a landowner sub-permittee. However, each permit is valid for only one black bear.

The DNR has established a harvest objective of 30 bears for the 2004 season. Once that harvest objective is reached, the hunt-

Youth Crashes Vehicle During Police Pursuit

A Grantsville youth was injured last Thursday, Sept. 2, when he crashed a vehicle near Meadow Lake while fleeing from police. The unidentified 17-year-old was admitted to Cumberland Memorial Hospital following the 8:34 p.m. incident.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Chestnut Ridge Road and Meadow Lake Drive as the youth was being pursued by Pennsylvania and Maryland state police troopers. The chase originated in Pennsylvania, and the driver was heading south at the time of the mishap.

The youth told officers that he was rushing himself to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for emergency treatment after he had ingested battery acid while working on a motorcycle. He was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department provided assistance.

State police filed numerous unspecified traffic violations, according to their release. The vehicle belonged to an unidentified Grantsville man.

Harley Davidson, Horse And Buggy Collide On Road

No injuries were reported in an accident involving a horse and buggy and a Harley Davidson motorcycle Saturday afternoon on Mason School Road, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

The horse and buggy, operated by Curtis Duff, 49, was traveling northbound and the motorcycle, operated by Eric Shaffer, 22, was traveling southbound. According to the report, as they passed each other, the horse panicked because of the loud noise, and the horse and motorcycle collided.

The motorcycle wrecked in the grass, and the buggy overturned in a nearby field, police said.

In other police news, Robert Alvin Crabill Jr. was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital for injuries he receives as the result of an off-road motorcycle accident in the area of Woodland Way on private property Saturday.

A number of arrests were made by deputies for drunk driving this past weekend.

Those arrested were: Thomas Kirk Myers, 25, Gaithersburg, driving under the influence (DUI), DUI per se, driving while impaired (DWI), and failure to drive right of center; Brian Lee Coddington, DUI, DUI per se, DWI, failure to drive right of center; and Richard Burrows, Goodview, Va., DUI, DUI per se, DWI, driving on an out-of-state suspended license, and driving on revoked driving privileges.

In a separate incident, James Moon, 27, Oakland, was charged with driving on revoked license and privilege after police stopped his 1990 Chevy for failing to drive right of center.

Preston Woman Injured In Garrett Highway Crash

A Preston County woman was injured during a Friday afternoon rear-end collision on Garrett Highway near Deep Creek Lake, according to the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police. The other driver was charged in the 3:49 p.m. mishap.

Richard Pancake, 39, New Creek, W.Va., was northbound in a 1988 Ford van that reportedly struck a stopped 2003 Dodge Neon from behind. The Neon's driver, Amanda Dillsworth, 20, Aurora, had stopped to make a left turn into Trader's Landing. Police charged Pancake with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

Dillsworth was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Companyent assisted at the scene.

Commissioners Allocate $33,000 To Domestic Assault Resource Center

The Garrett County commissioners last Thursday allocated $33,000 to the Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Resource Center Inc., better know as the Dove Center. Heather Hanline is the executive director of the private, non-profit organization established in 1997.

"This appropriation is restricted exclusively as a supplement to the compensation and fringe benefit cost of the executive director," said Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator. "These funds cannot be directed, commingled, or allocated for any other purpose."

In 2002, the center received 82 percent of its funding through state and federal grants through the Maryland Department of Human Resources and the Governor's Office on Crime and Prevention, 10 percent from private foundations, 6 percent from private donations and the local United Way, 1 percent from local mini grants, and 1 percent from fundraisers and county marriage license fees, according to a Dove Center report.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg, who is also the co-chair of the Dove Center board, explained the circumstances behind the board's funding request. He noted that various grant funding to the center had either been eliminated or reduced. Additionally, specific grants cannot be used for the director's salary.

As a result, the board has to rely on donations and fundraisers to cover Hanline's salary. Gregg noted that the Dove Center staff and board work all year long on its major fundraiser, the annual Autumn Glory Banjo and Fiddle Championship, which only yields between $3,000 and $3,200. Additionally, the center's food booth at Oakland's annual Christmas on Main Street event only makes between $200 and $250.

"I think this is a classic example of a lot of funds being tied up, and if we don't pick up the slack, the center will no longer exist," said Commissioner Dave Beard about state cutbacks to the center. "It's extremely important to families who suffer from abuse. How could anyone with a clear conscience not support these families?" he added.

Hanline has applied for several new grants, but that funding, should it be awarded, will not be received until late October or late January.

"We are really playing catch up, and need help getting through the next several months until these grants get going," Hanline wrote in her funding request to the commissioners.

The local allocation will be disbursed in two equally divided payments, the first of which will be given this month and the second in January 2005.

Hanline will provide Pagenhardt with quarterly financial statements to provide supporting fiscal documentation.

According to an FY 2002 Dove Center report, 84 adults and children were housed for a total of 872 bednights at the shelter. Others helped by the center were 388 domestic violence clients, 51 rape crisis clients, 19 domestic violence perpetrators, and 40 homeless persons.

Gregg noted that the center now had a victim's advocate. He said many abuse victims were reluctant to file charges and appear in court against their abusers. The advocate can go to court to support the victim, which gets the abuser into the court system. Not only does the victim get help, but the abuser also gets the help that he or she needs.

"Violence begets violence," Gregg said. "Children who grow up seeing their parents abuse each other often abuse their spouses. Helping victims and abusers breaks the pattern of abuse in families."

For more information about getting help or to make a donation to the center, persons may call 301-334-9000.

Regional Center To Receive Grant For Project Aware

Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (WMAHEC), Cumberland, has been chosen to receive a three-year Special Volunteer Program — Homeland Security grant of over $1 million from the Corporation for National and Community Service.

WMAHEC recruits and trains volunteers from the community who are mainly over age 55 and who want to perform meaningful and constructive volunteer service than can minimize damage from homeland security threats and aid in the recovery from any such attacks.

The program funded by this award, Project Aware, will serve western Maryland and parts of nearby Pennsylvania and West Virginia. This region is also known as the Upper Potomac or Cumberland Valley region, and includes a total of 18 counties: Allegany, Frederick, Garrett, and Washington counties in Maryland; Fulton, Somerset, and Bedford counties in Pennsylvania; Jefferson, Morgan, Berkeley, Hampshire, Mineral, Grant, Pendleton, Tucker, Hardy, and Preston counties in West Virginia; and Frederick County in Virginia.

According to a spokesperson, Project Aware emphasizes the goal of increasing the volunteer numbers in the region with individuals who will become involved in their respective communities on an ongoing basis. Once trained, volunteers will be placed in service positions with partner organizations whenever possible. However, some volunteers will [illegible] provide service [illegible] cial team [illegible] periodically. Vol[illegible] be called out to par[illegible] in a variety of training [illegible] narios that will provide multiple opportunities to engage in duties that will keep them interested and involved. Ultimately, Project Aware volunteers will assume new duties that help to strengthen their own homeland security response skills and knowledge.

Initial partners with the lead agency, WMAHEC, include local Citizen Corps Councils; Allegany, Frederick, Garrett, and Washington county health departments and area hospitals; Allegany and Frederick county Local Emergency Planning Committees (LEPC); Allegany and Freand one count each of drug paraphernalia possession, and illegal possession of a firearm, were not prosecuted.

ROTARY GIVES TO CINDY'S FUND – The Oakland Rotary recently made a $500 donation to Cindy's Fund, a local program that helps provide early detection screening for cancer. The program is in memory of the late Cindy Kutchman, who died from the disease. Pictured from left are Daryl Walters of the Rotary, Tammy Ashby, representing Cindy's Fund, and Tammy's son, Thomas Ashby, a 4-year-old cancer survivor.

ONE OF THE MORE STRIKING BIRDS sometimes seen around Garrett County is the great blue heron, pictured here as he walks around the Oakland Country Club golf course. Other names for the bird are big cranky or blue crane. These birds are usually between 38 and 54 inches in length and can have a wingspread of up to 6 feet. They weigh between 5 and 8 pounds, on average. They are often seen in and around larger bodies of water, such as Broadford Lake or Deep Creek, and this one was near the lake on the golf course. Their diet consists mainly of fish, frogs, and salamanders, but they will also snack on snakes, small mammals, land insects, birds, and some plants. Photo by Sheila Sweitzer.

Mina Lee Soleimani, 18, Germantown, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and Judge Burnett handed down a 30-day suspended sentence, a $200 fine, six months' unsupervised probation, and 50 hours of community service. Solei-mani's April arrest stemmed from a traffic stop on I-68 when state troopers discovered a bowl bearing burnt marijuana residue in the vehicle.

Darryl Robert Jacobs, 24, Las Vegas, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), as well as a two-day suspended sentence, and one day of unsupervised probation. Jacobs had been arrested by state troopers during an August traffic stop on I-68. After a drug detection dog alerted to the possible presence of drugs in the vehicle, a search uncovered two bags of marijuana and several pipes bearing burnt marijuana residue.

Anthony William Filsinger, 18, Oakland, pleaded not guilty to illegally transporting a handgun in a vehicle, but was convicted and handed a PBJ by Judge Foos, who placed the defendant on six months of unsupervised probation. Filsinger's March arrest came in the Southern High School parking lot, where sheriff's deputies located an unloaded handgun in his car.

Michael Charles Peacher, 19, McHenry, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a PBJ, a $50 fine, and one year of unsupervised probation. Sheriff's deputies had arrested Peacher in March during a traffic stop near Glendale Road, after a search revealed a pipe bearing burnt marijuana residue.

Duane C. Patton Sr., 25, Accident, faced charges of stalking, harassment, and three counts of telephone misuse, each of which was placed on the stet docket by Judge Burnett. Patton's December arrest by state troopers followed several instances of alleged harassment of his wife, at both her home and workplace.

David Lee Kitzmiller, 43, Swanton, faced five counts of violation of an ex parte order, each of which was stetted. His June arrest by sheriff's deputies stemmed from allegations of repetitive harassment through phone calls and instances of driving past his wife's workplace.

Edward Scott Moats, 20, Oakland, faced charges of fourth-degree burglary, malicious destruction of property, and trespassing, all of which were stetted. Moats had been arrested by Oakland police officers in June after he allegedly entered an outbuilding where he reportedly vandalized a riding lawnmower.

Mark Wayne Rinehart, 20, Terra Alta, W.Va., faced a marijuana possession charge that was placed onto the stet docket. Rinehart was arrested by sheriff's deputies in April after he flagged down a police cruiser in McHenry to ask for a ride. A consensual search of Rinehart's pockets revealed a packet of suspected marijuana.

Amy Lynn Shope, 24, Terra Alta, faced charges of cocaine, marijuana, and drug paraphernalia possession, each of which was stetted, and was ordered to complete 20 hours of community service. Shope's February arrest by sheriff's deputies stemmed from a traffic stop on Friendsville Road, when a drug dog's alert led to a search of her vehicle.

Thomas William Donovan, 45, Damascus, was not prosecuted on charges of indecent exposure and marijuana possession, which were filed by state troopers after he allegedly exposed himself to a trucker on I-68. A vehicle search uncovered two bags of suspected marijuana in Donovan's car.

James Arthur Dillsworth, 29, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a misdemeanor theft charge filed in April by Oakland police officers. He had reportedly taken some items from a neighbor's apartment.

Chad Michael Troshak, 24, Oakland, and Michael Paul Cummings, 27, Aurora, W.Va., were both not prosecuted on respective charges of violation of an ex parte order, both filed by sheriff's deputies in June.

DUI/DWI HEARINGS

Several driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in District Court recently, with Judges Burnett, Foos,.. and Paul Stakem presiding at various points.

John William Heggie II, 40, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a three-month jail term by Judge Foos.

Harvest Festival Scheduled At Stanton's Mill

The last weekend in September will mark the first Stanton's Mill Harvest Festival at Spruce Forest Artisan Village in Grantsville.

From Friday, Sept. 24, to Sunday, Sept. 26, patrons may visit the newly restored Stanton's Mill to witness the grist milling process, meet miller John Childers, and taste the fruits of his labors (buckwheat cakes).

Childers will host an "all-you-can-eat" buckwheat cake dinner, accompanied by music and demonstrations of the milling process. Milling will be featured from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day, and dinner will begin at 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Proceeds from the buckwheat cake dinner will be used for further restorations of the 1797 mill, which was once the heart of the busy Little Crossings community adjacent to Casselman River Bridge in Grantsville. Childers hopes that the mill will return to its important status in the neighborhood, as he is acquiring equipment from historic mills as far away as Georgia and New York.

He bought two stones that were made in 1846 and are literally crumbling apart, but after some plastering and strapping they will be ready to be hooked to the lines run by the newly acquired water wheel.

Weather permitting, the water wheel will be installed during the festival. Childers bought the wheel in Georgia. He has been able to restore Stanton's Mill with the support of Penn Alps Restaurant and Spruce Forest Artisan Village, as well as other local businesses.

Childers is from Hazard, Ky., and is an accomplished fiber artist who worked in the Fort Boonsboro State Park as the Kentucky State Weaver. He noted that he has always been interested in history in general, and old mills in particular. His grandfather operated a grist mill, and John worked in the mill as a child.

He noted that when he was driving on Interstate 68 two years ago and spotted Stanton's Mill, he pulled over to take a closer look. He met with Spruce Forest and Penn Alps personnel and began to plan the restoration of this historic site. The operation today is much as it was in the mid-19th century, and most of the equipment and mill stones date back to around 1860.

When Childers took over the mill, it had been defunct for five or six years. A series of previous owners had modernized the mill over its 200-year history, but chose to close down in the mid-1990s. When Childers took over last year, much of the mill had been gutted, so he was able to choose an era to which to restore operations.

Working with the missions of Spruce Forest and Penn Alps, Childers said, "We are preserving a late-19th, early 20th century operation. And we are going to be the busiest thing around here in a few years."

Childers has offered space in the mill to Joe Wright, who is in the process of bringing in turn-of-the-century woodworking machinery, such as an 1896 planer, a 1905 mortise machine, and an 1860 shutter making machine.

Wright ran a reproduction furniture shop in Westminster for the last 30 years. His new workshop at Stanton's Mill will be equipped to fabricate reproduction furniture and architectural details.

"I figure it will take this winter and another summer to get all the equipment in and working," he said. His machines will also work off the water power lines once the wheel is installed.

W.Va. Man Faces Charges After McHenry Incident

A Morgantown man faces several charges filed by Maryland State Police troopers after an incident outside the Point View Inn in McHenry.

James D. Ayersman, 34, was reportedly engaging in disorderly behavior and allegedly threatened bodily harm to a manager at the establishment when he was asked to leave. When police arrived, a cab was summoned, but when told none were available Ayersman became irate and began yelling obscenities in the parking lot. Police said that after ignoring several warnings to quiet down, Ayersman then exposed himself. He was place under arrest, and allegedly struggled with troopers as they were placing him into a police cruiser.

Ayersman was charged with resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, indecent exposure, and failure to obey a lawful order. He was later released from the Garrett County Detention Center after he posted a $1,000 bond set by a District Court commissioner.

Single-Vehicle Crash Injures West Va. Man

A single-vehicle accident on Interstate 68 near Finzel injured a West Virginia driver Friday morning, according to Maryland State Police troopers from the McHenry barrack.

Cecilio Besares III, 22, Fairmont, was charged with negligent driving following the 7:23 a.m. crash. Police said that Besares was traveling eastbound when he failed to negotiate a turn as he approached Finzel Road. His 2004 Nissan Frontier traveled into the center median and struck the guardrail, then crossed back over both lanes of the highway and overturned.

Besares was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by the Frostburg Area Ambulance Service. The Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

Fragile, Resilient, Precious...

Innocence, coupled with both the fragility and the resiliency of human life, is brought to mind this week, from several different directions.

This Saturday will be the third anniversary of the 9/11 attacks, in which the lives of several thousand innocent Americans came to an abrupt end. This past week the lives of hundreds of innocent citizens of Russia, many of them children, were snuffed out. This Friday in Mtn. Lake Park the lives of seven innocent children lost 45 years ago when a train smashed into their school bus will be remembered with the dedication of a monument.

Most likely not a single one of the victims of these tragedies got out of bed that morning with the slightest inkling that it would be his or her last day on earth. By and large, each was a vibrant, generally healthy human being, right up until those final moments. So fragile is life.

But even with such extreme tragedies, life does indeed march on. The survivors, the affected family members, and the friends of the victims usually go on living, somehow learning to cope with their deep sense of loss, to resume being productive people, and even learning to laugh again. Life is amazingly resilient.

However, there is a marked difference between the first two examples and the third. While the victims in all three were innocent, the persons responsible for such pain and despair in the first two were/are not. It was via the calculated, deliberate actions of terrorists that so many Americans died on 9/11/01 and that so many Russians died this past week — two cases of cold-blooded, mass murder. The third example of innocence lost, that of the school bus/train crash, was purely an accident, certainly not planned by anyone.

We will never entirely eliminate accidents from occurring, but we have made great strides over the years in reducing the number of them and must continue to work toward that unreachable goal. Similarly, as long as humans are human, we will never entirely eliminate terrorism. But that doesn't mean that we, and the rest of the world, should not do everything in our power to combat it, for life is not only fragile and resilient, but also precious.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Many passionate letters have been published in this paper for the past few weeks. I am glad to see everyone has his or her opinion and is free to express it. Now, let's all get passionate and get out to vote when the time comes. It is not too late to register, so do it.

What a great country we live in!

John L. Grumbach
McHenry & Baltimore

To the Editor:

In these days of heated political argument and flaming rhetoric, we are losing the power of a word. Writers of letters to the editor drown their messages in a sea of verbiage. They seem never to have learned the first rule of good writing: Never use a word you don't need.

I refer them to the great little book by Cornell professor William Strunk Jr., and essayist E.B. White, Elements of Style. In 71 small pages (5"x7¼"), Professor Strunk spells out everything we need to know about effective writing.

There, on page 17, Rule 13: Omit needless words.

"Vigorous writing is concise. A sentence should contain no unnecessary words, a paragraph no unnecessary sentences, for the same reason that a drawing should have no unnecessary lines and a machine no unnecessary parts. This requires not that the writer make all his sentences short or that he avoid all detail and treat his subjects only in outline, but that every word tell."

Joan B. Crawford

To the Editor:

What ever happened to ClosetMaid? There hasn't been anything said about it in quite awhile. Was it a hoax? Who knows? It might have been a big thing just to quiet some people down – the same people who want to bring better paying jobs to this county. But then again, some people wouldn't want that around here.

We have the work force in this county to make a manufacturer succeed. A lot of people are getting tired of low-paying jobs, but it seems that's the way the county wants to keep it – about the same way our government works. Support the people overseas and let our country go without.

Sooner or later we might think otherwise, but I doubt it will be anytime soon.

The president says we are creating jobs. But I ask myself, where? Maybe Dick Cheney's former company. The same people who were selling fuel overseas for a dime or so a gallon, and at the same time selling it to our government for at least 10 times as much. Is that fair? To me it's not, but then again, what do you expect when a Republican is in office?

I'm not a Republican or Democrat, but it doesn't take a blind person to see what kind of shape this country is in. At least when Mr. Clinton ran this country, I was proud to be a citizen. Now, sometimes I think we'd be better off overseas; at least Mr. Bush would send us some money.

Who is our best choice for president? I don't know, but I think we'd be better off with a homeless person off the street. At least he knows how to be without and hopefully wouldn't cater to the rich like the rest of them.

A Taxpayer,
James A. Tasker

To the Editor:

Recently there have been allegations that certain mendacious people are to be believed in their attacks on the service record of presidential candidate Kerry (August 19 Republican editorial). Nothing could be further from the truth, and any sense of editorial fair play merits printing a response.

For weeks the Bush administration has denied any connection with the erroneously named "Swift Boat Veterans for Truth" ad campaign. Yet it has come out piecemeal that, in fact, the Bush campaign has been behind the smear campaign despite all protestations of innocence.

Let's summarize the facts as they have been revealed.

First, Bob Perry, a personal friend of Karl Rove (Bush's Machiavelli), provided major funding for the ads.

Second, John O'Neill, one of the ad faces and author of "Unfit to Command," was taped by President Nixon in the 1970s as saying he served in Cambodia, when O'Neill has denied Kerry was there and claimed Kerry would have been court martialed if it were true. So O'Neill was court martialed, since this is what happened to those who crossed the border?

Third, another face in the attack ad, Thurlow, claimed there was no enemy fire, but a crew member of his own boat, Lambert, just told his hometown Oregon newspaper they were under fire, and a crew member has said Thurlow was "distracted" during the firing attack. Hiding below deck, perhaps, since Thurlow did not know what was happening?

Fourth, Harlan Crow, another financial backer of the attack ads, has been identified as an employee of the George H.W. Bush Presidential Library, meaning he works for Junior's daddy.

Fifth, the Bush/Cheney political campaign lawyer had to resign because he had provided legal advice to the so-called "Swift Boat Veterans for Truth" campaign with which the Bush campaign wrongly claimed it was not involved.

Sixth, George Elliott, Kerry's commanding officer in Vietnam, now insists Kerry has not been honest about what occurred, but this flies in the face of Elliott's written praise for Kerry's leadership and courage, and Elliott's profuse endorsement for Kerry as Kerry stood next to him and Elliott campaigned for Kerry's re-election to the Senate just years ago!

Let's see – in 2000 the Bush campaign impugned the Vietnam record of a genuine war hero, Senator John McCain, when McCain was running against Bush for president, and in 2002 the Republicans impugned Senator Max Cleland's Vietnam war record. And now we have problems understanding that smear campaigns by Bush partisans aren't routinely pursued?

Sincerely yours.

To the Editor:

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal. This election year it seems fitting to reflect on the words penned by our forefathers nearly 230 years ago and to ask whether equality in America is really a self-evident truth when:

- 45 million Americans wake each morning with no basic health care coverage;
- inner city youth have far fewer resources and opportunities than kids in affluent communities;
- 44% of the American soldiers killed in Iraq come from towns with a population under 20,000;
- the next generation will be left with a legacy of more national debt than at any other time in the history of this country, less stringent environmental laws and, according to Federal Reserve chairman Alan Greenspan, the possibility that no Social Security benefits will be available to them;
- tens of thousands of Americans face disenfranchisement because this administration seeks a constitutional amendment banning same-sex marriage;
- upwards of 10,000 people are murdered annually in this country by guns compared to, for example, less than 100 in Canada;
- a country that represents 10% of the world population consumes 25% of the world's energy resources;
- a president identifies the "haves" and the "have more" as his base, leaving the majority of Americans asking, "Where does this leave me?"

At the Republican convention, First Lady Laura Bush stated that "our nation has not always lived up to its ideals – yet those ideals have never ceased to guide us. They expose our flaws, and lead us to mend them." Yet, for four years, and mind you with a Republican majority in Congress for the past two, the president has done little to mend the flaws. Other than during his acceptance speech on

OFF TO PARIS

The day has come. In a few hours, Lord willing, I shall be sitting on an airplane preparing for takeoff from Baltimore-Washington International Airport. I am old enough to remember when it was called "Friendship Airport," as handsome a name as there ever was for a point of arrival and departure.

Astonishing preparations have led to this day. On Saturday, Aug. 28, I finally got a tenant for my house who wanted to move into an unfurnished place the following Saturday. That required moving and storing a house full of furniture.

My mother called the effort "miraculous." "Herculean" also comes to mind. She, my 89-year old grandmother, my cousin Wilson and his wife Deb, my nephew Tanner and niece Grace, with assists from various other relatives and friends, performed the deed of emptying my house and storing my property. They even talked me into throwing away one or two things. For example, there was the used toothpick and the rusty paper clip.

I only got in the way a little.

Because my mother and grandmother were both with me, it made possible a quick trip to see my daughter and granddaughter for a five-generation photograph. That only took a morning out of the two days we had allowed for the move.

Since I had to move out of my house, that meant I had to pack my bags for Paris prior to moving out. Usually packing is the last thing I do before leaving for the airport. This was a new experience for me.

It was also necessary to find another place to stay until it was time to go to the airport (three nights). My Uncle Sam came to the rescue, putting his house at my disposal. Most of the time there is nothing like living in one's own home, but once in a while living in somebody else's home is a grand thing.

Such has been the case with Uncle Sam's house. There has been quiet and order, but somebody else's quiet and order. That has suited my mood.

What has also blessed this threshold time is that I like my tenants. I have had a chance to watch them interact with their children, and I like what I see. In fact, I like them all so much that I have entrusted my beloved and faithful dog, Mabes, to them and to their love for safekeeping during the next year.

Mabes is half border collie, which is the right percentage of a dog to make it perfect for a family. Mabes understands children well. My daughter Meredith got her when Meredith was 12 and Mabes was a puppy. My children, my nieces, and nephews had each had the joy of Mabes nestling alongside them.

Now she has five more children to take care of and to be loved by. Although Mabes does not understand why all the people she loves are not at the place she loves, nevertheless first and foremost she believes the farm to be hers. However difficult it is for her to have her loved ones come and go, she can manage it as long as she can remain in charge of the farm. In that she is not unlike many humans I know.

My nephew Tanner has taken my cat, Goodie, into his care. I have been greatly blessed with my pets. They have sweet temperaments. Goodie is a very cozy cat, a quality not possessed by many of her species. She and Tanner should be good for each other during the 11 months I shall be gone.

I write these lines in a spirit of calm, but in an hour I shall begin my rushing about, to and fro, accomplishing (I hope!) the last spate of errands before my departure. The bank, the library, the post office, the accountant, the attorney, and many other stops are on my list. By 4 this afternoon, what is done will be done, and what isn't done? Well, let us hope that is a short list.

My son will come to collect me and drive me to the airport. If all goes well, I'll check my baggage, and we'll have a nice supper together. While I am the one physically going away, he has already gone away in the fashion of those who were once children and who have either become or who are about to become adults. He has his own threshold to college, a job, his own life.

When next I write, the view shall be from a Paris window. I hope to sketch scenes of life which Americans have difficulty understanding. I hope to contribute in some small way to a better understanding of France and the French. France is, as President Bush said in his most reluctant and perhaps truest speech on the D-Day anniversary, America's first friend and our oldest ally.

That friendship and alliance I shall do my part to renew toward the goal of a world that is not only free but also civilized.

That is a hope which lies all before me. For now, there is only one word of significance: "Onward!"

STRINGS AND VOICES

What a great evening in Oakland last Friday! It was the final concert of the Little Yough Music Series, and I think just about everyone and his brother showed up for it. Of course, two local bands were performing, which in turn brought out lots of local folks for the wonderfully cool and pleasant evening. It was another Garrett County Party to Remember, and I'm glad I was there.

Nothing really out of the ordinary took place that night. Over 1,000 people did come out to hear the bands, Remedy and Smith & Roberts. We brought chairs and spread ourselves across the parking lot and along the river. Friends stopped friends every few steps for quick visits, and the food venders offered a variety of snacks, sweets, and drinks to all who waited in long lines. But the lines weren't even that bad, because the time could easily be passed by gabbing with the other folks waiting for something good to eat.

The Remedy was the opening band, and they were just great. Besides the musical talent, how many bands are made up of such people? We had the Garrett County administrator, the Garrett County health officer, a surgeon, an eye doctor, a dentist, a former Miss Maryland, and who knows what other interesting individual — all in a band performing for more than 1,000 Garrett Countains. How cool is that? Well, it's almost as cool at the group's rendition of "Low Rider," featuring Dr. Jim Jones as vocalist. That absolutely rocked! The whole concert was great.

I hate to lapse into television talk, but I couldn't help thinking of the parallels between our home and the one depicted in the TV show Northern Exposure. For those who watched that quirky series, you probably know what I mean. Our town is not quite as small, of course, but the camaraderie is there, and we can't deny the eccentricities, either. It's just part of who we all are, living here in this bucolic corner of the planet.

And it seemed Friday that the tourists were not so prevalent in the crowd, which I liked. Not to dis' the tourists, but we have enough of them all summer long, and I think most locals would agree that it's good to have a break once in a while. Instead we had our mayor, lots of school teachers, doctors, lawyers, librarians, bankers, newspaper people (ahem), store owners, and so many others, all milling around, listening to the tunes, talking with friends. And of course you can't have a bona fide town without your occasional pant-load, and there were a few of them wandering around, too. Every town needs a few pant-loads, just to keep the balance.

Remedy played on, entertaining the crowd for quite a while and finishing to a standing ovation. During the break between bands, the mayor took time to thank all the sponsors of the series, which has certainly grown in popularity over the years. Then we all settled back for Smith & Roberts, who were delayed a little because of a touchy sound system. But that gave everyone time to grab an ice cream cone and get the latest on each other's kids, which is imperative conversation for us parents. The children were oblivious to our talk, consumed with the freedom of running about, willy-nilly, playing chase, swilling pop, and selling chances to anyone who would fork over a dollar. I recognized most of the kids, which is a friendly aspect of living in a community so close knit. As my three boys darted here and there, I felt safe because I knew lots of people recognized them, too, and would watch out for them a little, just as I was doing for their youngsters.

When Smith & Roberts finally started in, the music was so soothing. Wow, I love that combination of stringed instruments and gentle male voices. What a perfect sound to send up, up to the hillsides of our pretty little town. There was a symbiosis of the melody and the life of the crowd, full of children running and dancing, full of friends and familiar faces. It was all right.

We gathered up our chairs and started home before the end of the show, only because everyone was exhausted. Smith & Roberts serenaded our exit as we made our way along Second Street, sensing in the breeze a chill and the distinct fragrance of aging leaves. Another year is winding down.

As the world twists and turns and lurches with hurricanes and terrorism and war, there remains still a safe pocket here on our mountaintop. Our kids played without fear that night, and most likely without much danger. Imagine the security they must possess, even though they aren't aware of it in so many words. And yes, there is naiveté, too, I know, and they will need to experience life away from here, at least for a little while, when they come of age. But this place is their home, and no matter where they may go, it will always be part of them. And the sounds of strings in the night, and voices of those familiar, will remain in their memories until they are old.

Thursday night (Sept. 2), he has rarely even addressed the domestic issues that plague this nation.

Instead, President Bush wants to be seen as the war president. He is a one trick pony content on his resolve against terrorism to carry him in this election. Certainly winning the war on terrorism is important to our American way of life, but at what cost and what must Americans give up in the process? Words such as strength, conviction, and decisiveness are used to describe the president's response to terrorism. Yet, this president's strategy for fighting a war on terrorism reminds me of an American athlete at the recent Olympic games in Athens. The young expert rifleman was certain he had won gold after shooting a near perfect bull's-eye, only to be told by the judges that he had been disqualified because he had shot at the target of one of his competitors.

It's time to disqualify this president and all his war-loving cronies! It's time to send this president back to the big blue skies of Texas where he can spend his days chasing armadillos.

To the Editor:

Last week, my recent letter to the editor was scrutinized by two regular contributors to the editorial pages. Fair is fair. For weeks Mr. Gosnell has written letters to the editor, and I have refrained from personal attacks on his opinions. Much in part was due to the fact that, as he points out, we were schoolmates and I know he is a good person. I must say that I am in fact glad that Mr. Gosnell and Mr. Savage have chosen to take part in our great democratic process, in this great republic we call the United States of America. My whole purpose in my letters has been to point out a few things, but more importantly, to get more people to vote. I say there is no greater crime against freedom than freedom that is not appreciated.

As for Mr. Savage taking such great issue with my letter, that is fine. However, I am aware that many sources claim that John Kerry did not say those things at all. As an opponent to John Kerry, I watch him very closely. I know that he indeed did say, "If we do not succeed we run the risk of failure." He said this when asked what the stakes are in Iraq. These are his words, and if he borrowed them from Dan Quayle, that's his problem, not mine.

Mr. Gosnell seems obsessed with Dick Cheney's use of the "f" word, but does he realize that Mr. Kerry called a Secret Service agent, who is there to protect his life, "A son of a "B"? (Source: New York Post, New York Times, CNN and The Daily Show with Jon Stewart) John Kerry said when asked about a skiing accident, "I don't fall down. That son of a "B" ran into me." This quote is also in Mr. Savage's snopes.com, which is run by two left-wingers, Barbara and David Mikkelson. So, I also say that he has said far worse things and far more important things such as, "I actually voted for the 87 billion before I voted against it."

Mr. Gosnell and Mr. Savage may have missed the overall point of my letter as well. It was to point out that criticizing a person for what they say, and did not mean to, is far less important than what they say they will do and actually do.

Since being in the Senate, John Kerry, who is also the former lieutenant governor under Michael Dukakis, has rarely supported our military. He voted to cut active-duty army personnel by 709,000, and to cut reserve troops by 239,000. That is a cut of 948,000. Those troops sure would come in handy fighting the war on terrorism. He says he wants to increase the number of troops, and this is what he did. Mr. Gosnell, check the facts – since 2001, military recruitments are up strongly, and the heroes of my class of 2002 are proof of it. They are serving honorably. Don't take that away from them.

Troops need equipment to fight the war on terrorism. But Mr. Kerry voted to cut the Bradley fighting vehicle and the M-1 Abrams tank. He voted to end funding of the B-2, the F-117, the B-1, the Block 60 F-16, and the F-15 Strike Eagle. So Mr. Kerry speaks of a stronger America, but he supports a weaker military. If you think America can be stronger without these weapons that are winning the war on terrorism, you must think holding hands and singing in a meadow will fix everything. Oh, wait, that's what John Kerry did with Jane Fonda, after he threw his medals, or ribbons, or maybe they were someone else's. He seems to have trouble telling the truth about it, so how can we know?

He has criticized Mr. Bush for not reforming our intelligence agencies fast enough. However, he voted to cut the CIA budget by 80 %, the FBI by 60%, and the NSA by 80%. But, when Mr. Kerry decided to not defend our country, he decided it would be fine to increase our funding to the UN by 800%. So there is what you say, and what you do. Trying to discredit these facts with a left-wing, liberal-run web site is not a good defense. These votes are on public record and are available for review by anyone who has a phone. Congressional votes are public, and you can't disprove public record.

If these are your priorities for our military, vote for Mr. Kerry. If you want a stronger, safer America, vote Mr. Bush. But, no matter your choice, vote this November 2, 2004.

To the Editor:

I am a Vietnam veteran, and there is nothing unique about that. I am just one of over 2½ million to have served their country in the Vietnam War. I am not a war hero like Senator John Kerry. I don't have any Purple Hearts, although I was injured on several occasions while in Vietnam. Nor do I have any medals that denote any acts of personal courage under fire.

I have never met the Senator, he having been a Navy officer commanding a swift boat in the south of South Vietnam and I being an enlisted Marine mortar gunner in the north of South Vietnam. Our paths never crossed. But that's not to say that I didn't know of Lieutenant Kerry, and of Captain Medina and Lieutenant Calley. I recall the news media events surrounding them. I was home (home being here in the United States, and had completed my obligation to the Marine Corps at the age of 21.) My impression of Captain Medina and Lieutenant Calley was that they were both despicable, disgusting individuals who at the very least should spend the rest of their lives in prison for their role in the My Lai Massacre.

As for John Kerry, I had a conflicted opinion about him. I felt that he, as a Vietnam veteran, had earned the right and privilege to protest the war, and if he wanted to throw his medals away, that was his prerogative. And yes, I felt that he was correct about the madness of Vietnam. But I could not then nor now forgive him for joining forces with the antiwar war movent that stereotyped all returning veterans as women and baby killers. I am quite sure that at the time no one knew how much their actions would damage the psyche of the returning veterans, but emotional cuts run deep to the soul. And just as the wound begins to heal, it becomes infected and festers as a result of events that should be faded memories.

The returning Vietnam veteran had little to nothing to return to. Most, including myself, still weren't old enough to vote or legally drink a beer. Our friends at home (that is, if we still had any) were apprehensive about being seen in public with us for fear that they would be ostracized by their peers if it were known that they had a friend that was a Vietnam veteran. I recall many occasions that if someone that I met found out that I was a returning Vietnam veteran, they would barrage me with questions about my involvement in Vietnam in a condemning manner, and expect me to offer justification for my involvement. I don't recall ever changing someone's opinion.

Recently, I was at the local library where I overheard a conversation that a young mother of about 30 was having with her son. He was confused about the Civil War and the Vietnam War. He bad the two confused and the mother was giving him a lesson on the history of the two. She told him that we won the Civil War and that we lost the Vietnam War. Then to make her point, she began to tell him about how Vietnam was the only war that America has ever lost. We didn't lose the war in Vietnam; we quit – there is a difference. It's interesting how history is reshaped. After all the demands of the antiwar movement to bring back the troops and end the United States involvement in Vietnam were met, South Vietnam collapsed, and then those same people began new attacks on the Vietnam veterans' integrity for not wining the war against a Third-World country.

For many of us, we had no other option but to serve our country in Vietnam. And when we returned home we were met with resentment for going. All that we had left was our own personal pride and dignity, and the antiwar movement, regardless of the motivation, attempted to take that away from us.

I had a brother who was in the Army and in Vietnam in the early '70s. He had just recently graduated from high school, while Mr. Kerry was here at home protesting the war. My brother didn't receive any personal commendations for valor or a Purple Heart. But he was wounded in Vietnam, only his wound never healed and was only visible to those who knew and loved him. Over the years he tried desperately to overcome the emotional pain, but eventually it became too much to live with. He took his own life. His pain is now over, but on that day it was only the beginning of the pain that his family must endure for the rest of our lives. His story is not unique; there are thousands of others who have relieved their suffering and emotional pain in the same manner. In my opinion, it is the mothers, fathers, wives, children, brothers, and sisters of fallen and disabled veterans of any war that are America's war heroes.

Although I respect Mr. Kerry for being a brother Vietnam veteran and a Senator, I can't find it in my heart to forgive his behavior. Put in modern day psychology, it's not the person that I dislike, it's the behavior that I have trouble with. If I had only one question for Senator Kerry it would be, Why, after more than 30 years of trying to separate yourself from the madness of the Vietnam war, are you now embracing it as your only identity?

To the Editor:

The Beacon Outreach, a consumer-run group for consumers of the mental health system, has accomplished a lot within the past year. We've been involved with various events in our community, such as the Relay for Life, Autumn Glory Festival, and Bowl for Kids' Sake. We've sold "Support the Troops" magnetic ribbons for our local soldiers overseas, have had successful fundraisers, and have received donations from the local Women's Civic Club, Gregg's Pharmacy, Wal-Mart, and Taco Bell.

Garrett County Lighthouse, a local psychiatric rehabilitation program, helped us to get started by letting us use their facility, providing in-kind services and being a fiscal sponsor. We began as a result of state cuts in the mental health-care budget, basically on our own with nothing. We have come a long way since then.

Because of our community involvement and the nice press releases done by you and The Republican, we are beginning to get recognition. With this, comes less stigma. Too often, the mentally ill are "stigmatized." However, we're like your neighbor with heart problems, your friend with cancer, or your relative with diabetes. Mental illness can affect anyone, rich or poor, in any walk of life, and any nationality. President Abraham Lincoln was affected by it, as well as Albert Einstein. We all "put our pants on one leg at a time."

Stigma is closely related to discrimination. It's a shame that it happens within "the system" though. It happened to us after we approached the Garrett County Care Services Agency about funding through the Maryland Mental Hygiene Administration. We were told that we weren't non-profit and that we were part of Lighthouse. We were also told that there is no funding available, because Harvey House, another consumer-run group, needs it in order to operate.

With that information, we got to work. We had meetings with the consumers whom we serve (we've had as many as 22 in attendance, and we don't have transportation availability to those who have expressed an interest in outlying areas), we formed a board of directors, we developed a set of by-laws and articles of incorporation, we met with local attorney Linda Sherbin (who offered probono services), and we applied to become a proper business and to become non-profit with the Maryland Department of Assessments and Taxation and IRS.

Unfortunately, the outlook for assistance from the C.S.A. still looks gloomy. "Criteria for Support" includes being non-profit (which we are waiting for) and operating independently from a provider, in location and fiscally. The Beacon just uses Lighthouse's facility, and only when Lighthouse is closed. We even get together for picnics and holidays. Lighthouse currently holds our money, but we can get it upon request. We keep receipt copies and have a paper trail and computer files of what's being spent, what has been earned, and so on.

From making telephone calls to some offices in the state, it seems that Harvey House is not a proper business or even non-profit. The office of Consumer Advocates in Hagerstown is a non-profit business that operates Harvey House, as well as two other centers in the state. They are "fiscally responsible" for Harvey House. It's "criteria not met," yet funded. Funds go to help meet the needs of consumers, hired staff, administrative costs, a rented facility, utilities, and so on.

The Beacon has actually served more Garrett County consumers. Harvey House has transported consumers from Washington and Allegany counties to sign the books and make numbers grow. The numbers of consumers served from our own area/county, should be a priority. For a few years the O.C.A. paid rent for two facilities (one was basically non-utilized, empty, to be used for storage (some of the C.S.A.'s items were stored there), which was a lot of wasted tax dollars that local residents didn't even know about.

Harvey House is to hire a manager/coordinator, but the person hired is from Cumberland and hired by the O.C.A., not Harvey House. Again, it's "criteria not met," yet funded. Why?

In a meeting with Congressman Roscoe Bartlett, we were told that funding for Garrett County projects/businesses, should be kept in Garrett County. However, it's not. We at the Beacon tend to agree with Congressman Bartlett. Garrett County is where we make our home, where our friends and family are, where we do business, and so on. Why doesn't our local C.S.A. try to help us? We helped them recently at the Garrett County Fair. We even worked in their booth when they couldn't be there. They claimed to support us, but that's a false statement.

In closing, recently Harvey House or the O.C.A. has been awarded a van to transport consumers to and from Harvey House. It's a van that's supposedly designated for Garrett County consumers, yet parked in Cumberland?

A fellow consumer/C.S.A. board member asked, "Why can't we get gasoline from the county roads garage? That would be unfair to the county, to drive the van back and forth to Allegany County all the time.

Timothy Allen Umbel

Timmy

You would do anything for anyone,
You would have given them the shirt off your back.
You were kind, generous and caring,
They were qualities that you never lacked.

And some people live their lives,
And they get their three scores and ten,
But some don't get to leave their mark,
And others die lonely old men.

But you will always be remembered,
I'm sorry that you were cut in your prime,
There can be no other explanation,
Other than it was simply your time.

And everything for a reason,
Even though it's not that clear,
But your spirit is with us,
You will always be near.

And so life must go on,
Just like it has done before,
Just know you'll always be with us,
Yesterday, now and for evermore.

Bike-A-Thon To Raise Funds For St. Jude

The Accident "Wheels For Life" Bike-A-Thon will be held Saturday, Sept. 18, according to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. Coordinator Jeffrey Sizemore encourages all residents and businesses to support this community effort.

The increase in the overall survival rate of children with cancer from 30% to 70% has been made possible through research, said Sizemore. The funds from events like the Accident Bike-A-Thon make that research possible. The citizens of Accident work hand in hand with the researchers, technicians, and doctors at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital to provide treatments and cures for children with catastrophic diseases, added Sizemore.

St. Jude is internationally recognized for its pioneering work in finding cures and saving children with cancer and other catastrophic diseases. Founded by the late entertainer, Danny Thomas, and based in Memphis, Tenn., St. Jude freely shares its discoveries with scientific and medical communities around the world.

No family ever pays for treatments not covered by insurance, and families without insurance are never asked to pay, said Sizemore.

St. Jude is financially supported by ALSAC, its fundraising organization. For more information about St. Jude, persons may visit www.stjude.org.

To participate in this event, persons may call Sizemore at 301-746-8043.

FOY HONORED BY GCCAC – Deanne Foy of First United Bank and Trust was recently honored as the Volunteer of the Year by the Housing Services Department of Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. (GCCAC). "Deanne has spent countless hours in providing credit counseling to individuals and families participating in the GCCAC First Time Homeowner evening workshops," said a spokesperson. "Deane has also empowered numerous workshop participants in accessing financial resources to achieve the American dream of home ownership." Her professionalism has contributed to Garrett County's high homeownership rate of 78%, 10% above the national average, added the spokesperson. Pictured above is Foy with her plaque and flanked by Deb Swiger and Denise Householder, GCCAC Home Ownership and Rehabilitation coordinators, along with Cindy Sharon, GCCAC Housing Services director.

SWANTON NEWS

The Swanton Community Center is sponsoring a train ride to the Potomac Eagle Scenic Railroad October 23. Those who would like to go should get their names on the list by September 20 by calling 301-387-4246. The cost is $19 for adults and $10 for children 6-16.

The Cooperative Parish meeting is scheduled for Monday, Sept. 13, at 7 p.m. at Otterbein U.M. Church.

Adorable Adoptables

JUST LOOK AT THESE FACES — These gentle creatures are in need of good homes. Come by the Garrett County Animal Shelter and meet them. Lilly, a spayed Siamese mixed breed cat, is full of personality and ready to be someone's companion. The mixed breed dog shown below may have been left behind by his previous owners, a shelter spokesperson said. He's a good dog and deserves some new friends. There are many other adoptables at the shelter, waiting for loving families. The numbers and breeds change almost daily, the spokesperson said. For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

What to Do About Lactose Intolerance

Lactose intolerance is the inability of the body to digest the common sugar lactose, which is found in many foods, especially milk and other dairy products. The condition is caused by a deficiency of the digestive enzyme lactase, which is found in the lining of the small intestine. The primary symptoms of lactose intolerance include diarrhea and intestinal cramping after eating foods that contain lactose. It is estimated that between 30 and 50 million people in the US alone are intolerant to lactose. Such individuals can not tolerate milk, cheese, or even some medications which contain lactose in their formulations, such as certain birth control pills and stomach gas tablets. Children or infants who are lactose intolerant may not gain weight when milk is a part of the regular diet.

Once a diagnosis of lactose intolerance is confirmed, a strict lactose-free diet is usually prescribed. However, if such foods can not be avoided, many over-the-counter products containing the missing enzyme lactase are available in liquid, tablet, or capsule forms. Lactose-reduced milk or yogurt is also sold in stores. Those who must avoid dairy products entirely should talk to a healthcare professional about taking supplemental calcium, an important nutrient that can also be obtained by eating green, leafy vegetables.

Choral Society Holiday Concert Rehearsals Set

Rehearsals for the annual holiday concert of the Garrett Choral Society will begin Sunday, Sept. 19, according to director Julie Turrentine, who welcomes all who enjoy singing to participate.

The rehearsals will be held at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland on Sunday evenings, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The 2004 concert, which will be presented December 11 and 12, will include a local premiere performance of John Rutter's Gloria, as well as a variety of traditional holiday music.

Turrentine requests that all singers who plan to participate make a commitment to regular rehearsal attendance and the independent practice that will be necessary to learn the music. High school students are also encouraged to participate.

For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-2668.

FRIENDSVILLE

The mayor and town council will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, Sept. 21, at 6:30 p.m. pertaining to the Army Corp of Engineers/Bear Creek Project. The meeting will be held to close out the project. Persons with issues or concerns about this project are encouraged to attend.

The mayor and town council would like to extend a friendly reminder to residents of Friendsville not to throw their grass clippings on the streets because this causes the storm drains to clog.

LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS

The mayor and town council met on Thursday, Sept. 2, at the town hall.

•Thrasher Engineering held a pre-bid conference on Tues., Aug. 31, for the sewer project. They said they felt it was well attended. The construction bids are scheduled to be opened on Thursday, Sept. 16, at the town hall.

•Dave Higdon, representing the American Legion, brought the council up to date with the work being done at the corner of Main Street Ext. and S. Main Street. The town will call Allegheny Power and get the details about installing electricity to the flag poles.

•The council discussed the upcoming ad valorem tax. The resolution has been written and sent to USDA for approval.

•Clerk/manager Ruth Hahn attended a meeting in Hagerstown concerning the Bay Restoration Fund Fee to be introduced on the customers' bills effective Feb. 1, 2005.

•The council approved and passed a Resolution in Support of the Eighth Amended and Restated Local Government Insurance Trust Agreement and also a Resolution in Support for the Garrett County Municipal Assistance program, which is supported by the Community Legacy Program of the Department of Housing and Community Development of the state of Maryland.

•The town will apply for Community Parks and Playground Grant money again this year.

The next town meeting will be held Thursday, Oct. 7, at 7:30 p.m. at the Accident Town Hall.

Northern Rescue Squad To Hold Wellness Fair

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad will hold a wellness fair, Saturday, Sept. 25, from noon until 4 p.m. at the Grantsville fire hall. The members will provide free blood pressure checks, nutrition advice, and medicine consults.

There will also be a variety of other booths pertaining to health issues and healthy snacks will be available for all participants.

Additional information can be obtained by calling Doris Beal at 301-895-5849.

Rally Day Set At St. Mark's Lutheran Church

St. Mark's Lutheran Church, located along Second Street in Oakland, will officially open the Sunday school season this Sunday, Sept. 12, with the annual Rally Day celebration.

There are Sunday school classes for all ages, from nursery to adult. Classes begin at 8:45 a.m. and run until approximately 9:45. The church service follows at 10 a.m.

The curriculum is varied, featuring both Gospel Light and Augsburg Fortress materials.

A nursery is provided so that adults may attend Sunday school as well.

Bishop Emeritus Alex Black will be leading the church service this week.

Southern Senior Is Named Md. Scholars Finalist

Jadyn Swerbinsky has been selected as a finalist in the Maryland Distinguished Scholars Program. The program recognizes Maryland high school students for superior academic achievement, for exceptional talent in the arts, or for achieving finalist status in the National Merit/National Achievement Scholarship Program.

As a Distinguished Scholars finalist, Jaydn has been awarded a merit-based scholarship to attend a Maryland institution of higher learning, and has been invited to Johns Hopkins University to attend the program's awards ceremony later this month.

Currently a senior at Southern High School, Jadyn is a member of the soccer and track teams, and serves as class representative of the student council and president of the Garrett County Association of Student Councils.

Jaydn resides in Mtn. Lake Park with her parents, Joseph and Debra Swerbinsky and her two brothers and one sister.

Republican Party Headquarters Slated To Open

The Garrett County Republican Central Committee will hold a grand opening of the Republican Party headquarters, located at 119 S. Third St., Oakland, in the former TCI building. The ribbon-cutting ceremony will be held Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 9 a.m.

On display will be campaign material for the President George W. Bush campaign, U.S. Senator E.J. Pipkin's campaign, and Congressman Roscoe Bartlett's campaign.

The headquarters will be open Monday through Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. The phone number is 301-334-1336.

For more information or to volunteer to work, persons may call 301-334-4500.

AURORA/EGLON

QUILT SHOW AT AURORA

Friendship quilts are currently on display at the Aurora Community Building. All are from this area and the building is open on Wednesday afternoon from 1 until 4 p.m., on Friday evening from 5 until 8 p.m., and on Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 1 until 4 p.m. The show is jointly sponsored by the Aurora CEOS and the Aurora Area Historical Society.

MAPLE GROVE CELEBRATES 65TH

Maple Grove Assembly of God in Horse Shoe Run will be celebrating the 65th anniversary of its church on Sept. 11 and 12. Services on Saturday evening are at 6 p.m., and on Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

Former pastors, the Revs. James Stemple and Dave Parker, will be speaking on Saturday evening. On Sunday, the Rev. A.W. Smith and present pastor, Rev. Robert Klier, will be speaking. "Laborers Together" is the theme for the weekend and is taken from 1 Corinthians 3:9.

The church is located on Accident Road in Horse Shoe Run, just 1.6 miles from Route 24. There will be a dinner following the Sunday morning service and no Sunday evening service. Rev. Klier and the congregation at Maple Grove invite all to join them.

STEVENS FAMILY COMING TO AREA

The Stevens Family will bring their ministry of song and testimony to Maple Grove Assembly of God at Horse Shoe Run on Sunday, Sept. 19, at the 10:30 a.m. service. The family is from Warren, Ohio, and has been involved for many years in the musical ministry. The church invites visitors to this morning service.

NOTICE TO AHS CLASS OF '64

The Aurora High School class of 1964 will be holding its 40th year reunion at the Aurora fire hall on Oct. 16. Invitations will be mailed. Any class members with changes of address since the last reunion are asked to contact Doris Crawford at 5436 Midschip Court, Burke, VA 22015.

CORRECTIONS NOTED

D.J. and Carol Lipscomb Wilson announced the birth of their daughter, Kierra Anae.

In the recent Winters family celebration, Chuck, Emilie and Owen Winters was incorrect—their son is Clark.

PERSONAL MENTION

Bonnie Hauser Douglas of Ashland, Ky., has been hospitalized there, but hoped to return this week to her home.

Carl Bittinger of Mtn. Lake Park was a recent patient in a Morgantown hospital. He is a son of the late William and Virginia Bittinger.

Shawn Rembold of Aurora received an injury to his cornea when a piece of flying metal reportedly hit his eye while working with his gunsmithing.

Visiting with David and Wilma Mae Teets this weekend at Horse Shoe Run was their daughter, Mary Lou Miller, and her husband's nephew, Michael Miller, of Franklin, N.Y.

Martha and Merlin Reish of Harrisonburg, Va., were weekend visitors here with her parents, Ellis and Marie Teets, Horse Shoe Run.

Doris Crawford of Burke, Va., was a weekend visitor with her mother, Ruth Parks, Eglon, and on Sunday they, James and Cheryl Parks, and other members of their family, John and Shirley Parsons, Steve Parsons, and Leonard and Tammy Parsons, all attended the funeral for Janet (Mitchell) Shaffer, held at Brandonville at the Spear Funeral Home. Jan, the wife of Carl "Eddie" Shaffer, passed away Sept. 1 at her home in Grove City, Ohio.

Michael Lantz, stationed at Langley Field, Va., was a weekend visitor at the David Teets home, and with his mother, Mary Lou Miller.

Maria Harsh of Bridgewater, Va., and her fiance, Derrick Yoder of Pennsylvania, were weekend visitors with her parents, David and Rita Sue Harsh at Amboy.

Aaron Teets has moved into his new property at Horse Shoe Run, the former Carl and Mary Whitehair property.

Kevin and Talisa Teets of Cleveland were also weekend visitors here. They visited his parents, Paul and Karen Teets, at Horse Shoe Run, and during his visit he also helped his brother with a remodeling project and did some work at his sister's home.

The Stemple Ridge United Methodist Church extends its appreciation to all who attended or helped with the Saturday evening festival to make it a success.

Laura McGinnis Blue of Bendersville, Pa., has been visiting at her home in Aurora.

Moving to the former Randall Gatto property in Eglon recently were Robert and Renee Moats, their three children, and Robert's parents, Chester and Geraldine Moats.

Blanche Stemple of Amboy is home recuperating from recent knee surgery at Morgantown.

Potomac UM Women To Have Fall Meeting

The Potomac Highlands United Methodist Women will hold the fall meeting on Sept. 11 at St. John's United Methodist Church, Parsons, W.Va.

The special guest speaker will be Don Stephens, missionary and musician, who has served with the mission organization YWAM (a youth mission program) for the past 10 years.

The attendance goal is 135, a spokesperson noted. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. A light lunch will be provided.

All guests are asked to bring items for the Parsons Food Pantry.

Craft Show Slated In Canaan Valley

The Canaan Valley Woman's Club of Davis has slated a craft show for 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 25, at the Canaan Valley fire hall. The event coincides with the annual Leaf Peepers Festival in Canaan Valley.

The craft show will feature over 35 tables and spaces of artisans and vendors selling their wares. The Canaan Valley Volunteer Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary will be selling food.

The fire hall is located seven miles south of Davis along Route 32.

Bolyards To Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Jim and Alice Bolyard, Amboy, W.Va., are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary this week. The two were married on Sept. 3, 1954, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland, with Rev. Hugh Shiley officiating.

A Golden Anniversary open house will be held by the couple's family on Sunday, Sept. 19, 2-4 p.m., at the Amboy United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall. All family and friends are invited to attend the celebration. The couple requests no gifts, but cards with written memories would be appreciated, a family spokesperson said.

The Bolyards are the parents of Angela Deakyn, Lewes, Del.; Doris Sullivan, Robin Hartman, and Teri Bishoff, all of Amboy; and Shari Maudlin, Aurora, W.Va.

Special Events

William and Tina Kimble announce the birth of a son, Jacob Clinton, on August 30 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The grandparents are Richard and Mary Kimble and Michael and Ginger Hoye.

A daughter, Emma Nicole, was born August 30 at a Reston, Va., hospital to Malcolm and Nancy Hesen Perkins of Reston. Maternal grandmother is Elizabeth Hesen, Oakland.

A daughter, Ari Cheshire, was born August 31 at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., to Mark and Katherine Cheshire, Swanton.

Music at Penn Alps To Present Alta Schrock Memorial Concert

FRANKO RICHMOND

Music at Penn Alps will present the Alta E. Schrock Memorial Concert, featuring pianist Franko Richmond, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 11, in Penn Alps' Great Hall. The evening's program consists of selected original compositions and transcriptions of standards to benefit the Alta E. Schrock Memorial Fund, which supports quality music and educational outreach for young musicians in the tri-state area. Admission is by donation only, with no tickets or reserved seats.

Richmond's composition "The Time Has Come," presented in remembrance of 9/11/2001, will include vocal performances by his wife, Gail Lima, and singers from a local children's choir directed by Ellen Putnam of Frostburg. After a brief intermission, Richmond will play audience requests from a list of songs he has performed during the past 30 years.

Now living in Key West, Fla., the composer performs at the Casa Marina and Square One, and is artist-in-residence at the Florida Keys Community College. His "global fusion" music crosses cultural borders by blending elements of jazz, Latino, and classical traditions.

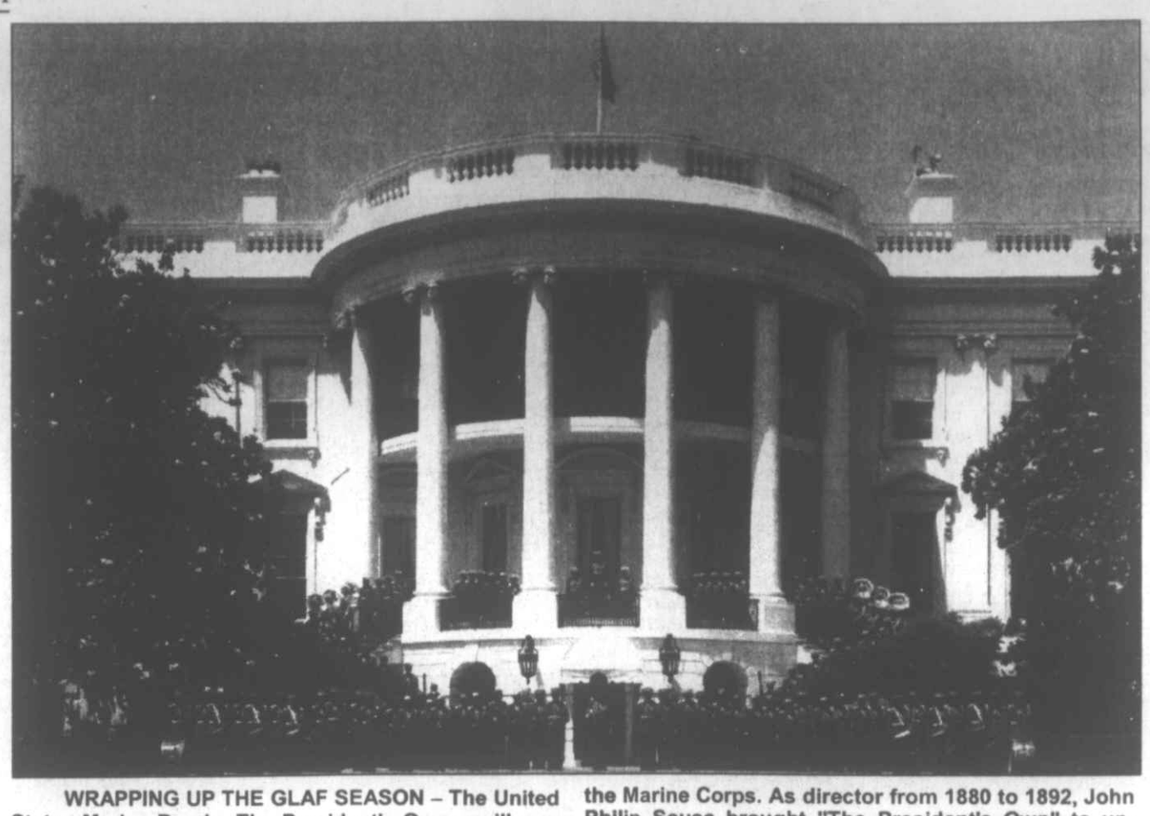
After studying at the Chautauqua Institute and the Curtis Institute, Richmond earned his bachelor's degree at Lycoming College. He then earned a master's of fine art as Earl Wild's teaching assistant at Pennsylvania State University. Richmond was awarded a Mellon Pre-Doctoral Fellowship at the University of Pittsburgh, and performed at the Kennedy Center as guest soloist with the National Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Anatol Dorati.

A Steinway Artist, Richmond is published by Hal Leonard. He has recorded Concerto Latino, Doorway to Love, Franko Richmond Classical Concert, The Many Faces of Franko Richmond, and Piano Requests, his most recent CD. He and his wife serve on the KWCOA-Impromptu Concerts board and work with the Key West arts community.

This special concert is underwritten by David and Irene Eyer, and is co-presented by Oakland's Our Town Theatre.

The late Dr. Alta E. Schrock was a philanthropist and founder of the Music at Penn Alps summer concert series, which recently concluded its 12th season in Grantsville. The Schrock Fund currently supports a recital program for young musicians in the Great Hall, and will sponsor a music workshop set for Saturday, Oct. 23, with pianist Nancy Roldán, a faculty member at the Peabody Institute and organizer of the 2002 International Piano Festival at Penn Alps.

For information about Music at Penn Alps or the Schrock Fund, persons may visit www.musicatpennalps.org. or call the Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985.



WRAPPING UP THE GLAF SEASON – The United States Marine Band – The President's Own – will perform on Sunday, Oct. 3, at 2:30 p.m. in the gymnasium of Southern High School. The concert is free, but does require tickets. Tickets are available by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, 687 Mosser Road, McHenry, MD 21541. Mead-Westvaco will co-present this finale. Established by an act of Congress in 1798, the Marine Band is America's oldest professional musical organization. Its primary mission is unique: to provide music for the president of the United States and the commandant of the Marine Corps. As director from 1880 to 1892, John Philip Sousa brought "The President's Own" to unprecedented levels of excellence and shaped the band into a world-famous musical organization. During his tenure, the band was one of the first musical ensembles to make sound recordings. Sousa also began to write the marches that earned him the title "The March King." Most current members are graduates of our nation's most prestigious music schools, often holding advanced degrees in music. More than 90 percent serve with the Marine Band for 20 or more years.

Graham Colton Band Slated To Perform At FSU

The Graham Colton Band will appear in a free concert slated for 9 p.m. Friday, Sept. 17, in Frostburg State University's Lane Center. The up-and-coming band has opened for Counting Crows, John Mayer, Jewel, and the Dave Matthews Band.

The Graham Colton Band formed in Dallas, where it built up a local following that eventually led to an invitation to open for Counting Crows. That exposure, along with other opening gigs, led into an album contract and a recording session with producer Brendan O'Brien (known for his work with Pearl Jam and Bruce Springsteen) at Atlanta's Southern Tracks Studio. The group's debut album, Drive, was released by Universal Records in May.

The concert is sponsored by the University Programming Council. For more information, persons may call the Lane University Center information desk at 301-687-4411.

White Set To Perform In "Freak Show"

Evelyn White will perform in the annual "Freak Show 2004" from now until Nov. 30 at Shadowbox Cabaret in Columbus, Ohio.

Besides performing at the lunchbox and evening shows, she will handle the technical operations.

Shadowbox has been bringing 10 years of live cabaret theater to Columbus. Now in its second season, it is on the local TV station and was nominated for two Emmys.

For more information or reservations, persons may call 614-416-7625.

The Southern High School and West Virginia University graduate is the daughter of John and Lois White, Oakland.

Young Readers Club To Discuss Big Friendly Giant

The Young Readers Club of the Ruth Enlow Library will meet at 4:15 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 7, in the Oakland library to discuss The BFG by Roald Dahl. All students age 9-11 may attend. (BFG stands for "Big Friendly Giant," in this instance.)

"The BFG is no ordinary bone-crunching giant," reads the publisher's book description. "He is far too nice and jumbly. It's lucky for Sophie that he is. Had she been carried off in the middle of the night by the Bloodbottler, the Fleshlumpeater, the Bonecruncher, or any of the other giants – rather than the BFG – she would have soon become breakfast. When Sophie hears that they are flushbunking off to England to swollomp a few nice little chiddlers, she decides she must stop them once and for all. And the BFG is going to help her."

Persons may visit the Oakland library or call 301-334-3996 to reserve a copy of this title.

The library offers three book clubs serving first-graders through teens. For further information, persons may call the library or consult its web site at www.relib.net. All book clubs are funded in part by the Friends of the Library.

Tub Mill Arts Notes Visiting Artist Series

The new visiting artist series at Tub Mill Arts, Salisbury, Pa., will begin this month with an exhibit of art work by Dr. David Welling, superintendent of the Salisbury/Elk Lick School District, and his late sister, Leah Huber.

Their work went on display yesterday and will be exhibited until Oct. 4. A reception for Welling will be held Friday, Sept. 10, 7 to 9 p.m., at the shop, located at 203 Ord Street, Salisbury.

For more information, persons may contact John McKenzie at 814-662-2481 or 2484.

THE SOUND IT MADE
by Calvin Friend
Southern High School Student

Oh, the sound that tragedy made
As it crashed and crackled and screamed.
The sound of a nation falling
And the heroes who died for their dreams.
The screams of Americans suffering
As they burned in the towers so tall,
Those screams will haunt us forever,
As we remember the things that we saw.
Like the time when the towers were crumbling,
Or the people fighting to get out,
The ones who thought jumping would save them
And to warn them you let out a shout.

Oh, the sound that sadness made,
As Americans wept for her people.
The prayers that crowed in heaven
For the families now broken and feeble.
The sound of the crowds searching
For friends and loved ones they lost,
Asking doctors, policemen, and strangers,
Vowing to find them no matter the cost.
The sound of liberty weeping
For the land of the free and the brave.
The sound of a sleeping giant
Awakening and coming out if its cave.

Oh, the sound that vengeance made,
As we declared our war on terror.
The Middle East's ground was quaking
With artillery's explosive flare,
The stomp of our forces marching
With nothing but revenge on their mind.
They would search and destroy Osama,
It was him they wanted to find.
The Liberty Bell rang once again
For the world towers of trade,
The drums of war were pounding
And THAT'S the sound that it made.

to head up to avoid a collision. I called the foul and she did her penalty turns. We were fourth around the first windward mark, but caught up to second on the spinnaker run rounding the gybe and leeward marks. But Rissell in "Nemesis" passed us on the second beat and we were third on the last spinnaker run.

Meehan, in first place, sailed to the left and Rissell, in second, was to the right. We were in the middle when a blast of wind lifted our boat onto a plane. We slid our weight back to help lift our bow; Jim Munford held on to the straining spinnaker sheets as we flew down the slot and passed them both like they were standing still. We rounded the final leeward mark in first place and started to cover Meehan for the final beat to the finish line. Meehan then started a tacking duel to try to break our cover; halfway to the finish though he saw Rissell gaining on him, so he left us alone and started to cover Rissell. We were lucky to have gotten that puff down the middle, but it was great fun taking advantage of it.

Monday dawned with unusual conditions. With the lake still relatively warm and the air quite cool, there was a ground fog over the lake that did not burn off as the sun rose higher. I believe the PRO was worried about motorboats crashing into sailboats in the fog, so they postponed until 1 p.m. and then abandoned the race. I was disappointed because there was a nice, steady breeze blowing and the visibility never got less than about 100 yards. But it's always better to be safe.

In the racing results below there are a number of end-of-season awards; there is one that deserves special note. Joni Palmer was voted Sportsman-of-the-Year and there has never been, in my recollection, anyone to receive this honor who deserves it more. Joni has given to this sport of her time, treasury, skill, and experience in seemingly unlimited amounts. I am sincerely proud to know her.

Next Saturday is the final disorganized sailboat-racing event of the season. It is the Magellan race, which is sponsored by the Flat Earth Society. Since our sponsor believes that Deep Creek Lake below the Glendale Bridge is the only navigable water on earth this is a race around the entire known world. I am hoping, weather permitting, to sail, but the next day my bride and I take off on vacation and so this will be my final column for this season. See you all next spring!

Deer Archery Hunting Season Opens Sept. 15

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has announced that archery hunting for deer opens Sept. 15 and continues through Jan. 31. Several changes have been made regarding deer hunting in Maryland for the upcoming season.

Two Deer Management Regions have replaced the original four regions (regions A, B, C, D) established in 1998. Region A now consists of Allegany and Garrett counties and Region B includes all of the remaining counties in Maryland.

Region A's white-tailed deer archery bag limit is two deer and no more than one of them can be an antlered deer.

One Sunday, Nov. 7, will be open for bow hunting on private land only within the following counties: Garrett, Allegany, Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Kent, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Talbot, and Washington.

A new regulation this year allows any bow hunter to use "draw-lock" devices during the crossbow hunting dates. A "draw-lock" allows a bowstring of a vertical bow to be drawn and held until the hunter chooses to release it. This device may also be used during any open season by anyone who is authorized by special permit to use a crossbow.

Crossbow deer hunting will be permitted on Oct. 1 to 15 and Jan. 15 to 31.

Crossbows are also legal for all hunters during the firearm and muzzleloader seasons. Any deer taken with a crossbow will count toward the hunter's appropriate Regional Bow Bag Limit.

Crossbow hunters and vertical bow (straight limb, recurve, compound) hunters must possess a Bow Stamp with a valid hunting license in order to hunt deer during Maryland's bow season. All bow hunters must purchase a muzzleloader stamp in order to hunt with a bow (vertical or crossbow) during the muzzleloader deer season.

DNR records indicate that 50,234 Maryland residents and 7,250 non-residents purchased bow stamps during the 2003-04 bow season.

Hunters are reminded that all deer must be checked into a DNR Official Deer & Turkey Checking Station, either within the county of harvest or of an adjacent county, no later than 24 hours after the kill. Deer taken with a straight limb bow, recurve bow, or compound bow will be registered as taken with a vertical bow. Deer taken with a crossbow will be recorded as taken with a crossbow. This will allow DNR biologists to accurately determine the influence of crossbows on Maryland's deer management.

Last season, a total of 18,577 deer were taken with all archery equipment.

Vertical bow hunters bagged 17,649 deer, and crossbow hunters harvested 358 deer during the 2003-04 four-week crossbow season.

The total crossbow deer harvest (including disabled hunters, firearm season, muzzleloader season, and four-week crossbow season) was 908.

The top ten Maryland counties for 2003 total bow harvest were as follows: Baltimore (2,238); Frederick (1,489); Harford (1,334); Washington (1,307;) Garrett (1,298); Montgomery (1,113); Carroll (1,077); Howard (1,025); Allegany (989); Anne Arundel (712).

Maryland's archery deer hunting season is part of the Maryland DNR deer management project. Archery hunting, combined with firearm and muzzleloader deer hunting, provides outdoor recreation for over 80,000 Maryland residents, manages white-tailed deer and sika deer populations, and contributes over $150 million annually to Maryland's economy, the spokesperson said.

Complete bag limits, season dates, and bow hunting regulations can be found at the DNR website, www.dnr.maryland.gov/huntersguide. The Hunting & Trapping In Maryland 2004-2005 Guide, issued with each hunting license, also contains detailed information about all of Maryland's hunting seasons.

Wolf, Husky Pack Blaze Past Clear Spring In Opener, 50-14

Halfback Michael Wolf and his Northern High School varsity football teammates picked up where they left off last year with a big ground game that blazed a trail past visiting Clear Spring, 50-14, in Friday night's 2004 opener at NHS. Wolf, the area's leading rusher last year at 160.2 yards per game, exploded for 163 yards on just six carries to lead all area runners, while fullback Tyler Warn rolled up 94 yards on 11 carries and halfback Eric Johnson garnered 51 yards on five rushes.

"It was a great start, and a great way to get our season going," Northern skipper Phil Carr said afterward. "It gives us the confidence we'll need to keep up the pressure as the season goes on. Obvously we're delighted with our offense, but we got an outstanding performance from the defense too, and that's a spot where we did have concerns going into the season."

NHS went wild in the first quarter, scoring touchdowns in each of its first three possessions. The Huskies' first drive, just six plays in length, was capped by Johnson's 20-yard scoring carry. Northern's lightning struck again on the squad's next possession, when another six-play drive concluded with Wolf finding the end zone at the end of a 34-yard touchdown run. NHS made it three straight on its following possession when, on the third play, Wolf reeled off an 85-yard touchdown scamper.

Clear Spring, playing in its first game at the varsity level, got off to a shining start when returner Derrick Dyer gathered in a kickoff and reeled off a 44-yard return to get the Blazers into good field position on their very first possession. However, NHS's defense shut the Blazers down from there on.

Northern's offense scored three more unanswered touchdowns in the second quarter, beginning with a four-yard run by Wolf. Warn followed with a 15-yard scoring carry, then junior second-string halfback Mitch Fost got into the act by scoring from three yards out.

The Huskies, who lifted their first string offensive unit midway through the second stanza, took an insurmountable 44-0 lead into the halftime locker room. Northern gained 323 yards in the first half alone.

The only black mark of the day for the Huskies came in the second quarter when reserve quarterback Corey Carr, who had come in to relieve starter Robert Stark, broke his wrist. The injury came during the kickoff play that followed NHS's fourth touchdown, as Carr reached out to attempt to tackle the Clear Spring return man and broke the wrist on his throwing hand.

"Corey's injury is something we'll have to deal with," Coach Carr commented. "He's a backup quarterback and a backup fullback on offense, and the injury will prevent him from filling those roles, but we do expect him to be back at starting middle linebacker very soon. He and Corey Yoder will be able to split the kicking duties as needed."

The Huskies' starting "grave digger" defensive unit played the entire first half. NHS held Clear Spring to 99 yards of offense for the half, and harried Blazer quarterback Tyler Braithwaite into an 0-for-6 passing tally with two interceptions. Johnson had one of the picks in the defensive secondary, and big senior defensive tackle Trevor Butler snagged a short flare pass attempt and made a return that set up a Northern touchdown.

Clear Spring finally cracked the scoreboard late in the third quarter — against NHS's second string defensive unit — when Braithwaite found Donnie Lapole for a 16-yard touchdown. The scoring strike was the Blazer offense's first completion of the contest.

Clear Spring struck again in the fourth quarter, when a Northern fumble kicked off a six-play, 68-yard scoring drive. The highlight of the drive was a 33-yard pass completion, which accounted for a full third of the team's offensive yardage for the day. Braithwaite capped the drive with a two-yard keeper run.

NHS, which cranked down the scoring spigot in the second half, found the end zone just once after intermission when Warn rambled 75 yards with a kickoff return in the fourth quarter.

"We looked strong in every area, with the exception of our kickoff coverage," stated Carr. "Our special teams did do a great job on our returns, however, and gave us great field position on our first three possessions.

"Our offensive line was anchored by the experience of Trevor Butler, Ben Wagner, and Corey Yoder, and the younger guys came on strong and played real well.

"Our backfield turned in an outstanding performance. In addition to the showings of the running backs, Stark did a great job of running the option offense. With the talent we have throughout the backfield, no team is going to be able to key solely on Wolf; if they do, we have other weapons to hit them with.

"It's a little frustrating to lose our backup quarterback in the very first game, but Eric Johnson came in and did a good job. We're confident in his quarterbacking ability, because he has experience running the option offense from his days on the junior varsity.

"All in all, we're very pleased with what we saw Friday night," Carr said.

The Huskies will go after their second win Saturday afternoon at Rockwood (Pa.), and it won't be easy, according to Carr. Although the two schools are similar in size, the host Rockets will only suit up 18 players for the contest, which will work in NHS's favor. Despite their small roster, the Rockets crushed Westmar 35-8 in their season opener.

"They play a 5-3 defense, and sometimes jump into a 4-4," Carr said. "They're very aggressive on defense, and we'll need to be ready for them.

"The Rockets have some excellent athletes on their offense, including junior quarterback Eli Traup (5-11, 170) who might be the best passer we'll face all year. He has a great arm, and a good running style too." Traup's favorite target is sophomore split end Seth Foreman (6-1, 180).

HUSKIES RUMBLE, RAMBLE TO WIN — It was a huge start to the Northern High School varsity football campaign Friday as NHS rolled up seven touchdowns and nearly 400 yards of total offense en route to a 50-14 shellacking of visiting Clear Spring. With numbers like that, almost every Husky got into the act, including standout defensive lineman Trevor Butler (#79, above center), living a lineman's dream as he is pictured rumbling downfield with an interception return. Teammate Jared Beachy (#78) can be seen at left preparing to help to pave Butler's path. Butler's pickoff set up a Northern touchdown. The Huskies' first touchdown of the game, and the first of many hoped-for TDs over the course of the season, was captured below as halfback Eric Johnson (#22) is shown rambling into the end zone from 20 yards out, with lineman Anthony Lewis (#64) and tight end Brock Glotfelty (#81) manhandling the Blazer defenders in the background. NHS's next outing is set for 1:30 p.m. Saturday, when the Huskies visit Rockwood's Rockets in Somerset County, Pa. Photos by John McEwen.

Against Westmar, Rockwood's backfield showed it deserves respect as senior halfback John Hay (6-1, 200) reeled off three touchdowns, and senior fullback Jeremy Romesburg (5-9, 170) added a scoring carry of his own.

"We scrimmaged the Rockets last year, they showed us they are tough," Carr said. "We have to be ready to play, and not beat ourselves by turning the ball over. We also need to work on our execution."

Traveling Husky fans can reach Rockwood High school by taking Rt. 219 north to Garrett, Pa., then taking Rt. 653 from there to the township of Rockwood (a distance of approximately nine miles). Once in Rockwood, take a right turn onto Somerset Street, and follow Somerset approximately one-quarter mile to the school.

Steelers Cruise Past Mounties In CAYFL Twinbill

The Northern Steelers took a pair from the Four-Star Mounties in Cumberland Area Youth Football League action of the weekend. Nick Graham paced Northern to a 36-6 Division I win with strong showings on both sides of the ball, and the Division II Steeler squad recorded a 12-0 shutout.

Graham rushed for a touchdown, tossed a touchdown pass, and returned two pickoffs for TDs in the Division I victory. He had a two-yard touchdown dive in the first quarter and a 44-yard interception return in the second to help Northern to a 22-0 halftime lead.

In the third, Graham threw a 27-yard touchdown pass to Kyle Gillum, who kicked three extra points, and later returned an interception 98 yards for the final touchdown. Randy Wiley scored Northern's other touchdown, a three-yard run in first period. Braxton Brodie scored on an eight-yard run in the fourth quarter for Four-Star.

Northern's Division II triumph was paced by Dylan Day, who gained 71 yards on 10 carries, including a 28-yard touchdown run. Josh Duckworth added a two-yard scoring run. Tyler Opel, Alex Smith, and Teddy Linton excelled defensively for Northern.

Both Northern teams are 2-0, and will play at Keyser Saturday afternoon.

Maddawgs Rip Through Pee Wee Slate In 2-1 Start

The Northern Maddawgs have been unleashed on area Pee Wee Football League opponents, and the both the A & B combined squad and the C team pups have rolled up 2-1 marks so far this season.

The Maddawg units debuted on their home Northern High field on Saturday, Aug. 21, in a pouring rainstorm against the Southern Renegades. The 'Dawgs turned into mudpuppies during a soggy but convincing, as the A & B unit slogged to a 66-6 win and the C team rolled up a 28-0 shutout victory.

Northern's A & B unit covered a lot of ground in vanquishing its Southern visitor, as the 'Dawgs scored 10 touchdowns. Robert Hill scored from 31 and 5 yards out, Cameron Kamp recorded touchdowns that covered 50 and 31 yards, and Alex Baker had a pair of touchdowns, from 39 and 32 yards out. Tyler Ireland added a 20-yard touchdown score, Matt Thomas scored from 13 yards out, and Charles Hanek and Colton Grove recorded touchdowns from 10 and 7 yards, respectively.

Southern's Coy Ozias recorded the Renegades' only touchdown on a scoring play that covered 54 yards.

The climate couldn't have been more different the following Saturday, Sept 4, when Northern visited the Hampshire Trojans in a game played in temperatures dancing around the 100-degree mark. Northern's A & B team sustained a 27-14 defeat, but the C squad redeemed the day by taking its second straight shutout, 38-0.

Northern's A & B team scores were recorded by Baker, who rumbled 42 yards for a touchdown, and Hill, who scored from five yards out.

The Maddawgs hosted the Cumberland Reds this past Saturday, and the A & B gridders exploded for a 42-18 victory before their delighted home fans. The C team was defeated for the first time in a hard-fought 31-14 loss.

Northern's A & B scoring flurry was distributed among five players: Kamp scored from 12 and 6 yards out; Hill had a 14-yard touchdown; Sines plunged in from the 1-yard line; Baker rumbled in from 37 yards out; and Josh Mason had a 19-yard touchdown.

The Maddawgs' C team loss featured several missed scoring opportunities, as Northern's offense made it inside the 15-yard line more than once without a touchdown to show for its effort. The squad's defense did not show the penetration it had in the first two outings, the coach added.

Trevor Jones scored two touchdowns for Northern and recorded five tackles on defense, while teammate Tyler Giles pounced on two Cumberland fumbles.

The Maddawgs' next outing is set for 9:30 a.m. Saturday at Allegany College of Maryland, where they will take on the host Cumberland Raiders.

Husky Duffers Take Second In Triangular

The Northern High School golf team visited Keyser last Thursday, Sept. 2, and came away second in a three-way match. The host Golden Tornado roared to victory with a 149, while NHS carded a 181 and Union brought up the rear with a score of 208.

Keyser's Donnie Marple took low-medalist honors with a 1-under par 33. The Huskies' Michael Bergstrom recorded a 36, while teammate Zak Brosnihan shot a 44.

Northern (2-4) was slated to visit Preston yesterday, but rain forced the cancellation of that match. NHS is slated to visit the Oakland Golf Club this afternoon for a 4 p.m. contest with the Southern Rams, along with Petersburg and Moorefield. Both Garrett County squads will be on the Oakland course Monday for the WMIL championship tourney. NHS will host a quadrangular on Wednesday at the Wisp, when Preston, Fort Hill, and Allegany pay a visit.

SHS Golfers Roll To 11th Straight Over Tucker, Beall

The Southern High School golf team is still perfect at 11-0 after the Rams downed visiting Beall and Tucker Tuesday.

Senior Matt Skidmore's low-medalist 39 paced SHS to the win, as classmate Josh Lear and sophomore Joe Albert each carded a 40, the day's second-low score.

Beall placed second with a 179 as Sam Kennell carded a 41. Tucker's Eric Wamsley paced the Mountain Lions with a 193.

Southern is scheduled to host Northern, Petersburg and Moorefield this afternoon at Oakland Golf Club, then play host to the WMIL Championship Tournament Monday.

Rams Win First Half, But Lose Game To St. Vincent

After the Rams of Southern High School shut out their favored opponents in the first half last Friday night, the roof caved in in the second half, which led to a 36-16 defeat at the hands of visiting St. Vincent Palotti. It was the season opener for the Rams, while St. Vincent recorded its second win in as many starts for the 2004 campaign.

Statistically, the two teams finished with remarkably close numbers, given the 20-point spread on the scoreboard. The Rams had 225 yards rushing (122 of which was recorded by running back Andrew VanBogelen), while Palotti finished with 226 yards on the ground. Total offense was 330-286 in favor of the visitors. The Rams had but one minor penalty in the entire game, which is unusual for a season opener, while St. Vincent was penalized seven times for 45 yards. There was only one punt in the game, that by the Rams for 33 yards. St. Vincent held a 14-9 advantage in first downs.

Southern's Bret DeWitt put the first points on the board when he broke loose and raced 43 yards for a touchdown at the 8:13 mark of the second quarter. VanBogelen ran successfully for the conversion, giving the Rams an 8-0 halftime lead.

But the third and fourth stanzas would belong almost entirely to the Palotti players, who scored five consecutive touchdowns to put the contest away. Speedster Trezin Parrish scored four of those five six-pointers.

A 44-yard run by Parrish at the 9:37 mark of the third quarter brought the visitors within two points, as the run for the conversion was no good.

Palotti took the lead for good when Parrish scored on a four-yard carry with 3:21 remaining in the third. The conversion run again failed, but the Rams trailed 12-8 and would never regain the lead.

Parish scored on a three-yard carry, and Kevin Olive's conversion run made it 20-8 with 6:47 left in the game.

The Rams were halted on their next possession, and Dustin Meehan capped yet another Palotti drive with a six-yard touchdown run. Harold Morton ran for the two-pointer to put the Rams behind by a 28-8 margin with 3:53 remaining.

Parrish struck again with another touchdown, but this time it was after he picked off a pass and returned the ball 53 yards to the end zone. Morton again ran for the extra two-points and the Rams were down, 36-8, with 2:55 left on the clock.

Southern managed to get into double figures when Jason Wakefield hit Brad Reese with a 16-yard touchdown pass with just 41 seconds remaining. Jeremy Gregory ran for the two-point conversion to conclude the scoring.

Pacing Southern's defensive effort were J.D. Plank with 10 tackles and Ryan DeWitt with nine.

"We really played okay," stated Ram coach Fred Gregg, "but obviously not well enough to defeat a team of that caliber. Their big-play capabilities really took over in the second half. We didn't take advantage of our field position, we didn't tackle very well, and we just didn't make the plays when we needed to."

When asked if St. Vincent made major adjustments at halftime, Gregg said, "Not really. They didn't do anything that we didn't expect. Their superior speed just finally got the best of us."

Gregg added that he did not believe it was a matter of better conditioning, or that his team was worn down in the second half.

"Because we got a few kids banged up, we had to call on a couple of players to take more downs than we wanted," he said, "but overall, our conditioning proved to be good and so was not a major factor."

Two of the "banged-up" players are key figures in the Ram line-up — Bret DeWitt and J.D. Plank.

"Both of them have pretty deep thigh bruises, so we're just taking it day-to-day with them," Gregg said.

The Rams will undoubtedly need to be full strength for yet another tough challenge this week when they host defending Class 1A Maryland state runner-up Beall.

The Mountaineers, who were defeated in the state title game last year, 26-6, by Joppatowne, opened their season last week with a lopsided loss to a very strong North Hagerstown team.

Beall also made it to the state final in 2002 only to be edged by Bohemia Manor, 34-27.

Among those lost to graduation this past spring was Mahlon Harper, one of the most talented players ever at Beall; however, most of the linemen on the 2003 squad are back this year.

"They also have a talented group of running backs to replace Harper," Gregg said.

Those backs include junior halfbacks Jimmie Kline (6-0, 180) and Josh Harper (6-0, 200), along with sophomore fullback Pat Winebrenner ((5-9, 190).

The Mountaineers run primarily from the wishbone set.

"Size and power are their forte," Gregg said. "They have good speed and they are very physical. They really like to blast off the line and come at you."

Standouts on the Beall 5-3, and occasionally 4-4, defensive unit include Winebrenner at middle linebacker and junior nose tackle Chris Lindeman (5-10, 200).

"There are a lot of similarities in our teams," Gregg said, "But they have the edge in size and experience. It should be a good, competitive game.

Friday's kickoff at the Southern High athletic field is set for 7 p.m.

DISASTER IN THE MAKING, at least for Southern High School football fans, was captured in the photo directly above, as this pass by Ram quarterback Cory Bosley was picked off and returned to the Southern 15-yard line, setting up a score by visiting St. Vincent Palotti. The Rams led 8-0 at halftime of Friday night's season opener, but succumbed by a 36-16 score. Leading Southern's rushing attack was junior running back Andrew VanBogelen, pictured at right picking up some of his 122 yards on the evening. Below, Ram receiver Brad Reese hauls in a touchdown pass for the Rams from Jason Wakefield, but it was too little, too late, as only 41 seconds remained on the clock at the time. The Rams will face another stiff challenge this Friday when they host the Beall Mountaineers, who have finished as the Maryland 1A runner-up the past two seasons. Photos by John McEwen.

Ram Jayvees Rush Past NHS Huskies, 24-14

High school gridiron fans got a "two-for-one" preview of the future of local football Saturday when the junior varsity squads of Southern and Northern high schools went head-to-head in Oakland during the season opener for both squads.

Southern came away a 24-14 winner in the contest, which featured some outstanding running performances by both teams. The Rams scored six points in each of the four quarters, while Northern scored both of its touchdowns in the second quarter.

SHS's Justin Ratliff paced his team with a 144-yard rushing performance on 17 carries, and two touchdowns. Fellow Ram Eric Pike netted 101 yards in 19 carries. Northern's Blair Silbaugh turned in both Husky touchdowns, one on a 57-yard run and the other on a 14-yard scoring carry. Andy Ganoe scored a two-point conversion for NHS after Silbaugh's second touchdown.

Northern was scheduled to host Westmar yesterday in a game that was canceled because of soggy field conditions. SHS is slated host Tucker this afternoon.

"Water Drag" Set At Little Meadows Lake Saturday

The Little Meadows Lake Charitable Trust, a non-profit organization, will host a "water drag" across the Little Meadows Lake on Saturday, beginning at 1 p.m. The lake is located along Chestnut Ridge Road near Grantsville.

A water drag, as explained by an event organizer, involves participants driving snowmobiles across the lake. Jerry Trainer is organizing the unusual event.

The gates will open at 10 a.m. and persons may register to participate at that time. There is a $15 entry fee (plus $5 for insurance). There will be an $8 general admission fee for spectators.

The proceeds will go toward the trust, the spokesperson said.

Maybe you visited
Maybe you brought food and could say nothing at all.
You touched our lives
in such a gracious way.
You supported beyond words in more ways then we can say.
For this we are thankful and give thanks to each.
We have parted with a loved one so far from our reach.
May God Always Bless You.
And keep you in His care.
We thank you beyond words.

TWO COME-FROM-BEHIND VICTORIES were recorded this week by the Southern High School boys' varsity soccer team, as the Rams rallied to win their season opener over Salisbury, 4-2, on Friday, and then topped Berlin in overtime Saturday, 2-1. The Rams spotted the Salisbury Elks a two-goal lead before coming back to score four in a row for the win. The Berlin match went into overtime when Ethan Chorpenning scored with just a minute to play in regulation, tying the score at 1-1. Chorpenning also scored the game-winner. Pictured above left is Ram Mike Edwards, battling a Berlin player for possession. Edwards scored the go-ahead goal in the Salisbury match and also had 15 saves while playing in goal. Below, striker James Naylor dribbles down the field in the Berlin match, followed by teammate Bobby Bonser (#9), each of whom had an assist. The official in the background is Mike Logsdon. Photos by John McEwen.

OFF TO A GREAT START this soccer season is the Northern High School varsity, which returned 10 experienced players from last season's 11-4-1 squad and opened its 2004 campaign this past week with three convincing victories. The Huskies scored a total of 18 goals in those three wins, which were over Berlin (6-0), Salisbury (9-0), and Fort Hill (3-1). Senior forward Scott Pusateri, who scored three goals in that three-match run, is pictured above left, while teammate Gonzalo Velásquez is seen sprinting in the background. At right is Derek Cutter, who led the team in scoring last year and picked up right where he left off by recording a total of six goals this week, including two in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League win over Fort Hill. These action shots were taken during the 9-0 rout of Salisbury. Photos by John McEwen.

Husky Booters Open Campaign With Three Convincing Wins

An experienced Northern High School boys' varsity soccer team has proven the value of that experience so far in the early season, as the Huskies opened their 2004 campaign this past week with three straight victories.

Coach Tom Ables' squad recorded a convincing 6-0 win over visiting Berlin in their season opener last Friday, embarrassed Salisbury on Saturday, 9-0, also at the Cove, and traveled to Cumberland Tuesday evening where they topped host Fort Hill, 3-1, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League clash.

The wins over Berlin and Salisbury gave the Huskies the title in the Garrett County Tournament.

Junior Derek Cutter scored a pair of goals in the first half against Berlin, and senior Scott Pusateri matched that effort in the second half.

The teams played scoreless ball until the final four minutes of the first half, when the Huskies erupted for three goals within three minutes.

The first was by Cutter off an assist by Gonzalo Velásquez with about four minutes remaining in the half.

Chris Speicher made it 2-0 with a goal at the 2:00 mark off a feed by Aaron Rawe, and Cutter recorded his second goal of the evening, unassisted, with just about a minute to play before intermission.

Pusateri added two more goals to the Husky total about midway through the second half, the first being recorded unassisted and the second off an assist by Brian Schlosnagle.

Concluding the scoring for the night was sophomore Zac Cupler, who scored off a feed by Mike McKewen.

Senior Chris Fickes earned the shutout in goal for Northern. No other statistics were reported.

In the 9-0 rout of Salisbury, Speicher assisted on the first goal and then recorded a hat trick for the Huskies, all in the first half.

Cutter opened the scoring about five minutes into the match with a goal off Speicher's feed. Speicher then scored the next three, the first off an assist by Velásquez at the 25:42 mark, the second off a feed by Cutter with 21:20 remaining, and the third unassisted with 3:06 left in the half.

Rawe needed only 32 seconds of the second half to put the Huskies up 5-0, as he scored an unassisted goal at the 39:28 mark.

Southern Boys Begin Soccer Season With Pair Of Wins

The varsity boys' soccer team of Southern High School opened its season with a pair of exciting victories this past week, rallying from a 2-0 deficit to defeat host Salisbury, 4-2, on Friday, and coming back after being down 1-0 and winning 2-1 in overtime against Berlin in the Garrett County Tournament played at Northern.

The Salisbury Elks took a 1-0 lead with about one minute left in the first half when Tim Root scored off an assist by Aaron Dom.

The Elks then went on top 2-0 just two minutes into the second half when Lance Paul put the ball into the Ram net off a feed by Root.

However, the Rams took the lead for good when they scored three goals within a four-minute span. Sean McCreery recorded the first one with about 27 minutes to play, James Naylor's goal at the 25-minute mark knotted the score, and a goal by Mike Edwards just two minutes later put the Rams ahead, 3-2.

Ethan Chorpenning added an insurance goal with about a minute to play.

Edwards also played much of the match in goal for the Rams, where he recorded 15 saves. Eric Minnick had 20 saves for the Elks.

The first half of Saturday's match against Berlin ended in a scoreless tie.

Brian Broadwater put the visitors up 1-0 with an unassisted goal at the 25-minute mark, and it appeared that the Mountaineers would win the contest by that margin.

But with only a minute to play in regulation, Chorpenning found the back of the net off an assist by Bobby Bonser to knot the score and send the match into overtime.

With about one minute left in the first OT period, Chorpenning struck again, this time taking a feed from Naylor, to gain the sudden-death victory for the Rams.

The Rams finished with a 27-12 lead in shots and a 2-1 edge in corner kicks.

Recording eight saves in goal for Southern was Drew Proudfoot, while Edwards was credited with four.

The Rams were scheduled to host Allegany on Monday, but no results of that match were reported.

Coach Bob Bonser's squad was also slated to host Northern last night, but that match was postponed until Oct. 20. The Rams will travel to Beall next Tuesday and will play at Westmar next Thursday.

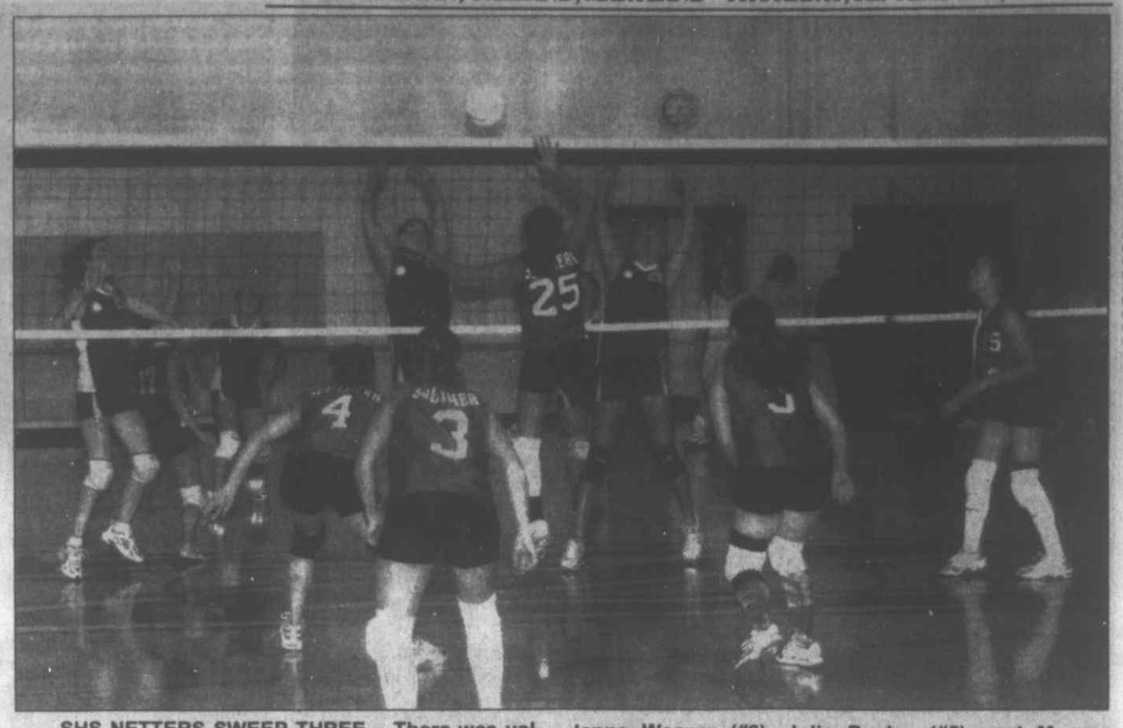
THREE STARTS, THREE VICTORIES — Great things are anticipated this season for the veteran Northern High School boys' varsity, and the Huskies have so far proven that they may well be "the team to beat" in the area. Coach Tom Ables and company have scored an impressive 18 goals in winning their first three matches this past week, one of which was a big 3-1 Western Maryland Interscholastic League victory over Fort Hill. Pictured from left above, kneeling, are: Michael Resh, Chris Speicher, Gonzalo Velásquez, Randy Wilhelm, Chris Fickes, Casey Kamp, Michael McKewen, Zac Cupler, and Scott Pusateri. Standing are: Coach Ables, Matt Bass, Aaron Rawe, Robert Fontaine, Erik Wood, Taylor Jones, Max Beitzel, Brian Schlosnagle, Zac Beitzel, Derek Cutter, and Jeremy Reed, assistant coach. Not present for the photo were Mike Moyer and Preston Sisler. See story for details on this week's Husky victories.



SHS NETTERS SWEEP THREE – There was volleyball action at Northern High School last evening as rivals Southern Rams met the Huskies for the first match of the season. The Rams came home with a three-game victory. See story. In the photo above, Southern's #25, sophomore Sarah Stephens, strikes, as Northern's #16, Jessica Fratz, and #20, Keri Bachtel, block. Northern Girls Open With 3-2 Win Over Frankfort

A pair of unassisted goals by Tiffany Yoder and one by Brittany Stein were just enough to give the Northern High School girls' varsity soccer team a 3-2 season-opening victory over host Frankfort on Saturday.

The Falcons evened the score with an unassisted goal by Brittany Metz with 28:30 left in the first half, but Stein put the Huskies on top for good with an unassisted goal at the 22:40 mark.

The score remained 2-1 until Yoder recorded what would be the game-winner just over eight minutes into the second half, which gave the Huskies a 3-1 advantage.

The Falcons rallied for one goal, scored by Ashley Brothers off an assist by Heather Louk with 26:30 remaining, but that would be the final goal of the match.

The Huskies finished with an 18-7 lead in shots and a 2-0 edge in corner kicks. Kasie Fratz had three saves for Northern, while Rachel Wilson turned away nine shots for the Falcons.

The Huskies are scheduled to host Bishop Walsh this evening in a Garrett County Tournament match, with the junior varsity contest at 6 p.m. and the varsity kicking off at 7:30. They will also play a tournament match on Saturday.

Coach Lynn Lais and his squad will entertain Beall next Thursday.

Husky Booters

Rawe at the 7:57 mark and Schlosnagle with 5 minutes to play rounded out the scoring for the evening.

Fickes had six stops in recording his second straight shutout, while Eric Minnick turned away 27 shots on goal for the Elks. The Huskies finished with a commanding 40-10 advantage in shots.

Cutter recorded two of the Huskies' goals Tuesday night in the big WMIL win over Fort Hill, while fellow junior Casey Kamp recorded the third goal and an assist.

After 21½ minutes of scoreless play, Kamp drew first blood by scoring his goal, unassisted, at the 18:29 mark.

Cutter made it 2-0 with an unassisted goal at the 10:19 mark.

The Sentinels cut the Huskies' lead in half just one minute into the second half when Brian Jeffries scored off an assist by Mat Schartiger, but Cutter added an insurance goal for the Huskies off a feed by Kamp with 24:30 left in the match.

Fort Hill finished with a 17-11 lead in shots. Fickes had 13 saves for Northern, and Tyler Reed turned away seven shots for the Sentinels.

The junior varsity match was won by Fort Hill, 2-0.

Southern Girls Blanked By Campers In Season Opener

A rebuilding Southern High School girls' soccer team opened its 2004 campaign Saturday at home with a 3-0 Western Maryland Interscholastic League loss to Allegany.

Recording two of the Campers' goals was Jaclyn Braithwaite.

Alco's Becky Mathews scored the only goal of the first half, giving the visitors a 1-0 edge at intermission.

Then almost exactly halfway through the second half, Braithwaite scored her first goal, and she made it 3-0 with her second goal with about three minutes left in the match.

The Rams were edged in shots, 12-9, and trailed in corner kicks, 5-2.

Jessica Petrella finished with eight saves for Southern, while Lindsay Twigg was credited with nine for the Campers.

Allegany also won the junior varsity match, 1-0.

Coach Ron Petrella's squad is slated to play again this evening at Northern in the Garrett County Tournament. The opponent was not yet announced by press time. The Rams will host Bishop Walsh in a second tournament match on Saturday. Tonight's and Saturday's contests are to kick off at 5:30 (jayvees) and 7 p.m. (varsity).

The Rams will travel to Fort Hill next Thursday.

The Huskies come into the 2004 season as one of the teams to beat, as 10 players with experience are back from last year's 11-4-1 team that finished second in the WMIL. Rawe was a first-team All-Area pick last season, while Cutter was named to the second team and Speicher received honorable mention.

Cutter and Speicher were also the team's leading scorers, with Cutter recording 13 goals and three assists, and Speicher finishing with seven goals and six assists.

Also with three years of experience is Fickes, who was fourth in the area in save percentage last year and had three shutouts. He already has two shutouts this year and has allowed just one goal in the Huskies' first three matches combined.

The Huskies were scheduled to play at Southern last night, but that match has been postponed until Oct. 20. The varsity will play at home next Tuesday against Westmar, with the kickoff set for 7:30 p.m., and will travel to Beall next Thursday for 6 p.m. (jayvee) and 7:30 p.m. matches.

Southern Netters Sweep Into Campaign By Crushing NHS

The 2004 high school volleyball got under way last night in Accident, where the Southern Rams downed the Northern Huskies in a convincing 3-0 sweep. SHS rolled over its host by game scores of 25-14, 25-12, and 25-16.

Southern senior Sarah Bittinger paced the Rams with 13 points from the service line, nine aces, seven kills, and five assists. Bethany Steyer recorded 11 points and seven assists, Chelsea Wassell had six kills, and Megan Swartzentruber and Kayla Nazelrod netted three kills each.

NHS senior Nicole Kovach led the Huskies with eight points.

In junior varsity play, the JV Rams exploded for a 25-8, 25-8 sweep over their Husky counterparts. SHS's Natalie Rohrbaugh recorded 11 points, seven aces, and three kills, and teammate Danielle Daniels contributed 11 points and five aces.

Southern has a light schedule this week, with its only outing set for Monday when the Rams host Allegany for their home opener.

Northern has a busy slate ahead, with a visit to Salisbury set for tomorrow, a home court match against Westmar slated for Monday, and an excursion to Fort Hill wrapping the week up on Wednesday.

SHS SEASON OUTLOOK

Southern volleyball coach Sue Newton submitted her thoughts on the Rams' prospects for the 2004 season this week. Last year's SHS varsity took the WMIL crown.

Laker Netters Drop Pair Before Downing Cougars In JUCO Play

After losing its first two outings in non-conference play to Pittsburgh Community College and Louisburg CC the previous week, the Garrett College women's volleyball team rebounded Tuesday with a convincing win over Frederick in its JUCO opener. The Pitt and Louisburg contests marked the Lakers' 2004 season debut week during a road trip to Nags Head, N.C.

Garrett coach Ann Wellham scheduled the southern excursion to bring her young team of four sophomores and seven freshmen together for extra experience before they opened JUCO play at Frederick. "We had a great trip," Wellham commented. "We showed a lot of team unity, and played very hard for it being so early in the season; we really battled back against Louisburg after losing our first two games."

The Lakers lost to Pitt in the first two games of their season opener on Aug. 31, 30-21 and 30-26, then GC took the third game 30-28. Pitt then took to the fourth game, 30-14, to claim the match, 30-14.

Garrett went up against Louisburg the following Thursday, Sept. 2, and put up a strong effort in the loss. Louisburg took the first two games, 30-22, 34-32, then GC won the next two 30-28, 30-26. Louisburg took the tie-breaker by a 15-7 margin.

This past Tuesday night at Frederick, the visiting Lakers lost the first game 30-28, but went on to cruise through the next three, 30-17, 30-17, and 30-18, to claim the match.

Freshman Yolanda Anthony paced Garrett with a perfect 25-for-25 service tally while recording 19 service points. She also contributed 14 kills, four aces, and two blocks.

Former Northern High Husky standout Amanda Frantz, a sophomore, added 15 service points, 12 kills, and 20 digs. GC classmate Autumn Beavers, a Keyser High graduate, netted 11 kills and seven aces, while NHS alum Tabitha Beitzel had 14 service points and three aces.

Garrett is slated to participate in the Butler (Pa.) CC Volleyball Tournament tomorrow and Saturday, then pay a visit to the College of Southern Maryland, located in La Plata, on Wednesday.

SEASON PREVIEW

Wellham is counting on her quartet of experienced sophomores — Beavers, Frantz, Molly Wolf, and Danyell Thompson — to guide the freshman-laded squad through a jam-packed season that culminates with the Region XX Tournament in Catonsville the last weekend of October, and the NJCAA Division II National Tourney two weeks later in Owens, Ohio.

Beavers returns with 2003 All-JUCO and All-Region XX Second Team honors under her belt. The six-foot hitter led the last year's Lakers in attacks with a 2.5 average per game, and also paced the squad in blocks at 0.4 per game. Her 0.6 per-game ace tally was good for second on the team.

Frantz, at 5-10 the team's third-tallest player, led last year's Laker unit in pass percentage with 78.5 and in digs at 2.4 per game. A native of Friendsville, the hitter was second only to Beavers in attacks, tallying a 1.2 per-game average.

Wolf, who has shown skill in her sets, is expected to take over as primary setter this year. Last year the Friendsville resident averaged 1.5 digs and 0.8 assists per game, and led the team in setting percentage at 22.1.

Fellow setter Thompson, a graduate of Baltimore's St. Francis High, also returns to help set up the Garrett hitters this season. Thompson brings averages of 1.5 assists and 0.3 digs per game from last year.

Local athletes joining the team this year include setters Lyndsi Butler and Tabitha Beitzel, both former Northern standouts who reside in Accident.

Rounding out the freshman unit is Anthony, a 5-8 hitter from Woodrow Wilson High School in Beckley, W.Va.; Cornelia Hilton, a 5-5 hitter from Patterson High in Baltimore; Jhonna Newby, a 6-2 hitter from Perry Technical Academy in McKeesport, Pa.; Brittney Jackson, a 5-8 hitter from Forestville High; and Simari Pinno a 5-5 hitter from Pittsburgh's Westinghouse High.

CROSS COUNTRY SEASON IS OPEN, and the Southern Rams hosted Westmar this week in an unofficial meet at the Broadford Park course — unofficial because Westmar does not have enough runners to constitute a team. Southern's top female runner of the day was Sarah Cosner, pictured above crossing the finish line in second place overall while her dad, Coach Steve Cosner, checks her time. Winning the boys' race was Southern junior Derek Upperman, pictured at right as he comes in to the finish. Upperman was also Southern's best performer in Saturday's Interstate Classic meet hosted by Clear Spring High School, as he finished 18th overall. As a team, the Southern boys placed 12th among 13 teams in that event, while the girls' team finished fifth among 10 teams. Photos by John McEwen.

Twenty-five youngsters, most from the Terra Alta area, received free basic golf instruction recently through a free clinic at the Alpine Lake Resort Golf Course.

Over four consecutive Wednesday evenings, the junior golfers, ranging in age from 5 to 14, learned what fairways, roughs, and bunkers, fringes and greens were. They were given a chalk-talk at each clinic where they learned rules, uses for each club, respect for the course, and proper conduct while playing.

After the classroom, the participants worked on their new skills on the driving range and putting green, and advanced players went on to play on the course.

Each participant received one-on-one instruction on stance, posture and alignment.

The clinic was organized by the Alpine Lake Golf Committee and the Alpine Lake Golf Shop manager, and Alpine Lake golfers served as volunteer instructors.

Fishing Contest Winners Named

The winners of the Garrett County Fishing Contest, sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, for the week ending September 5 are:

Walleye, 24-1/4 in., caught by Bill Ream, Swanton.

Northern pike, 7 lbs. 5 ozs., 32-1/4 in., caught by James Gallagher, North Huntington, Pa.

Smallmouth bass, 2 lbs., 18-3/4 in., caught by Louis Capozzi, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Winners for the week ending August 29 were:

Bluegill, 12 ozs., 9-3/4 in., caught by Kody Stonesifer, Accident.

Chain pickerel, 1 lb. 4 ozs., 18 in., caught by Trevor Hains, Silver Spring.

Walleye, 1 lb. 8 ozs., 17 in., caught by Kody Stonesifer, Accident.

Yellow perch, 8 ozs., 11 in., caught by Kody Stonesifer, Accident.

Largemouth bass, 2 lbs. 10 ozs., 18-1/8 in., caught by Andrew Mastrorocco, Jeanette, Pa.

Smallmouth bass, 8 ozs., 11-1/2 in., caught by Colin Hains, Silver Spring.

Weekly winners are awarded a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, anglers are invited to register their catch at Deep Creek Outfitters at 32 Outfitters Way, McHenry. The fishing contest runs from the first weekend in May through the first weekend in October.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

THE COMMODORE'S CUP
by Dan Muss

The last organized event of the 2004 sailing season is the Commodore"s Cup, in which the commodores of the two sailing clubs at the south end of Deep Creek Lake serve as principal race officers (PRO). It is a five-race regatta, with two races on Saturday, two on Sunday, and one on Monday, Labor Day (except for the Master's Fleet, which only sails one race per day). My crew was Marilyn Filemyr as usual, but Jim Munford replaced Sue Case as middle crew for this regatta.

The forecast was for a holiday weekend of fine weather, and they were right about Saturday and Sunday. But autumn came to Garrett County on Monday. Saturday was a nice day, but winds were light and "variable." The PRO started the Laser fleet on time, but they sat on the starting line for about 10 minutes before the PRO abandoned the race. The breeze came up later and they managed to get the second race in, but, by then, I was in the shower.

The prediction for Sunday was for 9 knots SE at race time, and that's what we had, with puffs of to maybe 15. At start time the committee boat was favored; as we made our final approach to the starting line I realized that I was too early, so I fell off and made a 360-degree turn to kill time. That turned out to be the wrong move. As I came up again on the starboard tack I was blanketed by the rest of the starting fleet and lost our speed. We were next to last at the start.

To get away from the backwash of air from the fleet ahead of us, we took an unfavorable tack onto port to get some clean air and that worked. As we came up again onto starboard we were again up with the fleet. Just then Elster came roaring at us on port; I hailed her, but she kept coming. She then started to come about just as I had

THE OAKLAND WOMEN'S GOLF ASSOCIATION recently presented checks to college bound Travis Friend and Natalie Winters. Each year the group gives scholarships in the amount of $500 to two students who are associated with the Oakland Golf Club in some way or plan to pursue careers that include golf. Travis is beginning his first year of college at Campbell University in North Carolina, and Natalie is a second-year student at Johnson and Wales College in Providence, R.I. Oakland Women's Golf Association treasurer Sherry Grant is pictured above, left, presenting a check to Travis and below to Natalie.

Women's Golf Club Results Are Reported

Results of Oakland Women's Golf Club play for the past month were reported this week.

In flight play on August 5, June Bray recorded low gross in the first flight with an 89. Pat Filsinger recorded low gross (92) in the second flight, while Annis Colaw and Bobbie Seward tied for low net with 76s. Diane Winters carded a 108 for low gross in the third flight, and tying for low net were Cheryl Wotherspoon and Kaz Hamill with 75s. Rita Humberson won low gross (121) and Judi Upperman had a low net of 78 in the fourth flight.

In flight play on August 19, June Bray won low gross and low net (87) in the first flight, while Pat Filsinger won low gross (94) and Annis Colaw had low net (73) in the second flight. In the fourth flight, Debbie Weissgerber recorded low gross (119) and Rita Humberson had low net (74).

Playing with a blind partner on September 2, Cheryl Albert and Rita Humberson won the first flight, scoring a 135. Pat Filsinger and Ruth Kight won the second flight with a 145, and the teams of Fran Bell and Betsy Polce, and Bobbie Seward and Sandy Bello tied with 144s to win the third flight.

Netters Sweep

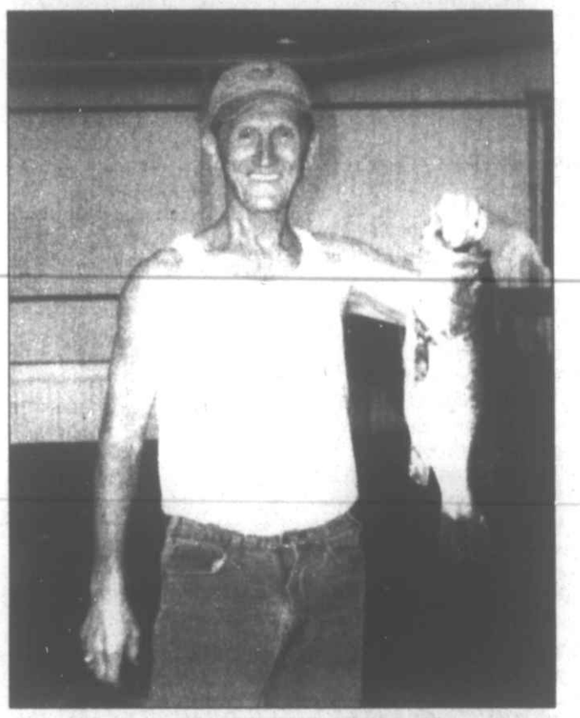
"We're putting some new plays on the floor this year that should really help our offense," the Rams' skipper said. "We've practiced some of these plays for the past 2 seasons, and this year we're going to run them. We're going to be an exciting team to watch.

"The plays we are going to run will create a faster offense that is harder to block, and are more complex than what we've being doing in the past. Our passing will have to be perfect; although we will make mistakes running these plays, everything we accomplish will make us more competitive against teams we will face in playoffs.

"The toughest teams we'll face in the regular season will likely be Meyersdale, Frankfort, and Fort Hill," Newton predicted. "Each of those squads will give us a good battle, and help get us ready for the playoffs.

"As in the past, we're going to play in our upbeat style, and as a team in all situations."

Read. Then Recycle.



OFF TO A GREAT START – Bill Lambert started off his first summer as a full-time Garrett County resident with this catch at Herrington Manor State Park. Bill and his wife were changing their driver's license from Ohio to Maryland and decided to get fishing licenses the same day. That very day, he caught this 21½ in., 4½ lb. large mouth bass. He used an Erie Dearie Spinner, usually used for Walleye, and caught this fish on his very last cast of the day. The next fishing day he caught a 17½ in. rainbow trout. Formerly of Ravenna, Ohio, the couple now resides permanently in the Oakland Sang Run Road area.

Message from the Dean's Desk — Garrett College

Dean of Academic Affairs

Where, I find myself asking, does the time go?

After all, just two months ago, I was settling into my new office, eager for classes to start so that I could welcome our new students to Garrett and greet those returning to us. Suddenly, in the proverbial blink of an eye, the new students have arrived; the returning students have been greeted; the faculty have settled in for another great year; and classes are meeting for their first sessions. Time, it seems, has a way of passing all too quickly.

In fact, time has passed quickly in other ways, too, as I've been reminded in talking with former students in the past weeks. For instance, when Heather Miller was a student in my dual-enrolled English class five years ago, I had a glimpse of the wonderful student and teacher she could become. That glimpse turned into a wonderful vision: Heather, a 2004 summa cum laude graduate of Frostburg State, is now teaching a developmental math course at Garrett prior to earning her master's degree in education. She joins a fine company of GC graduates venturing into graduate study in education. Among those students are Mia Leone, a Hampshire County resident who graduated from WVU last spring and is now earning her master's degree in elementary education at WVU, and Amber Polk, a recent Shepherd College graduate, who is pursuing her master's degree at WVU, as well. Similarly, Scott Jamison, who attended GC before graduating from Frostburg, is also working on his master's degree at FSU, and we're delighted that he'll be assisting us with science labs this semester, just as we appreciate Garrett graduate Mike Nedrow's ongoing work as a developmental math instructor and science lab technician.

Still, it's sometimes hard to believe that these students, who were seemingly taking classes just a few weeks ago, have now grown up and are settling into great careers. For instance, I was recently delighted to see Russell Miller during his break from studying to become a radiography technician. Russ, who will graduate from Alderson-Broaddus College, is well on his way to achieving his dream of being a radiographer and is doing well in his clinicals at Hagerstown Community College, where he's emerging as a very strong student. Similarly, it's hard for me to realize that Rachel Bender, who was an ECAP student at Garrett before attending Rosemont College and Cedarville University, is now a nurse on the maternity floor of WVU's Ruby Hospital. I shouldn't be surprised at Rachel's success, of course. She had a flawless GPA at Garrett, a nearly perfect 4.0 at Cedarville (from which she graduated summa cum laude), and always, always a superior work ethic and a caring personality; she'll be a great health care provider.

Time has passed quickly for other Garrett students who've recently been at Garrett and are interested in health care programs, too. For instance, 19 of GC's former students have just started their studies in allied health programs at Allegany College of Maryland. We're glad to extend special good wishes to all 19, especially Celeste Brenneman and Pam Fike, who studied with us over the summer and have now been accepted to ACM's dental hygiene program. Like Angela Sessa, a Garrett graduate who's in dental school at West Virginia University, each of these students held fast to her dreams of a career in allied health and is now well on her way to achieving her goals.

Before I know it, in fact, all of the students I've mentioned will either be completing their graduate coursework or settling into a new phase of their careers, and once again I'll be asking myself, "Where does the time go?" It's a question to which I'll never have the answer. I do know one thing for sure: Our students are only beginning to reap the benefits of the time they've devoted to their education. As their faculty and I look back upon their time with us, we'll reflect and remember them with pride, pride we'll be sharing with students who are returning to Garrett or who are just beginning to study with us. No matter where the days, weeks, and months go, when a student starts at Garrett, we're eager to help them achieve the times of their lives.

Making It Count Presentation To Be Held At SHS

Southern High School has scheduled the Making High School Count presentation program for its freshman class. The one-hour, assembly-style presentation will be delivered free to students and parents at 1 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 16.

Making High School Count is designed to help students understand the importance of high school and what they need to accomplish to maximize their opportunities upon graduation. The program also addresses transitional issues such as time management and study skills.

"Entry into high school and college are key transition periods in a student's academic career," said JR Cifani, vice president of Monster's Making It Count Program. "Our goal is to provide and reinforce the positive messages counselors and teachers are giving to their students during these crucial times and help students understand that anyone can be successful if they choose to be."

The Making High School Count presentation program was successfully presented to more than one million students nationwide in 2003. On average, guidance counselors rated the value of the ideas presented a 9.5 on a 10-point scale. This year, Making High School Count will be delivered to another one million freshmen. The growth of this program, combined with the success of the organization's additional presentations for juniors and seniors, will allow Making It Count to deliver its message to more than 2.5 million high school students in 2004.

More information about the Making It Count in-school presentation programs can be found on the company's web site at www.makingitcount.com.

YEARBOOK STARTS YEAR WITH CLOTHING SALE

The yearbook staff is currently selling a line of Southern Rams clothing. A flyer will be sent home this week. Questions should be directed to Mrs. White. Yearbooks are expected to arrive the third week in October.

SENIORS ELECTED TO ATTEND BOYS' AND GIRLS' NATION

Congratulations are in order for two Southern High School seniors. Last spring, Andrew Goad and Jadyn Swerbinsky were the first two Garrett County students "ever" to be elected Senators at their respective American Legion Boys' and Girls' State. As a result, they moved on to the national level and attended the American Legion Boys' Nation and the American Legion Girls' Nation in Washington, DC. Garrett County juniors have participated in this program for over 30 years. The program is aimed at giving students a hands-on experience in learning about freedom and the American political system.

FFA LEADS THE WAY

Four members of the Southern High School FFA, Hanna Stahl, Jessica Arnold, Becky Shipe, and Greg Beckman, placed second in the Maryland State FFA Natural Resources Career Development Event held July 16 at Allegany College. Stahl placed third and Shipe placed eighth individually to lead the team efforts. The team hopes to travel to Springfield, Mass., Sept. 16 through 18 to represent Maryland in the Eastern State Exposition.

REPRESENTATIVE BARTLETT TO HOST ACADEMY NIGHT

United States Representative Roscoe G. Bartlett will host an Academy Night on Monday, Sept. 20, for prospective candidates and their families at Frederick Community College. Students who legally reside in the 6th Congressional District of Maryland and are interested in learning about the armed services academies are encouraged to attend the information meeting. A congressional nomination is necessary for admission to these academies, except for the Coast Guard Academy, and the admission process generally begins in April of the junior year. Contact Academy Coordinator Micki Hamilton at 301-694-3030 or 1-888-297-8006 for more information.

'Solemn day' at silent Darlington

Historic track takes first Labor Day off in more than 50 years

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Darlington, S.C.

The weather at Darlington Raceway on Sunday was perfect for racing.

But for the first Labor Day weekend in 54 years, there was no racing at the "Track Too Tough to Tame." The working people's weekend found NASCAR's top stars roaring around the eight-year-old California Speedway and an eerie silence at old Darlington.

No noisy fans, no honking horns, no shopping at souvenir rigs, no flags flapping in the breeze, no sponsor banners, no public address announcements, no aromas from concession stands, no campfires, no hospitality tents, no whirring of air wrenches, no deafening sounds of unmuffled racing engines.

The most noticeable noise was the wind, punctuated occasionally by the metallic clinking of a rope rapping against a flagless pole when the breeze kicked up.

There were race cars on site, but from a bygone era. Johnny Mantz's Plymouth that won the first Southern 500 in 1950 sat in the track's museum alongside the Hudson Hornet that Herb Thomas drove to victory in '54. And there was Curtis Turner's Ford convertible and Fireball Roberts' lavender No. 22 Ford, among others.

A few fans, from one or two at a time to as many as a dozen, stopped by the track throughout the day. But mostly there was just silence.

Craig Baldwin of Jupiter, Fla., was passing through the area and decided to visit the track on the day it normally would be hosting a Cup race.

"It's really disappointing that they're not racing here," he said. "It's so quiet."

Lester Douglas of Walterboro, S.C., drove over with friends to be at Darlington on race day. He said he found a funeral-like atmosphere.

"It's such a solemn day here," he said. "They're off racing in California instead of where they should be. This is a very special track with a lot of tradition."

As Douglas, 48, and his party circled the track in a tour bus, he thought back to the Labor Day weekends of his youth. He recalled the times he watched Bobby Allison, Cale Yarborough, David Pearson and Richard Petty slug it out on the narrow egg-shaped oval that has earned a reputation as a great test of man and machine.

"This brings back a lot of memories," he said.

For Douglas and Baldwin and countless others, Darlington Raceway and its signature event, the Southern 500, are more than just a race track and a race. They're the very heart and soul of the sport.

"When it comes to pure stock car racing, the Southern 500 is our heart," said third-generation driver Kyle Petty, who has spent nearly every Labor Day weekend of his life at Darlington.

"Yeah, the dirt tracks and the old bullrings and all of those kinds of things were important, but Darlington is where we started. That's where superspeedway racing started.

"Good race car drivers won on the bullrings. Great race car drivers won the Southern 500."

Petty understands and agrees with NASCAR's decisions to take the sport to bigger tracks and larger markets, but traditionalists like David Pearson, Darlington's all-time win leader with 10 triumphs, say the moves are mistakes.

"I can't see them taking one race away from Darlington much less the Southern 500," he said. "It looks like that if they were going to take a race, they'd take the spring race."

Pearson said the race in November is a poor substitute for the Labor Day classic, which he won three times.

"They might call this other race the Southern 500, but it won't be the same," he said. "That was the first superspeedway race. South Carolina is where a lot of NASCAR originated.

"I just don't understand NASCAR and the way they're doing. I guess it's just all about money."

Rex White, the 1960 champion of the series now known as Nextel Cup, also questions NASCAR's thinking, which includes moving Darlington's lone race to the Saturday before Mother's Day in 2005 and dropping the Southern 500 name.

"I think this might come back to bite them," White said. "It may not have drawn as many fans as some other tracks, but the Southern 500 on Labor Day had so much tradition."

White said the sport's pioneers like the late Fonty Flock and Herb Thomas helped establish that Southern 500 lore — Thomas won it three times and Flock once — and would be stunned by the turn of events.

Officials at Darlington Raceway and in the surrounding areas realize it takes more than great racing and tradition to survive in today's world.

"Our product, what happens on the race track, has never been an issue," Darlington Raceway president Chris Browning said. "One of the challenges we have is our location, the fact that we're in the Southeast and not in a major market."

He said the issue of the Southeast being saturated with NASCAR isn't as big a factor now that his track has lost one race and North Carolina Speedway in Rockingham has lost both of its Cup events.

"What it's boiling down to is we've got to sell out, then we've got to build some seats," Browning said. "If we can get our seating capacity up into the 75,000-80,000 range, we're going to have a successful facility."

That's a tall order, but local government and business leaders are gearing up to fill it or risk losing the $25 million that each race pumps into the local economy.

But there is hope. Even the California-born, Indiana-raised Jeff Gordon, who is tied with Cale Yarborough for most career Southern 500 wins at five, said he'd like to see Darlington regain its former glory.

"I'm hoping that one day we get [the Southern 500] back there on Labor Day," he said. "Being on the West Coast on Labor Day is tough on our teams with the travel."

For now officials at Darlington are trying to take what they have and make it work. On Sunday, the track's ticket office fielded a fairly steady stream of calls from fans wanting to buy tickets for November's race and for the event next May.

But old habits die hard.

"I hate the changes," said Sabrina Watson, who drove to the track from her home in Lancaster, S.C.

She couldn't help but notice the difference in this Sunday and others in years past.

"It's really quiet here," she said.

Sadler clinches playoff spot

NASCAR

Elliott Sadler won Sunday night's Pop Secret 500 at California Speedway to clinch a spot in NASCAR's new Chase for the Nextel Cup playoff. Sadler is the only driver to have finished all 25 races running at the end. His two wins, seven top-five finishes and 11 top -10 finishes have him solidly in sixth place in the standings.

Atlanta bids for NASCAR museum

Cox News Service

An official NASCAR museum and hall of fame could be roaring into downtown Atlanta.

After Atlanta officials pitched the idea earlier this year, NASCAR decided to request bids from at least three cities — Atlanta, Daytona Beach, Fla., and Charlotte — for a NASCAR hall of fame and museum, said Atlanta business and civic leaders familiar with NASCAR's plans.

NASCAR is still working on the details of the attraction which could be located close to the under-construction Georgia Aquarium and World of Coca-Cola near Atlanta's Centennial Park.

Though several tracks, such as Daytona and Talledega, Ala., have museums nearby, NASCAR has no official attraction besides its cafes in cities including Las Vegas and Myrtle Beach, S.C. Georgia has its own state racing hall of fame, Thunder Road USA, in Dawsonville.

Herb Branham, a NASCAR spokesman, said it's "basically way too premature to speculate on any sort of project like that right now."

Hmiel drives hard to get career back on track

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

At the end of the 2003 racing season, Shane Hmiel was damaged goods — suspended from NASCAR for failing a drug test and with few prospects for another driving job.

Craftsman Truck Series team owner Billy Ballew had all but ceased operations at his race shop, and veteran crew chief Ritchie Wauters was getting more recognition from renting his Late Model car to various drivers than anything he was doing in the upper levels of NASCAR.

Fast-forward eight months, and Hmiel, 24, was entered in Sunday's Pop Secret 500 at California Speedway and is in line for a full-time Nextel Cup ride. Ballew's team is contending for wins in the Craftsman Truck Series, and Wauters has developed a reputation as a crew chief with the savvy to win in Cup.

It all began with a chance meeting last December at a restaurant in Mooresville, N.C.

Ballew, who is a longtime wholesale car dealer in addition to his racing pursuits, was dining with a friend when Hmiel walked in and the two were introduced.

Shane Hmiel has had to rebound from a failed drug test last year.

"It was just a conversation," Ballew recalled last week as he and his team celebrated a runner-up finish to Carl Edwards in the truck race at Bristol Motor Speedway. "It just went from there. It was completely unplanned."

At that point, Ballew and Wauters were the only two full-time employees at his shop, and they had no set plans for the upcoming season.

They jumped at the chance to hire Hmiel, who was showing great promise in the Busch Series before the suspension. His past, they said, was no problem.

"It was not an issue," Ballew said. "Everyone makes mistakes. It was a one-time situation, whatever it was. We don't even discuss it." Hmiel, the son of longtime Cup crew chief Steve Hmiel, seems to be willing to do whatever he must to restore his reputation in NASCAR.

Wauters said that's evident in the deal Hmiel made with Ballew.

"He's driving the truck for about nothing — almost for free," Wauters said. "There aren't many people out there who would do that. They're all thinking about the dollar."

Although he's not getting rich, Hmiel seems happy with the way things have gone this season and with his relationship with Ballew.

"It's turned out to be one of my best racing years ever," he said. "I also met the most honest guy who has become more to me then the team owner; Billy has become a really good friend of mine."

But their success likely means Ballew could lose Hmiel at any time.

Mike Brown, general manager of Bill Davis Racing, has hired Hmiel to run five Cup races this season, including Sunday's Pop Secret 500 where Hmiel finished 39th, and hopes to sign him to a full-year deal for next year.

The upswing in Hmiel's stock is largely due to how well he, Ballew and Wauters have run: surprisingly strong in the truck series despite a shortage of funds and personnel. Ballew said he's spent about $1.5 million this year, while sponsored teams spend three or four times that much.

AN ODD FIND ON A WASHING MACHINE – A second-grade student at Swan Meadow School found this natural oddity – a pink katydid – on the washing machine in his family's basement. Katydids are usually green or occasionally pink, and range in size from 1¼ to 5 inches long. They are nocturnal and arboreal and sing in the evenings by rubbing a scraper on one forewing against a file on the other front wing. Katydids songs sound buzzy, raspy, or whiney, because their carrier frequencies are less pure and are higher than those of crickets. The students discovered that this insect preferred to eat pink petals and quickly turned away from the green leaves they supplied. The general distribution of katydids is approximately from Massachusetts and diagonally to eastern Texas, although both pink and yellow variants occasionally pop up, according to experts. Students released the katydid into their school's animal sanctuary. This find fit perfectly into the curriculum because elementary school students in the county are currently researching insects. This insect is best appreciated in color, and can be viewed in on the web site, www.therepublicannews.com. Pictured above are three second graders with the katydid.

Beacon Outreach Hosting Regular Friday Meetings

The Beacon Outreach Inc., a consumer-run walk-in mental health center and support group, will mark its first anniversary of operation next month. Beacon meetings take place at 9 a.m. each Friday at the Garrett County Lighthouse in Oakland, where local mental health consumers meet for peer support, socialization, and more.

The Beacon Outreach is a separate entity from the Lighthouse, according to a spokesperson, although the Lighthouse has offered in-kind services and agreed to be a fiscal sponsor. Beacon Outreach has a board of directors, bylaws, and articles of incorporation, and has applied to the state of Maryland for status as a non-profit business entity.

Local Historians To Discuss Early Mast Immigrants

The history of the early Amish Mennonite Mast immigrants of 1737 and 1750 and the early Mast/Maust settlers in present-day Elk Lick Township of Somerset County, Pa., is the focus of this year's annual meeting of the Casselman River Area Amish and Mennonite Historians. The meeting is scheduled for Friday, Sept. 17, at the Oak Dale Mennonite Church near Salisbury, Pa.

The program will begin with input about the European and Berks County background of two immigrants, both named Jacob Mast.

According to a spokesperson, a Jacob Mast arrived in Philadelphia in 1737, and another Jacob Mast arrived in 1750. Information on the 1737 immigrant will be presented by a descendant, James Hershberger, of Stuarts Draft, Va. His research has included trips to early Mast locations in Europe and Pennsylvania.

The discussion on the immigrant of 1750 will be led by descendant Lamar Mast of Masthof, Elverson, Pa. His presentation will include slides of European locations of the Masts.

Evan Maust, Salisbury, Pa., will talk about the second generation, telling about the children of Jacob Mast of the 1737 immigration. Evan is a descendant of one of the sons of Jacob, namely Joseph, who bought extensive tracts of land on and near Negro Mountain and inherited the spelling of the Mast with the "u," a feature added by Joseph.

Kenneth Yoder, descendant of Jacob of 1737 and of Jacob's son Joseph, has accepted the topic "Life on Negro Mountain," and will speak about life in the days of the early 1800s.

Henry Erb, Baltic, Ohio, will present information on the Masts who moved on to Ohio.

The final feature of the program will be a bus tour to locations in the area relevant to the Mast history. The Oak Dale Church is located about 3 miles from the early land holdings of Joseph Mast/Maust.

The meeting is open to the public, and all interested persons are invited to attend. The Friday evening meeting will begin at 7 p.m., with a business meeting and a program scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

The Oak Dale Church is located along Oak Dale Road midway between Springs, Pa., and West Salisbury, Pa. on State Route 669. Drivers should turn north onto Oak Dale Road and travel about 2½ miles to the church.

A program flier is available by contacting the Casselman Historians at P.O. Box 591, Grantsville, MD 21536; telephone, 301-245-4326; and via e-mail at christior@juno.com.

Hardesty Protective Coatings, LLC Gary & Jennifer Hardesty, Owners

The purpose of both spray-on and drop-in bedliners is to protect your truck bed from scratches, dents and other damage. Drop-in bedliners have limited lifespan and tend to vibrate and scrape off the paint of your truck bed over a period of time. In warmer climates, they tend to warp and can be very slippery. Water can also get trapped between a drop-in liner and the truck bed and create rust. That's why smart truck owners are going to Hardesty Protective Coatings, located in Oakland at 4323 Broadford Road, phone (301) 334-0667, for a long-lasting spray-on bedliner.

Their spray-on bedliners offer superior protection for several reasons. They form a permanent bond to your truck bed, creating a waterproof seal which prevents rust and corrosion. They will not crack, split, warp or peel, and they also reduce load slippage and are much more attractive. You will find there is virtually no loss in cargo space, and accessories fit right in. A spray-on bedliner is the answer to restoring good looks to an older truck. Whether you have a well-used or new truck, Hardesty Protective Coatings has a great way to add resale value to your investment with a factory finish.

Make the right choice for truck bed protection. Visit Hardesty Protective Coatings, and let them show you a spray-on bedliner that will last for years to come.

TV PIPELINE

Dungey is all over the place

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Merrin Dungey

Q: Is the actress who plays Deacon's wife on "King of Queens" the same person who was Sydney's murdered roommate on "Alias"? –Carole, Corning, Calif.

A: We frequently get letters like this one regarding the astonishing Merrin Dungey, the 33-year-old chameleon who moves so easily between her comic recurring roles on "The King of Queens" and "Malcolm in the Middle" and her tense dual role as Francie and her evil impersonator on "Alias."

Dungey returns soon for another season as Lori Loughlin's roommate and business partner on The WB Network's family drama "Summerland."

Q: What happened to Bob Goen on "Entertainment Tonight"? –Lynn Ebeyer, Atlanta.

A: Goen's gone, having left "ET" when his contract expired in August. The show's parent company, Paramount, says Goen has accepted a development deal for future projects with them, however. Mary Hart's current "ET" co-host is former program correspondent Mark Steines.

"Bob is a fabulous guy, and he's done a fabulous job at 'ET,' and we just decided it was time to make a change," executive producer Linda Bell Blue told TV writers several weeks ago.

But wait! Isn't Goen set to turn 50 in December? Coincidence? Not likely, says Hollywood executive Bill Carroll of the Katz TV Group.

"Paramount is clearly trying to revitalize the program, giving it new energy with Steines, who could help lower the average age of the show's viewers," Carroll told a Variety reporter.

For the record, senior host Hart, who has been with "ET" since 1982, turns 54 in November.

Q: When did "The Dukes of Hazzard" originally run? My mom and I just saw one of them on a TV special and he didn't look that old, so I figure it must have been the '80s. My mom thinks the '70s. –Amanda Koehn, Sterling Heights, Mich.

A: Your mom is right, but only by a whisker. A midseason CBS entry, "The Dukes of Hazzard" premiered Jan. 26, 1979, and made instant stars of Tom Wopat, then 27, and John Schneider, who was just shy of 19.

Last week, Wopat turned 53. Schneider, currently co-starring in "Smallville" on The WB Network, is 44.

Q: Is there a family relationship between Alan, Cheryl, Diane and Jordan Ladd? –Janet Hulme, Severna Park, Md.

A: Diane Ladd is not related to any of the others. Jordan is the daughter of Cheryl Ladd from her 1974-80 marriage to David Ladd, Alan's son.

AmeriCorps VISTA Summer Program Deemed Success

Frostburg State University's Institute for Service-Learning AmeriCorps VISTA project, in partnership with the Garrett County Office of the Maryland Cooperative Extension and the Garrett County Health Department, recently celebrated the successful completion of its 2004 Summer Associates Program.

Ten summer associates worked in Garrett County. Summer associates coordinated after-school programs, assisted with the Garrett Co. Youth Farmers Market, and worked with children at the Garrett County 4-H camp.

"They provided programming for youth camps held there throughout the summer, serving over 1,000 youth ages 8 to 16," said Ann Sherrard, acting county extension director and extension educator, 4-H Youth Development. "The SA's who helped at after-school programs filled a vital need, as some state-supported budgets were cut this year."

The summer associates taught swimming, water safety, and skills useful for integrating agricultural activities into the market place.

The project was funded with a federal grant through the Corporation for National and Community Service.

Rhonda Schwinabart, program director at FSU's Institute for Service Learning, said the AmeriCorps VISTA project is similar to a "domestic Peace Corps." Summer Associates are part-time AmeriCorps VISTA members who serve for 10 weeks during the summer. They are given a modest living allowance during their service, and after their service is complete, they receive a $1,000 educational award. This money can be used to pay off any student loans or any other educational expenses.

For more information about FSU's Institute for Service-Learning AmeriCorps VISTA project, persons may call Schwinabart at 301-687-4210.

The summer associates in Garrett County included Ashley Bachtel, Megan Lahman, and Richard McCrobie, all of the Garrett County Cooperative Extension; Brandi Broadwater, Savanah Lindman, Amy McConnell, Jennifer Messerly, and Garrett County Health Department; and Bridgette Frazee, Nicole Sisler, and Clare Sussman, all with 4-H Camp.

LEARNING ABOUT EACH OTHER – Fourth graders in the class of Donna Hinebaugh and Doris Cooper at Accident Elementary School are beginning the school year by learning about life in other countries. They are studying Japan and will have a Japanese guest come to talk to them. They also plan to having a guest from the Philippines. Pictured above are the fourth graders with four Spanish visitors. The Spanish students are in the country for three weeks. The cultural unit is covering reading, language arts, science, social studies, math, art, music, and physical education.

Bethesda Church To Host Revival

The Bethesda Church of the Brethren has slated a series of revival services for Monday through Friday, Sept. 20-24, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The guest speaker is Rev. Larry Poling, pastor of the Elkins (W.Va.) Church of the Brethren. Special music is slated for each evening.

The Bethesda Church of the Brethren is located along Bittinger Road, six miles south of Grantsville.

Microsoft Word Beginners' Class Slated At Garrett

A Microsoft Word computer course will be offered on Friday, Sept. 24 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the McHenry campus of Garrett College.

This course is designed for beginning level users of Microsoft Word. Topics to be covered include processing various types of documents, and how to edit, assemble, format, sort, and save. The student will also learn how to create graphs and tables.

For additional information, persons may contact the Continuing Education and Training Division at 301-387-3069.

Workshop Set To Discuss Special Education Issues

The Parents' Place of Maryland has slated a free 2½-hour workshop for Wednesday, Sept. 15, at Beall Elementary School in Frostburg for parents of children with special needs. The session will review the process regulated by federal law for identifying and providing support to a child in need of special education or 504 services.

Among the topics that will be covered are evaluations, tests and reevaluations; important timelines; parental consent; reviewing and keeping school records; and modification and accommodations. A question-and-answer session will be included.

Advance registration is requested, and persons may register by calling Debbie DiPaolo at 301-689-5455.

Statistics Noted About Local Food Stamp Recipients

Statistics were released recently about the number of local citizens involved in the Food Stamp program, administered by the Garrett County Department of Social Services. This program provides assistance to low-income citizens to supplement their food budget.

Currently there are 1,117 households made up of 2,677 children and adults receiving food assistance. In over 60% of these households there is a working adult. Monthly benefits average $169 per month, according to a spokesperson.

"Food Stamps" is now a misnomer, noted the spokesperson, since all benefits are issued using an electronic benefit transfer system, involving a plastic card called an Independence Card. The card is accepted at most places that sell food in the county. When the card is scanned, the purchase amount is debited from the user's food stamp account.

The Food Stamp program comes under the purview of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Currently, as a statewide contest is being held to rename the program, Maryland will forward suggested names to be considered when the federal agency moves to change the name.

Fairly recent regulation changes may encourage people to apply for Food Stamps. For example, the value of automobiles is not counted. Neither is the value of the home one lives in or household goods. Applying for Food Stamps is not complicated, the spokesperson pointed out; and does not take a long time, however, it usually does require a face-to-face interview.

Applications are taken every working day by the Garrett County Department of Social Services. Persons with questions about the program and how to apply should contact Social Services at 301-533-3000 or 1-800-526-2213.

Named To Dean's List At Allegany C.

Three Grantsville area residents – Alan D. Campbell, Jennifer J. Hetrick, and Crystal G. Yoder – were among the 75 students who were named to the dean's list for the summer session at Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland.

To be eligible for the dean's list a student must have earned a 3.8 grade point average or higher on a 4.0 scale, and be enrolled in five or more semesters of course work.

Thank You

The family of Michael Pete Kahl

would like to thank all family and friends. Special thanks to the Deep Creek & Oakland Fire Depts., VFW Post, American Legion, the staff & nurses at Dennett Road Manor, & the staff at Melanie's Family Restaurant for all of their thoughtfulness, caring, and giving of themselves for our grandpap, Michael P. Kahl. Thanks for being there. I know Mike would've been smiling that day and very proud to have known all of you.

May Pap rest in peace with our dear Lord. Amen.
God Bless. We miss you, Pap.

Donations for the funeral expenses on behalf of Michael Pete Kahl may be made at Stewart Funeral Home.

Real Estate Facts by...

Lana Roby

THE ART OF THE DEAL!

Whether you are the buyer or the seller, negotiation skills are crucial to a successful real estate transaction. You'll find that a real estate agent provides the experience, tools, and skills necessary to "strike a deal" with the other party, other agents, and other professionals who are all involved in such a transaction.

Every negotiation should follow a step-by-step formula, beginning with preparation and ending with a proposal that has been accepted by all. It's best to spend most of your time on the "preparation" phase, since this will greatly reduce the time and stress involved in the "bargaining" phase down the road.

The proposal, or Offer To Purchase, is produced when the buyers have done their "prep work" and the sellers can now begin bargaining if they choose. This is where it's very important for both sides to have a clear understanding of all the aspects involved, and you'll want to be sure to have the experience and training of a real estate professional to promote your best interests.

Bargaining or negotiating is all about gains and concessions, and the more educated you are about both sides of the transaction, the better your chances are to reach a nice, smooth, mutually acceptable conclusion. While all the decisions are ultimately yours, doesn't it make sense to have a real estate professional on your side?
